One Hundred and Fourth Annual Report.

The Board of Home Missions presents to the General Assembly its One Hundred and Fourth Annual Report. It indicates very imperfectly the reach and variety of the work of evangelizing our country. That work has become complex and difficult, but more inspiring and glorious than ever. It is an effort to save America on every level of it and in every part of it for its own sake and for the salvation of the world, for we are no longer a refuge—we have become a power for the molding of the millions at home and the sending of saving truth to the nations of the world.

It will be the aim of this Report to set forth in briefest outline the missionary problems that are confronting the Church at home at the present time. Before taking up the story of our work we pause for grateful mention of those whose work is done—who, during the year, ceased from their labors. The names of these victors in heaven should also be treasured in the Church below:

Rev. G. Baptisto Giambruno.....	Oakland, Cal.
Rev. John H. Hope.....	Charleston, Wash.
Rev. Leonard E. Jesseph.....	Kettle Falls, Wash.
Rev. Louis Mazawakinayanna.....	Peever, S. D.
Rev. J. Milne Smith.....	Herman, Minn.

FINANCES.

Our books closed April first with all obligations met and $2,411.06 in the treasury. For eight successive Assemblies the favor of the Head of the Church has permitted us to make this report. This gives occasion for the more gratitude in that we have reached this result without wholly failing to make progress. During the year just closed we appropriated $37,663.00 for new work.

In addition to new work on the field we have felt called upon to expend $40,840.97 in new churches and school buildings in Porto Rico, Cuba, and the West. The Board of Church Erection has generously aided us, especially in the Islands; but as the people themselves have been unable to assist much in securing churches or manses, and as the demands therefor were far in excess of what the Board of Church Erection, under the rules of the Assembly, could meet, our Board has been obliged by special effort to secure the necessary aid. The responses have been generous and work that otherwise would have been in jeopardy has been established and strengthened.

The mortgage indebtedness of the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions on the Presbyterian Building has been canceled. This great result, achieved even earlier than we dared to hope, has been secured by generous gifts from widely distributed sources. Special mention will be made in the Treasurer's statement of individuals to whose efforts and gifts the Boards are largely indebted, but grateful mention is here especially made of the invaluable services of Mr. John S. Kennedy in the inception and prosecution of this important undertaking. He had previously during a critical period in our finances secured, by his personal guarantee and at unusually favorable rates, large loans needed to maintain the credit of the Board; and when the new building was proposed he subscribed $100,000 and, by his representations and business sagacity, was chiefly instrumental in the selection and purchase of the present advantageous site. He became chairman of the Building Committee and unstintedly devoted his energies to all the details of construction until the building was completed at a cost much below its present value.

The interest on annuity gifts in considerable amounts is still a charge upon the income of the building, but, as by the lapse of time these successively fall into the treasury, our income from this source will be steadily enhanced. We believe the time is not far distant when all the administration expenses of the Home Board will be covered by our share of the income from the Presbyterian Building.

FORWARD MOVEMENT.

The year's campaigns of inspiration and education in presbyteries and cities were heartening. Under the wise leadership of the chairmen of the home mission committees of the St. Louis, Troy, and Rochester presbyteries especial missionary extension campaigns were successfully conducted. The programs covered in each case a season of three or four days. Conferences, receptions, and popular meetings were held. Some of the synodical missionaries were given leave of absence from their fields, and with the aid of other speakers, all operating with the women's societies of the presbyteries visited, the results were of such a character that similar campaigns will be inaugurated in other presbyteries by request. While no direct appeal for funds was made by the speakers in these conferences, the Board's treasury has been enlarged, and more than one church has adopted a missionary of its own.

There has been general advance in the "missionary substitute" plan. Churches that have successfully backed, financially, foreign missionaries, are now moving forward by having a missionary pastor in some of the many mission fields under our own flag. The Board gratefully acknowledges that such practical co-operation has enabled it to send new men into the waste places calling for "sky-pilots."

The Board has published and distributed many more attractive leaflets than ever, and believes that printer's ink has spread throughout the churches much information and aroused vital and lasting interest.

VACANCY AND SUPPLY.

With the beginning of the new fiscal year the Board of Home Missions will be in a position to use the Vacancy and Supply plan in aiding weak churches in securing a minister. It is proposed to supplement the amount raised by the home mission church by a grant not in excess of the proportionate sum named by the presbytery in its Final Schedule, and that the minister seeking settlement shall remain not less than two Sabbaths on the field. It is believed that some such plan will be of decided benefit to the churches.

DEPARTMENT OF CHURCH AND LABOR.

This department has been in operation for three years. The first two years our representative, the Rev. Charles Stelzle, spent most of his time studying conditions throughout the country and making such suggestions to churches as seemed warranted by the circumstances, besides preaching to workingmen in shops and halls and churches.

During the past year notable progress has been made in organization and in definite lines of work for the bringing of the Church and workingmen into closer relations. The headquarters of this Department has become a clearing house. Into it come from various and world-wide sources the latest and most exact information affecting every phase of the workingman's problem, as it concerns the Church. This information is being carefully digested and tabulated, and is at the service of ministers and Christian workers.

A series of leaflets has been prepared which meets the criticisms and misapprehensions of workingmen concerning the Church. Another series has been issued which deals with practical methods of work for workingmen. There has been a great demand for both series, probably two thousand requests for such material having been received within six months. Many of these requests have come from other denominations. One leaflet—"Is the Church Opposed to Workingmen?"—has had a circulation of nearly a quarter of a million copies.

Mr. Stelzle has come into helpful touch with the various labor organizations by writing each week a syndicate article which has been printed in nearly every labor paper in the United States. In this way he has been speaking to millions of workingmen and their families. Every leaflet sent out by the Department has been printed in this series. It has been an inexpensive way of getting information to the workingmen. We have the assurance that the matter is read for, as John Graham Brooks recently declared, "The average workingman reads his labor paper as the early Christian read his New Testament."

Mr. Stelzle writes also for our denominational papers and thus presents the various phases of the work to our church people.

By plans carefully prepared very many of our ministers preached especially to workingmen on the last Labor Day Sunday, and it is said that on that day more workingmen attended church than on any previous Sunday in the history of the labor movement. Many pastors write that the men are still attending the services.

Ministers appointed as fraternal delegates to labor unions by various ministerial bodies have been seated in seventy-five or more cities in our country all the way from New York to Portland. In some instances the labor unions have created the office of chaplain for the ministers and the regular meetings are opened with prayer. This phase of the work is still in its infancy—no one can prophesy to what extent it will influence the entire labor question.

A large number—possibly one-half—of the presbyteries have appointed sub-committees to co-operate with the Department.

During the last few months Mr. Stelzle has been organizing and conducting shop campaigns, when simultaneous meetings were held in a large number of shops at the noon hour. They have been largely attended and in many cases the workingmen have manifested a decided interest in having them repeated. The most remarkable shop campaign of the winter was held during ten days in January in Chicago, where leading ministers and laymen gave the movement their generous support.

One of the most notable signs of the times is the fact that at the last annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor our representative was invited to address the four hundred men who represented two million five hundred thousand trade unionists; their unanimous endorsement of the Department and its work is so significant that we give it herewith in full:

"Whereas, the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, at its last National Convention, officially established a Department of Church and Labor for the express purpose of making a systematic study of the labor problem; and,

"Whereas, It is part of the plan of this Department to appoint in every industrial center special committees that may become experts in their knowledge of every phase of the labor movement, so that they may inform the churches with respect to the aims of organized labor; Therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, indorse this new and significant movement in the Presbyterian Church, and we further recommend that Central Labor Bodies co-operate with this Department and with its sub-committees in every way that may be consistent, in order that the Church and the public at large may have a more intelligent conception of the conditions and aspirations of the toilers."

The favor with which this movement has been regarded not only by our own Church but by many other denominations which are planning for work along the same line, and the response it has had from the workingmen in all the centers of labor where they have been approached and in all their journals, lay stress upon this undertaking as one of the most important in the history of our missionary work and for it we earnestly invoke the co-operation and prayers of our entire Church.

EVANGELISM.

Our Church is historically an evangelistic Church. The early generations of home missions were essentially evangelistic. Before there were professing Christians enough to constitute churches in the scattered western communities, the home missionary gave himself to evangelism, the fruit of which rapidly appeared in church organizations.

One of the best signs of the times in our Presbytery history is the movement in this historic direction. Specially gratifying is the intelligence which during the past year has come from nearly all of our missionary synods. Evangelistic services have been very generally held and the tabulations will probably tell of large additions to our membership on confession of faith.

Our work in the mountains has been strengthened by these services. Meetings at five places in Kentucky resulted in one hundred and forty professions of faith. In Tennessee special meetings have been held in most of the churches and outposts, with large net results, and the evangelistic spirit is spreading in West Virginia.

In Minnesota, aside from the three evangelists supported in part by the Evangelistic Committee, five were appointed under the care of as many presbyteries and received their support from the fields they served.

In North Dakota evangelistic fires have been kindled all over the prairies. Union simultaneous meetings have been held in some of the larger towns with results that it is thought will tell over the whole state for years to come. Meetings in Bismarck resulted in about one hundred and fifty conversions.

South Dakota reports meetings in at least one-third of the one hundred and twenty-eight churches. The evangelistic spirit is manifestly increasing and spreading throughout the synod.

In Nebraska in one small town more than three hundred persons are reported to have been converted, and large accessions made to several churches.

In Kansas the gospel tent has been used for evangelistic purposes and a healthy growth of churches has been the result.

More churches have held special services in the Indian Territory than ever before and splendid results have been realized in many places.

From Colorado it has been reported that the meetings have given new life to the churches. Even the Mexican churches by special arrangement have been visited by an evangelist and with good results.

Tent services and other evangelistic services have been held in the difficult fields of Utah.

In Montana twelve of the home mission churches have enjoyed these special services.

In Washington likewise there has been much activity and the reports of meetings at Ilwaco, Moscow, Sandpoint, Coeur d'Alene and South Bend are of an encouraging character. South Bend enjoyed the greatest awakening ever known in that town, and in most of the other places there have been large accessions to the churches.

Do not the results here outlined point the way of a large opportunity for our Church? A revived Church will be a missionary Church. The call of the Spirit is the quickest way to self-support and to missionary activity for the salvation of others.

FOREIGNERS.

The most difficult and in some respects the most important of all missionary problems is how to give the gospel to the foreign-speaking peoples who have come to our shores. There are probably not less than fourteen million people in our country who are foreign born. This number does not include the Filipinos nor the Porto Ricans. Of these fourteen million, ten million speak a language different from our own. In our report to the General Assembly of 1904 we presented in tabulated form an extract from the twelfth census giving the number and country of birth of all our foreigners. No later data are available.

We have sought from the stated clerks of the presbyteries a statement of the work being done by our Church, which we have tabulated and herewith submit:

In addition to the above it is doubtless true that there are many churches, and even individuals, carrying on religious work among foreigners which has not been reported to the Board, and of which probably the stated clerks of presbyteries had no direct knowledge.

Two facts in regard to this whole matter warrant the special attention of the General Assembly. One is that the proper carrying on of the work of giving the gospel to these foreign-speaking peoples necessarily includes and is closely allied with other needs,—such as schools; literature in their own tongue, including tracts, papers and the Bible; colporteur visitation; Bible reading, and so forth. It is not sufficient simply to open a church or hall where a meeting can be held and expect the people to come. A great deal of preparatory work must be done.

The other fact is that the agencies engaged in this mission are so various that it results in an unnecessary multiplication of appeals, in some instances a duplicating of agencies, in many cases a work imperfectly begun and then abandoned because the organization or agency beginning had not the funds or equipment for carrying it further.

There is great need therefore that the General Assembly unify the work and bring it under one general supervision covering the whole country and every method of service.

BARBER FUND.

The Barber fund is that part of the Phineas M. Barber gift to the Presbyterian Church which was assigned to the Board of Home Missions for the support of colored churches under its care. The first missionary commissioned by the Board to be paid out of this fund began work October 1st, 1896. Since November 11th, 1895, the Board has received on account of this fund a total sum of $25,243.53, and has paid out to March 31st, 1906, the sum of $24,300.11, leaving a balance of $943.42. The total amount granted by the Board during the fiscal year just ended was $2,685.00.

The Barber fund missionaries are at present located as follows:

SYNOD OF NEW YORK.

New York is unique in that, in addition to its regular home mission work under the care of the synod, the Presbytery of Boston is aided by the Board of Home Missions. Of its forty churches, nine are aided by funds from the Home Board treasury. The conditions in New England are much the same as in other eastern coast regions, with the addition of a large influx of Scotch Canadians and French Catholics from our northern border.

A characteristic presentation of home mission work in New England is made by one of the Board's missionaries in a Massachusetts town. He writes:

"The story of my church is to-day what it was five years ago. There is the same stream of young people coming to our city in search of employment, staying a few months or a year, then moving on, usually to the West. I have received twenty-nine members since April last, yet our net gain is very small. Still I feel the work to be worth while. We hold these young folks to the church and send them on, we trust, the better for their sojourn here.

"When I went to the Los Angeles Assembly, on my way I looked up some of my people who had gone West and found such, who had worshipped in our church, in Chicago, Denver, Sacramento, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Redlands, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, and also in St. Paul, which I visited on my return trip. For every member in my church to-day there are three scattered throughout the United States and Canada.

"This changing character of our field makes the work discouraging, but I have received over two hundred members, caught from the hurrying crowd. Nearly five hundred more young people have passed through my hands. I have given them over three hundred letters of introduction."

Thus while the New England work is not one that bulks large in records on earth, there are unseen records which give it a larger measure of value than is sometimes accorded by those who study only the Minutes of the General Assembly.

For the foreign work which is carried on within the bounds of the Synod of New York, we would refer to the table (pages 9-15).

Aside from the Presbytery of Boston and the work among foreigners, our Board has a most interesting field among the old Five Nations. For a quarter of a century the Rev. Morton F. Trippe has been the missionary in charge, beginning his labors under the Board of Foreign Missions and being transferred to the Board of Home Missions when those Indians were placed under its care. The twenty-five years have marked a development that bears witness to the Christianizing and civilizing power of the gospel. This large Indian field requires the full time of two missionaries, and the Rev. J. Emory Fisher ministers with energy and devotion to the stations under his care, where special tokens of divine blessing have followed his labors.

Within the last year two new churches have been organized and one building completed and dedicated. Of other features of the year Mr. Trippe writes:

"At Cornplanter the young people of the Y. M. C. A. resolved to hold a four days' meeting. They had no outside help. By themselves they began to pray, going from house to house holding meetings, when the Holy Spirit came with almost miraculous power. The hardest and most hopeless cases were reached and saved. One of these young men, so lost that he would not listen to the gospel, became greatly changed. He became superintendent of the Sabbath school and was so desirous to help save others that he labored with his missionary in special meetings held a few weeks since on the Alleghany reservation.

"In another field political feuds had torn the church asunder, had severed blood relatives, and made of close neighbors bitter enemies. Because of this hostility no mighty works could be done there. This last winter the Holy Spirit began to work in the hearts of the people and they soon desired a revival. Meetings were begun. They were sweetly solemn. The truth was Spirit-winged to the heart. Before we knew it, and without any reference to it in the meetings, that feud of years' standing—a mountain of granite and iron—had totally disappeared, not even a memory of it remaining, so mightily had God wrought by His Holy Spirit. The man most affected, a natural leader of men, has become a devoted, gentle-hearted lay evangelist. No service is too hard for him. He has given fully seven weeks of labor for his Master in these evangelistic services this winter, for which with joy unutterable we thank God. The results of these revivals among the Iroquois cannot be expressed in figures. About five hundred have been added to the churches.

"The genuine work of the Holy Spirit is always productive of good in the life of the Indian and all his environment. Homes broken are reunited. Christian marriages are multiplied during or following special meetings. An intense desire is awakened in the Indian to save his fellowman and to be doing something for God.

"Last winter after the revival of Cornplanter the young people raised money and sent a delegation of their people to the Onondaga reservation to 'try to help their needy brothers to find Jesus.'

"After revivals sewing societies are reorganized, Sabbath schools revived, young men's prayer bands formed, and earnest effort made to raise money and build or repair church buildings. In the past twenty-five years seven church buildings have been erected and two buildings thoroughly renovated and re-dedicated—the result of revivals.

"While the reservation does not become an Eden, yet men no longer hide from God. They are clothed, in their right minds, at Jesus' feet—a grand force for the betterment of their race."

In only two of the presbyteries in this synod are we doing any home mission work—namely, those in the State of Florida. The two presbyteries there are a feeble folk. The population is scattered and uncertain. Some of the little churches are well supported during the winter season when tourists are present.

In the Presbytery of South Florida there has been some progress in a number of fields. In a few of the churches there is some movement toward self-support.

In East Florida Presbytery the prospect of self-support is more distant. Some of the churches, too important to be abandoned, are yet so feeble that it seems not likely they will for a long time be able to stand alone.

After sixteen years of faithful service, the Rev. Henry Keigwin has retired from the position of presbyterial missionary for Florida. The development of the work does not seem longer to require this office. Mr. Keigwin has earnestly striven to bring the churches toward a larger measure of self-support; and for whatever movement there has been in this direction the Board feels itself in large measure indebted to him.

It would seem desirable that the Northern and Southern Churches should in some way consolidate their work in Florida. One branch of the Presbyterian Church is needed there to shepherd the scattered sheep and be ready for new openings with the development of new industries, but one is sufficient.

SYNOD OF KENTUCKY.

Some of our earliest religious history relates to the mountain regions of Kentucky, North Carolina, and Tennessee. Within the past generation, however, the descendants of those who laid the foundations of government in those states have been discovered. They had been largely hidden among the mountains. The tides of western-moving population passed them by. After the Civil War they were recognized, and for the last quarter of a century have been diligently sought by missionary enterprise.

The progress, during the past decades, of evangelistic and school work in those mountains has been remarkable. It constitutes one of the most interesting phases of our home mission work. Kentucky is seeing rapid changes in these last years. New elements of population are coming in, and those who had been hidden in the mountains are being reached by roads and railroads.

Large syndicates are buying up coal and lumber lands in the mountains and small towns are springing up along the lines of the new railways. As a result a number of new organizations are reported. New schools and academies have been founded. Nineteen hundred students are attending thirteen academies in as many county seats. They are centers of light and moral power to all the regions round about.

The Rev. Donald McDonald, D.D., synodical missionary, writes:

"Within the last decade we have organized twenty new churches, with eight hundred and sixty members; erected sixteen new church buildings at a cost of thirty-eight thousand dollars; nine academy buildings were secured during the same time at a cost of forty-five thousand dollars; ten dormitory buildings have been built or projected, costing thirty-three thousand dollars—making in all for mission buildings one hundred and sixteen thousand dollars.

"Our new mountain churches are coming to the front in contributions to the Home Board to a degree that is putting our older churches to the blush. A few weeks ago Harlan took her collection for the Home Board, amounting to sixty-seven dollars; and little Inez, whose building was dedicated last July, sent in her collection of twenty-five dollars."

The destitution of some places in the mountains is indicated by the fact that Indian Creek in Owsley County is a community one hundred and fifty years old that never has had a church organization. Meetings were held there last fall and twenty-five persons united in the organization of a Presbyterian church. The people were anxious to hear and glad to accept the gospel. Many such regions have not yet received the message of life.

The story of need and opportunity, of growth and difficulties, told of Kentucky, can be repeated in substance for Tennessee. Progress has been made in visible extensions of the Kingdom. During the past fifteen months twelve new buildings for school and church purposes have been erected and a number repaired. Some of the home mission churches have been making special efforts to become missionaries themselves and to press into the valleys between the mountains to reach the most destitute people in their bounds—people who cannot be induced to attend regular church services.

In evangelistic work there has been activity and continued services have been held in most of the churches. The Rev. Calvin A. Duncan, D.D., synodical superintendent, reports:

"Within the last four years eleven of our churches and fields have reached self-support, two of these during the last year.

During the past year we have been able to effect several groupings of country churches in the interest of economy and efficiency. Some churches are giving more toward their pastors' salaries and asking less from the Board. An increasing number of our church members are setting apart the tithe of all their income as the minimum amount to be given for the support of the gospel at home and abroad. Taking into account contributions for congregational expenses, synod gave six thousand three hundred and thirteen dollars more last year than the year previous.

"We need better teaching in our Sabbath schools, especially in the primary department, and to meet this need in part we are organizing classes for Bible study for the purpose of training teachers."

One of the interesting items from Tennessee is that in our three small colleges we have forty candidates for the ministry, besides several in the theological seminaries.

This synod, though the youngest, is decidedly vigorous. This little mountain state is big in material growth. She ranks second in the United States in her output of coal—about forty million tons last year. She leads in the production of oil and gas. Her timber supply is practically inexhaustible. One hundred thousand farms furnish abundance of cereals. The total value of her fruits in 1900 was one hundred and fifty million dollars.

With mountains full of metals and minerals, with three railroad trunk lines and numerous smaller ones, with ample transportation facilities; centrally located and easily accessible to all markets, the state is a center of manufactories, of which she now has five thousand.

The valuation of her property has doubled in twenty years. With a million and a quarter inhabitants, she has a larger per cent. native born than any other state. In three years one hundred million dollars have been invested in coal and timber operations and railroad construction, yet the work is only fairly begun. Increasing industries are calling for laborers, hence people are being attracted. Her rapidly improving schools, good colleges and university offer splendid opportunities for home-seekers.

The Rev. J. Calvin Ely, D.D., synodical superintendent, says:

"The Presbyterian Church recognizes her opportunities and realizes that she must keep pace with her commercial progress, else the privileges of the gospel will fall behind. Half a century ago this territory resembled a barren waste sown chiefly with rocks and disfigured with charred stumps. Now the valleys are full of homes, and fields are covered with grain.

"In the early sixties there were but five Presbyterian ministers and twelve churches, but they went forward in spite of discouragements and to-day we have fifty-six churches, seventy-one ministers, and eight thousand members. Five churches have been added since synod's organization.

"The outlook is encouraging. The spirit of hopefulness prevails and a determination to do all possible for our Church and state. The idea of self-support is growing. The spirit of giving is increasing. The evangelistic spirit is spreading. Pastors of larger churches are giving their time to weaker ones in special work, with good results."

Our cause in this state has during the past year made decided advance. This in face of the difficulties created by changing populations. Both financially and spiritually, an increased responsiveness on the part of the people has characterized the work of the synod. The Rev. Robert N. Adams, D.D., synodical missionary, says:

"There is an increased demand for laborers, and I have never found it so difficult to obtain them. Our seminary graduates have too many important fields calling for their services to even glance at our weak home mission fields. We need twenty-five additional workers, all of whom could be placed at once in needy and promising fields. This increased demand arises (a) from an unusually large number of vacant churches and fields. The spirit of change among our missionaries last fall seems to have become epidemic, and so far we have been unable (except in a few instances) to supply their places. (b) A second reason has been the opening of new fields by evangelistic effort of our pastors-at-large, Sabbath school missionaries and evangelists furnished by the Assembly's Committee. (c) Another reason is insufficient means to support the missionaries.

In many fields because of removals the churches have been left not only numerically but financially weak; and yet those who remain are calling as usual for the means of grace. This demand is likely to increase, for the reason that 'there remaineth yet very much land to be possessed.'"

Dr. Adams has given special attention to furnishing presbyteries with pastor evangelists who, giving a part of their time to fields not otherwise supplied, also hold evangelistic services in the season most suitable. The result has been marked spiritual progress,—shown not only by increased attendance upon the mid-week prayer meetings and Sabbath services, and by large additions on profession of faith, but also by substantial material progress.

Dr. Adams pleads for the plan of pastor-evangelist. He says:

"Aside from the three evangelists supported in part by the Evangelistic Committee, we have had five evangelists in the state who received their support from the fields they served. When you consider that they received an average salary of two hundred and fifty dollars per month and expenses, it is very plain that the plan of evangelistic work recommended by our synod last fall would be eminently practical and provide more revenue than is needed."

In this great prairie state the work crowds us beyond all our ability to overtake it. Not only has it progressed by the ordinary home missionary efforts, but it has received a great impetus by reason of evangelistic conferences held in accessible centers.

The Rev. Andrew Christy Brown, D.D., synodical missionary, says:

"The year has been one of material prosperity, many new settlers having come to the state from the Central West, and good crops and good prices having prevailed. More than three hundred miles of new railroad have been constructed, and many new towns have sprung up.

"In church work, however, we have not been able to keep pace with these rapid strides, principally because of our inability to secure suitable ministers willing to do mission work in these new railroad towns. We employed thirty-six summer students in 1905 and will employ more in 1906,—mostly where ordained ministers should be at work the year around. Some of our fields have been vacant since April, 1905. Because of a scarcity of ministers we failed to enter a number of new towns last summer where our Church was earnestly desired. The significance of this cannot be appreciated unless it is realized that it is our custom not to organize a church unless it is the first and only English-speaking church in the town, and that the Presbyterian denomination is the preference of the most of these communities because of its special adaptation to do the work under existing conditions.

"The year has been one of material improvement in that many good church buildings and manses have been erected. The promise is that the coming year will be fully as good.

"The Bible Conference held on the Chautauqua grounds last July will be held again this year with much larger attendance. It is supported by other denominations as well as our own, and is the means of cultivating good feeling between the Christians of all the churches. One day at the Bible Conference is to be given to the discussion of church federation, and, if the way be clear, to the formation of a State Federation of Churches."

This synod has gone quietly but steadily forward. New work is likely to open along the line of two railroads, east from the Missouri river and west to the Black Hills, within the bounds of Central Dakota Presbytery. Synod's college is located in this presbytery, and it is therefore able to somewhat utilize college help in supplying vacant fields. The Rev. Harlan Page Carson, D.D., synodical missionary, says:

"The Synod of South Dakota has one hundred and twenty-eight churches. More than one-half of them are in communities where there is no other church of the same tongue. One-eighth of them were self-sustaining during the year just closing. Eleven more of them have attained self-support during the year. For nearly one-seventh of them it did not prove practicable to arrange for local stated supply so as to have the aid of the Home Mission Board. Nearly all of the rest have made more or less advance toward self-support. They include twenty-nine churches in which the work and worship are conducted in the Dakota language, six in German, two and as many missions in Bohemian, and one in Holland. Only twenty of our churches are as yet unhoused, but less than one-third of them are equipped with a manse.

"The material prosperity and developments in South Dakota this year are unprecedented. Eight hundred miles of railroad are to be built within the state during the coming twelve months. New settlers have come, are coming, and are to come by trainloads! Scores of new communities will be formed, half of them railroad towns. Our missionary force will have to be increased if we meet the demands upon us."

Railroad building in this state prophesies increasing demands for home mission work. The Rev. Thomas L. Sexton, D.D., synodical missionary, says:

"The Great Northern road is building a line from Sioux City, Iowa, to Ashland—a station between Lincoln and Omaha on the Burlington route. The contract has just been given for the construction of a line of the Union Pacific road from Stromsburg to Central City on the main line of that road.

"We ought to place at least three good men in the valley of the North Platte river, where there is bound to be a rapid development on account of railroad extension as well as elaborate irrigation plans by the United States Government. More money should be set apart for Box Butte Presbytery. We are having a healthful growth and several revivals have been experienced.

"We are making encouraging advance toward self-support. A number of our churches will cease to ask aid hereafter from the Board's treasury. We will need at least fifteen ministers after the first of April, and possibly more. Our churches are in a good condition and what we need most is the constant presence and converting power of the Holy spirit."

Nebraska is suffering, as are other more central states, by the opening of opportunities farther west. Many of the churches have therefore lost much of their financial support. In some cases farmers sell their farms to foreigners who have no sympathy with our Church. But there, as in other states, the care of the small churches still pays, because from them come some of the best material for the city and some of the young men for the ministry.

This is one of our richest states. It is also one of our most urgent home mission fields. There have been remarkable developments in the mining regions and consequent gatherings of communities, while the agricultural resources—hitherto but partially developed—are steadily increasing.

This state is one of the strongholds of the Cumberland Church, and when the Union between the two Assemblies is completed an entire reorganization of Presbyterian Home Mission work in it will be demanded. It is difficult in advance to make tentative consolidations and groupings, especially in those parts of the state where one party is very weak. There has been some federation of churches in anticipation of the Union, to the advantage of both parties. It is evident, however, that when Union comes, here as well as elsewhere, there will be heavy demands upon the Board of Home Missions. A careful study of the map of Missouri prepared by the synodical missionary, showing the location and the membership of every Northern, Southern, Cumberland, United, and Reformed Presbyterian church in the state, reveals at once the complications and the encouragements of the ecclesiastical situation.

The Rev. John B. Hill, D.D., the synodical superintendent, says:

“All over the synod new groups between Presbyterian and Cumberland Presbyterian churches are likely to be effected soon, and occasionally also new groups with the Southern Presbyterians. Most of those that are effected soon will be in the interests of economy in home mission funds. It is too early yet to tell what effect upon the home mission treasury will be produced by the complete union.

“Our population is rapidly increasing, and calls for new work both in cities and in the country are coming in from all our presbyteries. More men and more money will certainly be needed before we can keep pace with the growth of population.”

This has so long been the state of booms and reactions that it is not to be wondered that the conditions of religious work are at once peculiar and difficult. About twenty-five years ago there was a great immigration boom to the western half of the state. Dry years and repeated crop failures scattered those early settlers and depleted the little churches. When Oklahoma was opened one hundred thousand people left southern and western Kansas to settle in the "new country." Some churches that had been organized in the prosperous times were dissolved.

Since 1899 the state has entered upon an unprecedented period of material prosperity. Successive good crops have put her well to the front among the great agricultural states of the Union. But church progress lagged some years behind material prosperity. Farms were to be paid for, houses were to be built, machinery was to be brought in, and public improvements must be provided.

But now the harvest of the patient seed-sowing of a generation should begin to appear—and it does. Churches are rising into strength. The people are hopeful. Some of the churches are advancing toward self-support, and the next few years should witness great advance. The Rev. Samuel B. Fleming, D.D., synodical missionary, says:

"Along evangelistic lines the churches have been quite industrious and many good meetings have been held. Much of the work, however, has been done by the co-operation of pastors and the employment of evangelists not connected with the Assembly's Committee.

"Two churches were organized during the current year.

"There are twenty other places in the rural regions where churches might be established if we had the money to put men on the ground,—men who could go in and do purely missionary work and stay with the people until they could get a start."

Few parts of the country have so had the public eye during the past year as Oklahoma and Indian Territories. On the verge of statehood, confronting therefore new conditions and obligations, welcoming large streams of incoming populations, both these great territories are full of hope and expectation. The Church of Christ must face the problems which confront the people and help in their solution.

The Indian question especially is full of interest. The tribes there will be thrown upon their own resources. But imperfect provision, educational and religious, is made for their needs, and they will suffer at once from their own incapacity and from the rapacity of their neighbors unless strong arms of Christian influence are put about them. For this reason our work there appeals especially at the present time.

There has been great development in the oil fields of the territory. Towns are springing up and growing into prominence like magic and must be promptly occupied. Work in some of these oil towns has begun with bright prospects. There are several new fields waiting for organization.

Most of the churches have been supplied with preaching. We have occupied a number of new points and have organized twelve or fifteen new churches, some of which have an especially promising outlook. Work has also been begun in the Osage Nation and churches have been organized in three growing towns.

From the Rev. Frederick W. Hawley, synodical missionary, we quote:

"The Presbyterian Church in these two territories faces to-day its greatest opportunity. Much Presbyterian money of the East and North and South is seeking investment here. Many Presbyterian families are looking to this rapidly growing country for homes. In a group of ten strangers in a far western county a few days ago, six were found to be eastern Presbyterians seeking investments.

"During the coming year we will probably need ten or twelve new men. Our synod is new and our demand is increasing and will continue to increase for some time. The demand seems greater than the supply. Our home mission fields are the first to suffer. It is getting more difficult every year to get strong seminary men for frontier mission fields, yet we need these men and they need the training which our home mission churches can give. The Church should insist on her strong young men going to the front.

"We can hardly overestimate the importance of the present time in the history of this synod. With statehood imminent, the great influx of population, and the approaching Union with the Cumberland Church, our synod is justified in demanding sacrifice from the whole Church to meet the present crisis."

It is impossible adequately to estimate the opportunity that is coming to us in this great Empire State of the Southwest. A large part of it is strictly home mission ground. Drawing a line north and south through Fort Worth, the part west of that line is all home mission territory; and that part of the state with only five self-sustaining churches in the whole region is as large as all New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Ohio, and Indiana. Train loads of people are moving into that vast region.

West and north of Fort Worth are sixty-nine towns of from five hundred to eight thousand population; with five exceptions they are county seats; all of them would be useful for home mission work.

In this state the problem connected with Cumberland Union will rise to its largest proportions. Already the federation of churches has begun, such federations having been effected in ten Texas towns and cities.

Our synodical missionary, the Rev. Henry S. Little, D.D., writes:

"We need five pastors-at-large. These ought to organize from twenty to forty churches or stations within a year—some of them to drift into our Church with Cumberland Presbyterians in 1907, and others to come at once directly to us.

"How many men for next year? Well, from twenty to forty, before the year is out. You cannot understand the pressure unless upon the ground. I wish I could tell you what is open to us. If I can be sustained now by the Board I think it is reasonable to hope that, in the next five years, there will be results as great as under Dr. Hill in Kansas. The facts push for an elastic schedule. The demand will have but laid its nest-egg this year. So far as can be seen, the Assembly of 1907 will bring added, urgent, developing possibilities. If faced we must face them."

The state of vast distances—but also of vast possibilities—holds a good outlook for the missionary work of the future. Churches are being organized and new fields entered, new churches and manses built on home mission ground in many places, and not a few churches are moving toward self-support.

A review of five years will give an idea of the progress made. In 1901 there were thirty-six ministers and forty churches. There are now forty-nine ministers with fifty-five churches. Thirteen of these were organized in towns where there was no other church or minister. Fifteen home mission church buildings have been erected and nine manses built. In the past year eighteen home mission churches have advanced ten per cent. in membership. Montana has reasons to rejoice.

The Rev. Charles F. Richardson synodical missionary, writes and appeals as follows:

“When we come to speak of the needs and prospects for our work for the coming year, it can best be done by speaking of the opportunities which are opening up before us. These are to be found in the vast irrigation projects now being undertaken by the Government, and by the Indian reservations soon to be thrown open to settlers. So soon as the work of allotting the lands and the surveys are completed, the Flathead and the Crow Indian reservations will be opened, and this alone will mean the bringing in of thousands of home-seekers within the next eighteen months.

“Then there are three vast irrigation projects—yes, four, now under headway by the Government. There is the Sun River project. Another called the Glendive project, for which one million two hundred thousand dollars has been appropriated. This will mean sixty thousand acres of irrigated land for use by settlers; part of this, however, is in North Dakota. Another is that called the Huntley project. This will irrigate five hundred thousand acres of land in the eastern part of the state, and likewise will be open to settlers. The other is the Milk River project in the northern part of the state, which will irrigate five hundred and twenty-two thousand acres more and for which one million five hundred thousand dollars has been appropriated by the Government.

“Take this last project alone. Divide the acreage into farms of one hundred and sixty acres each, and we have three thousand two hundred and fifty farms producing all sorts of farm produce every year. Figure one family to every farm and five persons to a family, and we find that the irrigated lands under this project alone will give employment to and support directly seventeen thousand two hundred and fifty persons.

“Do you not see what this means to us? Towns springing up everywhere—demands for men and churches everywhere.

In a few years Montana's population will be doubled, and there is now no state in the Union with finer possibilities and opportunities,—and that for our work. And already settlers are coming in this spring to take advantage of them, and it is for us to be there before they come.

“Is not this enough to show that there is already—as indeed there is—an increased demand for laborers? Is not this enough to show what causes this demand? And is not this enough to show that the demand is likely to increase?”

“We need five new men this spring, and we will need more before the year is out.”

This state calls loudly for reinforcements. Twenty new men could be used for next year, and the demand for laborers in this state is likely to increase rather than decrease,—churches have risen to self-support.

The Mexican work in the southern part of the state has made considerable progress. The missionary among them, the Rev. John Knox Hall, has found fine opportunities for missionary labors in his tours among these people who are scattered in the beet fields of the state. He is earnestly pleading for better school advantages.

Wyoming Presbytery belongs to this synod. New work in such towns as Cody, Sheridan, and Wyncote is reported promising and will soon doubtless rise to self-support. With its reservoirs and reclamation of arid lands and the opening of Indian reservations, it will furnish steadily increasing opportunities and will call for men and money.

The Rev. Thomas C. Kirkwood, D.D., synodical missionary, writes:

“In the original settlement, the mining of silver was the one great industry. From silver the miners turned to gold, and from the precious metals to iron and coal. Now the thing sought after in mining circles is copper. New localities are explored and new people are brought together as new towns are formed.

“Again, it used to be said Colorado was a mineral state—and so it was. But now her agriculture is ahead of her mines. Her fruit-raising is forging to the front and as a separate division of her products from the soil. She finds the culture of the sugar-beet the most profitable of all. Every one of these advance steps in the industries of the state, occupying new fields as they do, calls more loudly for home mission men and home mission methods and home mission money. The work of home missions is more important and necessary now than ever."

In this state the granite of Mormonism, more obdurate than that of the Rockies, is still to be faced and attacked. In addition to the regular work in established stations, the year shows special significance in several directions:

First, the opening of the Uintah reservation was followed by the influx of a large number of home seekers from the eastern states as well as from Utah. This reservation embraces two million five hundred thousand acres and is capable of supporting a population of one hundred thousand. Here is a great chance and a great obligation. There will be a larger proportion of non-Mormons on that reservation than in any other rural district in Utah.

In Emery county there is other virgin territory for missionary enterprise. It includes a number of towns with an aggregate population of more than four thousand. No Christian services have ever been conducted within those bounds except the gospel tent work in Ferron last summer. The communities are Mormon through and through but they are generally of a more liberal type. A petition has been signed in Ferron by fifty persons—some of them Mormons—asking that we enter permanently into that town. There is a great opportunity here to reach the many thousands who are gathering in that rich Castle valley.

Another field urgently appealing for help is in Panguitch and the surrounding points in Garfield county. Within this region are a few "outsiders," a few apostate Mormons, and a number of liberal Mormons, several of whom have been in our mission schools and who will be favorable to our work. The population here is about three thousand. Many children born there have never seen a professing Christian. Besides there are eight bands of Indians under the educational jurisdiction of the Panguitch Government Indian School. These Indians are scattered all over southern Utah. They are mostly the lowest of the lowly, some of them the "Digger Indians" of Fremont's Reports, 1844. Here is opportunity for our missionary to reach these primitive wanderers.

Southwestern Idaho is receiving a large immigration from the East. The extensive irrigation from the Snake river is bringing thousands of acres of fine agricultural land under cultivation. As a consequence new towns are springing up and growing rapidly. Seven men are asked for this spring.

The Rev. Samuel F. Wishard, D.D., our synodical missionary, sums up the battle lines in Utah as follows:

"The Synod of Utah embraces this state and all of Idaho south of the neck of land extending north to the British Possessions between Montana and Washington. That portion of the "Gem State" is ecclesiastically connected with the Synod of Washington. There are two nations in the bosom of Idaho. The western and the northern portions of the state are occupied by loyal American people; the southern and eastern portions of the state are under the domination of the Mormon hierarchy.

"Utah is entirely controlled, as is well known, by the Mormon people. There is, however, a silent awakening taking place among the people who have long been under this ecclesiastical despotism. They are venturing to ask questions and make assertions which mark a growing spirit of independence. In some quarters they are turning to the Christian people with their inquiries and openly condemning the long oppression under which they have lived.

"The awakening is such that occasionally we are invited by Mormons to open work in towns where we have no organized effort. Said one such prominent man, 'Your coming would benefit us.' A petition with fifty signatures followed a tent meeting in a destitute county, asking us to come to their help. Some of the signers of that petition were Mormons. That community has pledged one thousand dollars to the erection of a house of worship, if we will open a school and send a minister.

"On the other hand there is marked opposition to our work in a few cases, growing out of the excitement which has been aroused by the testimony in the Smoot case. These facts indicate the unrest in the Mormon mind—both a yielding and resistance.

"The more than two hundred towns that I have formerly mentioned still remain without a Christian gospel message, and mutely appeal to us for the light of truth.

"The awakening and the unrest in many quarters is readily explained. The years past of our Christians educational work and the preaching of the gospel have silently permeated the minds of the people. Unconsciously a change has come to them and is still coming. The lives of our missionaries—a noble contrast with the lives of Mormon leaders who make a gain of Godliness, are having their influence. The conduct of these so-called prophets and apostles has powerfully contributed to the present unrest among the people. The commercialism of the hierarchy through the tithe system is becoming a discouraging question. Further, the public press has powerfully arraigned the leaders of the people, for the violation of their oaths and pledges made in order to secure statehood. The discoveries of duplicity on the part of Church officials add to the cumulating unrest.

“This awakening, however, is of slow growth. It is only the beginning of that for which we are looking and praying. It is a spiritual awakening for which we are longing and there are tokens of its coming in some quarters. In the academy at Mt. Pleasant there is a quiet work of grace in progress, bringing souls into the Christian life, also touching the station at Fairview, several miles away. We are waiting on God who has so wonderfully displayed His power in Australia, Wales, India and England, and are asking that He will reveal His saying power in ‘Darkest Utah.’

“This report closes my sixteenth year of work in this synod. They have been years of blessed toil on the field, and sympathetic and practical support by the Board. Standing here in the midst of the conflict, our advance appears slow, but when we look back and see where and what we were sixteen years ago, and what God has wrought to-day, and how he is shaking the pillars of Mormonism, we thank God and take courage.

“The twenty-one churches of 1890 have now become fifty-five. The eight hundred and fifty-four members have now become two thousand seven hundred and fifty. And beyond this, the United States is indebted to the faithful and courageous missionaries of the Presbyterian Church, backed by the patient and persistent Home Mission Board, for the present awakening in reference to the Mormon peril.”

the fertile Pecos valley people from Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Kansas, and Missouri, are pouring faster than ever before. Lands that had been held by speculators are now in the hands of actual settlers. This brings into this hitherto largely foreign population a strong American element.

Only half a dozen years ago the First Presbyterian Church of Roswell was organized in that valley with eighteen members. After one year it became self-sustaining and ever since has been stretching out a helping hand to the whole valley. To-day we find here six organized churches which have just been erected into the Pecos Valley Presbytery.

Rio Grande Presbytery is largely a Mexican mission field. The splendid work done by the mission schools is recognized by all who come in contact with them. While the number of schools and teachers remains the same, the attendance has greatly increased during the year. The missionary is welcomed to the communities where the schools have been established, and many young men who go out from the Menaul School carry the "tidings" with them to their remote mountain homes. The work in this presbytery as well as in that of Santa Fé is far more encouraging than it appears. No statistical table can show the results. For years New Mexico will be a typical mission field. The Mexicans are constantly moving from place to place to find home and work. They go to Texas, Colorado or Oklahoma, and therefore, although many unite with our churches, our membership does not permanently increase in New Mexico. Other states reap the benefit.

The American churches have more than held their own, notwithstanding the constant changes to which they have been subjected. Raton becomes self-sustaining. With the incoming of the new railroad San Juan county will develop rapidly, and other congregations will doubtless follow the example of Raton. New fields are constantly opening and call loudly for help.

Conditions in the Presbytery of Arizona are most encouraging, while the present needs are also great. The seven churches which receive no aid from the Board are centers of moral and spiritual influence in the cities and large mining towns, the latter of which have sprung up during the last few years. The site of Douglas only a few years ago was a great prairie. There is now a modern city with its eight or ten thousand inhabitants. A beautiful new church is in course of erection and within six months the congregation will be self-sustaining. The other mining towns in the south have advanced rapidly and in the north the smaller towns need help in order to keep the light burning. The Mexican population numbers at least twenty thousand in Arizona and only one little Presbyterian church is to be found in all the population. The home mission committee pleads for help for this numerous, needy, and neglected people.

The Indian work is more and more encouraging. A few years ago our Pima missions only were named in this synod, as we had none among its other tribes. Now Pimas, Papagoes, Maricopas, Mojaves, and Navajos are being reached by eight ministers and thirteen helpers, and tidings come of many who are inquiring the way of life.

In all these regions,—in mining camps and Mexican plazas, on Indian reservations, and in growing villages, towns and cities—everywhere, men, women and children—Americans, Indians, Mexicans and foreigners—are waiting for the gospel story.

The star of empire hangs over the Pacific coast. Washington, Oregon, and California will within this century be the scene of the world's mightiest events. That coast is strategic. There home and foreign missions blend. Opportunities for work in the great State of Washington are opening with marvelous rapidity. In every direction almost it is the same story—people are coming in, desert lands are being reclaimed, barren valleys are made fertile, new railroads, new towns, growing cities—this is the condensed story of need.

The Rev. David O. Ghormley, D.D., synodical missionary, says:

“The strenuous days have come. Opportunities on every hand. The call for missionaries is greater than the supply of men and money. Our population has passed the million mark. Our resources are inviting the keenest commercial competition. Puget Sound is rapidly becoming one of the world's great shipping centers. Two transcontinental railroads are at this time seeking entrance to our harbors. A recent article in the Railway Age states that one thousand miles of railroad are under contract of construction in the State of Washington—a greater mileage than in any other state in the Union.

“Recent appropriations by the Government for the purpose of irrigation within the state amount to two and a quarter millions of dollars. These improvements will bring many new communities where the Church must go. We cannot meet present needs—what shall we do under the pressure of the new developments? Fields are opening continually. There are openings for twenty earnest missionaries at this time. Eight of these can be placed where no minister of any denomination is located. A letter was recently received from a lady living in Kootenai county, Idaho, asking that a missionary be sent to that part of the county in which she resides. She said, "There are three communities in this valley and one thousand people. We do not have a minister, only a small Sabbath school."

"In the Skagit River Valley there are seven school districts in which there is not a Sabbath school and only occasional preaching. Similar conditions prevail in other parts of the synod. So rapidly has the country been settled that the churches have not been able to follow the people into these outlying communities.

"Idaho county, Idaho, with an area of eleven thousand square miles, with many villages and communities where they have no gospel privileges, has but three Presbyterian churches in the county.

"Okanogan county, Washington, has an area of four thousand three hundred square miles, with untold resources in mineral, timber, fruit and stock raising. A railroad will be completed into this county next summer, and another is being located. In this great and growing county we have but one Presbyterian minister. Two more should be sent at once.

"Practically nothing is being done among the Italians, Poles, Hungarians and Slavonians who work in the mines. In Adams, Lincoln and Douglas counties are found large communities of German Russians who are among the best wheat farmers of the country. We are not reaching these people. The same may be said of the multitudes of lumber men and shingle men of western Washington and northern Idaho."

What has been said of progress in Washington can in a measure be repeated regarding Oregon. The Rev. William S. Holt, D.D., synodical missionary writes:

"The state is steadily growing in population and new centers are developing. New railroad lines are projected in nearly every part of the state. These will invariably open places into which some Church must go. A line across the state from east to west—a line we have much needed—is promised completed in two years. Along its track will come new settlements. We need to be ready for them. During the past year many of the churches have made growth in members. Often this has been offset by removals.

“The development of the Umatilla Circuit, under the care of the Rev. Robert J. Diven, is forcing us to consider what we shall do to meet the changing conditions. It is worthy of notice that Pendleton Presbytery, organized in October, 1904, with seven churches, came to synod in October, 1905, with fourteen churches; and, of course, all the new ones are home mission churches. There is a phenomenal growth in that part of the state. Portland is growing so rapidly that we are troubled to keep pace with it. The southeastern part of the city two years ago was of little importance. Now more than four thousand people live there and we are maintaining two preaching places which will soon become churches.

“The coming in of the new road on the north bank of the Columbia has given an impetus to the northwest suburb, and we must get busy there too. The Board may fully expect increased calls for years to come. The state has never attracted so much attention as now, and people are coming our way from all parts of the East.”

3. Number of missionaries.....	89
4. Number of churches organized.....	8
5. Number of churches reaching self-support.....	10
6. Number of churches asking less than last year.....	23

This synod, including the two large states of California and Nevada, is moving forward with leaps and bounds. New railroads have developed new territory. Thus, on the line of the new Salt Lake Railroad a church was organized in Las Vegas, Nevada, last spring. The county in which Las Vegas is located (Lincoln) is perhaps the largest in the United States, with an area of nearly twenty thousand square miles. Ours is the only church of any denomination in the county. We have no church in any one of the three eastern counties. Missionaries for general evangelism in that destitute region—men with a spirit of self-sacrifice, with courage, tact and piety—would have fields of immense proportions and of almost dramatic interest.

The Rev. William B. Noble, D.D., synodical missionary, says:

“It has been a year of marked advance in the opening of new fields and the strengthening of old work. Our Church is spreading itself abroad and occupying the land. And yet the material progress of our coast is so rapid that it is difficult for the Church to keep pace with it.

"We are greatly blessed in the personnel of our ministry, both in the mission and self-supporting churches. The advantages of our climate and the strategic importance of our work have drawn to this coast some of the ablest and most devoted men of the Church, and their work is telling more and more for the true 'winning of the West.'

"For the regularly organized work we have no scarcity of ministers, and the Board is generous in its grants of money. But there are two classes of our population for whose evangelization we are in sore need, both of men and money. One is the lumbermen of the mountains, of whom there are many thousands wholly destitute of religious privileges. The other is the large and constantly increasing foreign element. I long to see these two splendid fields for missionary work, as yet untouched, occupied to the full by our Church."

The foreign element referred to by Dr. Noble consists in part of a colony of Russian Stundists in and around the city of Los Angeles. There are about fifteen hundred of them now. The edict of toleration has not yet brought them relief from persecution in their own country, and they have sought refuge in California. The Rev. Henry Teichrieb is our missionary among them, and at his Sunday morning meeting even the standing room is taken. A good deal of fanaticism mingles with their faith and worship. It could hardly be expected that those coming out of the superstition of the Greek Church could succeed in leaving all error behind; but they hold the central truths of the gospel.

Our work among the Spanish-speaking people in the bounds of the Presbytery of Los Angeles feels keenly the loss of the Rev. A. Moss Merwin, who for many years had been their devoted leader; but, pending the time when we can secure a competent superintendent to take up that burden, Mr. Merwin's daughter, with filial devotion, is carrying on the work of supervision, and reports faithful service on the part of the Mexican missionaries.

PORTO RICO.

The past year in Porto Rico has been one of testing and change and progress. Protestantism has taken a peculiar hold upon the hearts of the hungry people. Families have been won to the faith by the influence of little children and old men. Finding the power of superstition gradually slipping from their hands, friars and priests have redoubled activity, sisters of charity and others have opened parochial schools in places hitherto unnoticed or little cared for.

But that the work has progressed is illustrated by the fact that where last year we had about fifty preaching places on the Island of Porto Rico, we have this year about seventy-five, an advance of fifty per cent. Last year we reported thirteen organized churches. They have grown to nineteen; again a gain of about fifty per cent.

Touching our stations one by one, the first to be considered would naturally be San Juan, the port of entry open by mutual agreement to all Protestant denominations. The problems of every large city are, if possible, intensified here with its peoples of different nationalities and faith. The Rev. Robert McLean has had charge of all our Spanish work in San Juan, the two churches having a membership of three hundred and forty-nine, and four hundred and sixty-five Sabbath school scholars. Progress in financial and beneficent matters is illustrated by the adoption by the Santurce Spanish church of the envelope system, which has secured funds for certain incidental expenses and the General Assembly assessment, and has netted also twenty-five dollars for the Church Boards. The Spanish church in old San Juan is also systematically paying its janitor and incidental expenses, including the sending of an elder to the meeting of the Presbytery. Christmas was observed in an appropriate fashion by the Sabbath school, and gave our missionaries an added hold on the homes of the people. Our illustration shows four little ones from the Sabbath school and a group of their mothers who are gathered in a weekly mothers' meeting by Mrs. Grace Atkins Holmes, M.D.

Mr. McLean has been assisted by several native helpers; Francisco Quiñones, Alfredo Archilla and José A. Lopez. Mr. Lopez, after the first six months of the fiscal year, was placed at Cabo Rojo, at the west end of the Island, to care for the San German field under the direction of the Home Mission Committee of Presbytery until an American minister can be found for that large region.

Federico Garcia Davila, since January, has been in charge of San Juan's out-station, Toa Alta, where on the thirtieth of March a church was organized with sixteen members. There were were many more applicants, but the others were asked to wait so that they might prove their faith. Three young men were chosen elders—manly fellows of large promise. We are told that nearly all Toa Alta gathered about the church to witness the service, and that although the crowd extended into the middle of the plaza, there was perfect order. Not a small part of this result is due to the clinic held weekly, with over two hundred regularly in attendance, at Toa Alta by the San Juan medical workers.

The Rev. Howard T. Jason for most of the year has had charge of Corozal, Naranjito and Toa Alta. Since January, however, he has been giving his whole time to the first two. The Corozal church has been organized more than a year. Something of the activity required on such a field is hinted in the fact that in one quarter Mr. Jason conducted ninety-seven services, and traveled between five and six hundred miles. In addition to the Sabbath school and Sabbath preaching services at Corozal, there is a women's weekly cottage prayer meeting as well as the regular midweek service. Early in the winter our congregation was strengthened by the addition to its membership of the American school teacher, a young woman from New York, who has taken a Sabbath school class and regularly attends the other services.

At Naranjito the church organization came at the close of the hot summer, when twenty-seven members were received from a larger number seeking admission. One remarkable feature of the occasion was that the two leading merchants of the village closed their stores so that they and their clerks could attend the services.

The development of these fields under Mr. McLean's care leads him "to pay tribute to the faithfulness and fine Christian spirit of the helpers. All have made great growth in efficiency and spirituality during the year. Nothing has given more encouragement that this bright promise of an able and consecrated native ministry."

The special section of Porto Rico allotted to our Church is the western end. Westward from the San Juan group the first stations we reach are Quebradillas and Isabela. The missionary there from the beginning has been the Rev. James A. McAllister, who wrote of himself recently that he was still the only American worker in the whole district. The Isabela church has been organized two years. Quebradillas was organized last summer. Mr. McAllister's Sabbath includes work at both churches as well as some out-stations. Monday evening is given to a class preparing for church membership; Wednesday and Thursday evenings to preaching services at Isabela and Quebradillas respectively, and Saturday evening to a service at Guerrero. Mr. McAllister has devoted himself and his home to those in the midst of whom he has been stationed. He has donated a lot in Isabela as a memorial to his wife, and the new church building waits only for its bell to summon the whole region to the services they have learned to love. In no small degree has our medical mission work contributed to the success here. Mr. McAllister's testimony takes one back to gospel days:

"One poor countryman said last week as he came from the dispensary that to see this made him think of what his little son had read to him from a borrowed New Testament about the way the crippled and sick came to Jesus and the poor had the gospel preached to them."

Many open doors in this region have long been unentered, and the people have grown tired asking for the Way.

Further to the west and on a curve of the bay is Aguadilla, which, with its outlying churches of Moca and Malesa-Alta, has a combined membership of about four hundred, and more than two hundred and fifty Sabbath school scholars. From its inception this work was under the direction of the Rev. Judson L. Underwood, who left only last January at the earnest request of the Board that he take charge of the large field centering at Mayagüez. He was succeeded by the Rev. Leland H. Tracy, who with his wife went last summer to the Island, locating at first temporarily at Lares. The native assistant at Aguadilla, Juan B. Soto, labored first in connection with the school under the Woman's Board and later gave his whole time to aid the missionary pastor. That such assistance is welcome may be realized from the fact that in addition to the services in Aguadilla at least twelve out-stations are reached from it. Two of these, Moca and Aguada, for the first nine months of the last fiscal year were under the personal care of the Rev. J. F. Droste and his wife. Mrs. Droste, being a trained nurse, added greatly to the efficiency of the medical work in this part of the Island. The first of January they were transferred to San German, a field long pastorless and of large promise.

A little south of Aguadilla and inland, the Rev. E. S. Lheureux has continued his labors at San Sebastian. Unwearying in his efforts, he has not only conducted the mission services, but also superintended the erection of a building whose first floor, according to Porto Rican custom, is the chapel, while the upper story serves as manse for the missionary. The chapel was dedicated in November with much enthusiasm. During the early part of the fiscal year, Mr. Lheureux was assisted by Mr. Tracy at Lares, seven miles from San Sebastian, and an important town. After Mr. Tracy's removal to Aguadilla a native helper, Tomas Vidal Martinez, has proved himself invaluable in this field. Converted from the Roman Catholic faith, he has returned to his home to tell his fellow citizens the "Old, old story," which has come to them as new. Stations round about testify to the enthusiasm and consecration of the missionaries here. Especially may this be said of Goacio, where, inspired by Mr. Lheureux, a school has been started with two native teachers. One of these is a member of our church, who takes great pride in her work and has at heart the conversion of her pupils. The other, her brother-in-law, is a regular attendant at our meetings and his influence is on the side of Protestant Christianity.

Our chief center on the western coast is Mayagüez. A few miles to the north is Añasco, which has been pastorless about two years and which at present is included in the dozen out-stations of the Mayagüez field. It has been especially under the care of Bruno Rodriguez, who came to us from the employ of the American Bible Society, to which he has returned. After more than six years of earnest labor the Rev. Milton E. Caldwell, D.D., through failing health was obliged to retire from the Mayagüez church, into which he had received four hundred and thirty-three members. The Rev. Judson L. Underwood took charge of this large field in January. He preaches in English to a small American congregation on Sabbath morning, and in Spanish to a crowded house in the evening. He also conducts a large Sabbath school before the morning service, and holds an afternoon service in the city jail. He superintends the dozen out-stations with the help of Pedro Gil, Luis Sanchez and D. E. Lago. The whole Mayagüez field reports a church membership of nearly four hundred, with a Sabbath school membership of six hundred and fifty.

Our remaining center is San German, about ten miles southeast of Mayagüez. For over a year this field was manned only by native lay helpers. As before noted, the first nine months of the fiscal year the worker in charge was José A. Lopez, afterward at Cabo Rojo. As also noted, the last three months the Rev. J. F. Droste has been in charge. He and his helpers, Emilio Castillo, Lorenzo Hurtado and Miguel Martinez, minister to eighteen stations. Of these a year ago three were organized churches. Two have been added since—Sabana Grande and Lajas. Notwithstanding unusual activity on the part of the Roman Catholics—this region is a Roman Catholic stronghold—the Mayor and town council have offered a lot for a church building. Others have offered to furnish the stone,—“Lajas” means stone, and all around there are quarries—others will furnish oxen and carts to haul the stone, sand, lime and so forth; others promise money. Bricklayers, carpenters, painters and other laborers agree to give one day’s work each week until the building be completed. The eleven wards in the jurisdiction of Lajas all ask for preaching services. The field is practically unlimited. One who writes from outside the missionary circle says:

“That these native helpers, though alone for more than a year, have been active and made themselves felt may be inferred from the fact that Lajas now has a resident priest, and Cabo Rojo has two. Lajas had not had a resident priest for many years and Cabo Rojo has never had more than one in a lifetime. . . . The field is ripe for the harvest, and there is great need for the spread of evangelical truth."

All this western end of the Island has afforded a large field for medical mission work. During the first half of the year it was carried on by Miss Jane H. Harris, M.D. Under her able and consecrated direction it was practically self-sustaining. Having been for three years in the trying climate of a tropical country, she returned to the states for a much needed furlough, and two medical missionaries, J. P. Faber, M.D., and Harold E. Hoyt, M.D., divided the field between them.

In addition to the evangelistic work of the missionary pastors and their helpers and the medical work of the physicians and nurses, an important feature of our Church's activity in Porto Rico is in the mission schools carried on under the direction of the Woman's Board, of which fuller notice will be found on another page.

A recent visitor from the Board to Porto Rico on his return writes:

"What an impressive illustration of the beneficence of the gospel is afforded in our missionary work, thus administering through our schools and churches and hospitals to the minds and bodies and souls of those to whom the Church of Christ is seeking to carry mental, physical and spiritual help and blessing.

"Such is the work which is being carried on in this beautiful Island, over which our American flag now floats, and among a people whose condition and needs strongly appeal to our Christian philanthropy and patriotism. Under the influence of our commerce and schools and religious and philanthropic agencies the character of the people is being rapidly transformed. But if the great masses of this population are to be lifted out of the darkness into the light and prepared for the exercise of the prerogatives and privileges of American citizenship, then must the work of education and of Christian evangelization not only be maintained, but enlarged and prosecuted with new vigor and earnestness."

CUBA.

"The rate of increase in our membership the last year on the Cuban fields has been over thirty-three per cent."

So writes the Rev. J. Milton Greene, D.D., the superintendent of Presbyterian work on that island. Reference to the map will readily locate the stations of our Board. In and about Havana, Dr. Greene himself gives constant personal supervision. He is assisted by three Cuban clergymen,—the Rev. Antonio Mazzorana, the Rev. Evaristo P. Collazo, and the Rev. Pedro Rioseco.

The event of the past year in Havana was the purchase of a lot for a church building, of which fuller mention will be found on another page. The corner-stone was laid January eighth, 1906. This occasioned great rejoicing. The services were shared by representative missionary workers from all the denominations having missions in and near Havana.

The establishment of our church services, our mission school and teachers and pastor's study and home, in this new plant will tend greatly to strengthen Protestant interests. Heretofore, as in all our other Cuban stations, the services have been held in a parlor chapel which was only a room adapted in some Cuban dwelling. Thus the mission work has lacked the prestige of permanence and the suitable equipment which in all Roman Catholic countries is associated with the house of God. The uncertainty of our location, when dependent upon the caprice of some house owner, and the unreasonable expense of rentals are thus giving way to the new plan which shall conserve both the secular and sacred interests of our work.

In addition to the central church in Havana, services are held on San José street under the immediate direction of Mr. Mazzorana. Here the poorer element is found in large proportion. A preaching service is held on Sabbath and Thursday evenings. The Sabbath school suffers, as do all our schools in the city, from the multiplied diversions which attract the children as well as lack of home influence and authority to encourage and urge their attendance. Since January a day school, with one teacher under the direction of the Woman's Board, has been carried on in connection with this work. This center of gospel light has been planted in the midst of the most dense spiritual darkness and degradation. It is gratifying to note the increased tolerance and respect with which our services are regarded as compared with the loud and boisterous opposition encountered by us there at first.

Another preaching station in Havana is at Crenaga, on the southern edge of the city. Here preaching services are held every Tuesday evening. Miss Conklin, the missionary under the Woman's Board, conducts the Sabbath school. A group of some thirty persons has thus been reached and the whole neighborhood made to feel the power of the gospel.

Two miles farther west is Puentes Grandes, also an outlying point of Havana. Here the Christian Endeavor Society of our Havana church rents a building and Dr. Greene preaches regularly to the people on Friday evening. This work has recently been substituted for that of Principe in the city proper, where certain local influences rendered it impracticable for us to continue. One of the young people, after studying with Dr. Greene the Sabbath school lesson in the morning, conducts the school at this point and we are thus reaching directly or indirectly some fifty souls in a very important suburb of this great city. None of our stations are in proximity to any other mission.

Three other stations,—Regla, Jesus del Monte, and Mari-anao—are under the immediate care of Mr. Rioseco. He was transferred to the Home Board last October by the Board of Sabbath School Work, under whom he had been sent to the Island as the first missionary from our Church. The oneness of the work there seemed to make it unnecessary for the two Boards to have separate interests.

Near Havana are two stations,—Güira de Melena and Bejucal,—under the care of Mr. Collazo. His work is full of hopefulness. A church of thirty-four members was organized at Güira last November. It is a center of influence which has extended to the country settlements round about and not a few entire households have been won for Christ. The little city of Güira is among the most prosperous on the island.

West of the province of Havana and in the province of Pinar del Rio, our stations along the line of railroad are Artemisa, Candelaria, and San Cristobal. The Rev. Francisco Castro has for twelve months been in charge of the first two. This work is in its inception. Candelaria is known as one of the towns in which the activity of the local priesthood omits nothing that can hinder the Protestants.

San Cristobal has brought great encouragement to Mr. Gregorio F. Martinez, a converted Filipino, who is at present one of the licentiates of Havana Presbytery. He has given himself untiringly to this field. Some thirty candidates for church membership are in a catechumen class with every promise of an early church organization. In these western stations of our Board Sabbath schools are inspiring Bible study among the young people.

Southwest of Havana is Güines, our second station established in Cuba. The Rev. A. Waldo Stevenson is engaged every Sabbath with an English and Spanish preaching service and a Sabbath school in each language, besides services in three different wards of the town hospital and in the town jail. A mission school under the care of the Woman's Board, with three teachers, is proving an efficient aid in the upbuilding of the church.

From Güines several out-stations have developed into considerable prominence. Among these are San Nicolas, where three teachers under the Woman's Board conduct a mission school, Palos and Nueva Paz. At the latter place we have a mission school and a lay missionary,—Mr. Hubert George Smith, who has been taken under the care of the Havana Presbytery with a view to ordination. Our Board welcomed him from the Sabbath School Board last October at the time of the transfer of Mr. Rioseco.

Midway from east to west in the island of Cuba is the fertile province of Santa Clara, and not far from its southern coast is the important old town of Sancti Spiritus, where the Rev. Herbert S. Harris has successfully carried on the work far distant from the other centers which our Church has occupied. The mission school under the care of the Woman's Board, with its four teachers, is characterized by Dr. Greene as "fine in its discipline, enthusiasm, and the thoroughness of the work."

The past year has been marked by the opening of a new station twenty miles from Sancti Spiritus,—Cabaiguan. As Mr. Harris cannot attend the services in the two mission chapels in Sancti Spiritus and care also for this new station on the Sabbath, it seemed impossible without another commissioned worker to conduct the regular service in this new field. Providentially a consecrated tradesman,—Señor Luis Gómez Beltrán, spends his Sabbaths at Cabaiguan and conducts the Sabbath school and preaching service, where the attendance is often more than sixty or seventy. As a result of the services conducted by this consecrated house painter, a class of twenty catechumens have asked to be received into full membership of our church.

The foregoing has but outlined what our Church is now doing in Cuba. Opportunities are waiting on every side. Only lack of money and suitable workers hinders us from advancing with greater rapidity.

A new center has been entered by Dr. Greene during the last part of the year. It is Bahia Honda, about sixty miles west of Havana on the northern coast. He describes it as follows:

"At the entrance the water has a depth of thirty-five feet at low tide and within there is ample room and depth for twelve of our largest battleships. The territory ceded includes a mile square on either side of the entrance. The landing is five miles from the harbor mouth and the city is about a mile and a half inland from the landing. Previous to the war it had a population of over nine thousand and was noted for its wealth and prosperity. Some twenty thousand reconcentrados perished there under the Weyler reign of terror. At present there are only about fifteen hundred in the city itself, but a large territory is tributary to it and the importance of the place as a distributing center is seen in the number and extent of its mercantile establishments.

"A league to the west are three contiguous orange plantations, which contain twenty-nine hundred acres and nearly thirty thousand trees. These are in fine condition and the first planted are already bearing. There is nothing in the world equal to it in extent and promise. All these properties are held by Chicago capitalists and the practical management is in American hands.

“Adjacent to the city, both east and west, are the finest grazing and sugar lands, which are rapidly being utilized again after the devastation caused by the war. The extension to this point of the railroad from Guanajay is already an assured fact, and the Government has recently appropriated fifty thousand dollars for the construction of a macadamized road from Cabañas. Quite a number of American colonists have settled in and about the city.”

On inquiry it was learned that at Bahia Honda, as in other Cuban towns, the people were practically without religion, only a few women and no men attending mass, and the Sabbath being given up chiefly to gambling and cock fighting. The loan of a large hall from one of the principal citizens was secured; a dozen long benches and some lamps were placed in it, and gospel services were announced for Thursday, February first. Dr. Greene's recital of the welcome received is characteristic of the reception accorded us everywhere:

“I had brought the baby organ with me and also a supply of hymn-books which, by the way, were all eagerly bought by the congregation at our last service. There were twenty of them and I could have sold a dozen more. At the first service only twenty-five persons came together, all males, and the most of them looked half-frightened, but as we began to sing and I explained to them why I had come and in what our services consisted, they began to show interest and listened as for their lives. The second evening we had thirty, with a considerable gathering on the porch, at the windows, and in the street. I had invited the mayor, judge, school teacher, and several of the principal merchants, and could see that a sentiment very favorable to our cause had been produced by the services.”

On Saturday evening a service in English was held at the home of the Rev. Dr. Watt, formerly of Columbus, Ohio, and now a resident of Bahia Honda, but hindered by the barrier of a strange tongue from proclaiming the “good news” to its citizens.

On Sabbath Dr. Watt and Dr. Greene rode to one of the orange plantations where Dr. Greene spoke first in English to the few Americans who were present, and afterward in Spanish to a congregation who filled the building and who afterward earnestly expressed the desire to have the service repeated. Dr. Greene writes that of those who were present at the service not one in five of the adults could read, but that all who were parents manifested the greatest anxiety for the education of their children.

“On Sabbath evening the audience in Bahia Honda numbered one hundred, some thirty women being present, and nearly as many came out for my last service on Monday. At the close all stood up and begged me to return to them and establish regular services. I promised to repeat the visit and hope to give them for the present a series of two or three services each month. It is a point of great importance looking to the future, and the deep interest in the gospel manifested in all our gatherings leads me to believe that God’s providence clearly beckons us thither.”

Who will provide an additional salary that we may send one new worker from the states? Will not someone else guarantee the necessary monthly cost of twenty-five dollars for rental of house and incidental expenses?

After less than five years our Church in Cuba has seven organized churches, seven ministers, four licentiates, a Sabbath school membership of over seven hundred, and an attendance of not less than two thousand at our more than forty public services which are held each week.

THE CANAL ZONE.

In January we sent the Rev. J. J. Kilpin Fletcher to the Canal Zone to report on moral conditions there and the need and opportunity for mission work. After a month of very careful investigation he reported to us a mission field of pathetic urgency. He found the total white population to be about three thousand and constantly increasing; the colored population to be about fifteen thousand and also constantly increasing, about one-half of whom are English-speaking Negroes.

The only Protestant Churches on the Zone are the Protestant Episcopal, the Methodist and the Baptist. The call for missionary help is loud, and there are some peculiar difficulties to be encountered which our representative summarizes in these words:

“The sad moral condition prevailing; the entrenchment of the forces of evil; the past two years of neglect; the general spirit of indifference; the enervating climate; the fact that most of those who are on the Zone are there principally to make money; the migratory character of the population at each center, and the consequent lack of interest in local affairs, or of any community feeling; the cosmopolitan character of the population, gathered from almost every state and country; the many denominational interests involved; the conflicting ideals of Christian life and work; the need to devote a good deal of strength to promoting pure and healthy recreations for the men; the trials incidental to pioneer work in a new field; all these are indications of difficulties which will call forth all the faith and heroism of any Christian minister."

What is needed is, of course, vigorous prosecution of ordinary church work, together with a good deal of attention to the peculiar social conditions which prevail, and a strong effort to provide innocent amusement and recreation and thus wean the men from places of evil resort which abound on every hand. The Church will have to care for the whole man in a special manner, on the Canal Zone, or fail of her saving mission. Mr. Fletcher says:

"I believe this field is one which the Presbyterian Church dare not neglect. By the duty laid upon it as an aggressive army in the Master's Kingdom, by the claim presented by the uncared-for condition of many hundreds of Americans (many of whom are the sons of her churches at home), and by the indications that God has a great field for pioneer mission work for her on the Canal Zone, I believe she is called upon to advance—at once and vigorously. And I believe that God's abundant blessing will crown her labors in behalf of those who are ready to perish."

And indeed, one may look beyond the canal strip and consider that the Church that lays a good foundation there and builds well upon it, is the Church that in coming years will be a great power for righteousness and possibly a center for missionary activity throughout Central America.

The Board appeals for special funds for the securing of church property and the support of the missionary, to enable it to continue the work thus begun.

ALASKA.

Developments in this great territory call for some enlargement of our work. Mining interests are opening new claims in many directions and the output during the past year has been exceptionally large. In the Tanana district alone the output of gold about equals the price paid Russia for the entire territory. Railroads are projected from several coast points toward the interior, and while making proper discount for the enthusiasm of prospectors, the developing of resources and consequent gathering of people will doubtless continue many years.

From the migratory nature of the population the results of religious work in the form of stable and growing churches can scarcely be expected, but people on the move, especially in the hard Alaskan conditions, are people whose circumstances and temptations should make pathetic appeals to the sympathy and help of the Christian Church.

Beginning our report at the top of the map, at Point Barrow the Rev. and Mrs. S. R. Spriggs have maintained their faithful vigil at the northernmost mission station of our Church. The results have not been large, but a few have heard and received the gospel and are better fitted for the conditions under which they live. A new school building recently erected there has been put to unexpected uses by the wrecking of a supply ship whose crew could find no other shelter. Mr. Spriggs held regular services at Point Barrow and at a village ten miles north. There was quite an accession to the church membership and others are waiting for admission. They are longing for and need a medical missionary.

Council City and Teller, on the western coast, can scarcely be said to be grouped, for they are about one hundred miles apart, but one missionary has given them all the gospel they have had. The population at Teller had declined and it was thought best to station the missionary at Council City with instructions to visit Teller occasionally during the year. This strenuous work, which for three long years had devolved on the Rev. Hermann M. Hosack, he transferred last summer to the Rev. A. J. Whipkey, a graduate of San Anselmo Seminary. Like his predecessor, Mr. Whipkey finds serious problems among the white people of Council City. He says:

"There is absolutely no regard for the Sabbath Day; and with the saloon business so prominent, and the indifference of the people who were active Christians on the outside and, what is still worse, their open sin, one needs to be sustained by divine power."

He finds conditions among the natives, however, encouraging, and at times inspiring. His little church is always well filled, and sometimes chairs are needed in the aisles. The people are willing and anxious to hear the gospel. On Thanksgiving Day they held a patriotic service. The natives for miles around came, some of them twenty miles, over the snow. Many of the natives took part in this service and the interpreter said they were expressing their thanks to Almighty God for the blessings received during the past year.

At Fairbanks on the Tanana, the Rev. S. Hall Young, D.D., our veteran Alaskan missionary, has had a prosperous year in a growing city. Having previously built a church and paid for it, the people this year furnished part of the minister's salary. They hope soon to be self-supporting. Dr. Young retires from Fairbanks this spring and will for the summer supply the far-away station of Teller. We are in search of a man to be his successor on the Tanana.

The work under the care of the Rev. Howard M. Frank and his courageous wife, at no small sacrifice on their part, has been transferred from Chena to Cleary City, thirty-five miles away. A church building, erected at a cost of about fifteen hundred dollars and paid for, was dedicated the first of January, Dr. Young and Dr. Parsons, the Methodist minister from Fairbanks, assisting at the special service. The little building is reading room and schoolroom as well as sanctuary,—an “institutional church” in the Arctic regions. For Mr. Frank writes:

“The fire goes constantly. School five days in the week, reading room open from four until eleven p. m. daily, and Sunday school at half past two, and preaching at eight-thirty p. m. on Sundays.”

The opening of this new work in the new camp has been at a cost of much labor and sacrifice on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Frank, but they are rejoicing in their enlarged opportunity for reaching the miners.

Rampart on the Yukon has had no stated supply during most of the year, and we are seeking a missionary for that and the neighboring camps.

SOUTHEASTERN ALASKA.

At Skagway the Rev. Norman B. Harrison continues his useful service in the church brought rapidly to self-support by his labors four years ago.

Haines received new life with the arrival of the Rev. and Mrs. A. F. McLean, who took charge of that station in November. The industrial work has continued under the care of Mr. A. R. Mackintosh. Accessions to the church and increased attendance upon the services have been encouraging, but our missionaries deplore the degenerating effect of sin upon the natives during the fishing season when they are away from the village and privileges of the gospel. Mr. McLean says:

“When they return to their homes they are dumb with the sense of guilt and shame and feel their sin, and many of them have kept away from service. There is, however, a very perceptible improvement in the services, both as to attendance and spiritual interest. Ten or more have confessed publicly their sin and asked God to forgive them.”

He also says the Alaska Indian is of a much higher type than the Indian of the plains—is more intelligent, and has responded more freely to Christian training and civilization. His heart is good, but his will is weak—consequently he needs Christian sympathy and patience.

At Klukwan, about twenty miles up the river, Mr. Fred R. Falconer continues his work under the supervision of the missionary at Haines. Speaking of the results, Mr. Falconer says:

JUNEAU, ALASKA

"We do not measure the progress made by the universal profession of religion, even by those yet steeped in sin and old doings, but by the growth and increase in numbers of those who have separated themselves entirely from the old life and are growing in grace and in the knowledge of Jesus. These, though in the minority, are the work that will abide, the encouragement of the missionary, for which we praise God and take courage for the future."

At Juneau the Rev. James Wollaston Kirk has ministered to the white church, from which he has just resigned. We greatly need a strong, capable man for that community, which will increase in importance by reason of the decision that Juneau is to be the capital of the territory.

The native work has gone forward under the ministrations of the Rev. L. F. Jones. The particular encouragement in that field is the completion of a new church building. The attendance, however, has been smaller than in former years on account of the unusual absences of the natives and an unusual amount of sickness. Mr. Jones is also continuing to care for the Douglas Island congregation, which has increased with every service.

"Every prayer meeting witnesses not only a good attendance but a very marked activity on the part of the members. Frequently three or four get on their feet simultaneously to take part, either to pray or to give testimony for Christ. These services are from two to three hours long and yet the people never tire. In fact, on the contrary, they even complain that the services are too short. Never do we hear them complain that they are too long."

"There is one experience which we missionaries have that our ministerial brethren in the states, who preach to white congregations, scarcely or never meet; and that is after the sermon is over to have some member of the congregation get up and commence to praise or blame what has been said. Natives are very frank, freely express their thoughts and frequently take this liberty. So it is not an uncommon thing for the missionary in this part of the world to have his efforts criticised in the presence of his congregation. The chiefs especially are given to this. Those of us who have been long in the service don't mind it, but to the chechaka, or newcomer, it is somewhat embarrassing."

The station on the island of Hoonah, after being vacant for a year, has received a missionary—the Rev. M. J. Caldwell—who, though finding the church somewhat disorganized, has taken hold with courage and hope.

Sitka has had an interesting year. The hospital and the school, both under the direction of the Woman's Board, have done good service. A new superintendent has been secured for the Training School and is proving the man for the place. The Rev. W. S. Bannerman has continued his labors with the native and white churches. Governor Brady, on a social occasion, when the people had gathered in their new Cottage Hall, said that as he recalled the lives of the parents and grandparents of those before him, many of whom he also knew, and as he contemplated their present life, he had no hesitation in saying that the change brought about by the Master and His gospel in their condition physically and spiritually was as great a miracle as the turning of the water into wine.

The native church is undertaking larger financial obligations than heretofore,—paying the salary of their interpreter and having raised two hundred dollars for a steam-heating plant for the church. Their young men are doing most of the plumbing. And they have otherwise improved the property at considerable expense and labor. Mr. Bannerman writes that at a recent communion season there were twenty-five candidates for admission to full church membership—a larger number than has appeared before the session for six years. A number of the candidates were from our school; representatives from almost every native settlement in southeastern Alaska, from Kyack and Yakatat to Metlakahtla; of these eight were received into full communion and the others are kept on probation until the next communion.

Wrangell has been supplied by a Presbyterian lawyer, Mr. J. S. Clark. So acceptably have Mr. Clark and his consecrated wife cared for this very difficult field that the Presbytery of Alaska have licensed him and recommend his continuance in charge of this station.

At Klawock, the Rev. David Waggoner and his like-minded wife have had a year of strenuous work with encouraging results. Added to their other cares has been that of building a manse which will not only give comfort to the missionary and his family, but will be a center of religious influence in the community. Our work at Jackson has suffered by the return of the Rev. D. R. Montgomery to the states. Mr. Samuel G. Davis, a native and formerly the missionary's interpreter, is acceptably continuing the work. The regular church services, Sunday school, Christian Endeavor meetings, and prayer meetings on week days are all conducted by this faithful product of our Alaskan missions.

Saxman. The Rev. Edward Marsden has had a busy year not only at the central station but in the missionary tours in his steam launch "Marietta" up and down the waters of southeastern Alaska, seeking out groups of natives that waited for his coming. He has had special charge of the work at Kasaan, which he has supplied as often as circumstances allowed.

The roll-call of the stations in the Presbytery of Alaska closes with Ketchikan whither J. L. Myers, M.D., went as a medical missionary two years ago. He has recently sent us the joyous news that he will no longer draw upon the funds of the Home Board for the support of the work there, the medical mission having become self-supporting.

LITERATURE DEPARTMENT.

April first, 1906, completed the first decade of history of the consolidation of the Literature Departments of Home Missions. The literature departments of the Board of Home Missions and the Woman's Board, known then as the Woman's Executive Committee, were experimentally united ten years ago; but the concentration of all literature on home missions in one office has proven a great convenience not only to the Church abroad, but to the work at headquarters as well. The experiment has been successful from a financial standpoint, the administrative expenses having been kept down to a minimum and the receipts having steadily increased. Ten years ago the total receipts were $1,597.21; to-day we are able to report $4,798.27 as the amount received from April 1st, 1905, to April 1st, 1906, and this good sum is $576.01 in advance of last year's record.

Because the larger number of its publications are placed on sale, the major portion of this amount was remitted to the treasurer of the Woman's Board, who credited on her books $3,418.86. $1,379.41 was credited to the account of the Board of Home Missions.

A most appreciated and successful branch of work conducted by the department is the renting of stereopticon lantern slides and lectures at a nominal charge. Churches and societies use them and commend their quality in highest terms. Our slides have been exhibited about two hundred and seventy-five times during the year.

The fact that the Prayer Calendar has maintained a good circulation is proof that those who have faithfully used it appreciate the peculiar blessings that accompany systematic prayer for missions.

One of the most encouraging signs of the times is the growing desire among churches for information on the various fields and phases of home mission work. This fact is brought especially to our attention when church sessions adopt a definite and practical plan for placing within convenient access of their congregations the printed literature provided by the Boards. A systematic "clerk of session" writes that his church has adopted a practical plan for filing the leaflets, etc. "I have new patent clasp envelopes of suitable size, marked plainly on top and side and placed on a slide book rack. They stand on end and when wanted can be easily found. Our plan is to use the material for reference, and if carried away we expect most of it to be returned." He adds, "Keep me posted and supplied, and if our church is not fully informed, it will not be our fault."

During the year our department has sent to 679 churches each month 46,015 copies of leaflets treating the regular topics. These new issues have been mailed to pastors or their representatives, who promised to distribute them faithfully. Such a systematic seed-sowing of information should prove not only educational, but effectual in winning friends and gifts for the cause.

In addition, Mr. Adam Campbell, Chairman of the Committee on the Distribution of Literature, has placed with us requisitions from 2,308 churches and Sabbath schools, which called for 253,617 leaflets and 187,779 envelopes. Besides these many letters from pastors and workers were also received, requesting special aids for special meetings.

To meet the demands of these many calls our Board of Home Missions has printed 1,051,068 copies and 7,238,072 pages of leaflets, not including its annual report. 328,500 collection envelopes have also been printed. In addition to these, 79,300 copies and 1,570,400 pages have been issued jointly by both Boards. They include programs on special topics published by our Young People's Department, and other helps for use in young people's societies, the report of Young People's Department, and the Prayer Calendar. 51,827 collection envelopes, especially for use in young people's organizations, have been printed.

The special programs for use in Sunday schools on the Washington's Birthday and Thanksgiving occasions met this year with great success, both being used in larger numbers than usual.

Intelligent advancement in our work is one of the most encouraging signs of the times, and the Church which does not have some plan for systematically presenting home missionary information to its members will not keep up with the march of missionary progress. Any church not already using such a plan is invited to communicate with our literature department.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

The work of the Young People's Department has made steady progress, especially in the organization of mission study classes by means of which our young people may become more intelligent and more interested in the great cause of home missions.

The report of this department has had the approval of the Board and is herewith presented:

Although the annual reports of this Department may have a very familiar ring to those who give them a thoughtful reading, the work of each year is far from monotonous, as each brings new conditions among the young people's societies—conditions which are not always apparent to any but those who are actually at work among them. The endeavor to adjust ourselves to the new situation does not always reach our own ideals nor, because of office limitations, are we able to meet all the growing demands of the young people. Therefore it is particularly gratifying to report another very successful year for home missions.

In a large proportion of our young people's societies the interests are much scattered and many of the appeals and assessments are entirely outside of Presbyterian lines or, on the other hand, are for work which should be shouldered by the Church with the co-operation of the young people. In some synods the amounts assessed are in excess of the percentage given to missions by the average church member. For these reasons the financial report of this Department may never meet our expectations, but their ready response to our appeals, their increased zeal for the evangelization of our country, and their constant progress toward a fitness for the responsibilities which must be borne by them in the future, makes this work for our young people a delight.

No service can be more important or far-reaching. The organizations of young people are here, the opportunities are great, and the one call is for leaders. Christian Endeavor Societies are lost, Junior Societies dwindle, Mission Bands are disbanded, and the universal reason is "the lack of leaders."

A secretary expresses general conditions in her appeal for superintendents for Junior Societies and Bands in her synod when she states that "at the present time the spirituality of the Middle West does not seem equal to the sacrifices needed to even help in this work."

The object of this Department is often misunderstood even among pastors, and there is failure on the part of many to comprehend that it is our province to direct only so far as the work of one Board of our Church is concerned. The error is manifest because of the many requests for suggestions for local work—committees of all sorts, programs for entertainments, etc., etc., and because the secretary is frequently asked by both pastors and women's societies for "an address on young people's work," as if this were something entirely distinct from the rest of the work of the Board. We were organized for the purpose of providing home mission information and stimulating the interest of leaders in young people's organizations and Sunday schools, and for this purpose the Department exists to-day. It grows in importance as the problems of the Board multiply with the changing conditions in our country, and is therefore a vital part of the Board's work.

MISSION STUDY CLASSES.

Probably the most encouraging sign this year has been the marked increase and enthusiasm in home mission study, although we have been unable to secure a definite record of the number of organized classes. Great variety has characterized the plans of the leaders. "Heroes of the Cross in America" was the general text-book, but most of the classes have also used our map talks and many of the leaflets and letters on specific fields. The two topics which have especially stirred the students are Mormonism and Immigration, and the query "What can we do?" has come to us repeatedly as the chapters introducing these problems have been studied. After repeated appeals, a number of presbyterial young people's secretaries have taken a keen interest in urging home mission study in their societies, and the efforts have paid. Several have sent so-called "confessions" when expressing the personal help gained from this study. Here is a sample note: "I never stopped to think of mission study being connected in any way with home missions, for when people talked of mission study it always meant foreign missions to me. . . . The course has been decidedly worth while, for it has awakened in all of us a desire to know and do our share in the Master's work." Most gratifying returns have been received from study class leaders, and many letters of appreciation for the aid we have been privileged to give. To be sure there have been discouraged ones. Some who were willing to teach found difficulty in securing classes, and some of the schemes for "sugar coating the pill," with the enthusiastic results, have been amusing. It has been necessary to resort to the terms "Reading Circle," "Reading Contest," etc., but the end has justified the means. Who would not be discouraged, after preparing a series of studies and printing them at his own expense, to have only six out of eighty-three societies adopt them? On the other hand, a presbyterial secretary planned, and mimeographed, an outline for a six weeks' study on one specific field, and but one or two societies in the presbytery failed to use it.

Where a regular text book has not been used, the short outline studies and the monthly topics recommended by the Board have been more carefully studied. It is expected that the conferences held under the auspices of the Young People's Missionary Movement in various parts of the country will develop a large number of leaders for our study classes. This year we hope to furnish a good text book on Immigration for older societies, and the second of the Junior text books—by Miss Crowell—will also treat of this important topic.

OTHER PRINTED HELPS.

Specific objects for the prayers and gifts of the young people are assigned (if desired) and contributors are kept in touch with their special field through missionary letters, programs, leaflets, and special pages allowed each month for this purpose in the Assembly Herald and Home Mission Monthly. Many pages could be covered with the letters of appreciation for these printed helps, and it is not out of place in this report to quote from one: "We hardly know how we should get along without the aids from headquarters, and feel that you are doing much good by providing them. The society wishes to thank you for these supplies."

The use of these printed pages and the cyclostyled letters from missionaries has not been confined to the young people, but women's societies and pastors have found them useful with the monthly topics.

Our mailing list contains thousands of addresses to whom letters and programs are sent. The letters are mailed three times a year to all contributors—so far as proper addresses are furnished—and programs are provided those who request them, according to the home mission topic assigned by the United Society of Christian Endeavor. In this connection we would thank our denominational papers for their repeated references to these and the special Sunday school programs.

SPECIAL OBJECTS.

However intense may be our belief that Christians should give without the incentive of a "special object" and that the young people should be taught to send their offerings for the general fund, the fact remains that young people (and older people!) give more, and with keener zest, when they assume the responsibility for a salary, a scholarship, or a specific part in a mission church or school. As the Christian Endeavor funds are divided equally between the evangelistic and mission school work ($15,127.73 for each), an effort is made to apportion the "special objects" impartially. Scholarships or scholarship shares to the number of about five hundred are assigned to Bands, Young People's Societies and Sunday schools, and the salaries of twenty-five missionary pastors and teachers have been assumed in this Department. Because of resignations and transfers we have been obliged to make numerous adjustments in the "specials" assigned at the beginning of the year. The Reverends Perea, Craig, Gallaudet, and Baskervill, Doctors Colbert, True and Harris, Miss Ericson, Miss Stone, and Mr. I. N. Smith, are among the number. While in some instances the successor has been recommended, in others it has been necessary to assign an entirely different field. In every case the young people have responded loyally, thus helping to carry a heavy burden of the office.

INTERMEDIATES AND JUNIORS.

Although we regret the loss of Bands and Juniors, a promising sign of the year is the record of new organizations of children and their desire to share in this work. The number is not large, but if these boys and girls can be won for home missions—especially those of the Intermediate Societies where the age of membership is from twelve to sixteen years, we may be sure that as they graduate into the older societies we shall have loyal supporters of world-wide missions. Until the present time the number of Intermediate Societies has not justified our assigning them a special object, but one will be granted this year.

The little people of the Junior Societies have shown a personal interest in their "Endeavor Building" (at the San Juan Hospital) and the slightest hint in the Junior letter of a need for supplies brings prompt response.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SECRETARIES.

We make grateful acknowledgment of the loyal service of our noble band of young people's secretaries. Most of these officers are home-makers, teachers, or office workers, and theirs is purely a labor of love. Some resigned because unable to bear the expense of the office—which expense, by the way, they are not expected to pay. Others have asked a two-cent postage stamp from each member of the older societies and a one-cent stamp from the Juniors. This has been freely given, and covers all the necessary expenses of the secretary. No heavier tax should be levied on the societies. The women's societies, accepting the responsibility for the young people's work, thereby pledged themselves to meet, from the contingent fund, the necessary expense of the secretary—one of their officers.

It is a cause for regret that some are carelessly elected to this most important office, for the results are disastrous to the work. Many are gifted along some special line, and realize the opportunity for the development of individual talent. The general outline of service is the same in the various synods, but the results depend largely on the methods of the individual.

Therefore, we again plead for a prayerful selection of the young people's secretary in synodical and presbyterial societies.

The personal visits of the field secretaries of the Woman's Board have been of valuable assistance in the young people's work.

MEMBERSHIP.

In many reports from presbyterial secretaries, and in the majority of reports presented by synods' chairmen of young people's work, complaint is made of the failure to secure replies to the requests for statistics. For illustration, the report from New Jersey states that "letters were sent to all pastors, enclosing a card for reply, and only about one-half replied." In November, 1905, letters were sent to the two hundred and twenty-five young people's secretaries asking definite questions regarding the number, names and membership of their young people's organizations. About ninety replies were received and these reported over fifteen hundred Christian Endeavor Societies, five hundred Juniors, three hundred Bands, several hundred Young People's Societies, many Westminster Leagues, Young People's Associations, Young People's Unions, Young People's Leagues, Young People's Guilds, Young People's Missionary Associations, Young People's Missionary Societies, etc., etc., with a membership in these ninety presbyteries of over fifty thousand. General Assembly's report gives one hundred twenty-seven thousand members in one hundred sixty-one presbyteries.

An army to be thankful for, and we covet the active service of every volunteer for the evangelization of this "land we love the most."

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The best "point of contact" in the Sunday schools seems not yet discovered, but we believe this to be the most important department of any church, and that the time is near when missions will be given a more prominent place. The second series of the Rev. George Trull's books of supplemental lessons has been published during the winter, but aside from announcing these studies to superintendents, we have made little effort to encroach on the Sunday school hour except for the two special occasions recommended by the General Assembly. The Woman's Board assigned the San Juan Hospital as a special object for "the Sabbath preceding Thanksgiving" and the number of programs ordered reached high-water mark—111,000. The offering was correspondingly large.

The Board's appeal for "the Sabbath nearest Washington's Birthday" was for the general evangelistic work and the program prepared by the Rev. Elliott Field was popular. Over 85,000 copies were furnished.

A number of Sunday school secretaries were elected during the past year, and while we have not advised these appointments, some of the reports show the large field of opportunity for one who may be definitely "called" to his work. For instance, the Sunday school secretary of Los Angeles Presbytery reports an advance in gifts of 45 per cent., and that twenty of the twenty-four Sunday schools sent delegates, with their reports, to the spring presbyterial meeting. She presented the plea to superintendents for both special offerings, provided occasional letters, leaflets, and "talks," and has made herself felt throughout the Sunday schools of her presbytery, as the returns show.

Total offerings from Sunday schools are as follows:

Home Board.....	$18,998.54
Woman's Board .....	26,642.80

A total gain of $5,101.60.

In the adjustment of our work for the coming year, it has been decided to divide the Sunday school money equally between the mission school and evangelistic work—this division being made from undesignated funds.

MISSION BANDS.

Having found our first inspiration for active service in the Mission Band, many of us look upon it as the most important young people's organization in the church, owing to the fact that missions are given an undivided interest. The objects assigned to Bands represent only mission school work, as they are auxiliary to the women's societies. For several years the Training School at Sitka, Alaska, has been the general object to which small contributions are applied, but most of the Bands assume scholarships or unite with their local woman's society in the salary of a teacher.

Home Mission Bands, or those which divide equally their home and foreign offerings, are on the increase, but need more of the fostering care which the women's societies can give.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

It is surprising to learn of the number who send their gifts direct to the field (often by advice of their pastors) and then complain because no credit is given in the Board's report, not realizing that they may be duplicating amounts already provided for by the Board.

It must be remembered that no order has been issued by this Department instructing the young people to send their funds through one particular channel, but although it lessens the office labor and expense to forward money through the presbyterial treasurer, whether contributions shall be sent through the treasurer of the session, the presbyterial treasurer, or direct to the treasurer of the Assembly's Board or the Woman's Board is not the all-important question. Denominational loyalty must be appealed to, and the needs of the field and responsibilities of the Board of Home Missions and the Woman's Board presented so forcibly that all will realize the importance of sending their contributions through the regularly organized and authorized channels, especially if they would be credited in the financial statements of the year.

The year's contributions from young people's organizations are as follows:

C. E. and Junior C. E.....	$30,255.46
Bands, Y. P. S. and other Y. P.....	26,060.89

This shows a gain of $1,872.66 from these organizations. The grand total of receipts for home missions for the young people of our Church is $101,957.69, an advance of $6,994.26 over last year.

The fact that nearly one-half the amount from Christian Endeavor Societies (over $12,000) was received during the last month of the fiscal year, shows us, as young people's secretaries, there is still a work for us to do.

Since the plan of dividing equally the Christian Endeavor funds between evangelistic and mission school work went into operation many changes have taken place in the young people's organizations, and it has therefore been decided to follow this same plan with contributions from all young people's organizations exclusive of Bands, and Young Women's Societies which are auxiliary to the Woman's Board.

It is no easy task to put into small space the many details of this Department, and the careful reader will observe that much is left unsaid. Changes among our people's societies are inevitable, the appeals to them are almost countless, and we wonder that, under the circumstances, the annual statement does not record a large decrease in offerings. Some one has said that in a large percentage of young people's societies there are from one to twelve who only believe theoretically in missions, and therefore drown the missionary spirit in others. Is the percentage in the churches any smaller? Our young people are the vast opportunity and obligation of the Church, and the evidence is given in this record that more might be accomplished. If we are to meet the demands of the times this Department must be enlarged and enforced. We look forward to this expansion in the near future and feel that we have a right to expect the hearty co-operation, Christian encouragement and earnest prayers of parents, women's societies, pastors and sessions.

M. JOSEPHINE PETRIE,
Young People's Secretary.

WOMAN'S BOARD.

The Women's Board is to be congratulated on the most successful year of its history. By reason of its splendid organization it has passed the half million mark in its contributions and its work in every part of its great field is steadily developing. The annual report has been received and approved by the Board, and is herewith presented as follows:

Grateful to God for His guidance and blessing during the past year and for the loyal support of the women of the Presbyterian Church, the Woman's Board submits its twenty-seventh annual report:

Advance has been the watchword of 1905 and 1906. The momentum of twenty-six years of continuous service has been felt in the strengthening of the organizations which center in the Woman's Board.

The total receipts for all purposes are $505,830.97, an increase over last year of $31,697.18, $11,000.00 of which is an annuity gift, and not available for current work. Of the total amount $70,910.93 has been transmitted to the Board for Freedmen.

The active co-operation of synodical officers and through them of presbyterial and auxiliary societies in the plans for advance adopted at the last Annual Meeting have made possible this splendid increase in gifts.

The Advisory Committee, which is the working committee of the Woman's Board, under the broad-minded leadership of Mrs. Darwin R. James, has given attention to every detail of administration, carefully conserving every interest of the evangelistic school work.

The committees on the various fields keep in close touch with the missionary teachers in their respective fields, and in many practical ways administer cheer and comfort.

At the last Annual Meeting the appointment of Field Secretaries was authorized and Mrs. Flora D. Palmer was appointed Field Secretary for the Northwest, and Miss Julia Fraser for the Pacific Coast. Mrs. Palmer has been in the synods of North and South Dakota, Montana, Iowa and Minnesota, and by invitation in Kansas. Miss Fraser in California, Oregon, Washington, and by invitation in Utah, Colorado and Idaho. They have organized new societies, stimulated weak ones, and given the kind of information necessary to intelligent giving. No personal discomfort has seemed too great, if only the work might be presented. Miss Lydia A. Hays, Miss Edith Hughes and Mr. H. P. Freece have also been in the field; and Rev. D. E. Finks has made many friends for the cause through his very attractive stereopticon lectures. The results of their work are shown everywhere in increased receipts.

For years there has been a heavy drain on the treasury of the Woman's Board, necessitated by the repairs on buildings already erected, and because of the erection of new buildings. Believing that all the women of the Church would be glad to share in this part of the work, for the property of the Woman's Board must be cared for, a definite amount for the Building and Repair Fund was apportioned to each synodical society. Many societies did not receive this recommendation until fall, but the results have been good and this will now become a feature of the regular work of the Woman's Board. As a result of this appeal $14,500 has been received this year.

The school work entrusted to the women of the Church is always administered as an evangelistic agency and one hundred five church organizations have been organized as the direct result of this work; many of these churches must of necessity remain for a long time under the care of the Board of Home Missions, so this very prosperity means increased obligations for the Board of Home Missions. Because of this and because of the many loud calls that the Woman's Board undertake work among foreign-speaking people, a further recommendation was made that each member be asked to make a contribution equal to fifteen per cent. of her pledged work, the money to be applied to such evangelistic work of the Assembly's Board as the Woman's Board shall have assumed, and for work among foreign-speaking people. Considering the short time these two methods have been before the women of the Church, the response has been generous.

An Emergency Fund to be used for teachers who may have become disabled in the service has also been created. Each society was asked to contribute one dollar, the whole amount of which is to become the nucleus of a fund which might be added to by personal gifts and donations, to be drawn upon for relief in time of emergencies. The total amount received to date is $779.80.

DAY OF PRAYER.

The Interdenominational Day of Prayer for Home Missions was observed quite generally by our societies February twenty-second, in some places by a union meeting of all denominations and in others the women of our own societies met for prayer.

These days of prayer are profitable; they bring a spiritual blessing and unify the work for the evangelization of our own land.

ORGANIZATION.

Called into existence by action of the General Assembly, the Woman's Board, with its twenty-nine synodical societies, two hundred three presbyterials, and its women's societies, young women's societies and bands, is gathering funds for the work specially committed to it, viz.: the support of mission schools among the exceptional peoples; mission work among the people of foreign tongues in the great cities, the mining districts of Pennsylvania and the great West; commissioning women other than teachers to do missionary work in connection with the homes of the mountain people of the South, and wherever similar work is demanded; maintaining the preaching of the gospel by missionaries laboring in the school districts. Loyal to the Church, the women have faithfully built up and maintained their organization, and made possible the extension of work upon the field.

THE FIELD.

In Alaska we have few changes to report. Mr. and Mrs. Spriggs are our representatives at Point Barrow. Their presence in that lonely spot has not only meant spiritual life to the natives, but when the government supply ship, the Laura Madsen, was crushed in the ice last fall, the mission became the home of the shipwrecked crew of seventeen all through the long, cold winter. Mr. and Mrs. Spriggs moved into the school house and gave up their home to the captain and his wife and crew. Supplies were short, as the boat had only been provisioned until December first, but, by living economically, they sent word they would not suffer.

The Industrial and Training school at Sitka continues a vital force in helping to lead some of the children of the various tribes out of heathenism into the best type of Christian civilization.

In the Indian field we continue our work of Christian education. Our mission stations are twenty-four in number, and in the years since the Woman's Board began they have had schools among the Indians of the Assiniboine, Sioux, Makeh, Nez Perce, Creek, Cherokee, Chickasaw, Seminole, Kiowa, Delaware, Apache, Commanche, Navajo, Ute, Pima, Papago, Hoopa, Mona, Blackfoot, Shoshone, Bannock, Shivwit, Winnebago, Sac and Fox tribes. The changing conditions in Indian Territory render our school work a necessity yet, but the school work has been a large factor in helping to make the Indians fit for citizenship. The following is part of an appeal for a day of fasting and prayer, March fourth, when the tribal relations of the five civilized tribes were to pass out of existence, and shows how Christianity has helped to fit the Indian for his new responsibilities:

“Let us pray that God will be with us and guide and bless us in the great and untried relations of life that lie before us. As we look forward to the responsibilities that will come upon us as individual citizens of the United States, our hearts tremble with fear and dread and we exclaim ‘we are not sufficient for this tremendous charge.’ Well may we pray and ask our Heavenly Father to protect, strengthen and guide us in these new duties. We should pray that God will help us to hold fast to each other, to be true to each other and to encourage and strengthen each other. The strong should help the weak.

“We should pray that God may incline the hearts of the white people to deal kindly and justly with us in our new duties. We should pray that we may be preserved from designing men who would rob us of our inheritance. We shall need to be enlightened in the new laws of the land, new to us, by which we are to be governed and which we must obey. These laws will seem strange and hard to many of our people. If we can be taught and encouraged and dealt with kindly and honestly and fairly we will try to obey all the laws as well as we can. Let us pray to God to guide and bless us in all this new life and thus there may be a resurrection from death unto life. O that it may be a higher and better life for time and eternity!

“A day of universal fasting and sincere prayer by all our Indian people will do us good.”

In the Mexican work there are few changes to report. The heavy rains of last fall resulted in plenty of water, but discovered many leaky roofs in teachers' homes and school buildings. This has necessitated much repairing, and the money is in hand for the erection of a teachers' home at Chimayo, New Mexico, and for a combination teachers' home and chapel school house at Las Truchas. The anniversary fund has now reached a total of $50,949.08, and plans are under way for the erection of the Mary E. James' School for Mexican boys at Santa Fé. This building, when erected, will be furnished as a memorial of, and as a testimonial to, certain synodical officers, for which their societies have contributed $100 each.

In the Mormon field we continue our presentation of the pure gospel as after all the only agency that can disintegrate the foundations of that gigantic institution which poses as a religion.

New Jersey Synodical Society has redeemed its pledge of $6,000 for a new dormitory at Logan. This dormitory will be erected the coming year.

The little day schools have increased in attendance, and while in at least one instance our teacher was subjected to great indignity at the hands of the Mormons, on the whole there have been fewer discouragements than usual this year, and many encouragements. It is not a question of closing schools but rather of opening new ones.

The following urgent plea has met with a favorable response: "The town (or 'Ward' in Mormon phraseology) of Ferron is a prosperous community of some nine hundred people, among whom have been discovered and gathered together a small nucleus of about a dozen families of the best people, in open and hearty sympathy with the movement to establish a Presbyterian church and mission school.

"Following a series of tent evangelistic meetings last summer, a petition signed by more than fifty persons was forwarded to presbytery asking for such organization.

"A Sabbath school, with fine prospects, has been organized, and the people are anxious to go ahead and build. A subscription list is now being circulated and meeting with great success. The proposition is to erect a building that will serve both church and mission school purposes, but we do not need to wait for this building in order to have the school. A fine room with ample accommodations is offered free of charge for our use, and can be entered any time. And the people are most anxious for the school. A large number of the families here came from Manti, where the parents learned the value of our schools, and they desire the same kind of school for their children."

The missionary realizes that the mission school is indispensable to the best kind of success. He says he could hardly hope to keep a Sunday school going anywhere in the rural parts of Utah in his absence without the beneficent presence of a mission teacher.

Our work among the Mountaineers is full of possibilities. The seven boarding schools, the Normal and Collegiate, the Home Industrial, the Farm School at Asheville; the Dorland Institute and The Willows at Hot Springs, N. C.; the Laura Sunderland at Concord, N. C.; the Girls' Home at Harlan, Ky., and the Priscilla Home School at Lawson, W. Va., are practical examples of the fact that Christian home training may be grafted into the boarding department of a school, combining the training of the head, the hand and the heart in such a way that all the pupils who complete the full course may become professing Christians.

We welcome a new superintendent at the Farm School, Dr. J. P. Roger, who comes to us well equipped and filled with the missionary spirit.

Brown Memorial Church, Baltimore, Md., has assumed the support of Brown Memorial School at Mt. Vernon, Ky. They have this year erected a girls' dormitory and an industrial building, and greatly increased the facilities of the school.

Lafayette Avenue Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., has assumed the support of Witherspoon College at Buckhorn, Ky., so that by the aid of these two churches two new boarding schools are listed in the mountain field.

The day schools continue their useful work, and a new one has been opened at Rocky Fork, Tenn., which is supported by the women of Holston Presbytery. The people at Rocky Fork have erected a new school building, contributing time, labor and part of the money.

A new station for a Bible reader has been opened at Brooksville, W. Va. An additional Bible reader has been commissioned for Brush Creek, W. Va.

A new school building has been erected at Ozone, Tenn., costing $1,600, of which the people themselves contributed about half.

The school at Paint Rock has been closed, and the teachers transferred elsewhere.

We are sorry to report the burning of the teachers' home at Grassy Cove, Tenn., on March twentieth. While the building was partially covered by insurance, the teachers lost everything, and a good library, which had been gathered for the use of the pupils, was totally destroyed.

Among foreign-speaking people we report some advance. To assimilate the masses of foreigners who are coming to our shores, they must be evangelized as well as Americanized. The children soon learn English in the public schools, but many of the parents learn no English at all, and whatever of preaching they have must be in their own language. Even then the Bible reader by her visiting in the homes, getting acquainted with the people, and disarming prejudice, is essential to the building up of the church. Work was begun last fall at Siegfried and Cementon, Penna.

The Italian work in Philadelphia continues to prosper, as does the Bohemian work in Baltimore and the Emily Yale Schools in Chicago.

A step in advance this year has been taken by placing a missionary at Ellis Island. She will meet those vessels on which Bohemian, Slovak and Polish immigrants arrive, and while there are twenty-seven other missionaries there, she is the only one speaking Slovak and Bohemian, and the first representative of the Presbyterian Church.

In Cuba and Porto Rico the missionary teacher continues to supplement the work of the missionary. There are five stations in Cuba, the largest being at Sancti Spiritus, and nine in Porto Rico, the largest being at Mayagüez.

Land has been purchased for the erection of new buildings at Mayagüez for the Colegio Americano. It is proposed to enlarge this school by the addition of a training department. The difficulties incident to learning the language and the difference in climate make it difficult to secure American teachers, so that this enlargement is necessary, and it is expected that the natives educated at Mayagüez will receive such training in methods and Bible instruction that they will be able to teach in our schools under the direction of American teachers, or accept positions in the public schools, even though religious instruction is prohibited in the public schools.

Two new buildings have been erected at the hospital at San Juan, a nurses' home and kitchen. These add greatly to the equipment of the hospital, making five buildings in all.

One of the native missionaries in Cuba writes:—"It only remains for me to remind our Board that the organization of a day school in connection with all our congregations is a necessity for the stability and progress of our work. The experience of the churches which have schools confirms this opinion."

In addition to the regular work there are supported in whole or in part among the Freedmen, by means of funds contributed by women's societies but administered through the Board for Freedmen, fourteen boarding schools, with sixty-eight teachers; four academies, with fifteen teachers, and forty-eight parochial school teachers.

THE OFFICE.

We are called upon to note several changes in the personnel of the office force. Dr. George F. McAfee, who served efficiently as superintendent of school work for ten years, tendered his resignation in September on account of ill health.

All regretted his going, for by his gentlemanly bearing, his uniform courtesy and his Christian character he had greatly endeared himself to the workers on the field and in the office. We follow Dr. and Mrs. McAfee with our prayers and good wishes.

To meet the need caused by the retirement of Dr. McAfee, Mrs. John F. Pingry was elected school secretary.

The Rev. R. M. Craig entered upon his duties as assistant superintendent of schools in June, and since September he has been on the field or in the office, wherever needed, and we are glad to report his election to the office of superintendent of school work of the Woman's Board. He enters upon his duties after years of experience as a home missionary, and as synodical missionary for New Mexico he was in close touch with the school work. We predict for his administration a conscientiousness in the performance of his duties, enthusiasm that will win others for the cause, and faithfulness to his trust.

IN MEMORIAM.

Five vice-presidents have been called from service to reward during the year,—Mrs. A. E. W. Robertson, one of the vice-presidents at large, and for so many years a missionary among the Creek Indians; Mrs. C. B. Farwell of Illinois; Mrs. M. B. Cleland of Kansas; Mrs. Samuel Minor of California, and Mrs. E. N. Crosby of New York. We also record with sorrow the death of Miss Mary E. Holmes, known throughout the Church as a representative of the work for Freedmen. Her interest was not confined to that work, for she had been for many years a presbyterial president. All of these women have been identified with the work for Home Missions from the beginning and their home going emphasizes the need for recruits from the younger women who, with the same consecration and zeal, will continue the work.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

The department has been carried on during the past year with the same spirit of advance that has marked other departments, the money received from the C. E. Societies being equally divided between the Board and the Woman's Board, each receiving $15,127.73.

The following action has been adopted, which will be in force the ensuing year:—

“The Young People's Department shall be a joint department responsible for missionary extension in mission bands, young people's societies and Sunday schools.

“All receipts from young people's societies and Sunday schools shall be equally divided between the treasuries of the Assembly's Board and the Woman's Board. Money received from mission bands and young women's societies auxiliary to the Woman's Board will, as heretofore, be turned exclusively into the Woman's Board treasury.”

The details of the plan will be presented later, but the conduct of the work, the presentation of special objects, the sending out of circular letters will be continued as heretofore.

The special object for the Sunday school offering at the Thanksgiving time was for the hospital at San Juan, Porto Rico, and proved very popular.

BOXES.

The Woman's Board has continued through the Box Department to supplement the salaries of Home Missionaries by the gift of boxes of household supplies and clothing. Four hundred twenty-seven boxes have been sent to missionaries this year by women's societies, these being in every case in addition to the salary paid the missionary.

Supplies for our boarding schools have also been furnished by societies, of which the following is the report:—113 boxes of clothing pledged for boarding schools; 121 boxes of clothing pledged for day schools; ten carpets provided, and 162 boxes of Christmas gifts.

LITERATURE.

Our Woman's Board has printed 453,090 leaflets, 3,641,980 pages, 38,401 mite boxes, 56,962 souvenir postal cards, and 460,714 collection envelopes. In addition to these, 79,300 copies and 1,570,400 pages have been issued jointly by the Assembly's Board and the Woman's Board. These include programs on special topics, published by our Young People's Department, and the Prayer Calendar. 51,827 collection envelopes especially for use in young people's organizations have also been printed.

The program for use in Sunday schools on the Sunday before Thanksgiving met this year with great success, 110,000 copies being used.

During the past few years special emphasis has been given to the preparation of helpful studies and other aids for Sunday schools, Junior societies and bands, that the children of our church may be taught by the use of interesting literature the needs and importance of work for Home Missions. A number of such helps have been added to the catalogue of our Department during this year.

Forty new issues, besides a number of reprints, have been added to the list of helps in our Literature Department during the year.

The Prayer Calendar was issued jointly with the Board of Home Missions, and is invaluable in keeping the individual members of the societies in close touch with the workers on the field.

In this connection we make mention of the untiring efforts of the Publication Committee, Mrs. C. B. Walker, chairman. Ever watchful of the needs of societies, their clear judgment as to the merits of manuscripts has contributed much toward lifting our literature to its present high standard.

OUR MAGAZINES.

The Home Mission Monthly celebrates this year its twentieth anniversary. In honor of this event, the women of the Church were asked to bring in one thousand subscriptions as a birthday present. Here the advance has been greater than was hoped, the total increase for the year being 2,600. The record of the Home Mission Monthly, under the able management of Mrs. Finks, its only editor, has been that of a steady advance from year to year. The magazine is not only self-supporting but, after paying all expenses, has been able, from its surplus, to pass over $2,500 this year to the Woman's Board. This is sufficient to support five day school teachers in Porto Rico and Cuba.

Over Sea and Land, the magazine for children, which is published jointly by the Woman's Home and Foreign Boards, has added four thousand names to its subscription list this past year. The plans for the coming year look forward to advancement, and especially to adapting it for use in Sunday schools.

SUMMARY.

True to the watchword of the year, all organizations show an advance, notably the women's societies and the Sabbath schools. The Young People's societies and Christian Endeavorers and Juniors also gained, so that the receipts of the year are the largest in the history of the Woman's Board.

The large increase in congregational offerings is accounted for by the gift of $4,600 by the Brown Memorial Church, Baltimore, for new buildings at Mt. Vernon, Ky.

The receipts from the field for tuition and board are nearly six thousand dollars in excess of last year, showing that the people have caught the spirit of the advance movement.

All the expenses in connection with the educational work undertaken by the Woman's Board have been met, and there has been turned into the treasury of the Board of Home Missions $5,083.40 for the work of evangelization. We regret that it was not more, but the interest in the various building funds, for which our societies gave largely, affected the other receipts somewhat.

The record of the year is here presented, but the results can not be measured by the dollars and cents contributed. As the women of the Church have brought their gifts to be used for the work committed to them by the General Assembly they have been accompanied by the prayer that God would bless these gifts to the salvation of souls; that wherever the mission teacher, the Bible reader, the medical missionary or the evangelist might be, there the truths of the Bible might be presented and Christ exalted before the people.

This, then, is the offering of the women of the Church for the evangelization of America. May it accomplish that whereunto it was sent.

Respectfully submitted,

ELLA ALEXANDER BOOLE,
Secretary.

CONCLUSION.

A study of the foregoing report will not fail to impress upon the careful reader the complexity and gravity of the home mission problem. No longer merely a question of occupying new territory, home missions has now become the endeavor to reform the older communities as well as to reach the new.

City evangelization claims more attention than it has ever received, if the cities are to be saved from the many perils that threaten them. The lapsed communities in the older states must be cared for if the experience of Southern mountains shall not be repeated in other parts of the Union. The tide of the labor classes away from the Church must be turned and they must be made to recognize the friendship and willing helpfulness of the Church of Christ. The immigrants, coming in upon us in such abnormal numbers, can be made good American citizens only by instilling in their minds the principles of truth and righteousness which come from Christian schools and Christian institutions.

In addition to these newer phases of the work the infilling process in the Western states is going on more rapidly than ever and, by the opening of reservations, by the plans of irrigation on the part of private companies and of the Government, new and prosperous communities are making the desert to rejoice and blossom as the rose. The waiting islands beckon for the gospel not only for themselves but that they may be signal lights along the coasts of new national development. For this immense work we ask the Church for one million dollars of money; and we plead for the goodliest of our consecrated young men and women who will find in evangelistic and educational labors for the evangelization of our country an opportunity fruitful in itself and strategic for the salvation of the world.

After twelve and a half years of service, the Rev. George F. McAfee, D.D., superintendent of schools, felt constrained to offer his resignation on account of impaired health. For that reason, also, the Board was constrained to accept it. By his devotion, his diligence, and his energy he has been a great helper in the development of the school work of this Board. He parted from us with the comforting reflection in his mind and in ours that not one moment in the many years of our fellowship has been marred by a single note of discord. He has been true and faithful and carries with him the respect and affection of the Board. The Rev. Robert M. Craig, formerly synodical missionary for New Mexico and later assistant superintendent of schools, has been elected superintendent of schools and entered upon his work.

With regret the Board has accepted the resignation of the Rev. L. Mason Clarke, D.D. To fill the vacancy thus made in its membership it has elected the Rev. Joseph Dunn Burrell.

The terms of service of the following members of the Board expire with this General Assembly:

Ministers

Rev. D. Stuart Dodge, D.D.
Rev. Wilson Phraner, D.D.
Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin
Rev. Lyman Whitney Allen, D.D.

Laymen

SYNODICAL SELF-SUPPORT AND SUSTENTATION, 1905-'06 (Summary).

SYNOD OF NEW YORK.

The eighth year of synodical missions in the State of New York has been the most successful of all the years since the plan was inaugurated. A large number have been added to the churches on profession of faith, every financial obligation has been promptly met and the balance in the treasury exceeds that of previous years.

There is a steady decrease in the number of aided churches. During the year, eleven hundred and sixty members have been added to our dependent churches; three churches have reached self-support; six churches have been organized; one new church has been built, and twenty-seven repaired. Eight churches report revivals of religion. In almost every community there are a few good praying people left, a little good leaven in the lump and how to give them the gospel is a great question. Sometimes this may be done by an itinerating system, bringing several such fields under the care of one loving pastor. To-day the isolation of the farm is a thing of the past. The telephone, rural delivery and traveling facilities have brought city and country close together. Men bring their children miles to enjoy the ordinances of the church. From every quarter comes the Macedonian cry, "Come over and help us." May the Lord raise up many who will deny themselves for Christ's sake, who will go anywhere at their Master's call. For such there is constant demand. All honor to the humble house to house pastor who does not seek honor from men, but does his day's work with fidelity and sincerity. He shall not lose his reward, he shall be honored of men, but shall be doubly honored of our Heavenly Father when he cometh to make up his jewels.

When we think of the many villages and settlements without the gospel, and the many ignorant, unchristianized foreigners hurrying to our shores each year, we anxiously inquire, "Who is sufficient for these things?" But when we recall the past achievements of the Master and His Church we triumphantly exclaim, "What hath the Lord wrought?" So we go hopefully, prayerfully on, feeling that "The Lord of Hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge."

SYNOD OF NEW JERSEY.

During the nineteenth year of synodical home missions in New Jersey, which ended September 30, 1905, more money was raised and expended for this purpose than ever before. The receipts subject to the synod's committee were $19,223.49. These added to the balance from the preceding year ($1,396.65) and to sums held and received for specified objects ($398.05) yielded a total fund of $21,018.19. At the beginning of each year the amount which will probably be required for current work is estimated by the synod's committee; and, upon approval by synod, definite proportions of this amount are asked from each of the eight New Jersey presbyteries. Six presbyteries met in full or exceeded the sum asked; the deficiency in one of the others was small.

The total expenditures were $19,800.49. Of this amount $19,500.49 was from funds subject to synod and exceeded the current receipts for this purpose by $277.00, decreasing the balance by that amount. The expenditures of the last two years have exceeded those of any previous year by $1,500.00 and $1,800.00 respectively. This increase has been occasioned almost entirely by the development of mission work among foreigners, to which reference is made below.

In all, preaching was maintained at one hundred and ten points by ninety-three ministers. In these churches and missions there are about six thousand church members, and over nine thousand connected with the Sunday schools. Comparing the amount raised and the number reached, it is safe to say that every dollar given helped to provide the ministrations of the gospel throughout the year for at least one soul. Over five hundred persons united with the church upon profession of faith, and more than two hundred by letter.

Three churches attained self-support, and the amount of aid heretofore granted was reduced in fourteen other cases. This shows that a spirit of independence is fostered in the churches, and that financial strength is increasing in many aided fields.

A growth of population exceptional even in America, makes New Jersey to-day one of the most important mission fields of the country. Between the United States census of 1900 and the State census of 1905 the net increase in population of this comparatively little State was more than a quarter of a million. Thus in sixty months a new population almost equal to that of Newark (the largest city in the State) settled in New Jersey. Averaging each congregation at five hundred, it would take five hundred new churches and five hundred additional ministers just to provide for this increased population.

The newcomers are largely recent immigrants who do not speak English and know little of vital Christianity. They are principally Italians, Poles, Slovaks, Magyars, Germans and Hebrews from various countries, with Scandinavians, Ruthenians, etc., in smaller numbers.

Combining self-supporting churches (among the Germans) and missions maintained by local churches, with those directly aided from the synod's fund, there are at least forty Presbyterian churches and missions in New Jersey in which some other tongue than English is used. Of these more than twenty are German, ten Italian, five Magyar or Hungarian, and two each Armenian and Syrian.

The present efforts of the committee are directed to the establishment and development of new churches in growing towns and cities; to bringing up pastors' salaries throughout the state to at least $800 and a manse; to the extension of the work among people of foreign speech; and, to these ends, to develop still more the interest and loyalty of the churches in their corporate capacity and of individuals able to make generous personal gifts. It is believed that the conditions and results alike warrant increased activity and liberality in the work of synodical missions in New Jersey.

SAMUEL McLANAHAN,

SYNOD OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The Synod of Pennsylvania closed its eighteenth year of synodical home missions on September 30, 1905. By the organization of the Synod of West Virginia in 1904, the Synod of Pennsylvania was relieved of the responsibility for the care of home missions in that rapidly growing state. Consequently the receipts from synodical home mission contributions this year met all the demands of its work. At first the plan of the synod contemplated only the support of its weak churches, that is, synodical sustentation. But it soon became apparent that to make its work efficient and economical it was better to take over the entire work of home missions within its bounds. After conference with the officers of the Board of Home Missions in New York, this advance step was taken in 1894.

The work at present includes the support of weak churches, or sustentation; the planting of new churches, or church extension; and the evangelization of our foreign-speaking population.

I. SYNODICAL SUSTENTATION.

In Pennsylvania the drift of rural population toward the industrial centers has weakened a large number of the country churches. Many of these were no longer able to maintain settled pastors without aid from some quarter. Because these country churches are so largely recruiting stations for the city churches; because they furnish so many students for our colleges and candidates for the ministry, to neglect them was seen to be most unwise. Aid is given to these churches on the following conditions:—

(1) That the congregation shall give for pastoral support an average of at least five dollars per communicant; (2) that effort shall be made to pay the pastor promptly a salary of at least $800 per annum; (3) that the minister shall be installed; (4) that contributions shall be made annually to all the Boards of the Church and to synod's fund. These conditions have been met, and the synod's sustentation efforts have met with most encouraging success. Almost one hundred churches have become self-supporting either singly or as members of a group forming a self-supporting pastoral charge; the stated supply plan has been discouraged, and the office of pastor has been magnified; the grace of giving has been stimulated and encouraged, these weak churches each year having returned to the treasuries of the Boards, by their contributions, a sum equal to one-half the aid given by the synod. The greatest need of the weak church is pastoral watch and care. Fourteen churches reached self-support last year.

II. SYNODICAL CHURCH EXTENSION.

New industrial enterprises are opening constantly in our state. Each new industry becomes the center of a new population needing the gospel. While rural population crowds toward the city, home-seekers in the cities are pressing toward the suburbs. Better railroad and trolley facilities are stimulating this movement. Thus new towns are springing up along these lines of travel. Here is a large field for church extension. Again, congregations in the business sections of the cities remove to resident districts, and missions must be established and maintained in the sections deserted. Consequently Pennsylvania is a most important home mission field, and synod's committee seeks to occupy these new fields promptly.

III. WORK AMONG OUR FOREIGN-SPEAKING POPULATION.

The rapidly rising tide of foreign immigration from southern and southeastern Europe has been aptly styled "Our Foreign Invasion." One-half of this unparalleled wave of incoming humanity settles down over New York and Pennsylvania. This has raised the question, "Is it our menace or our mission?" The Synod of Pennsylvania answers, "Our mission, our duty, our privilege, our opportunity!"

Fourteen of our twenty presbyteries are at work in this new field of mission effort. Much has been already done; but only a beginning has been made. Much has been learned as to the best methods of evangelization. Lack of properly qualified missionary workers has been the greatest difficulty to be overcome; but this want is being rapidly supplied. Among the foreigners, candidates for the ministry are offering themselves. A Bohemian church at Pittsburgh has six students for the ministry; an Italian church in Philadelphia has seven; eleven foreign-speaking students are preparing in the Western Theological Seminary; and the Training School for Women in Allegheny City has just sent out a class of nine earnest, consecrated young women. The past year has been one of great encouragement in this field of Synodical Home Missions, and the outlook for the future is bright despite very many discouragements. The Synod of Pennsylvania, through its synodical committee, its presbyterial and its local church missions, has put fully one hundred thousand dollars into its home mission work during the past year. While doing this, it at the same time contributed one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars directly to the work under care of the Board of Home Missions.

J. M. MCJUNKIN,

SYNOD OF BALTIMORE.

The past year has been a quiet but successful one in the sustentation work of the Synod of Baltimore.

Fifty churches and four missions, nearly one-third of the churches of the synod, have been supplied with preaching by the aid of this fund. The churches pay their current expenses and about two-thirds of their pastors' salaries, and sustentation furnishes the other third.

Where it is possible, churches are grouped two or more in a charge. These churches are either in the country, in the small towns, or in the small suburbs of the cities.

Where population is increasing, the churches soon grow to self-support, but where the population is stationary the membership and support of the churches remain stationary. However, two churches attained self-support this year, Annapolis, Maryland, and Manassas, Virginia; and both are to be congratulated.

A very important work is carried on in Baltimore and Sparrow's Point among the foreigners—Bohemians and Moravians—and a home is being established in Baltimore for the incoming Bohemians and Slavish immigrants, so that they can have a secure haven under Christian auspices while waiting to secure positions. Recently work has been begun among the Italians in Wilmington, Delaware, which is full of promise.

On the sustentation work $8,691.40 was expended last year. To this the synod contributed $5,298.70, and the balance was drawn from the Board of Home Missions. The churches with very few exceptions contributed both to the home missions and sustentation. They have always been loyal to the Home Mission Board, and the contributions to sustentation have been clear gain.

We have under our care a church which makes a very substantial claim to be the oldest organized Presbyterian Church in our Assembly. This is Rehoboth, Maryland. It was organized in 1683 by Francis Makemie, and he was its first pastor. This church has maintained its organization for two hundred and twenty-three years, and is still flourishing, though never very strong. It is situated on the Pocomoke River, eight miles from a railroad, and is entirely a country church. For the sake of its historic association it ought to be endowed and made a separate and independent charge. Here is a fine opportunity for some one of means to erect a monument to mark the beginning of our great Church, and at the same time do a splendid service to a needy community.

Chairman of Sustentation Committee.

SYNOD OF OHIO.

The home mission work in the Synod of Ohio has met with a well-nigh irreparable loss in the sudden death, February 14, 1906, of its chairman, the Rev. John C. Holliday, D.D. A man of earnest purpose and large ability, he has given, for many years, the patient and devoted labor which has produced large results in this branch of the work of the synod. Suddenly called to take up the reins, the vice-chairman, has not had opportunity to grasp all the details of the work, and is forced to present a report without elaboration.

The situation has not altered materially during the last year. The presbyteries, with one exception—Athens—have been able to meet the needs of their own fields without calling upon the synod's committee for funds. The sum of three hundred dollars was paid to Athens Presbytery from the treasury of the committee. Two efficient and consecrated synodical missionaries, Rev. W. F. Ringland, D.D., and Rev. D. D. Bigger, D.D., have continued their faithful and fruitful service, and are entitled to the approbation of the synod they serve, and of the entire Church as well. A synodical superintendent of home missions was elected at the last meeting of the synod, to have a supervisory relation to the work. He has not as yet signified his acceptance of the appointment. The statistics herewith presented in no wise form a measure of the vast labors performed by devoted pastors in the feeble churches and needy fields of the synod. They, with multitudes of others, await their crowns at the blessed appearing of the Lord Jesus.

As in some of the other synods, attempts are being made to cope with the situation created by the tide of immigration which rises ever higher. Especially in the Presbytery of Mahoning, work has progressed among the Magyars with a gratifying measure of success. In the Presbyteries of St. Clairsville and Steubenville work among the Slavs has been prosecuted. So far as reported, there is but one church organized in the synod for work among the negroes. This church is located in the Presbytery of Cincinnati, and is maintained by mission funds almost exclusively, of course having no connection with the Board of Missions for Freedmen.

The cash offerings made to the Board from all sources in this synod amounted to the sum of $34,150; for work within the bounds of the synod $25,909; a total of $60,059. The sum of $21,249 was expended in the various presbyteries of the synod in support of one hundred and nineteen missionary pastors, whose work was carried on in two hundred and sixteen churches and other preaching points. These churches have 12,417 communicants, of whom about eight per cent., or 1,002, were added by confession, and 621 by certificate, during the preceding year. Baptisms: 439 adult and 266 Infant. In the 205 Sabbath schools 12,692 members are registered. Edifices to the value of $539,925 are employed in the home mission work, six of which were built during the past year at a cost of $34,300. Seven churches were organized, and six became self-sustaining during the year.

The consecrated women have wrought with unflinching fidelity, as usual, and have produced large results. There are 442 auxiliary societies, co-operating with the Women's Synodical Committee of Home Missions. These societies have a membership of 13,700, and made a cash contribution of $29,647, and in addition, boxes and household supplies valued at $14,449, a total offering of $44,096, of which $6,541 was devoted to the Freedmen work. The total contributions to the work, as reported, amounted to $104,155.

There is no abatement of interest in the work, and the Committee hopes to make greater strides forward in the effort to meet the entire need of the synod.

EDWARD T. SWIGGETT,
Vice-Chairman.

SYNOD OF INDIANA.

The Yandes Fund produced an income of $3,125.14 during the year, and was augmented in the sum of $5,669.18, making the principal of the Fund $65,669.18. Besides this a church erection fund in the sum of $3,865.46 whose principal is available for building home mission churches is in charge of the committee. Three churches were aided during the year in the sum of $600.

The total sum raised from churches during the year for local work was $11,615.41. In addition to this $1,846.77 was raised for special evangelistic and Sunday school work under direction of the committee. The total net amount of money raised within the synod during the year for the cause of home missions, including sums sent to the Home Board and through the Women's Board, was $37,039.10.

The synod has 44,687 communicants and 327 churches. The churches are well manned and there are very few churches without regular supplies. In connection with the evangelistic work the committee does a continual Sunday school work. The superintendent of missions directed five students in summer work. Rev. George Knox, D.D., is engaged by the committee as superintendent.

FREELEY ROHRER,

SYNOD OF ILLINOIS.

The last annual report to the synod showed that one hundred and one missionaries, laboring in one hundred and fourteen churches and missions, with nine thousand six hundred and seventy members, brought into the communion of the Church one thousand three hundred and one members by profession of faith, and three hundred and ninety-seven by certificate. Eleven churches reached self-support. The work of the Presbytery of Chicago has been prosecuted vigorously under the supervision of the Rev. George P.

Williams, D.D. Special attention has been given to work among the foreign-speaking elements of the population. Three of the presbyteries have had pastors-at-large; Bloomington, Cairo and Peoria. One of these has been employed jointly with the Board of Publication and Sabbath schools. The administration of the Rev. Edgar L. Williams, D.D., synodical superintendent, has been energetic and efficient. He has co-operated with the presbyterial committees on home missions in establishing churches, uniting weak fields, and in securing additional support for pastors. Several campaigns of evangelism have been conducted under his supervision, resulting in numerous additions to the churches, and in strengthening them in their regular work. The contributions for home missions from all sources were more than one hundred thousand dollars.

THOMAS D. LOGAN,

Chairman of the Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF MICHIGAN.

The Synod of Michigan has completed four full years of self-support of her mission churches and mission stations. What in the beginning was a doubtful experiment in the minds of some has become a stable enterprise. The enthusiasm which characterized the initial movement has crystallized into persevering effort to sustain more and more efficiently the work. The enthusiastic activity of the synod to establish and maintain self-support has had a marked influence on all the missionary interests of our Church. The Woman's Synodical Home Mission Society has never been more active and prosperous than now. Foreign missions have more attention and the results are larger than in years before. The pastor-evangelist system now followed in the synod is the direct outgrowth of home missionary activity and has been the means of having more sermons preached under Presbyterian auspices during the present year than were ever preached during any one year of the synod's history. One of the most gratifying results of self-support is that the presbyterial home mission committees have become active and efficient working committees, a condition which has taken years to attain. In connection with their other duties those committees are devoting much time and energy to thoroughly testing the General Assembly's new plan of vacancy and supply. As a result we have fewer vacant churches than for years past. Another special work of great promise, which is the direct outgrowth of home missionary activity in the synod, is the employment of a "student pastor" to labor among the Presbyterian students at the University of Michigan. More than eight hundred students in some degree affiliated with Presbyterian homes and churches are in attendance at that institution. God is signally blessing this work.

The financial level of our work is fully sustained, and pastors and churches show no diminution of interest or zeal in the work. Self-support is making the Synod of Michigan.

DAVID HOWELL,

Synodical Missionary.

SYNOD OF WISCONSIN.

The Synod of Wisconsin stands face to face with the same problem which has for over a century confronted the Home Mission Board—expansion. Since our self-support movement began, three and one-half years ago, our churches have increased from one hundred and seventy-four to one hundred and ninety-four (the records will probably say one hundred and ninety-eight), and the end is not yet. The secretary of the Wisconsin Immigration Society said not long since in Milwaukee, "It will surprise many persons to know that fully two-thirds of this state remains practically undeveloped." As a state, we are gaining in population at the rate of a little over thirty-one thousand per year for the past five years, and most of this gain is in the northern counties. The railway, the mill and the settler are changing the north country. New towns are springing up. A new church has been organized recently at Arbor Vitae, and, begins work on a self-supporting basis. Wabeno had only five hundred people a year ago, and now has twice as many, and a new church springs up there almost by magic and, grouped with one of our other churches, adds nothing to our burden. Fifty new towns are expected to rise up from the ground within two years.

Although twenty of the old churches have become self-supporting since our synodical movement began, and so released us from a large burden, yet the new ones recently organized have more than taken their place on our list of dependent ones. Indeed our budget of expense has increased over $1,900.00. That is to say, our home missionaries cost us in 1901-2 $10,402.19, and in 1905-6 $12,300.00 (estimated). It is a serious fact which rises up before us. Dare we go forward and venture the organization and support of twenty more new churches?

We must go on. We dare not stop. The saloon and schoolhouse are going in, and the church must keep pace. Not to occupy would be an awful mistake. Here is our record:—

OFFERINGS.	*EXPENSES.
1901-2...$2,610.11†	$10,402.19	†For the Board. Old system.
1902-3... 4,783.35†	10,742.19	†For Wisconsin. (Last six months of 1902-3, and full years after that.)
1903-4... 9,498.66†	11,212.09
1904-5...10,148.65†	10,645.75	*This does not include the Superintendent and his assistant.
1905-6...11,105.87	12,318.94

Had there been no advance by organizing new churches the synod would be able to assume the pay of the synodical superintendent of missions now and so become fully self-supporting. Our standard has been kept at one dollar a member and our expenses are eighty-three cents a member, making no allowance for the new work crowding upon us. We have very decidedly frontier work and the most strenuous work of all the self-supporting synods. We are in great need of God's help and His daily guidance and encouragement in order to meet the demands now upon us. None of us looked for any such rapid expansion in our state three years ago. It is well that we did not know what we would be called to do so soon.

C. L. RICHARDS,
Chairman of Permanent Committee of Home Missions.

SYNOD OF IOWA.

The Iowa plan for self-support works admirably throughout, and has four distinctive features. One is that while collections are made through the presbyteries, the distribution is synodical. The stated clerks are good collectors because they are known personally, and they know the pastors; they have both the opportunity and the desire to secure the amounts asked; and local checks can be used without expense or trouble. On the other hand all grants are made to presbyteries by our Board, and all payments are made by the synodical treasurer, so that all are treated alike.

Another business advantage is that funds are collected in advance of their use. The year of income begins with synod in the fall; the year of outgo begins with April first, when men are commissioned. By that time a large amount of the year's income is already paid. Because of this double-barreled year, there has never been any need to borrow money, and the missionaries are always paid on time.

The home mission committee has not only grown into a commission, which has power to act in ecclesiastical matters, but it has also become a corporation to hold monies, lands, mortgages and to make contracts. So it has incorporated as a state board, and it comprises presbyterial chairmen and its own officers. It meets twice a year and makes a careful study of all conditions relating to its work.

The churches are divided into four classes, according to the amounts which they pay toward state missions. Those who pay fifty dollars per hundred communicants are placed upon the honor roll; and seventeen per cent. of our churches, many of them small, achieve this distinction. One large church gave a dollar per member. Some pay forty dollars per hundred; some, part of this apportionment. Ten per cent. fall into the lowest class and pay nothing, but they have only a name to live.

Iowa owes its permanent fund of ten thousand dollars as well as other benefits largely to the Assembly's Board. In return, we save that Board five thousand dollars a year, besides whatever our churches send to New York for national evangelization. We hope to make it more generous.

Self-support has worked well at home in every particular. It has given every presbyter a personal interest in the work. It has increased very much the presbyterial and synodical oversight. It has reduced the appropriations in some unpromising fields, grouped others in new combinations, and organized fresh parishes.

The country districts have decreased slightly in population during the past five years. The flood of foreign immigration no longer seek the farms, and young Americans are looking for cheaper lands in order to get a start for themselves. According to Prof. Paterson of our census bureau, cities above twenty-five thousand population grow, and the small villages attract the retired farmers. But places having about eight thousand population are at a stand still because they cannot make advantageous rates with the railroads.

We are aiming to sift the country fields and to cherish those that promise life. We propose to exchange some points with sister denominations. Others are encouraged to have a plot of ground for the minister's use, as well as a manse. The increase in telephones, trolleys, daily mail and modern improvements will make the country parish more attractive. Henceforth we shall look for pastors who will come to stay, and whom God will honor with growing churches.

Work in growing cities is fostered. Larger grants are made at first, but the church is expected to reach self-support in three or four years. During that time it gets a lot, a sanctuary and comes to independence. One such church at the end of its second year has a church, a manse, a membership of one hundred and fifty, and expects to have all debts paid within another year.

There are several hundred students at our state institutions who have been largely unshepherded in the past. A plan is pending to support a fellowship at the State University, the occupant of which shall give a part of his or her time to the assistance of the pastor, and to a personal interest in the Presbyterian students. It is but a beginning in which experience must guide the central states to the solution of a very important problem.

Our foreign work centers about Dubuque Seminary. It educates a corps of devoted German ministers; and has now undertaken to provide Bohemian and Hungarian workers for all our synods. They are commended to others, and are doing noble work at home. A French church is knocking at our doors.

It was from Iowa that the advance movement began when the Civil war was over. "The Raven's Fund" of ten thousand dollars set in operation movements which have resulted in five synods west of us. It is fit that that General Assembly should celebrate the two hundredth meeting of organized Presbyterianism within our borders, the first free state of the Louisiana purchase. A hearty welcome awaits it, and an earnest prayer that great good may come to us from this honored visitation.

JOHN B. DONALDSON,

TREASURER'S REPORT

The Board submits to the General Assembly the financial and tabular statements, accompanying its one hundred and fourth annual report, with great gratification. A study of these statements is strongly recommended. It will be seen therefrom that there has been an advance in receipts from all sources, with the one exception of legacies. Even from this source the receipts have been above the average of the last ten years.

The comparative statement which follows, indicates that from living sources the receipts for evangelization have increased  $7\frac{3}{10}$  per cent.

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT OF RECEIPTS FOR CURRENT WORK, APRIL 1, 1905 TO MARCH 31, 1906.

Largest Total Receipts.—The total receipts, $911,793.72 are, it will be seen, the high-water mark in receipts for current work by the Board of Home Missions during all its history.

The year ends with a balance of $2,411.06, which, compared with the balance brought over from last year, indicates that the receipts for the year failed to meet the expenditures by $1,596.34.

†As the Church contributions from the Synod of Michigan since October 1, 1901, and from the Synods of Iowa and Wisconsin since October 1, 1902, have been used mainly for local home mission work, such amounts are excluded from this table in order to make a fair and proper comparison on the basis of present conditions.

Increased Congregational Offerings Necessary.—It will be remembered that in view of the newly opened and increasing work in the various departments, the Board, early in the year, asked for an advance in offerings from congregations of 15 per cent., which rate called for approximately \$34,000. Instead congregations have advanced approximately \$7,800, an increase of about  $3\frac{1}{2}\%$ . The failure to make the desired advance, however, will give full justification to the Board's desire that in the coming fiscal year there shall be scored an increase of at least 15 per cent.

Very many congregations have come fully up to the requested figure—others have fallen off. It is absolutely necessary that in the coming months, the suggested increase shall be assured in order that the work rapidly expanding along all lines, may be fully overtaken and without deficit

Reserve Account.—The Reserve Account authorized by the General Assembly of last year still stands at the maximum of $100,000 — $77,031.70 thereof being invested in the Presbyterian Building, and $22,968.30 in approved securities.

Under the “Reserve Account” plan the maximum annual expenditure of legacies for three years was fixed at $140,000 (unless there should be received an amount in excess of that figure in any one year). But the Board has this year taken advantage of Article 4 of the “Reserve Account” plan, and has applied the total receipts from legacies to the current work account—this action being necessary to avoid a deficit.

Woman’s Board Receipts.—The receipts through the Woman’s Board, for school work and the other lines of work carried on by that department, show an advance of approximately 8 per cent. Including the receipts for the Board for Freedmen, that department has also touched high-water mark, its total receipts, inclusive of annuity and permanent fund gifts and receipts from sales of literature, reaching nearly half a million of dollars.

The Woman's Board has contributed to evangelization the sum of $5,083.40, which is $14,610.30 short of the total amount of evangelization work which that department expected to care for during the year, such work growing directly out of the Woman's Board school work and amounting to $19,693.90.

Receipts by Months and Quarters.—Below is again given a schedule indicating in what monthly and quarterly amounts funds have come in for the work of the Board. When it is considered that the average monthly disbursements are $76,115.00 it will be seen that only in 5 months of the year is the income equal to the outgo, and herein lies the reason for the fact that the Board is obliged to carry, from June until well into March, loans averaging more than $200,000 per year.

Presbyterian Building.—January 31, 1906, the Treasurers of the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions had the pleasure of liquidating the last dollar of mortgage indebtedness upon the Presbyterian Building. This happy consummation was made possible through the kindness of Messrs. L. H. Severance, Ambrose K. Ely and Rev. W. W. Atterbury, D.D., and the heirs of the late Judge J. K. Ewing, the generous pledges from these gentlemen having been conditioned upon the full payment of the indebtedness, and having been extended from year to year until the present time.

This building is thus now the property of our denomination, free and clear of mortgage encumbrance, and justifying in every particular the intelligent foresight of those who planned and built the great structure.

The Boards are still paying annuities of 4 per cent. on an amount approximating one-half million of dollars. The amount so paid, together with the rental value of the two floors occupied by the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions, plus the cash net rentals, shows a net earning of approximately 4.9 per cent. upon the cost of the property.

The building has not a vacant office at the close of this fiscal year, and the total rent roll as of that date is $134,550.

The building has been kept in the best physical condition and is being admirably managed from the point of economy. The construction of loft buildings and the centering of many great business enterprises in the neighborhood, taken together with its careful management, makes the building an exceedingly popular office structure.

Chapels for Porto Rico.—In order to conserve and make permanent the work on the islands of Porto Rico and Cuba, it has been found necessary to provide permanent places of worship, and a number of Chapels of moderate cost have either been constructed during the past year, or are now in course of construction. Mr. John H. Converse, of Philadelphia, has generously provided one-half the amount of funds necessary for these buildings, and the Board of Church Erection Fund has seconded his gifts by appropriating equal amounts for this purpose.

Five of our more important smaller stations will thus be provided with permanent places of worship, and the Board's treasury will also be saved a considerable amount in rentals.

San Juan Hospital.—From the same generous giver have come funds for additional and much needed buildings for the San Juan Hospital plant. The Hospital is thus housed in five buildings admirable for the purpose, and is doing a most beneficent work, far reaching in its influence.

Havana Church Building.—The importance of a fitting and appropriate church building in the city of Havana, as the center of our work upon the island of Cuba, has long been evident. Moved by the appeal of Dr. Greene, published in the Assembly Herald early in the year, Mrs. Tracy McGregor of Detroit, Mich., promised (and has since paid in full through the Board of Church Erection Fund) the sum of $25,000 toward the building. Other gifts have been received and are now coming in to cover the purchase of the lot and the balance required for the completion of the building with school rooms and living rooms for the pastor and teachers.

To this building the Board of Church Erection Fund has voted to appropriate the sum of $5,000 from its general funds.

The building is now nearing completion—its dedication will probably take place in June or July and will mark a decided forward step for the work in Cuba.

OUR NEW CHURCH IN HAVANA.

Importance of Systematic Giving.—Systematic Beneficence schemes of varying form are in use by many of our churches, and congregations one by one are taking up the idea with more or less of success. Compared, however, with the total number of our congregations, those undertaking such plans are exceedingly few.

The Systematic Beneficence Committee of the Assembly is ready to furnish information with regard to feasible plans. Write to the Secretary, Rev. W. H. Hubbard, D.D., Auburn, N. Y., for suggestions.

Annuity and Permanent Fund Gifts.—In these days of increasing fortunes and decreasing rates of interest many are turning their thoughts toward the permanent and annuity funds of the Boards.

The Board of Home Missions takes pleasure in giving information along these lines and, through its special gift agreement plan, accepts funds and pays to the donor during life a reasonable income. The principal of these funds at the death of the donor, or such beneficiary as he may designate, goes into the general funds of the Board.

A letter of inquiry, addressed to the Treasurer of the Board at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will bring information as to the plan and as to the rates of interest paid.

Funds given in this way are, it will be seen, at once free from the contingencies which surround the leaving of funds by will; although where the annuity plan is not feasible, or where for any reason it is not possible to make such gifts, legacies are solicited and are most welcome.

Percentages of Expenditures to gross receipts are as follows:

Expense of administration .....	4.03
Disbursements, not administrative .....	.36
Cost of communicating information, including disbursements directed by the General Assembly	1.26
	—	5.65

The percentages above are based upon the receipts for current work alone. Figuring them upon the basis of the total amount of cash actually received and disbursed for all purposes, as per statement on page 113, they are as follows:

Expense of administration .....	2.96
Disbursements, not administrative .....	.25
Cost of communicating information, including disbursements directed by the General Assembly	.90

In connection with these tables it will be interesting to note that the mortgage indebtedness upon the Presbyterian

Building having been fully paid, this Board's share of the net rentals, plus interest on permanent funds and reserve account, will just about meet administrative expenses.

Respectfully submitted,

HARVEY C. OLIN,
Treasurer.

For the convenience of those intending to make gifts of money or property to the Board, by will, the following forms are given:

BEQUESTS.

The Board is incorporated by an Act of the Legislature of the State of New York. The corporate name to be used is: "The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

FORM OF BEQUEST.

I give, devise and bequeath unto "The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York, the sum of . . . . . Dollars, to be expended for the appropriate objects of said corporation.

FORM OF RESIDUARY CLAUSE.

All the rest, residue and remainder of my real and personal estate I devise and bequeath unto "The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York.

FORM OF DEVISE.

(Real Estate.)

I give and devise unto "The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York, all that certain (here insert description if convenient) with the appurtenances in fee simple, for the use, benefit and behoof of said Board forever.

NOTE.—If it be desired to bequeath a sum "to be added to the General Permanent Fund of the Board, the income only to be used for the appropriate objects of said corporation," or if it be desired to designate a sum "to be separately invested and to be known as the . . . . . Fund, the income only to be used," etc., it can be so stated.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON HOME MISSIONS.

Your Committee on Home Missions would respectfully report that they have carefully examined the annual report and the official record of the Board, also the annual report of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, and the report of the Young People's Department. We have also tried to catch a vision of the wide field in which our Church is operating through this agency, and to measure the magnitude of the work undertaken.

It naturally divides into many departments, such as evangelization, evangelism, school work, church and labor, work among foreign-speaking people, our new possessions, literature, young people's work, and the Woman's Board. Your Committee is glad to bear testimony to the fidelity, wisdom, and administrative ability shown by the officers of the Board in these several fields of operation.

The year just closed was one of much blessing and of encouraging progress. The total receipts for the year aggregate nine hundred and eleven thousand, seven hundred and ninety-three dollars, and seventy-two cents ($911,793.72). This is the largest sum received for current expenses during any year in the history of the Board, and when we add the receipts of the self-supporting synods for local work, we have a grand total of $1,173,050.10 for home missions. It is also worthy of mention that the year closed with a small balance in the treasury.

Much of the progress made is due to the fact that the Woman's Board has had the most successful year in its history. By reason of its splendid organization, and of the many deeply interested supporters back of it, it has passed the half million mark in its receipts, and has made steady development in every part of the great field under its care.

During the year the Board has been represented by 555 teachers in 185 mission schools, and 1,269 missionaries who have ministered to 1,465 churches and, as a result, 87 churches and 204 Sabbath schools have been organized, 947 conversions have been reported from our mission schools, and 15,633 persons have been added to the membership of our Church.

In the self-supporting synods 1,010 missionaries have organized 31 churches and 70 Sabbath schools, and have welcomed 10,681 persons to the membership of the churches under their care. Much of the effort of the Board is necessarily directed towards the further development of fields already entered, but during the year progress has been made in the expenditure of $25,000 in new work and $40,000 for the erection of buildings in our island possessions. And true to the watchword of the year, the young people both in the Endeavor Societies and Sabbath schools have kept step with the advancing Church and have contributed to this great cause more than $100,000.

The mortgage indebtedness of the Board on the Presbyterian Building has been cancelled and henceforth the income of the Board from this source will be steadily enhanced. There was not a vacant office in the building at the close of the fiscal year and the rental saved to the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions, plus the rentals collected, closely approximate five per cent. upon the cost of the property.

The Department of Church and Labor has also made notable progress. Following the leadership of the Rev. Charles Stelzle, the Church and workingmen are surely coming into closer relations. A series of leaflets, calculated to remove misconceptions and give much information relative to "The Labor Problem," has been published and is having a wide circulation. This movement in our Church has met with most cordial endorsement of the American Federation of Labor and is one of the most hopeful indications in these times of industrial revolution.

Progress has also been made in the effort to evangelize the foreign-born population of our country, a population which increased one million last year and now numbers fourteen millions. A number of worthy workers have been discovered and sent into fields where they are already beginning to exercise a potent influence. The whole Church will feel indebted to the Board for having ascertained and exhibited in their report, that already our Church is maintaining 514 churches and mission stations among our people who are foreign-born and the Board stands ready not only to undertake other work of this character but to join with other organizations operating in this field, if by so doing the end sought—the evangelization of the strangers—may be reached more successfully.

And as the year past shows great progress in the work committed to the Board of Home Missions, so does the future present both great opportunities and great obligations. New towns continue to spring up along the lines of our great systems of railways, or in places where agricultural or mining interests invite the coming of the emigrant, and every such town needs the missionary of the cross. Like opportunities are presented and similar demands are made by the constantly growing population of our cities extending every year and frequently several times in a year to new sections, making new religious enterprises necessary.

By reason of our very success in Cuba and Porto Rico, the duty of a wider occupation and a more extended effort to reach still larger numbers with the gospel is made most manifest. The people seem to be just waiting for the coming of God's messenger. Could we but send a large number of missionaries to those fields at once,

Cuba and Porto Rico would turn to Christ in a short time and cease to be mission fields. And now that the field is white to the harvest as almost no other which we have entered, should not due effort be made to gather the sheaves before the harvest time has passed?

Another open door is the field of evangelism. Recognizing the need, this Assembly has commissioned the Board to encourage the missionary with the help of the evangelist. The step has been in wisdom for, while each pastor or supply should be himself an evangelist in his work, there are places in which the work may be more successfully advanced by one who is a specialist among soul winners in his message and his method. And for such workers calls which must not be disregarded have come from many parts of the field in which the Board is operating.

It is indeed a great mission upon which we have been sent and for the accomplishment of which our Home Board is in existence. The whole situation is well set forth in the report in these words:

"No longer merely a question of occupying new territory, Home Missions has now become the endeavor to reform the older communities as well as to reach the new.

"City evangelization must claim more attention than it has ever received, if the cities are to be saved from the many perils that threaten them. The lapsed communities in the older states must be cared for if the experience of the southern mountains shall not be repeated in other parts of the Union. The tide of the labor classes away from the Church must be turned and they must be made to recognize the friendship and willing helpfulness of the Church of Christ. The emigrants, coming in upon us in such abnormal numbers, can be made good American citizens only by instilling in their minds the principles of truth and righteousness which come from Christian schools and Christian institutions.

"In addition to these newer phases of the work, the infilling process in the western states is going on more rapidly than ever and, by the opening of reservations, by the plans of irrigation on the part of private companies and of the Government, new and prosperous communities are making the desert to rejoice and blossom as the rose. The waiting islands beckon for the gospel not only for themselves but that they may be signal lights along the coasts of new national development."

Now to accomplish this great work the Board must be well supplied with funds and for the coming year request the sum of one million dollars. It is a worthy goal which they have set. Let us hope that the Church will rise to the opportunity.

Some important changes have taken place in the office force of the Board during the year. Dr. George F. McAfee, the efficient superintendent of school work for the past twelve years, on account of ill health was forced to resign, and the Rev. Robert M. Craig has been chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. McAfee. Dr. John Willis Baer, having been urgently called to another important work, thought it wise to ask release from the office of Associate Secretary of the Board. It was with regret that the Board recognized the necessity of giving up the valuable services of Dr. Baer, but his resignation has been accepted and another able worker, Mr. Joseph Ernest McAfee of Parkville, Missouri, has been elected to take his place.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

1. That the records of the Board be approved.
2. That the following persons, whose term of service as members of the Board expires with this meeting of the Assembly, be re-elected: Ministers—Rev. D. Stuart Dodge, D.D.; Rev. Lyman W. Allen, D.D.; Rev. Wilson Phraner, D.D.; Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin. Laymen—Frank L. Babbott, Titus B. Meigs, Geo. H. Southard.
3. That the change of name from Assistant to Associate Secretary be approved, also the election of Mr. Joseph Ernest McAfee to succeed Dr. John Willis Baer as an Associate Secretary of the Board.
4. That the Board be authorized to provide for needed evangelistic effort in the fields under its care.
5. That we approve the operations of the Board through its Department of Church and Labor, having hope that our Church will in this way be enabled to reach an intelligent conception of the conditions existing between employers and employees.
6. That Presbyterial Committees on Home Missions be invited to appoint sub-committees for the purpose of making a study of the problem of labor in its various aspects.
7. That our mission churches, presbyteries and synods, in the interest of the growing work committed to the Board, be urged to put forth effort to attain unto self-support at the earliest day possible.
8. That all our stronger congregations be advised to take the helpful step of adopting some representative upon the field and providing for his support.
9. That all self-supporting synods be urged to make fuller report of their home missionary operations and the results of their efforts to the Board for publication with the annual report of the Board.
10. That Presbyterial Committees on Home Missions be instructed to send copies of their reports to the Board of Home Missions.

11. That we congratulate the Woman's Board upon the marked success with which it has carried forward its work during the past year and recognize the large devotion of Presbyterian women to Presbyterian Home Missions which has enabled this Board to pass the half million mark in their contributions.

12. That we hear with pleasure of many mission study classes and other evidences of interest in home missions among the young people of our Church, and commend the movement to develop the study class as worthy of the most favorable consideration.

13. That an effort be made to enlist a more general interest on the part of our young people in home missions and to secure more systematic and intelligent contributions from them for this cause.

14. That on the Sabbath preceding Thanksgiving Day our Sabbath schools be requested to make an offering for the school work under the care of the Woman's Board, and on the Sabbath nearest to Washington's Birthday an offering for the general work of home missions.

15. That the Board be authorized to plan and carry forward such effort as may be necessary to the speedy completion of the evangelization of Cuba and Porto Rico, and that the expenditure of larger sums of money to that end be encouraged.

Finally, That we commend our Home Board to our Church for a contribution of $1,000,000 to be expended this year in advancing the work committed to the care of the Board.

In answer to the overtures from the Presbyteries of Corning and Southern Dakota, relative to the erection of a monument on Prospect Hill, Sioux City, Iowa, to commemorate an incident of the movement for the evangelization of the West, we recommend that the Assembly endorse and approve the project and commend the committee of the Synod of Iowa, having the matter in charge, to the confidence of the Church.

Chairman.

CHARTER.

CHARTER GRANTED BY THE STATE OF NEW YORK, APRIL 12TH, 1862.
LAWS OF 1862, CHAPTER 187.

AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBY-TERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

PASSED APRIL 12TH, 1862—CHAPTER 187.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1.—Walter Lowrie, Gardner Spring, William W. Phillips, George Potts, William Barnard, John D. Wells, Nathan L. Rice, Robert L. Stuart, Lebbeus B. Ward, Robert Carter, John C. Lowrie, citizens of the State of New York, and such others as they may associate with themselves, are hereby constituted a body corporate and politic forever, by the name of The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, for the purpose of establishing and conducting Christian Missions among the uncivilized or Pagan nations, and the general diffusion of Christianity; and by that name they and their successors and associates shall be capable of taking by purchase, grant, devise or otherwise, holding, conveying, or otherwise disposing of any real or personal estate for the purposes of the said corporation, but which estate within this State shall not at any time exceed the annual income of twenty thousand dollars.

SECTION 2.—The said corporation shall possess the general powers, rights and privileges, and be subject to liabilities and provisions contained in the eighteenth chapter of the first part of the Revised Statutes, so far as the same is applicable, and also subject to the provisions of chapter three hundred and sixty of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty.

SECTION 3.—This Act shall take effect immediately.

LAWS OF 1894, CHAPTER 326.

AN ACT TO AMEND CHAPTER ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN OF THE LAWS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-TWO, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA," AND TO REGULATE THE NUMBER OF TRUSTEES.

BECAME A LAW APRIL 19TH, 1894, WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE GOVERNOR; PASSED, THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1.—Section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-seven of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America," is hereby amended to read as follows:

SECTION 2.—"The management and disposition of the affairs and property of the said Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America shall be vested in twenty-one Trustees, who shall be appointed from time to time by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America for such terms as the Assembly may determine. But the number of such Trustees may be increased or decreased at any time by the said General Assembly, and in case of an increase the additional Trustees shall be appointed by such General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; provided, however, that the members of the Board as at present constituted shall continue to hold office until their successors have been appointed by the General Assembly. Not less than eleven members of the Board shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of electing officers, making by-laws, or for holding any special meeting; but for all other purposes, and at stated meetings, five shall be a quorum."

SECTION 3.—This Act shall take effect immediately.

LAW OF 1900, CHAPTER 136.

AN ACT TO AMEND CHAPTER ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN OF THE LAWS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-TWO, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA," AS AMENDED BY CHAPTER THREE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SIX OF THE LAWS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND NINETY-FOUR.

BECAME A LAW MARCH 15TH, 1900, WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE GOVERNOR; PASSED, A MAJORITY BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1.—Section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-seven of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled "An act to incorporate the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," as amended by chapter three hundred and twenty-six of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-four, is further amended so as to read as follows:

SECTION 2.—"The management and disposition of the affairs and property of the said Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America shall be vested in twenty-one Trustees, who shall be appointed from time to time by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America for such terms as the Assembly may determine. But the number of such Trustees may be increased or decreased at any time by said General Assembly, and in case of an increase the additional Trustees shall be appointed by such General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; provided, however, that the members of the Board, as at present constituted, shall continue to hold office until their successors have been appointed by the General Assembly. Not less than eleven members of the Board shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of electing officers, making by-laws, or for holding any special meeting, but for all other purposes, and at stated meetings, five shall be a quorum. All the business of the said corporation shall be conducted by the Board under and subject to the direction of the said General Assembly, so far as such direction shall be in accordance with the laws of the State of New York and of the United States of America."

SECTION 3.—This Act shall take effect immediately.

ACTION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Sixty-ninth Annual Report of the Board of Foreign Missions, and the manuscript volume of its Minutes for the year ending April 30, 1906, were presented to the General Assembly in session at Des Moines, Iowa, May, 1906, and were referred to the Standing Committee on Foreign Missions.

The Committee presented its report to the General Assembly, which was adopted. The report, and other recommendations submitted, is herewith presented.

We meet this year in a rare conjunction of anniversaries. This is the bi-centennial of our Presbyterial existence on the Western hemisphere. It is also the centennial of the Haystack prayer meeting, the birthday of American Foreign Missions. And just one hundred years ago Robert Morrison went to China, a forerunner of the forces of Western civilization and Christianity against the Paganism of the hoary Orient. And this year, too, the Board, in whose interest we are here gathered, enters upon its seventieth year of service as the organized agency of our denomination.

Were Makemie and Morrison, Mills and his friends, and the fathers of threescore and ten years ago permitted to look out from this platform to-day on the mission work of our great Church, they would recognize as we cannot the miracles of modern missions. Three mighty encouragements would thrill their hearts.

The first would be the amazing magnitude of our Church's work in the foreign field. They would behold established on four continents and on an archipelago of far Oceanica, 27 extensive missions, with 137 stations and 1,876 out-stations; 889 American missionaries and 2,606 native helpers; 444 churches with 63,480 communicants, and an equal number of Sabbath-school scholars; 1,001 schools with 32,512 pupils; 104 hospitals and dispensaries with 445,683 patients; while they would hear the steady clank of eight great printing presses as they contributed their day's quota to the annual output of 177,492,203 pages of Christian literature. And, best of all, they would hear the glad report that in these fields 10,000 souls were this year received into the Church of our Lord and Master. Accustomed to the days of no missions, or at least to "the days of small things" in missions, they would joyfully exclaim: "This is the Lord's doing; it is marvelous in our eyes!"

As they would cast their eyes over the Board's world-wide field, and see the valiant and conquering host of ministers and teachers, physicians and surgeons, translators and printers, zenana workers and Bible-readers, colporteurs and other helpers, toiling hopefully and fruitfully in a Babel of languages, amid diversified races and colors, barbarisms and civilizations, they might cry from their Mount of Vision, as did the seer of old from the field of Zophim on the top of Pisgah: "Surely there is no enchantment against Jacob, neither is there any divination against Israel: according to their time it shall be said of Jacob and of Israel, 'What hath God wrought!'"

When our ghostly visitors should hear that our single Church expended on these fields more than a million and a quarter of dollars, they might cry almost incredulously: "Behold, if the Lord would make windows in Heaven, might this thing be?"

A second mighty encouragement that would thrill them would be the fact that the doors of the nations are now swung wide open to the entrance of the Ambassadors of Jesus Christ. In their day practically all the Pagan, Mohammedan and Roman Catholic world was double-barred against the simple Gospel of the Redeemer of men. But in the Providence of God a change has taken place. As on the dawn of the creation of this old Earth,

"Heaven opened wide
Her ever-during gates . . . . to let forth
The King of Glory in His powerful Word
And Spirit coming to create new worlds," so on the dawn of the creation of the new Earth for which God's children of all ages have longed and prayed, Providence has again pushed far up the gates that open into the realms of religious Chaos and Old Night, and through those wide, uplifted gates Christ the King of Earth is entering, to win back unto Himself and unto Gospel light the regions that have long been shrouded in the shadow of death. And Morrison, remembering the day when, Xavier-like, he stood before the rock wall of Paganism and in the name of his God called upon it to break, would see with jubilation that his prayer has been answered, that the walls of the Chinese Jericho have fallen, and that the hammer of the Lord has broken and crushed the rock barriers that were in those olden days fixed as if for eternity. And as he heard the Board's missionaries report that China is at last awake; that just now by one stroke of the vermilion pen she has abolished forever the time-immemorial system of competitive examinations in the musty and profitless Chinese classics; that she is turning Pagan temples into schoolhouses, and substituting modern school-books for the mouldy tomes of Confucius and Mencius; that, in short, the children of a nation of four hundred millions of people are eagerly seeking for that which the missionary can best give; the old hero might well wish for a furlough from the joys of the skies to share in Earth's opportunity of ages—the making of the new China upon which will hang the destiny of the continent of Asia. He would rejoice as only a father could in the great Synods about to be erected into a National Church of China. And as he heard that convert leaving one of those blessed modern Presbyterian hospitals with the words: "I came burdened with pain and sin; I go loaded with happiness"; and as he saw the martyr quartette of Lienchow, like Paul the great missionary of olden times, counting not their lives dear unto them that they might finish their course with joy, and the ministry that they had received of the Lord Jesus, he would feel anew the unchanging and imperial power of the grace of Christ in winning a free course among the nations.

And so, if these corresponding members from the Church triumphant were to continue their view of the world, everywhere they would with happiness see the nations open to the Gospel. Korea open; providing all the native workers that are needed; rapidly developing self-support; and soon to establish a National Church: the Sunrise Kingdom, an Occidental Power suddenly evolved from the heart of Paganism, and advancing so rapidly that even we are dizzy at the sight and her sons are intoxicated by this phenomenal advance: Siam honoring our work; legislating against gambling and slavery; and asking a missionary to write a tract against gambling; and even the Buddhist priests lending their temples to the propagandists of our religion: India controlled by a Christian Government; troubled just now by plague and earthquake, but also visited by a new and mysterious Pentecost: Persia, in the political toils of the nations, but responsive to the volunteers of Western Christianity and almost canonizing the murdered Labaree: Syria, open in spite of the unspeakable Turk, and with a native Church of 225 native workers and over 2,500 communicants, giving fifty cents for every dollar invested in their work by our Board: Africa, under the equator, so free to effort that our missionaries have this year penetrated 800 miles farther into the interior than hitherto, and have preached the Gospel to thousands who never before heard it: and Latin America, extending from the Rio Grande to beyond the Rio de la Plata and, in a sense, beyond the Indian Ocean to the far Philippines; with its countries once sealed against the Bible and its doctrine of justification by faith by the bloody laws of the Inquisition, but now so accessible to our missionaries that a great educational work is done and self-supporting Synods exist, as in the National Churches of Brazil and Mexico; and the work advances, as this year it advanced 71 per cent. in the Philippines.

The other great encouragement that would thrill these worthies of the past would be the manifest and abounding ability of the Church we love to do this work for God, as evidenced by its wealth in men, in money and in methods.

What a contrast in the number of men! In 1807, when the first statistics of communicants are given, there were only 20,000 Presbyterians in the United States, or less than one-half as many as are now connected with the Synod of Iowa. There are now 1,150,000 Presbyterians of our branch in our country, with enough wealth at their disposal to send twelves and even seventies to every important land of earth. In 1836, seventy years ago, our Church had in the foreign field only six ordained missionaries and a grand total of five communicants, not even one to each minister. Now it has nearly 1,000 American missionaries ministering to 63,000 native communicants! And they are as worthy missionaries as ever served our Master. Ninety-nine of them have been on the field for more than thirty-five years; eight of them longer than fifty years. Dr. H. H. Jessup, one of the eight, this year completes a half century of foreign service. And there is a host of volunteers ready to take, if need be, even martyrs' places in the ranks on the frontier line of Christendom's battle for its King. In one of the busiest spots in America stands, amid the rush and materialism of money-getters, a statue of Nathan Hale, inscribed with the words, "I regret that I have but one life to give to my country." Such patriotic devotion to Christ and His cause is found everywhere in the mission fields of our beloved Church, and in the noble body of native helpers that God has raised up to take part with us in our ministry of reconciliation. The Presbyterian stock is not running out. And what shall be said of the women whose unselfish devotion, indefatigable labors, and abounding services in connection with the Women's Boards of Foreign Missions and their constituent and allied societies have been so blessed during the past year? Surely their fidelity would suggest the gracious memory of those loyal Galilean women who ministered to Jesus, and even pressed near His cross when many had forsaken Him.

The Church is rich indeed in its men and women of to-day. And how much greater, too, is the financial ability of the Church of this generation than was that of the Church of the epochs whose anniversaries we are celebrating! The resources of the present-day Church would seem almost incredible to our old-time leaders. They were accustomed to a few widows' mites; there are still widows' mites, but hosts of them, aggregating large suns; and there are many considerable contributions and some princely gifts.

The ability of the present-day Church in both men and money would be a glorious revelation to the Morrison who, much like his Divine Master, trod the wine-press alone. But in nothing could there be more delight experienced than in witnessing the methods of foreign evangelization that have been perfected by the modern Church. Men have not merely contributed their money, but have so assiduously put their minds to the subject of missions that they have developed methods of prosecuting the work that originate, economize and multiply the efficiency of the service rendered. Statesmanlike oversight and direction, systematic and strategic marshaling of the forces, and inspiring and aggressive leadership add vastly to the value and the victories of the men and the money that the Presbyterian Church consecrates to the work of God in mission lands.

As the Board's report says: "There is slowly being evolved a science of missions."

This science is exemplified in "the Home Department," as it is termed. The country is divided into three administrative sections for the purposes of the department, with a view to the speedy arousing of universal interest in foreign missions. The Forward Movement, under Mr. David McConaughy, is leading numerous churches to support in full or in part a "Parish Abroad," or a share in the work at large. The central thought of the movement is the inexorable duty of individuals and churches to help carry the great commission. It promises to be one of the most satisfactory methods ever employed for stimulating interest and promoting participation in the world's evangelization. This movement should, by the helpful coöperation of mission committees and pastors and sessions with the agents of the Board, make substantial advance during the coming year; and it must do so, if we accomplish what is imperatively necessary to be done. It is a happy fact that during the past year the Board received the best coöperation from synodical and presbyterial committees that it has ever enjoyed. The appointment of Rev. Charles E. Bradt, D.D., as Assistant Secretary in charge of the district of the Central West has been abundantly justified by his efficient labors.

The Educational Department has prospered under the wise leadership of Dr. T. H. P. Sailer. There have been 552 mission study classes, with 7,300 members enrolled. Dr. Sailer renders his invaluable services without compensation.

At the Board's offices in New York, the best and most thorough-going business methods prevail. Strenuous life is there a necessity in all of the rooms. The business men and the ministers composing the Board have rendered most laborious and conscientious service during the year, as the official records bear sufficient witness. Two of the members of the Board have been removed by death—Rev. Robert Russell Booth, D.D., the Nestor of the Board, after thirty-five years of the most useful service; and Mr. Albert J. Pitkin, who was a member for less than a year, but long enough to give promise of great usefulness.

The Presbyterian Building is now free from incumbrance, and will hereafter be a source of revenue to the Board.

Mr. Charles W. Hand, on February 1, tendered his resignation as Treasurer of the Board, to enter into other business relations in New York. The Church may congratulate itself on having had his wise and faithful services for so many years. Mr. Dwight H. Day has been elected as Mr. Hand's successor, and entered upon his duties two months ago.

Last year's deficit of $38,000 has this year been increased to one of $111,000. This was caused by the providential and magnificent expansion of the work on the foreign field, necessitating some advance in expenditures; but it was caused principally by an unexpected decrease of legacies, to the amount of $71,000, the deficit for the year being $72,000. But where the dead hand of individuals failed, the living hand of the churches came forward with a most gratifying increase, the largest ever made in a single year. It amounted to $73,000. This splendid increase is due to an advance in twenty-three out of thirty Synods, only a few of the smaller Home Mission Synods failing to make an advance. The most hearty acknowledgment is due the many faithful pastors and sessions and churches scattered all over the country, to whom this advance is to be credited. There have been small gains in the receipts from Sabbath-schools and Young People's Societies.

It is exceedingly gratifying to report that the native churches have in two years advanced in their contributions toward self-support from $117,000 to $243,000. Their increase this year was $50,000.

In that for which our missions exist, the building up of the Body of Christ, the year is one of the greatest in our history. That 10,000 people from the lands of heathenism and superstition were received into the churches upon profession of their faith in Christ during the year of revival is so inspiring a fact that it is not in our hearts to utter a single despondent word in this report. "When we look at Olympus," where the Divine presence is, "Ossa," even if it be a deficit, "seems a wart."

The only thing to do with the deficit is to undo it, to extinguish it, to exterminate it. Not necessarily by a special offering, though there is no law against that method; but certainly by filling the treasury with such an increased flood of gifts as will smother the deficit, while providing for a generous advance all along the fighting line. Fifteen of our foreign missionaries contributed their lives to the cause this year, and among them were the four martyrs of Lienchow. We are the living, to show forth God's praise and to remove the debt and to advance the work as never before. That this consummation may be reached, earnest prayer must be made that the Holy Spirit may arouse the entire Church to activity as a divinely ordained missionary organization; and on the human side the entire machinery of the Church—synodical, presbyterial and sessional—must be put to efficient use in developing the hearty and united efforts of the entire membership of our Church in behalf of this answer to God's challenge of His people.

God is sounding the advance. Above the din of daily toil and conflict rings forth the everlasting marching order of the Captain of our Salvation, "Go ye into all the world and preach my Gospel." Other policies come and go; other principles rise and fall; other banners advance and retreat; but ever forward and upward move the blessed policy, the changeless principles, and the fadeless banners of Christ and His Church. Our Master has never changed His mind about man's need of the Gospel, and He will never be satisfied till all have heard it, and until He shall see of the travail of His soul. His Church knows that fact, and is inspired by it. The mission motto of Presbyterianism for the year may well be the words of the dying Livingstone: "Take me anywhere, only forward!"

We offer the following recommendations:

1. That the printed report of the Board and its volume of Minutes, both of which we have carefully examined, be approved, and that we note with gratification the splendid business ability displayed in the management of the affairs of the Board.

2. That the following members of the Board, whose terms expire with this Assembly, be reelected: The Revs. John Fox, D.D., William R. Richards, D.D., and Cleland B. McAfee, D.D., and Hon. Darwin R. James, Mr. W. P. Stevenson and Mr. Scott Foster; and that the Rev. Charles R. Erdman, D.D., be elected to succeed the late Robert R. Booth, D.D., in the same class.

3. That the election of Mr. Dwight H. Day as Treasurer of the Board, vice Mr. Charles W. Hand, resigned, be confirmed.

4. That the Assembly hereby expresses its appreciative recognition of the unfailing fidelity and efficient service of Mr. Hand during his eight and one-half years' occupancy of the Treasurer's office.

5. That the Assembly, in view of the large and widespread interest taken in the conference held on the Wednesday before the opening of the Assembly, hereby instructs the Board to provide for a similar conference to be held on the day and evening before the next General Assembly.

6. That in view of the fact that the missions in South America have never been visited by a Secretary, the proposed visit to that field by a representative of the Board is hereby approved.

7. That in this notable, transitional anniversary year, rich with the memories of seventy, of one hundred, of two hundred years of the mercies of our God, and hallowed with the baptism of recent martyrdoms, the General Assembly would call upon the great Church it represents, to make the year a memorable one in the history of foreign missions, by increasing the aggregate of its annual investment in the world's evangelization until that investment shall exceed by  $33\frac{1}{3}$  per cent. the largest amount ever before contributed by the Church, thus clearing away the deficit, providing for the necessary expansion, and meeting worthily the emergency that great success has providentially created.

8. That in the opinion of the Assembly the living members of the Church should provide sufficient resources for the current support of the operations of the Board, so that all legacies may be employed in providing for the purchase of property, the extension of the work, and such other uses as the Board may deem practicable and proper.

9. That special efforts be made to secure general and generous special foreign missionary contributions from the Sabbath-schools on Christmas and Easter Sabbaths.

10. That in reply to a reference by the Board, the following answer be made: That in the matter of the doctrinal basis of theological seminaries and other institutions in which we unite with other denominations no further action is necessary, as the action of the last Assembly sufficiently covers the matter.

11a. That in view of the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the Haystack prayer meeting, to be held in October of this year, and of the centennial anniversary of the founding of missions in China, to be held in April, 1907, every minister be urged to preach a special missionary sermon on either or both of these anniversaries, as he may find practicable; and that Synods in their fall meetings and Presbyteries in their spring meetings set aside a suitable time for appropriate anniversary exercises.

b. That the Moderator and the Stated Clerk be authorized to appoint a committee to represent our Church in the Centennial of Chinese Missions, to serve without expense to the Board; and that said committee convey to the brethren who may convene in that celebration our deep sense of God's wonderful Providence in opening to Christian effort China's closed doors, in blessing those efforts so abundantly, and in awaking rulers and people to a desire for light and knowledge; and our confident hope that God will bring that stronghold of heathenism into allegiance with our Saviour and King.

c. That the Board be requested to extend the furlough of Rev. Hunter Corbett, D.D., LL.D., until after the Assembly of 1907, if his work in China will permit, that he may devote his time and influence to the stirring up of the home Church to a great forward movement in giving the Gospel of our Lord and Saviour to all mankind.

SIXTY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS

The record of the year marks a distinct epoch in the history of the Board of Foreign Missions. On November 23, 1905, the Rev. Robert Russell Booth, D.D., LL.D., a member of the Board, died. He was the last survivor of the Board as constituted by the General Assembly of the reunited Church in 1870. For six years previous to that date he had been a member of the Committee on Foreign Missions of the New School Presbyterian Church. His official connection, however, with the work which this Board has in charge extended over a period of more than thirty-five years. His large experience, his personal knowledge of conditions in many Mission fields, his acquaintance and cordial sympathy with many of the missionary force, as well as his position and well-earned influence in the Church at large, made his service in the Board of great value. He was broad-minded, large-hearted, a man of God, intensely loyal to his divine Master and zealous for the triumph of His kingdom.

Dr. Booth belonged to a noble line of men who by their self-sacrificing labors and broad, statesman-like plans did much to bring the Board to its present strategic position. In the thirty-five years of Dr. Booth's service the work of the Board has gone on with ever increasing momentum.

Mr. George S. Garrison, for thirty-seven years connected with the offices of the Board in New York, has prepared for this report a table showing the advance made in the work of the Board during the period covered by Dr. Booth's term of service. We would call especial attention of the General Assembly to this carefully prepared table, which presents to the eye the visible results of the Board's work.

In 1870 the receipts of the Board from all sources were $310,348.14. In 1906 the receipts from same sources were $1,145,230.35. In 1870 there were 101 missionaries, native workers, teachers, evangelists and preachers. In 1906 there were 889 missionaries, 1798 native workers and teachers, and 813 evangelists and preachers.

It is a most striking coincidence that the youngest member of the Board in point of service, Mr. Albert J. Pitkin, preceded Dr. Booth to the heavenly rest by only a few days. Mr. Pitkin died November 16, 1905. Although his term of service was very brief, being elected June 5, 1905, he took up the work of the Board with interest and enthusiasm and gave promise of large usefulness.

The death roll of the missionaries on the field is a long and illustrious one:

Mr. Peter Menkel, West Africa; appointed 1872, died April 10, 1905.

Mrs. W. B. Hunt, Korea; appointed 1897, died May 13, 1905.

Miss Kate N. Fleeson, Laos; appointed 1887, died June 3, 1905.

Miss Charlotte G. Montgomery, East Persia; appointed 1886, died June 10, 1905.

Mrs. W. B. Toy, Siam; appointed 1891, died June 23, 1905.

Mrs. C. B. Newton, Punjab; appointed 1889, died August 2, 1905.

Joseph P. Cochran, M.D., West Persia; appointed 1878, died August 18, 1905.

Mrs. A. A. Pieters, Korea; appointed 1902, died January 4, 1906.

Rev. Hubert W. Brown, D.D., Mexico; appointed 1884, died February 15, 1906.

Mrs. J. C. Hepburn, Japan East; appointed 1840, died March 4, 1906.

Mrs. Charles C. Walker, Siam; appointed 1904, died April 21, 1906.

Mrs. E. C. Machle, Canton; appointed 1889, died October 28, 1905.

Eleanor Chesnut, M.D., Canton; appointed 1893, died October 28, 1905.

Rev. John R. Peale, Canton; appointed 1904, died October 28, 1905.

Mrs. John R. Peale, Canton; appointed 1904, died October 28, 1905.

Rarely has the Board had to report to the Assembly in a single year the deaths of so many missionaries. The last four named on the list were massacred at Lien-chou, Canton Mission, China, on October 28, 1905. Amy Machle, the ten-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Machle, was also killed with her mother.

The Board had no intimation whatever of any trouble at Lien-chou, apart from the general unrest characteristic of China since the Boxer outbreak, and much augmented by the events of the Russian-Japanese war. A full statement of the facts connected with the terrible tragedy will be found in the report, and in addition the Board has published a leaflet giving in detail the various reasons assigned as the cause of the massacre.

It is well to note that the report which chronicles this sad event in the history of the Canton Mission also contains the record of the best year in the history of this Mission—1,564 additions on confession of faith. In 1890 there were but 600 communicants in this Mission; now there are 6,835. The additions in the seven Missions in China were 2,942. The total additions for the year in all the Missions were 9860.

On February 1, Mr. Charles W. Hand resigned the office of Treasurer of the Board. The following minute, adopted by the Board, will show the esteem in which Mr. Hand was held:

“In the eight and one-half years of his service as Treasurer of the Board, Mr. Hand has commanded the entire confidence of the Board and of the Church, and has greatly endeared himself to those with whom his office has brought him into relations. The Board would make mention especially of Mr. Hand’s patience and geniality, his justice and fairness of view, his sound judgment, his temperate mind, and his Christian devotion. The Board laments the necessity of Mr. Hand's withdrawal, but rejoices in the assurance of his abiding interest in the great cause, and of his readiness to continue to serve it as a member of the Church.''

With an interregnum of a single month, in which Mr. John Stewart, a member of the Board, acted as Treasurer without charge, a successor was found in the person of Mr. Dwight H. Day. Mr. Day was elected at the meeting of the Board held February 5, 1905, and assumed the duties of his office March 6. The Board believes that in Mr. Day it has one thoroughly in sympathy with the work of Foreign Missions, and fully qualified to perform the arduous duties entrusted to the office of Treasurer. The Assembly is requested to confirm the election of Mr. Day.

On January 31, 1906, the balance remaining of the share of the Board's original mortgage, and that of the Board of Home Missions, on the Presbyterian Building, 156 Fifth Avenue, was paid, thus leaving the property free and clear of such encumbrance. This was rendered possible by the persistent efforts of the Treasurers of the two Boards and the generous co-operation of certain friends, who extended the time of their provisional gifts and aided materially in bringing about this happy consummation. The annuities are still a lien on the receipts of the building, but the income is more than sufficient to care for these, to pay for all running expenses, to permit both the Boards to have a floor free of cost, and to pay over each year a handsome sum into the treasuries of the Boards. A full statement of the subject will be found in the Treasurer's report.

The building has more than justified the wisdom of its founders. Apart from all financial considerations it has been a great unifier of Presbyterian interests. Five of the Boards of the Church are now sheltered under its roof, and it has become a centre of Christian activity whose influence is felt to the ends of the earth. The thanks of the whole Church are due to Mr. John S. Kennedy and his able colleagues who had so much to do with the inception and prosecution of this important undertaking.

The scope of the Home Department has been greatly enlarged during the year. A territorial division of the work was made. First, the Eastern Section, which is to include the territory east of and including the States of Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee. Second, the States of the Central West from Indiana to Colorado, including Michigan, but not Kentucky and Tennessee. Third, the remaining States of the Union. Mr. David McConaughy, Assistant Secretary of the Board, in charge of the Forward Movement, was assigned to the Eastern Section.

The Forward Movement, under the leadership of Mr. David McConaughy, has made good progress during the year. He has persistently insisted upon the fundamental principles of the Movement, namely: that every church in its entirety is essentially a missionary society; that every member is under covenant to help carry out the Great Commission; and that the best basis for giving is the Scriptural Rule of Three (I Corinthians 16:2), that it should be individual, systematic and proportionate, as an act of worship. The churches are being called upon to put the support of the "Parish Abroad" on a no less stable basis than the local church. This Parish Abroad may be either an interest in the work on the foreign field as a whole or a part of the work of a particular station with its various aspects. This broader, more permanent and more flexible plan is a distinct advance on the earlier stage, which had to do with the support of individual missionaries and with classes of work.

In the working out of the Forward Movement plan, more and more attention has been given to the developing of Presbyterial and Synodical Committees, so as to push the work under the direction of these Committees in a systematic and thoroughgoing way. Thus campaigns have been conducted with the co-operation of returned missionaries in a large number of Presbyteries, with the most gratifying results. The demand for such co-operation has steadily increased, so that it is now necessary to arrange far in advance in order to secure the help of the missionaries and Secretaries. With a view to training for such work, institutes are arranged for the Central District at Winona Lake, Indiana, the last week in August; for the Eastern District at Pocono Pines, Pennsylvania, September 4-7.

The Forward Movement magazine, All the World, has met a felt need and has been well received throughout the Church. Care has been taken to adhere strictly to the sphere which it is meant to fill, as a medium for the exchange of experience between those who are engaged in the Forward Movement for Foreign Missions, and as a channel of communication between the Church at home and the "Parish Abroad." It is furnished to those who contribute not less than $2.00 a year to our Foreign Missions work.

The Rev. Charles E. Bradt, D.D., so long the successful missionary pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Wichita, Kansas, was appointed Assistant Secretary and assigned to the district of the Central West, with headquarters in Chicago. He entered upon his duties in June with his well-known enthusiasm and energy. The results already attained attest the wisdom of his appointment.

The Rev. Walter C. Erdman was appointed Assistant Secretary to have charge of the work in connection with the Sunday-schools. The funds for Mr. Erdman's salary and all expenses connected with his department were specially contributed by friends of the Board. Mr. Erdman has now been appointed a missionary of the Board and assigned to Korea. While regretting to lose his services in the Home Department, the Board rejoices that he feels called to this important field.

The Educational Department has greatly developed under the wise leadership of Dr. T. H. P. Sailer. On April 12 there were 552 classes reported as studying Foreign Missions, with over 7,300 members enrolled. This is nearly double the number reported at the corresponding time last year. On the one hand, this is only a beginning. We shall need to go on doubling for many years to come before we can feel that we are adequately covering the ground in our great denomination. On the other hand, the mere figures by no means represent the actual growth of the past twelve months. Quality has improved as well as quantity; leaders have been training for what we hope may be a long life service; momentum has been gathering, and an atmosphere is being created in which our campaign work may hope to live and thrive. Here and there all over the country are arising not only recruits for the ranks but captains, colonels, and even generals. One of the most encouraging features of the year has been the promotion of systematic campaigns of propagation in some of our large cities. The influence of the summer conferences for missionary workers and of the winter institutes has been especially valuable in inciting such movements.

We feel that we have now a work which if given a fair chance ought to yield striking results in the next few years. By means of the intelligence and enthusiasm developed through the systematic study of Missions, we should raise up a generation of workers both willing and able to instruct and inspire all ages in the Church, from the children in the primary classes in the Sunday-schools to the mature men and women who lead the activities of our congregations.

During the year a Conference was held with representatives of the Women's Boards and Societies, and a free and frank discussion was had in regard to all matters relating to the work. The amount raised during the year by the women's organizations will be found in the Treasurer's Report.

In grateful recognition of the valuable professional services extending through a period of years of David Bovaird, Jr., M.D., of New York City, in examining and treating without charge many candidates for appointment and many foreign missionaries, the Board directed that his name be published in the Annual Report as the Medical Adviser of the Board.

Many evidences have been given during the year of a deepening interest on the part of the home Church in Foreign Missions. The members of the Foreign Mission Committees of Synods and Presbyteries have rendered more and better service than in any previous year in the history of the Board. This was shown not merely in the readiness to respond to the requests from the home office, but in the numerous inquiries coming from the Committees for information and suggestion as to the best methods of work.

The Foreign Missions Conference, held the day before the opening of the last General Assembly, was the largest and most successful in all the history of these conferences. So manifest is the growing interest in many quarters in Foreign Missions that one pastor said to a member of the Board, "Why, the Church is honeycombed with Foreign Missions."

The earnestness shown by the Committee appointed to raise the funds for the Memorial erected to the late Boon Boon Itt, of Siam, and the generous response to the appeal is another gratifying indication of the development of Foreign Missions in the home Church.

The heartiness with which the friends of Missions responded to the invitation, extended by the various Boards having work in China, to a dinner given to the Imperial Chinese Commissioners visiting this country for the purpose of inspecting American institutions, was an indication of the trend of the missionary current.

A leaflet has been published giving a full account of the addresses delivered at this dinner. The Board carefully considered the request of the Viceroy Tuan Fang, made at the dinner, asking that the Mission Boards should not merely discourage but forbid interference of the missionaries with Chinese converts in cases in the courts to which the converts were parties. The Board has advised its missionaries in China under no circumstances to interfere in any judicial case affecting Chinese Christians without previously obtaining consent of the Mission or its Executive Committee.

Representatives of the Board attended and took part in the Annual Conference of Mission Boards and the Fifth Meeting of the Student Volunteers, held at Nashville, February 28 to March 4. The reports brought back from these gatherings indicated great enthusiasm on the part of the youth of the Church in Foreign Missions.

Great as has been the interest in the home Church, it has not kept pace with the work in the foreign field. The Board has not been able to maintain or to expand the work, or to increase the laborers, foreign and native, as it ought to do, through lack of funds.

The Board, anticipating the possibility of a union being effected with the Cumberland Church, has had a number of conferences with the Committee of the Assembly on Cooperation and Union, with a view to arrange any adjustments which may be necessary in the Foreign Mission work of the two Boards. All the questions involved have been carefully considered, and the Board will be ready to proceed at once with the work of consolidation when the two Assemblies deem it wise to consummate the proposed union.

The record of the year in the foreign field has been most gratifying. The Church at home has been stirred by reports of revivals in various parts of the land. Similar reports have also come from the regions beyond. In India a great revival, marked by much prayer, confession of sin, restitution and witness bearing for Christ, has blessed many of the Missions.

The Japanese Convention of November 17, by which Japan virtually assumed control over Korea, developed some problems of special delicacy. An official of the United States Government assured the officers of the Board that the missionaries had been most wise in their treatment of the Japanese and the Koreans as well. It is hoped that the new régime in Korea will increase and not diminish the prosperity and usefulness of the Korean Church.

A revival, attended by no excitement whatever, has added large numbers to the Church of Christ. It is significant that the question of self-support in Korea has advanced during the year in a most remarkable way, notwithstanding the political disturbances.

In other places there has been gratifying increase, notably in the Philippines, where even the remarkable progress of former years has been exceeded. It is but six years since the Mission was opened and the record shows over 4,000 church members. During the year the Ellinwood Training Schools have been completed. Funds have been raised for the American chapel at Manila. New stations have been opened, and the work has progressed far beyond the expectations of the most sanguine. The Lord's hand surely opened the door of the Philippines to the Church of Christ.

By way of contrast the work in the Guatemala Mission seems small, but the laborers are few and the adversaries are many. The faithful service of the beloved missionaries there will surely bring forth fruit in due season.

In Mexico there has been a marked development of self-support, especially in the Presbytery of the Gulf of Mexico. In Colombia and Venezuela the disturbed condition of the country and the absence of missionaries on furlough have interfered seriously with large results.

Chile reports 153 converts, with the ever-widening influence of the educational work.

The Church in Brazil has grown in spite of the schism of a year ago and the unusual activity in the Romish Church, caused by the coming into the country of friars sent from the Philippines.

The report of a Committee of Exploration sent out by the Africa Mission, showing the vast need of the regions in the interior, remote from our stations, has called forth a generous gift from Miss MacLean, the founder of the mission station at Lolodorf, which will enable the Mission to open a new station as soon as a proper site is found.

The results of the Russian-Japanese war have more or less affected the work in many lands. In Persia there has been continued unrest. This together with the fact that the murderers of the Rev. B. W. Labaree have not been brought to justice, and with difficult relations with the Government officials, have made the year a trying one. Self-denying work in the Kurdistan mountains has been carried on by a faithful missionary with the result of many conversions.

In Syria, our important institutions, notably the Mission Press at Beirut, the Girard Institute at Sidon and the medical and evangelistic work in many stations have shown progress.

The political situation in China has caused much anxiety. The end is not yet. A conference was held at 156 Fifth Avenue, at which representatives and missionaries of all Boards at work in China considered the whole situation. The conclusions reached at that Conference were sent to the missionaries of the Board in China. These faithful missionaries need the special prayers of the Church in this time of unrest and surpassing opportunity.

The report will give in full the result in the various Missions, but the progress shown in the field has been something more than a mere increase in the number of converts or of new stations opened. There is slowly being evolved a science of Missions, and the large problems of missionary statesmanship are being carefully studied.

A Conference called by the representatives of various Boards having work in Mohammedan lands was held at Cairo on April 4th to the 10th. The Board was represented by missionaries from Moslem lands and by the President of the Board who was specially appointed for this purpose. The evangelization of the Mohammedan world is one of the great problems before the Church. It is hoped that this Conference will aid not a little in the furtherance of plans for this great undertaking.

The union movement in Mission lands, reported to the last Assembly and meeting with its hearty approval, has gone on with increasing strength during the year. The Korea Mission has advanced beyond the position taken last year. The Mission and the Board are now considering plans involving the union not merely of all the Presbyterian bodies at work in Korea, but with the Methodist bodies as well. In educational, medical and publishing lines tentative union has already been effected. The Board has followed in this matter the principles cordially approved by the General Assembly and rejoices in a movement which promises such large results for the Kingdom.

It is significant that both in India and in Korea the attempt on the part of the Church to realize in some degree the Master's prayer "that they all may be one," has been followed by a gracious outpouring of the Spirit of God.

The situation in Japan is interesting. A hopeful crisis has been reached in the history of the native Church. The Board and the Mission are giving the subject much thought and earnest prayer. The need of divine wisdom at this time for the missionary and the Japanese Christian is most pressing.

The Board approved heartily the action of the North China Mission in uniting with the London Missionary Society, the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church and the American Board in the instruction of women in medicine in connection with the North China Union College.

The proposed new Synod of Central China, composed of representatives of various Presbyterian bodies at work in China, plans to meet at Shanghai in May. The Assembly will be asked to approve the withdrawal of our Presbyteries in Central China to join this Synod, which is another step looking to the union of all Presbyterians in the great Empire of China.

The Conference on Federation, which met in Peking in September and included representatives from more than twenty-five missionary organizations at work in the Chinese Empire, was the most notable union movement of the year. While it was a conference and not a formally legislative body, and its actions should be considered as advisory rather than authoritative, yet it is significant that without dissension these representatives of the great missionary bodies in China considered a union hymn-book, union terms for God and the Holy Spirit, union designations for names of churches and chapels and the federation of all Protestant churches.

The record of the year shows the growing esteem in which the missionaries and the work of the Board are held. Two of the Board's missionaries have been offered Consular positions. The Kaiser-I-Hind medal was bestowed by King Edward VII on a missionary of the Board, Dr. J. C. R. Ewing, for meritorious work in connection with the Earthquake Fund in India; the significant fact being that the editors of the Hindu and the Moslem papers gave their hearty approval to this honor thus conferred on a missionary.

The relief sent to the famine sufferers in Persia and Japan; the generous gift of the Maharajah of Gwalior, enabling the missionaries to complete the church at Morar, North India; the honor showered on the Laos missionaries by the Crown Prince of Siam at the laying of the cornerstone of the new college at Chieng-Mai, and the notable utterance of the Chinese Minister in the United States, commenting on the Board's refusal to accept indemnity for the loss of the martyred missionaries at Lien-chou, all attest the honor in which the missionary is held.

The President of the Board was instructed to write a letter of congratulation to the Rev. H. H. Jessup, D.D., of the Syria Mission, who in February, 1906, completed fifty years of missionary service. It is a noteworthy fact that of the missionaries now in the service of the Board eight have served more than fifty years, forty-two more than forty years, and forty-nine more than thirty years. There is no age limit in the missionary service. The church or the individual possessing the mission spirit can never lose true enthusiasm nor grow weary in well doing.

The term of service of the following Board members, in Class 1903-1906, expire. The Assembly is respectfully requested to re-elect them:

Rev. John Fox, D.D.,	Hon. Darwin R. James,
Rev. W. R. Richards, D.D.,	Mr. W. P. Stevenson,
Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, D.D.,	Mr. Scott Foster.

WEST AFRICA MISSION.

BENITO: 92 miles north of Gaboon; occupied as a station, 1864. Missionaries—Rev. F. D. P. Hickman, Mrs. Louise Reutlinger, Mrs. C. DeHeer, Rev. J. S. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham.

BARAKA: on the Gaboon River, near the equator, 10 miles from the sea; occupied as a station, 1842; transferred from American Board, 1870. Missionaries—Silas F. Johnson, M.D., and Mrs. Johnson, Rev. A. J. Langlois and Mrs. Langlois, Mrs. T. S. Ogden.

BATANGA: 170 miles north of Gaboon; occupied as a station, 1885. Missionaries—Robert H. Nassau, D.D., Miss Isabella A. Nassau, A. B. T. Lippert, M.D., and Mrs. Lippert, A. G. Adams and Mrs. Adams, Rev. L. D. Heminger.

EFULEN: 70 miles east of Batanga, behind the coast belt; occupied 1893. Missionaries—Rev. W. C. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, J. E. Blunden, M.D., Mr. George Schwab and Mrs. Schwab, H. L. Weber, M.D., and Mrs. Weber.

ELAT: 75 miles east of Efulen; occupied as a station, 1895. Missionaries—Mrs. C. W. McCleary, Mr. F. B. Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Krug, R. M. Johnston, M. D., and Mrs. Johnston, Rev. Wm. M. Dager and Mrs. Dager.

MACLEAN MEMORIAL STATION: at Lolodorf, headquarters of the German Government in the Ngumba country, 90 miles northwest of Batanga; occupied as a station in 1897. Missionaries—W. S. Lehman, M.D., and Mrs. Lehman, Miss Jeanette Mackenzie, R. B. Hummel, Rev. Melvin Frazer, Mr. E. A. Ford and Mrs. Ford.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. H. L. Weber, Mrs. Louise Reutlinger, Mrs. C. DeHeer, Rev. F. D. P. Hickman, Rev. J. S. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, Rev. Rob't H. Nassau, Miss I. A. Nassau.

The regular meeting of the West Africa Mission for many years has been held in Batanga. This year, in accordance with the request of many members of the Mission, the meeting convened at Libreville. One of the incidental benefits of holding the meeting at Libreville was the opportunity afforded to the missionaries from the interior to study carefully this southern section of the West Africa Mission field. An opportunity was afforded to see not only the work at Baraka among the Mpongwe people, but also the work among the Fang, many of the missionaries being privileged to take a trip on the "Dorothy" during the Mission meeting. The impression produced was most favorable. One of the missionaries writes:

GABOON & KAMERUN

Mission Stations are indicated:

The Baraka Mission house is a charming room, large and airy. The trees old and knee deep in grass. The mission grounds are on a ridge overlooking the Gaboon river. All about us the country falls away in thickly wooded ridges. Across the great stretch of the river we got the sunsets above the low line of the far shore. . . . Altogether there is a great charm about Baraka Station.

The Mpongwe people under fifty years of training have indeed developed into a people clothed and in their right minds. They live in pretty bamboo houses, read and write, go to church with pride and pleasure, all dressed in a respectable manner. They eat off of tables covered with white cloths, sleep in clean beds, plant flowers about their cottages.

Fifteen of us traveled in the "Dorothy" to Nkoma, across to Bakwe and back again by Nkoma to Baraka. The towns were far apart and the people seemed indifferent. Now, we began to see, at least the pitifulness of the situation, and the next day as we went down the Bakwe river, and made our last stop, it burst upon us with increasing power. We saw many "children" whose hearts had been touched by the divine influence of a divine Shepherd, who were now left shepherdless. In this one town were thirty-four Christians, but they had not held a communion for over two years, neither had they any regular instruction for an even longer period. The head man of the village, Tyuga, was blind. Three years ago, when he became openly identified with the Church, he had seven wives, six of whom he has put away. He holds meetings and instructs his people, but he himself needs instruction. He is pleading for a communion service in his town, and his was a most pathetic figure as he bade us good-bye. He clung to the hand of one of the missionaries with a grasp which said "I will not let thee go." The work with the Fang seemed to us difficult and expensive and it meant the giving up of one of our strongest Bulu-speaking missionaries at a time when it seemed almost impossible to spare him.

The Mission Meeting was marked by a spirit of harmony and unity, and while in the assignment some valued workers had to be taken from their old stations, where they had labored long and were much beloved by the people, yet all acquiesced in the decision of the majority, and the new year of labor in the West Africa Mission opens most auspiciously.

BARAKA

The work of the Station was carried on by Mr. and Mrs. Ford and Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham. In October Mr. and Mrs. Langlois arrived and gave their strength to the work. Dr. Blunden and Mrs. Ogden reached Libreville early in November and rendered valuable assistance in the preparation for Mission meeting.

The Mpongwe church held its own and made a slight advance. Twelve persons were received into the church during the year. The morning church offerings on Sabbath reached the sum of $127.00, while the Monthly Concert for Missions produced $21.00, and the Women's Missionary Society of the church gave $33.00, making a grand total of gifts of $181.00.

Mr. Cunningham had the oversight of three churches—

Gaboon, Ayol and Mbike. He held communion in each of them and had the joy of welcoming a number of persons to the table of the Lord.

The past year Mr. Cunningham has had the charge of the boys during work hours and has given them good training, teaching them to work while at work and after that to play, by playing with them.

The work among the Fang was under the charge of Mr. Ford. There has been much to encourage. Old sores have been healed and the Fang people are showing a most gratifying interest in the Gospel. Three men of the Fang have preached the Gospel at their own charges, and God has set his seal of approval on their efforts. Two churches have been erected during the year without any aid from the Mission. An offering once a month has been started in a few of the towns, which promises much for the future. Robert Boardman deserves great credit for his continued efforts urging the people to do something for themselves. Thirty persons were received into the church and there are 300 catechumens in the classes.

There is a Fang field south of Indombo which has never been touched. The people at Indombo have paid their own expenses and have given in addition $18.00 toward their preacher's salary.

Mr. Ford's visits in search of Fang boys, most of which were made in an open sail-boat, afforded him an excellent opportunity to see the Fang field. He writes:

In the combined work of evangelisation and gathering the school boys, I have made seven trips, visiting twenty different towns, many of them twice, sleeping twenty-eight nights in the boat and five nights on shore. On one of these trips I made a raft and towed to Nenge Nenge all the lumber that had been stored under one of the buildings at Angom.

I have found very much encouragement in the evangelistic work among the Fang this year, and I am more strongly impressed with the evangelistic possibilities of this part of the field than I was when I began.

For example, look at Bisôbinlam. This town is situated in a river just west of the Rembwe. Last year one of the catechumens from Angôenzok visited there, and as a result of his testimony, some men came and told us that there were twenty-four persons who wished to be Christians and they wanted some one to come and teach them. Accordingly I sent Ndônekôni there while I was absent at Mission meeting and again in June and July. On my second visit to the town, I was struck with the earnest attention paid by the men, with whom the palaver house was filled, and when at the close I was prompted to ask for an avowal by those not already enrolled as catechumens, three of the older men responded with all evidence of sincerity. This town contains forty-four houses, and twenty-eight persons were in the catechumen class under instruction, of whom six were men and two boys.

While visiting the French Mission in the Ogowe, one of their catechists told me that some time ago, as he was visiting on the Bokwe, at a town beyond where our work has extended—visibly at least—he was forcibly detained for two weeks or more, by the people of the town, who said that as no one came there to preach the Gospel, and they were now anxious to hear it, they would keep him there to preach to them!

The Christians at Zamalige have more than once sent word that they are now anxious for the communion, and those at Ntyua have made the same request. A recent visit to this town, the home of elder Onzaga, was most gratifying, not only for the evident sincerity with which he and others welcomed my coming and asked for the communion service, but even more from the hearty response that was made to my announcement that when the service was held, there would be a collection (something unknown thus far), and that every one would be expected to give, so that they ought to begin at once to lay aside for it.

I have the names of 118 baptized persons, of whom twelve were baptized last June. Three have died, so far as I know, of those previously baptized.

The catechumen classes, and those in towns where there is no catechist who have said they wish to be Christians, number 240, including the twenty-one boys and four girls now in the school. Of these, 100, and I think a few more, have been enrolled during the last two years, half of them being the new converts I have mentioned, and who are too recent and too uncertain to be included in statistics, but who deserve simple mention.

It is worth noticing also, that the Committee reported last year that there were sixty-two Christians in the Gungwe, and that the names given me of the baptized persons in the Gungwe and at Ayôlemebañ, which is really in the same district, number exactly sixty-two.

EDUCATIONAL.—Mr. Ford was able to gather twenty-five Fang boys and five Fang girls. This was done with some difficulty with the open sail-boat, the "Dorothy," most of the time waiting for supplies from New York.

Mrs. Ford had charge of the instruction in the class-room and of the girls outside of class hours. A Fang man gave the religious instruction to the Fang. Mr. Ford when at the Station gave the Bible instruction to the Mpongwe children and directed that given by the native teacher during his absence.

On the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Langlois the boys and girls were separated, thus making the classes smaller and easier to handle. It also freed Mrs. Ford of responsibility, as Mr. Langlois took charge of the boys. The enrollment for the year stands as follows: fifty-three Mpongwe boys, forty-seven girls, twenty-five Fang boys, five girls—total, 130. Average attendance seventy. A large number of the children decided for Christ and entered the catechumen class.

The year was divided into three terms. At the end of the first and second terms examinations were given. The second term's examination showed splendid improvement. Four persons paid the full amount charged for tuition, thirty cents a month. The whole amount received was fifty francs. They worked to the value of $168.00 and gained $10.00 in addition.

BENITO STATION.

The year opened with a very serious loss to the work. The two ladies who had grown old in His cause, started for America to take their much needed furlough, leaving the same day that the reinforcements for the Station arrived, so that the new workers were thus deprived of the valuable suggestions and counsel that they should otherwise have received.

Notwithstanding the large force assigned to Benito the work for this year has been carried on by three people. God gave these three very good health.

Rev. F. D. P. Hickman had charge of the church, the instruction of three candidates for the ministry, oversight of work done at the Station in connection with buying and giving out food, care of the Station store and hearing many palavers. Mrs. Ogden was housekeeper and had charge of the girls' school and work among the women. Dr. Blunden was the Station treasurer, had entire charge of medical work and he did itinerating among the Fang along the Benito river.

The Benito field extends for about 100 miles along the coast with the main Station at about the central point. The out-stations manned by native helpers need more constant supervision than we have been able to give them. One or two visits during the year is not enough to give the help and supervision they so much need. The population in the Benito field is constantly increasing through accessions from the interior tribes.

There are six organized churches in the Benito field. During the year sixteen persons were added to the churches making the total membership now about 600. A new chapel has been erected at Melega for the accommodation of the Christians of that district. Another is in process of erection at Neumi. These buildings are built entirely of native material and almost wholly by the natives themselves.

The catechumen class numbers forty-seven members, sixteen having been enrolled during the year. These will be kept under instruction and observation for two years more before they are received into the church membership.

The theological students show great progress. When the appropriation for the new year came into force, and their support was cut down almost one-third, they said with tears in their eyes that they were not in the work for money, but for the love of Him and his children.

The boys' school has not prospered as well as in former years. Lack of time for personal supervision being the great drawback. The boys have received daily instruction in Benga and elementary Spanish. Many promising pupils had to be turned away.

The girls' school was carried on very successfully by Mrs. Ogden. School opened March 26 with an enrollment of twenty-six. One hundred could have been received had room and means permitted. The Bible was the chief text-book. Masanga, our excellent Benga teacher, gave very careful attention to the correct reading of each passage of Scripture. The progress made by all, but especially by the younger girls has been marked. The girls did their own washing and ironing, the larger ones also assisting in the family laundry. They kept clean their school-room and two sleeping apartments, scrubbing them thoroughly once a week. The yard was daily freed from débris; and little sticks gathered and cut to make fire for their noonday meal. In a tiny garden they grew vegetables, and were diligent in weeding the flower garden. Once a week they with their matron went to the bush to cut their week's supply of wood and to carry it home. Many times the little girls came home with great logs on their heads. Once a week all the girls accompanied Mrs. Ogden to the towns where cottage prayer meetings were held. Thus they received a practical insight into Christian work.

An itinerating trip was made by Mr. Hickman among the coast churches to the south. Three trips were made by Dr. Blunden among the Fang along the Benito river. The expense of one trip and that the most extensive, was borne by the natives at the Coast. The Coast tribes are very anxious that this work should be opened up and the Gospel given to the savage warlike Fang.

The relation with the Spanish Government is a very important feature to the success of the work at Benito. During this year this relation has been of the most friendly character.

BATANGA STATION.

No missionaries were assigned to Batanga Station for the year, though Dr. and Mrs. Weber remained at the Station the greater part of the year. Rev. R. H. Nassau and Miss Nassau, although assigned to Benito, lived at Batanga and carried on their work, Dr. Nassau in charge of the Batanga Church by appointment of the Presbytery, and Miss Nassau continuing her work of instruction to candidates for the ministry, as during the past years.

The reasons which led the Mission to practically close

Batanga Station for the year are thus summarized in Secretary Halsey's report:

A spirit of unrest and dissatisfaction with the work of the missionary was manifest in all the interviews which I had with these good people. I felt deep sympathy for them. In former days Batanga was a prosperous place. Now its glory has departed. The policy of the Mission in later years has been steadily directed more and more toward self-support. The people must pay for their medicine—a small sum—must contribute something for the education of their children and in other ways must assume the burden of responsibility of members of the Christian Church. All Africa is in a state of transition. The old order passeth away, the new order cometh. It is impossible to avoid friction, discontent and dissatisfaction in such a transition era. This dissatisfaction showed itself some years ago in an open outbreak against the missionaries. The visit of the Secretary offered a favorable opportunity for the people to present their grievances, real or supposed. I gave every opportunity for the members of the church to talk over these matters with me, but I found hardly one who was not more or less disaffected. Self-support is a hard lesson to learn, even in America, much more so in Africa. The Mission, in my judgment, acted wisely in withdrawing the missionaries for a time from the Batanga Station. I believe that discipline will prove effective.

The discipline has proved effective. The Mission has assigned Dr. and Mrs. Lippert, Mr. and Mrs. Adams, and Mr. Heminger to this Station, and the outlook is most hopeful.

Dr. Nassau reports regarding the church work at Batanga:

Occasionally the church has been well filled on Sabbaths. But, with distressing frequency, rainy Sabbaths, deaths and their accompanying mournings, and distractions by Government seizure of porters for its caravans, have made comparatively small audiences.

But the Inquiry Class has grown to the gratifying number of over fifty and the additions to the church by baptism and confirmation have been thirty-two, the largest addition of any of the fifteen churches.

A movement faithfully to carry out the agreement made long ago that Christians should not sell their daughters into marriage, but which, for some years, had been broken by certain parties, for which no discipline had been enforced, created some murmuring by weaker members who wished to make gain even off their own children.

A gratifying fact is that, of the ten teachers of the eight schools kept by the Mission on the Batanga coast, all but one belong to the Batanga congregation, and of these nine, all but one are church members.

Also of the fifteen candidates for the ministry in the entire Presbytery, six were members of Batanga church. Of these, two are dropped; leaving four in good standing, one of whom has been acting as my Sabbath-school Superintendent.

There has been a small increase in gifts. It would really appear larger if the members at Lobi and Lalabe, in erecting their schools, had been willing to report their gifts in the congregational column of statistics.

THE WORK IN THE INTERIOR.—The Efulen, Elat and Lolodorf Stations showed gratifying growth during the year. The demands made by the German Government for carriers in many cases reduced the size of the Sunday audiences and seriously interfered with the work, but the eagerness of the people to hear the Word, the evangelistic fervor manifested by the native Christians and the itinerating spirit shown by the missionaries, augur well for the future.

Three notable itinerating journeys were made during the year, a trip to the Mvele, a large tribe living to the north of Lolodorf and extending from the coast back 120 miles (see Woman's Work, March, 1906); a trip to the Ntum (see Assembly Herald, March, 1906), a sturdy people who inhabit the country on both sides of the Campo river, which is the dividing line between the German Kamerun on the north and Spanish Guinea on the south; and a trip made by a committee of three in search of a new Station site. This Committee, appointed by the Mission, spent six weeks and traveled 800 miles. Everywhere they found people eager to hear the Word, and many invitations were given by chiefs to the missionaries to establish a station among their people. No definite conclusion was reached as to the best place for the new Station, largely because of the many available sites discovered. The Committee will be continued and report at the next meeting of the Mission.

A single passage from the report will show the need of the field:

On June 9, we reached the town of Mbita, Menge, where less than three years ago no white man dared to go. This once powerful chief is now a humble German subject and a slave to "rum." He once had a hundred wives to cheer and comfort him. Now he is reduced to a paltry sixty or so. He was anxious to have us build near him, and he assembled 572 people in his palaver-house to hear the Gospel. We went twenty-two miles farther up the river on the north side, reaching the Yembama people who were fighting with the Government troops, and, as it seemed unwise for us to go farther at that time, we returned to Mbita Menge's. This twenty-two miles was over a splendid road running through a rich level country, a few miles north of the Nlon river. The country is well populated and the people were very anxious to hear us, and wanted us to build among them. No missionary had ever been in any of the towns thus far visited, since leaving the Yewondo road, but many of the young men had slept in the mission palaver house at Lolodorf and had heard the Gospel there.

We were much pleased with the country south of the river, and began to look about for a good location, and started west along the Bena road to the beach which passed Lolodorf. We found here some fine large villages, quite close together, and stopped at Metet, a Bene village containing ninety-two houses, the largest village that any of us had seen in Africa. We had been looking and inquiring in vain for a hill or good elevation on which a station might be placed, but here the Old Chief told us of a place near his town. Going one and three quarter miles off from the main road we found a very nice hill affording a fine view of the valley of the Nlon. That day and the next we spent investigating this site and its surroundings, and we were much pleased with it. It is about ninety miles from Lolodorf, and nearly as far from Elat, while it is about ten miles from Nlon. Crossing near Mbita Menge's, there were three good springs within a few minutes' walk and a nice stream about ten minutes from the crest of the hill. It is within easy reach by a good level road, of the largest Bene towns, 900 houses being located on twenty-two miles of the main road passing near it.

Through the generosity of Miss Margaret MacLean the funds have already been contributed sufficient to open the Station. It is interesting to note that in some of the towns visited by the Committee no missionary had ever been, but many of the young men in these towns had heard the Gospel in the palaver house at Lolodorf.

EFULEN STATION,

Mr. and Mrs. Krug remained in the Station to May 1 and then went to Elat. Mr. Hummel with the exception of six weeks at Lolodorf spent the year at Efulen.

Dr. Johnson reports that church services, catechumen classes, medical work, oversight of workmen and boys, listening to people's palavers and working on the new dwelling house have occupied much of his time.

EVANGELISTIC.—Sunday-school and regular church services were held Sunday mornings; a young men's meeting and girls' Bible classes on Sunday afternoons. There were three meetings each week in the towns for women and a weekly evening meeting for the teaching of Bible classes to school-children. Two catechumen classes met regularly each week.

The faithful attendance of some of the old women, to whom the walk from their towns up the steep hill to their station was a real trial, was an inspiration to the missionary as well as to the native Christian. Both classes were well attended and the members are walking circumspectly and ere long the church will, we trust, reap a large harvest. The addition of only three members during the year gives no idea of the amount of spiritual life in connection with the church.

"The most interesting event of the year to us," writes Mrs. Adams, "was our itinerating trip among the Ntum, to the southeast of Efulen, which we were enabled to take in July and August. We were away from the station for seventeen days and covered about 325 miles. We held fifty-four meetings and spoke to 2,770 people, many of whom had never before been visited by a missionary and none of them by a woman."

EDUCATIONAL.—The school has been small all the year. In the last term there were less than one-third the number of boys present that could have been accommodated. This was due to a variety of causes, chief of which was an increase in tuition fees and a limiting of the amount of goods which the natives could obtain from the church store for their work, the Mission this year only allowing school supplies to be thus purchased.

In the school an attempt has been made to broaden the course and to secure better grading through the medium of examinations. A contract was introduced in the middle of the term pledging the boys who signed the contract to stay until the close of the term. All but three of the pupils signed it. The great difficulty in school work has been to keep the scholars for any length of time under instruction.

Mrs. Adams had charge of the girls' school and conducted three weekly meetings for women in the nearby towns.

MEDICAL.—The medical work was limited. Some sixty-one cases were treated in the hospital. There were some important operations and 1,200 surgical dressings applied. The receipts from natives and traders amount to $158.54, no small sum when the poverty of the people is considered.

ELAT

The Station force was increased on May 1 by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Krug from Efulen and Mr. Fraser from America. The Station was never better manned and the entire force was variously and fully occupied during the year.

EVANGELISTIC.—The growth in the church was most marked. The attendance at the preaching service was often 600 during the session of the school and 350 during vacations. Seventeen persons were received into membership, twelve of these being on confession of faith. The members have in the main reached a high standard of Christian living. They have contributed fairly well of their means and have responded eagerly to calls to active service.

The Sabbath-school had an average attendance of 400. In August the school superintendency and teaching of seven classes was put entirely into the hands of the natives. The efficiency and dignity with which they discharged the duties was most gratifying. A Gideon's Band, a young man's society, was organized in June. A promise to keep the commandments and follow Christ was the condition of membership. Thirty-nine devotional meetings conducted by themselves were held on Sabbath afternoons. On Monday evenings a meeting attended by all the boarding school girls and boys and people from the villages was regularly held. The average attendance was 350. The life of Christ was studied chronologically.

The meetings of the Nsamba, made up of all those who are thought to be within one year's fitness for church membership, have been successfully carried on. Membership in the Nsamba requires a standard of Christian life scarcely less than that in the Church.

Catechetical instruction was given two evenings a week for boys in the boarding school, the teaching being done by two candidates for the ministry.

The Christian training school authorized by the Mission at its last meeting has been carried on by Mr. Dager. Six candidates for the ministry received instruction. The teaching comprised two terms, one of thirteen weeks and the other of sixteen weeks from two to three hours a day. The life of Christ and some Old Testament history were the subjects taught. The class is composed of two men from Efulen, one from Elat, three from Lolodorf.

During the year the people have undertaken the erection of a new church and have contributed money, material and work for the purpose.

At convenient intervals members of the Church and the classes have been sent out on evangelistic trips. On Sabbath evenings boys have commonly gone to contiguous villages to hold meetings. The missionaries on Sundays have, either by bicycle or on donkey or on foot, reached many needy places, including the Government prison, with the life-giving Word.

Dr. Lippert reports of this work as follows:

A great opportunity for the spread of the Gospel was offered in this work as the prisoners included representatives of the Bulu, Fan, Fon, Bene, Ngumba, Benoka, Mabeya and Njem tribes. Recently not a few soldiers attended the services and quite a number of soldiers' wives and boys are always present. Most of them are from a distance, some having been brought from ten to twelve days' march. The smallest number addressed at any one time were twelve, the most, one hundred and twenty-six.

During July Mr. Fraser was on an itinerating trip which took him 100 miles north and east of Elat, chiefly among the Fon and Bene peoples. Dr. Lippert was away seventeen days during August on a medical itinerating trip. During this time he treated several hundred patients, most of whom would not have come to the station to be healed. During each week six or seven women's meetings have been held.

One of the features of the meetings held in the towns by Mrs. McCleary was the number of passing carriers who manifested a great eagerness in listening to the Gospel story.

EDUCATIONAL.—The year's report is most encouraging. The first term beginning December, 1904, there was an enrollment of 288. The second from March to June there was an enrollment of 388. The third from August to November there was an enrollment of 430. Mrs. McCleary had the teaching of the Bulu school alone under the superintendency of Dr. Lippert, using six school boys as helpers.

During the last term out of 160 beginners over 100 advanced from the charts to the primer. Fifty-one were reading the Gospels and fifty-eight Foster's Bible Story and the Old Testament. The German school has grown from two classes with thirty-eight members to three with fifty-five.

In September a day school was started in a town two days from Elat. The teacher is supported by the people. The work of the year shows a steady growth in attendance and class work. More than 100 scholars were turned away for lack of accommodation.

Beside the religious service on Sabbath and during the week in which they learn the Gospel truth, the scholars learn the Word of God daily in school as a part of their reading lesson.

INDUSTRIAL.—The most important part of Elat's industrial teaching is agricultural. The demand for trained artisans is small. It is likely, however, to increase with the development of the colony. Early in the fall four boys were selected for training and carpentry. These have been apprenticed for a period of three years.

When our exploring committee of three passed through the Yaundi country the work of the Catholic Mission was carefully inspected. There were found three trained artisans from Europe, and though the Station is younger than any in our Mission, they have made a great, yes, a lasting impression upon both natives and business men. All of the Committee were greatly impressed with that work.

We believe that this form of work should be pushed hard among the Bulu. Here, one man has charge of the farm with its 250 boys in daily work, the building at the Station including repairs on old buildings and the small class of carpentry students. In addition we should have classes in blacksmithing immediately, and in shoemaking, masonry and perhaps mat-making a little later. Obviously one man cannot embrace the talents of three.

Except for peanut gardens, the land is seldom if ever tilled before planting by the natives. Our gardens (fields) are thoroughly dug over before any seed is planted. Thus, and by example of palm plantings, corn and rubber seedlings, our boarding school boys are gaining needed rudimentary education in agriculture.

In anticipation of the girls' school, a fine cassava garden was started last spring and by next wet season we should have work for at least a part of the girls in preparing the cassava root for home consumption. Though our many thousands of rubber seeds planted this year failed to germinate we will hope for different results next year. The palm orchard is doing finely.

Our Mission compound is gradually developing by the addition of necessary buildings. In May a small dormitory adapted to two native families was completed. These buildings are erected at a cost of about $15.00 at the expense of the churches from which their occupants, the theological students come. A small girls' dormitory to hold thirty to thirty-five students was built in August. The new Doctor's cottage is framed, roofed and partly floored. It should be ready for occupancy early in 1906. The church to be erected by the people is already outlined by permanent posts.

MEDICAL.—Applicants for treatment have come from near and far. More Bene, Fan and Ntum have been cared for than during any previous year. Three Fan people suffering from "maintue" walked twelve days, so they said, to secure medicine. They had learned from an Ntum man trading in the neighborhood that they could be cured at Elat. Their speech differed enough from the Bulu and the Ntum to make conversation difficult.

LOLODORF

This in many ways has been a memorable year in the history of Lolodorf Station. For one thing the station has been manned as never before. Upon Dr. and Mrs. Lehman for many years fell the entire burden, but this year it has been different. Miss Jean K. Mackenzie, Rev. L. D. Heminger, were at the Station all the year. Mr. Hummel spent about seven weeks during the session of the school, Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Johnston returning from their furlough in April went at once to Lolodorf and remained there the rest of the year. The report gives a glowing account of the organization of the church at Lolodorf:

One event, however, would have been sufficient to have marked the year as one never to be forgotten. That was the organization of the church. Missionary and native have looked forward to it with earnest expectation. On the Saturday before the eventful day, March 18, ten men and four women presented themselves before the two members of the Presbytery's Committee present, Rev. Wm. M. Dager and Rev. L. D. Heminger, as applicants and were accepted as worthy to become the charter members. On the following day, March 19, these fourteen became the First Presbyterian Church of Lolodorf, W. Africa. They had waited long and they were satisfied—happy: And not less so were those missionaries who had seen these fourteen take their first step out of heathenism into Christianity. In that one service they received the rite of baptism and partook of the Lord's Supper and were constituted as the church of Jesus Christ. You would have had to look into their earnest beaming faces to have appreciated what it meant to them. And what a beautiful lesson it was to those 1000 spectators present to see baby Sanford Page Lehman and baby Simon Nzhié, white and black, at one and the same time receiving the rite of baptism.

The Sunday-school has been in the charge of some of our best native Christians who receive weekly instruction. Most of all who attend preaching also attend Sunday-school. Mrs. Lehman has continued her women's meeting on Sabbath afternoons. She has been instructing them in Old Testament Bible stories and lately in the Gospel of John. Her relation to the members of this class is a very helpful one. The average attendance has been about fifty-five. There are three other meetings during the week. On Monday, Mr. Heminger teaches the Nsamba or advanced class. Thirteen of its fourteen members have been advanced into the church and since then twelve more have entered the class. The members of this class after one year, if faithful are to become members of the church. Dr. Lehman has given them some instruction in the Ten Commandments and lately in a chronological study of the Life of Christ. The membership of this class is 150, while the average attendance has been about 100, including non-members. This low average attendance may partly be accounted for, by fear of soldiers. And, too, many of the women are threatened with flogging by their polygamous husbands should they attend the meeting.

An advance was made this year in organizing regular meetings out from the Station, and in making a greater effort to visit the people in their towns. Miss Mackenzie had begun to hold women's meetings once a week in the neighborhood. Mr. Heminger organized two classes for instruction during the year, one at Rozi, a distance of ten miles, and one at Lam, a distance of twenty-seven miles. It was the purpose that these classes should receive weekly or bi-monthly instruction by a native teacher, Ngoe, the school teacher at Lam, having charge of the class there.

The work of preaching to the carriers has been mostly in the hands of the natives. It has been the purpose to have one man devote his entire time to this. Evenings the house is nearly always full of those who will stay for the night, and the evangelist has an opportunity for several hours to preach to thirty, forty or fifty of his fellow country men the blessed truths of salvation. It is not at all unusual, when the preacher has left his post for a short time to have these carriers come begging some one to tell them a few of the words of God."

Systematic giving was started the latter part of the year and we hope to lay more and more stress upon it. The people are poor and much sacrifice is shown in their offerings. For instance, Bian, one of the elders who receives but ten marks a month, on the day of the organization of the church gave six of it to the church. At another time when he had returned from a hard five weeks' trip as a carrier for which he received ten marks, he gave six of it to the church.

We try to put this money in places where the people can see the good they are doing. Thus when we send out some of our more advanced Christians to itinerate for one, two or three weeks, we pay them a few marks out of this fund. Then a part of it goes to pay our teacher at Lam who also acts as a preacher.

The good attendance at the beginning of the year more than filling our church, often, three, four or five hundred, is convincing proof that the people want the Gospel.

The Ngumba people (the largest tribe near Lolodorf) are susceptible to the Gospel. Most every Sabbath after preaching service and often at other times, there have been some who came and wanted to confess Christ. At times the numbers have been so large that they could not be dealt with individually. Many of them have very vague ideas regarding the whole matter. Then some sad and penitent soul comes and tells the sad and bitter story of failure and is pointed to Him who can forgive sins.

There have been about 300 men, women and children during the year who have come to express their desire to follow Christ. This does not mean that all these are Christians, but it does mean that many of them are seeking the light.

Four visits were made to the Lam school, a distance of twenty-seven miles from the Station. These visits were made on a bicycle, as it is on the Government road. Eight visits were made with special view of reaching the Dwarfs. Among these last, was a trip of two weeks by Dr. Lehman to the Bekoko tribe. Miss Mackendie made six trips to Pozi. There is a community of Christians here, and during a visit by Mr. Heminger a number of boys came to him to say that they also wanted a school like the one at Lam.

The arrival of the new hymn-books and the new Gospels during the year was an occasion of real rejoicing among the Christians at Lolodorf.

The total enrollment in the main school was 234. In the number were fifty boarders. The first six weeks the school was under the charge of Mr. Hummel and after that under the care of Dr. Johnson.

We hope to make the boarding school an important feature of the work. During the visit to the Lam school last May Mr. Heminger reported that there were forty-three pupils present. Of those on the roll, seven have finished the primer and are reading the Gospels. These have also learned to write. Thirty-five are reading the primer and six are on the charts. Six new hymnals which he took with him were at once bought and paid for. This all means that there are about fifty men, women and children who can now read some of the Word of God as a result of the Lam school. At another visit in September, Mr. Heminger spoke to an audience of about 100 Christians on the first day and about seventy-five the next.

These meetings were held in their beautiful new church which they built at their own suggestions and expense. We hope soon to start another such school.

A girls' school was organized this term and was under the care of Miss Mackenzie. It was the first attempt for Lolodorf. It is still the day of small things. Miss Mackenzie writes:

We have instituted a girls' boarding school; Mrs. Lehman and Mrs. Johnston said that they would teach the girls to wash and sew, if I would teach them morals. And I thought if I could teach them writing I could teach them morals, so it was agreed. Because morals require supervision at all hours, their house was built outside my window—a cabin 8 x 14, with a shock of leaf thatch over log walls, these covered with plantain leaves to keep the wind and rain out of the cracks. The little house is all brown and silver in its tattered dress of dried leaves. Inside there are four beds made of poles laid in close rows; on the floor burn two wood fires, for cooking by day, for warmth by night. There are no windows, the firelight shines through the open door and the smoke wavers above the whole surface of the roof. When the school opened there were eight little inhabitants in the house; three of these were house servants, five were girls who must work for their food and tuition. On the days of the week when they were not engaged in the afternoon with such fancy accomplishments as Mrs. Lehman and Mrs. Johnston taught them, it fell to the department of morals to see that they earned their salt. This they did with cutlasses and hoes and rakes, cutting down the indefatigable high grasses that possess African clearings.

After prayers any ambitious little girl may work for an hour to her own credit at the rate of two cents an hour—twelve hours of such work to buy a slate (and a pencil to boot), three hours to buy a lead-pencil, thirty hours to buy a song-book.

Very happy were the little girls and free for several weeks. Then we fell into the curse of the marriage palaver. One girl, a house servant, was sold to a man owning several wives; when it came to the delivery of the goods, the goods became animated in dissent—not indeed that consent had been asked of the goods. The Station backed the girl. News of this defiance of good Ngumba custom penetrated to the ends of the earth and woke a thousand anxieties. The social fabric was imperilled. Two of the little school girls were led away weeping by canny male relatives—this was sad to see. My own little servant, Makoko, was ordered to her town by her uncle, her father being off in Bulu where he is hunting goods with which to buy a new wife upon whose purchase he means to give Makoko in part payment. There you will see the exit of three little Injuns. The school is depleted and in ill repute.

Mfun, the little girl in question, had her slate as token of her having drunk at the wells of learning. It hung in her hut, as a diploma hangs in a doctor's office, witnessing to her poor little achievements. She slept in my hut and did me some service. I paid my debt with a needle and some thread. When next I go I shall take to her some patches. Patches are dear to little African girls. Poor Amana, when she was taken away, went down the path wiping her eyes on her bits of patchwork.

DWARFS.—The missionary has sought to do something for these "little people" this year. There were eight trips made with the special purpose of finding and preaching to the Dwarfs. Six of these eight trips were successful and the missionary was permitted to preach to them in about thirteen villages. At one time last term there were four new boys in school. But whether from timidity or a yearning for their forest life, they soon ran off and were seen no more. Two of these had learned part of the letters and were making hopeful progress. Three or four have been about the Station for several weeks, coming to see us and expressing a desire to come to school some time. There is always a chance of finding one or two or more in the neighboring villages and thus get a chance to preach to them while preaching to the Ngumba. We now have knowledge of fourteen localities of dwarfs, eleven of which have been visited.

We can only hope and pray that one of these "little people" will sometime become a herald of the Gospel to the rest of his brothers and sisters.

The trip made by Dr. Lehman to the Mvele was in order to learn something more of the extent and number of the Dwarfs. He saw a few and learned of the whereabouts of many more. Much patience will be required ere these little people are led to Christ. Of the Mvele people he writes:

Of the Mvele people I saw quite a good deal. They are difficult to reach as the villages are usually small and not on the main path. They expend much more work on their houses than the Bulu and in general seem more industrious. Their houses are built on made ground from one to three feet high and the walls though not high are of clay. Very frequently the doors are made of one piece of wood. The people always plant a large number of oil palm and make a great deal of palm oil and palm wine. Their language is quite different from the Bulu, although some of them understand the Yaonda and the Ngumba. This makes a serious difficulty in evangelizing the people.

Besides the people in the neighborhood, many carriers have availed themselves of the dispensary, and others from a distance. The work has been more satisfactory than ever before but one should be at the dispensary every day to make the work most effective. I also saw some Mvele medicine. The headman had about a peck of small pieces of bone, hoofs, horn and scales from different animals. He shook some of these out on his divining board, and by the way, they were arranged so that he was able to tell whatever was required; whether or not one was to be sick, whether or not one should take a journey, or go here or go there. This fetish was the first one of its kind I had ever seen. Perhaps some of our fortune tellers at home might be able to get a few helpful suggestions from this man. Certainly the Mvele people are past masters in the art of making medicine and divining.

MEDICAL WORK.—The total daily treatment for these eleven months was 2,400. There was received for medicine during that time $232.36. At times it has been the privilege of the physician to treat patients who have come from places one or two weeks distance from the station. Some are too poor to pay for the treatment and so they learn how kind and merciful the physician can be. One such poor fellow, a mass of corruption when he first came, was cast off upon the Mission by his people as good as dead, so it seemed to them. But thanks to the skill and patience of the Doctor, he was completely restored to health. One day not long ago he was carrying a man's load. He hastily came up to the missionary saying, "This man saved me."

THE NEW LOLODORF.

The Lolodorf Station embraces only twelve acres. No property in the immediate vicinity could be secured for the expanding work of the Mission. After thorough search the missionaries selected a new site some three and a half miles to the west of the present Lolodorf.

Through the kindness of the generous founder of the Lolodorf Station, Miss Margaret MacLean, money was given sufficient to purchase this property and erect upon it buildings suitable for the ever-expanding work of this youngest of the interior stations. This beloved servant of God, who has given so much money and offered so many prayers for Lolodorf, still continues her supplications and benefactions for Darkest Africa.

The new site is a beautiful, fertile, rolling piece of land containing 250 acres. Under the supervision of the missionaries workmen have cleared the forest and erected a temporary workshed, a tool-house and a three room store which at the time of Mission Meeting was under roof and ready for the bark.

At the old Station the buildings were repaired, a temporary dormitory was built for the girls' school, there was a small addition made to each of the dwelling houses and the palaver house was reroofed, the school boys doing all the work.

The old Station will be maintained as heretofore, and the new Lolodorf will add another "sphere of influence" in darkest Africa.

MISSIONS IN CHINA.

CANTON MISSION.

CANTON: occupied as a Station, 1845. Rev. Henry V. Noyes, D.D., and Mrs. Noyes, Rev. Albert A. Fulton, D.D., and Mrs. Fulton, Rev. Andrew Beattie, Ph.D., and Mrs. Beattie, John W. Swan, M.D., and Mrs. Swan, Rev. J. J. Boggs and Mrs. Boggs, Paul Todd, M.D., Mrs. John G. Kerr, Miss Harriet Noyes, Miss Electra M. Butler, Miss Harriet Lewis, Miss Mary W. Niles, M.D., Miss Mary H. Fulton, M.D., Miss E. A. Churchill, Miss Nellie L. Read, Rev. W. D. Noyes, Dr. Isabella Mack, Miss Margaret Strathie and Miss Lucy Durham.

YEUNG-KONG: occupied as a Station, 1886. Rev. George W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, W. H. Dobson, M.D., Mrs. Dobson, Rev. C. E. Patton, and Miss V. Wilcox.

LIEN-CHOU: occupied as a Station, 1890. E. C. Machle, M.D., Rev. Rees F. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards, Miss E. Patterson.

SHEK LUNG: occupied as a Station, 1904. Missionaries—Rev. A. J. Fisher and Mrs. Fisher.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. John G. Kerr, Dr. J. M. Swan and Mrs. Swan, Miss H. Lewis, Rev. Rees F. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards.

Shortly after the close of the Mission year the whole Christian world was inexpressibly startled and shocked by the tidings that on October 28 the Lien-chou Station had been attacked by a mob, all the property destroyed and Mrs. E. C. Machle and her ten-year-old daughter Amy, Miss Eleanor Chestnut, M.D., and the Rev. and Mrs. John Rodgers Peale murdered. At first we could hardly believe the report to be true as the letters from the field had given no hint of coming trouble. Indeed the missionaries themselves had felt so secure that Miss Chestnut and Miss Patterson remained alone at the Station while their associates went to the Mission meeting at Canton. The latter did not return until the evening of the 26th and the second morning there after the frightful storm burst. Dr. Machle and Miss Patterson succeeded in escaping and several days later the Chinese officials sent them to Canton with an armed escort.

As usual when any catastrophe occurs on the foreign field those who are influenced by prejudices against all missionary work furiously attack the missionaries, alleging that their indiscretion had caused the massacre.

through the American Consul-General at Canton, Mr. Lay and two United States naval officers, Lieut-Commander Evans of the Oregon and Lieut. Dismukes of the Monadnock. Mr. Lay took with him Dr. Machle and three members of our Canton Station, the Rev. Drs. Albert A. Fulton and Andrew Beattie, and the Rev. W. D. Noyes. The Board has published in pamphlet form an account of the massacre, including a summary of the report of the Commission which may be obtained by addressing the Board's office. Suffice it here that the investigation completely exonerated the missionaries as all their friends knew in advance would be the case. The swift march of events in China quickly made it plain that the outbreak at Lien-chou was primarily caused by and was a part of the general development of anti-foreign feeling throughout the Empire. The tragedy called forth innumerable expressions of sympathy from Christians of all churches. The missionaries who fell on that awful day were widely beloved. Mrs. Machle and Dr. Chestnut had given many years of faithful and tender ministry to their needy Chinese sisters, while Mr. and Mrs. Peale were young missionaries of unusual promise who had but just arrived. We are sure that no one can look upon the faces of the martyred dead without being profoundly moved. What further troubles may occur in China it is not possible at this writing to tell, but we believe that the whole Church is determined to "be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us; that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain." In these sorrowful circumstances pathetic interest attaches to the opening words of the annual report of the Mission prepared just before the massacre.

The success of last year has repeated itself in this. Great and effectual doors are flung widely open. Heavy responsibilities are thrust upon us. We confront conditions vastly different from those we faced ten years ago. China's long sleep is over. The year ending August 31, has been the most fruitful in the history of the Mission. Not only do the additions on confession (1564) exceed those of any previous year, but the organization of new churches, and the steady development of educational and medical agencies, convinces us that our methods have been approved, and therefore "Wherunto we have already attained let us walk by the same rule."

Our hearts are again filled with thanksgiving and praise to the Lord of the harvest, and we enter upon a new year with rejoicing, and feast our hearts upon the word of the Lord unto Joshua, "Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of good courage; be not affrighted neither be thou dismayed; for Jehovah, thy God, is with thee whithersoever thou goest."

Only once this year have we been called upon to mourn, and that was when bright little Howard Machle, beloved child of Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Machle, suddenly sickened and died. Dr. Andrew Beattie was seriously ill for some months and was obliged to take a health trip, but he fully recovered. Dr. E. Chestnut was also quite ill for a few weeks, but was mercifully spared to continue her work. These are the only cases of serious illness to be recorded, and we rejoice in the restoration of these, our co-laborers.

To the great gratification of the Mission, the Rev. G. W. Marshall so far recovered from the effects of the accident that befell him in America that he and Mrs. Marshall were able to rejoin their Station. Mrs. Kerr and Dr. Mary Fulton returned from their furloughs. Dr. J. M. Swan and family left on furlough in March, and Mr. Edwards and family in May. Five new missionaries arrived to help lighten the burden of overworked members of the Mission—Miss A. Wilcox for Yeung Kong; Rev. and Mrs. Peale for Lien-chou, and Dr. Mack and Miss Strathie for the David Gregg Hospital, Canton.

During the year new and extensive building improvements have been made at the different stations. In Canton the appearance of the Lafayette Compound has completely changed. The beautiful new building of the Mary H. Perkins Maternity and Children's Wards are the gift of Mrs. Turner of Philadelphia who has made generous additions to her original gift, so that the buildings and equipment will be admirably complete. A new hall for the Medical College, the gift of Mr. E. A. K. Hackett, of Fort Wayne, Ind., is nearing completion. Two new Mission houses were erected, one for Dr. Mary Fulton and her associates, and one for the Rev. Dr. A. A. Fulton and family. Extensive improvements were made on the Second Church, Canton, giving the enlarged building a seating capacity of 1400. A new and very attractive building has taken the place of the old Third Church at Sz Pai Lau. The new church has a seating capacity of over 600. At Shek Lung a comfortable house has been erected for Rev. A. J. Fisher and family, and the presence of the missionaries residing there greatly strengthens the work.

At a short distance from the leper village, a commodious building has been erected, providing a home and school rooms for the untainted children of lepers. At Lien-Chau, after long years of waiting, the Christians of that Station were made glad by the erection and dedication of a large and handsome Church, which was dedicated in March.

In Yeung-kong a ward for women has been added to the Hospital, a substantial and greatly needed enlargement. Thus added facilities are given to us for the expansion of our work.

CANTON STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Care of Rev. A. A. Fulton, D.D.

Churches.—First Church, Canton. Here audiences are uniformly large. A Men's Bible class receives instruction from the faithful elder, So To Ming. Not only is a large city population easily accessible, but scores of villages are in close proximity to this church. The Church is entirely self-supporting, and thirty-five members were added on confession.

San Ui Church. This is second in importance, and was in Dr. Fulton's care until September 30, when Mr. U. Chi Ting was installed, and the church committed to his charge. It is maintained without any cost to the Mission, and forty members were added on confession.

San Ning. The church has had an encouraging year. A strong work has sprung up among the women. A large school, nearly self-supporting, is exerting a fine influence. An excellent site was secured and a new building erected for the instruction of girls. The cost, met by Christians, was about $1200 Mex. Twenty-five were added on confession.

Chik Hom. This church has passed through many trials, but has now a fine building, and is steadily increasing in numbers and influence. Many women now attend the service. Fifteen were added on confession. These four churches draw no support from the Board.

Yan Ping Church. A very fruitful work has made this one of the best years in this city. The old shop was too small to seat the communicants. In October, thirty-five were baptized at the quarterly communion. Two out-stations, Long Tai and No Kat, are fruits of work in the Yan Ping Chapel. A man from the village of Waan Kung heard the Gospel at Yan Ping, and after his conversion gave a large brick house in his village for chapel use, and nearly 100 men and women have been baptized there. Fifty-four were added during year at Yan Ping.

Tsung Shu. Here a church was organized with over 100 members and forty-nine men and women added on confession during the year.

No Foo. This church is a power in this market town and in many villages. The chapels at Tung Pik, Wong Pi, Kam U, and Siu Kong are the results of work at No Foo. During the year thirty-one men and women were baptized.

Wong Pi. This church had its origin in a small mud shop. It now owns an excellent building, and the church stands first in numbers added on confession, having a total of fifty-six men and women who abandoned idolatry and became members of this church.

Kam U. This church has long outgrown its seating capacity, and members are trying to secure a larger building. During the year forty-one men and women were baptized.

Chung Lau. Here the same trouble exists—inability to seat the members. Subscriptions are being received to purchase ground, and erect a large building. Twenty-seven were added during the year on confession.

Tong Ha. This church has received forty-one on confession, and the work is spreading into the Hok Shaan district, where we have a small chapel given by one family. The chapel is in the large village, Kiu Hang, and there are many applicants for baptism.

Yeung Kiu. Here a church was organized in December with two elders, and a membership of nearly 100. The new building, with seating capacity of 300, is often filled with communicants and inquirers. During the year 39 men and women were baptized.

Chapels.—Dr. Fulton adds:

Including the twelve church buildings, I have thirty-eight chapels under my care. At Ping On, a small market town, a lot and excellent building was given by one Christian. The repairing and furnishing of this chapel was undertaken by the young ladies of the Central Memorial Society of the Central Church, Denver, Col.

After long years of waiting and watching we have secured a good shop in the large market, Tai Kong, and work will soon be begun there.

At Shing Tong, in Yan Ping district a fine chapel has been erected on ground given by Christians. This chapel is the gift of Mr. G. H. Winn, Kansas City, Mo., and will be known as the Burns Memorial Chapel.

Grouped around the twelve churches are twenty-six chapels, situated chiefly in market towns, and exerting an influence over many hundreds of villages. Twenty of these chapels received fifteen members and over. Wong Pi heading the list with fifty-six men and women added on confession.

Evangelistic work under care of Dr. Beattie.—Thirty-one chapels or congregations have been under Dr. Beattie's care. These are organized into five churches.

1. Canton and vicinity. The Third Church, Canton, occupied its new building at the beginning of the year. The Church has been well filled every Sunday. A Christian Endeavor Society has helped to keep the Christians together. There have been thirty-nine baptisms.

During the Easter holidays invitations were sent to schools and colleges in the city to attend a series of lectures in the church. The response was very hearty, and the attendance tested the seating capacity of the church, at one of the lectures about 600 students being present, representing twenty-five schools.

Lepers Village. Here an interesting work continues. During the year twenty-one were baptized. During cold months the lepers were suffering and an appeal was made for local contributions. Over $500 were received. A Christian Endeavor Society is maintained.

Cheung Paan, ten miles east of Canton, shows some improvement over last year, and there are several candidates for baptism.

Wang Chi Kong. Here twelve have been baptized, and a small room has been secured for meeting purposes.

Shun Tak. In this District are eleven chapels and good progress has been made.

At Tai Leung there has been some opposition, but the work is very fruitful. During the year sixty-five have been baptized. A Gospel Hospital has been fitted up by the members, and the salary of the preacher is met by the members. This salary is $30 per month and house rent. A new church will be ready for occupancy soon, and the cost including ground will be about $7,000. The Christians expect to pay all this except the $2,000 Mex. received from the last year's generous gift of Dr. Vannuys of Goshen, Ind.

Ngoi Tsun. Some opposition has been made by a neighboring village. The chapel was destroyed by a mob. Claims to compensation have been given up in the hope that the work may be benefited. During the year twenty-eight were baptized.

Kau Kong. A new chapel will be built, the gift of some members of the Church in Los Angeles of which the Rev. J. R. Compton is pastor. During the year fourteen were baptized.

Tung Ma Ning. Meetings are held in a very narrow shop. The Christians have been persecuted. During the year seventy-three were added on confession.

Chan Tsun. Work here is encouraging. Large numbers attend meetings for Bible study. During the year seventy-one were baptized. Adjoining Chan Tsun is Pik Kong, where a house and lot valued at $500 have been presented to the Mission, and there are not only eleven baptized Christians living there, but many others interested in the Gospel.

Ching Tau has a dozen Christians, and a shop has been given for chapel purposes.

Kwai Chau has a promising outlook. During the year fifteen have been baptized. The brethren have given the chapel and pay all expenses.

Wong Po is the fruit of work in Kwai Chau. There are nearly 100 inquirers. This city has a population of nearly 60,000. There are no baptized Christians, but they have given $400 towards providing a place for chapel purposes.

The Fa Ti Church, Canton, under care of Dr. Noyes, is in close connection with the training school. The growth during the year has been steady. The baptisms were eight, which includes six from the school and two women from the neighborhood. The church building is well filled on Sundays.

The Second Church, Canton. Being without a pastor the greater part of the year, by action of Presbytery Rev. A. J. Fisher was appointed Moderator of the Session. Under the leadership of a licentiate, Wong Tung Wan, and a faithful corps of elders the church has had a prosperous year. Added on confession, seventy-five, of which number thirty-two were from the True Light Seminary, and twelve from Miss Butler's boys' school. The extensive repairs made on this church have added greatly to its seating capacity. Mr. Wong Tung Wan has now been ordained and installed as pastor.

Rev. William D. Noyes has assisted in evangelistic work, taking some of the services for Dr. Fulton at the First Church, and on one occasion took charge of the services at some of the out-stations in Dr. Fulton's field. Mr. Noyes has also held special services in villages near Fa Ti, taking students with him in this work, and has rendered valuable service, taking some of the classes in Fa Ti Training school, besides studying diligently the language.

Woman's Work. Mrs. Noyes has had daily morning services for women and children on the Fa Ti compound; conducted a weekly prayer meeting and Bible study class for women; taught a boys' class in Sunday-school, and held a class for women on Sundays. She has also done house-to-house visitation with her Bible woman. Two women have united with the Fa Ti Church.

Miss Butler has superintended the work of two Bible women in the hospital. Miss Lewis has held services for women and children in the day schools under her care. Dr. Niles has devoted much time to evangelistic work in out-stations under Dr. Beattie's care. Her trips occupied eighty-five days. Calls in the homes together with meetings held there and in chapels numbered 112. She also made six visits to the leper chapel, holding meetings with the women and girls who are being instructed by the blind, lame, leper Bible woman. In Kau Kong Dr. Niles visited in the home of one of the graduates of the Hackett Medical College, who has a lucrative practice. She offered every facility for Christian work in her home. In Lung Shaan Mrs. Mui, a graduate of Dr. Kerr's Medical class, has a wide reputation. She went with Dr. Niles on her visits to many homes, where they had good audiences.

The Second Church Sunday-school has also been in Dr. Niles care, with an average attendance of 150.

Dr. Mary Fulton has superintended the flourishing Sabbath-school of the Theodore Cuyler Church. There have been 11,856 attendances, an average of 241. During the year, thirteen women united with the Church. Dr. Fulton has also directed the work of the Bible women in the David Gregg Hospital, and the Pierson Dispensary.

Mrs. Albert Fulton has had a class in the Sabbath-school of the Theodore Cuyler Church, conducted the weekly prayer meetings for women, and directed the work of two Bible women for six months of the year.

Miss Churchill has had charge of the Women's work in connection with the Third Church. She has held meetings in the day schools which have been well attended, and held weekly prayer meetings for the women of the church. Much time has been given to visiting in the homes where sixty meetings have been held. She has superintended the Third Church Sunday-school, with an average attendance of about 300. During the year twelve women and one girl were received into the Church.

Miss Durham has spent much time in the country. Through her labors many Christian women have been encouraged and instructed. Much work was done in the villages of those formerly known in California. A large and growing work is opening up in the four districts. Several Bible women have been under Miss Durham's direction, but there is a great call for more and also for girls' schools.

EDUCATIONAL.—The High School and the Theological Seminary are under the care of Dr. Noyes, Mr. J. J. Boggs, and Mr. W. D. Noyes. The number of students is about the same as last year. Attention is being given to physical culture, resulting in a marked change for the better in health and general appearance. The number of students of more mature age is increasing. Sunday and week-day services have been well attended, and the students conduct their own Y. M. C. A. and C. E. services each week.

Evangelistic work is carried on by the students, who make trips to the adjacent villages. During the past twenty years, forty-five have graduated from the Theological department. With few exceptions the graduates are doing good work. Those who took the partial course make the following showing; fifty-eight became preachers; fifteen colporteurs, and seventeen studied medicine. Great praise is due to Mr. Chun our Chinese colleague for his untiring faithfulness. He is a graduate of the first degree, and an unusually fine Chinese scholar. Mr. Mok and Mr. Wong, teachers, both graduates of the Seminary, have rendered good service. Of the 112 students enrolled, sixty-three or more than half are professing Christians.

The True Light Seminary, in the care of Miss Noyes, Miss Lewis, and Miss Butler has had a good year. Two hundred and twenty-four pupils were enrolled, of whom forty were in the advanced department. Enlarged accommodations are greatly needed. The practice of foot-binding is becoming obsolete, and now only three girls in the seminary have bound feet.

One teacher has given a year's salary to pay for the installation of electric lights. Much attention is now given to the teaching of the Romanized method. During the year ten of the students have commenced work as Bible women, and three have entered the Hackett Medical College. During the year thirty-six from the Seminary entered the Second Church, and the contributions amounted to $284.

Day Schools.—Four schools have been under care of Dr. Fulton. Two of these are taught by graduates of the first degree, both Christian men. The school at Tik Hoi has sixty pupils and pays $200 toward the support of the work. San Ning has thirty scholars and pays $130 toward the school's support. The number of scholars in these two schools is close to 100. Dr. Beattie has had four boys' schools and one girls' school under his care. Miss Noyes has had a girls' school at Sai Lung Li with an enrollment of forty-four. Mrs. Kerr has had a school at the Hospital with an enrollment of about twenty. Miss Butler has had charge of a small boarding school for boys. Miss Churchill has had seven day schools under her care with an enrollment of 217. The school for the blind under Dr. Niles has an enrollment of thirty-two. A school under Miss Durham's care at Ngoi has about fifteen scholars. Miss Lewis has had charge of four day-schools with an enrollment of 139.

MEDICAL WORK.—The medical work in connection with the David Gregg Hospital for Women, the Hackett Medical College for Women, and the Pierson Dispensary has been in charge of Dr. Mary Fulton. There have been in the Hospital 238 in-patients; 195 operations were performed at the Hospital and 131 in homes, a total of 326, besides 1209 teeth extracted.

The dispensary patients numbered 5,289. Out-practice calls were 373. Fees from patients and for services in homes amounted to $2,090. The Hackett Medical College has an enrollment of twenty-six scholars, and has more applicants than can be accommodated. In February three students graduated.

The Nurses Training School, so necessary in connection with this large hospital plant, will bear the honored name of Mrs. Julia M. Turner, who gave the money for it as well as for the Mary H. Perkins Maternity and Children's Wards.

During the furlough of Dr. Swan, the Superintendent, the Canton Hospital for Men has been under the care of Dr. Todd, who reports as follows: Out-patients, men, 20,356; out-patients, women, 6,538; in-patients, men, 1,198; in-patients, women, 436; surgical operations, men, 719; women, 634; extraction of teeth, 1,074.

The Medical College for Men under care of Dr. Anderson has had twenty-two students. The Fa Ti Dispensary has been under care of Dr. Boggs. No statistical report.

The Ha Fong Tsun Dispensary under care of Dr. Niles reports 1,395 who came for treatment. Dr. Niles has lectured twice a week at the Hackett Medical College and has had seventy-four calls to homes.

Dr. C. C. Seldn, the Christian physician in private practice in Canton who has so faithfully superintended the medical work of the John G. Kerr Refuge for the Insane, has been in America on vacation. In his absence Henry N. Boyd, M.D., formerly of our Siam Mission, has had charge of the Refuge. Dr. and Mrs. Boyd have been a very pleasant addition to the missionary circle. About 100 patients have been under treatment, many of them from well-to-do families in Canton. This is a beneficent institution, the only one of the kind in all China.

LIEN-CHOU STATION.

There is mournful interest in the following report prepared only a short time before the awful massacre referred to above.

Evangelistic.—During the year two Churches, Ka Wa and Lam Mo, were transferred to the Hunan Mission, as they properly belong to its field. This leaves three churches in connection with the Station.

The Church at Lien-chou has a membership of 309. The fine new building has already been referred to. There were forty-two added on confession. The attendance is from two to three hundred. At Tung Pi, thirty-five miles north, seventy-two members meet for service. As early as possible a church will be organized there.

At Shek Kok, a chapel has been opened in the house of one of the members and medicine dispensed. Eleven applied for baptism at the first communion and three were received.

The Saam Kong Church has a membership of 125. During the year eleven were added on confession. At Chai Kong, in the Yeung Shaan district, forty-two Christians meet in a drug store, but hope soon to secure a chapel.

At Pak Fu a few Christians meet in a house, and there are several preparing for baptism.

In the Ying Tak District, there are one church and one chapel. The Church numbers thirty-eight members, and three were added on confession.

At Ham Kwong the work has been hindered by some indifference on part of the native preacher, and a new worker will take his place.

Itineration.—Four trips were made in the Lien-chou district, three by Mr. Edwards and one by Dr. Machle. At Sai Ngau the people were found friendly, and a chapel will be secured, which will complete a chain of four chapels from Lien-Chou to Tung Pi. Visits were made to the Yeung Shaan district, including Pak Fu and Chai Kong. On the last trip the Ius, aborigines were visited, but were not disposed to be friendly.

At Chai Kong visits were made to Christians in their villages. Communion services were held in the house of a Christian. Ten days were spent at Tung Pi by two Bible women. A Bible class was held for men, and continued for two weeks. At the dedication of the Lien-chou Church a class was held for women, and twenty-three received instruction. After the dedication, the native licentiate, Mr. Li Yeung Shaan, was ordained pastor of the Church.

Educational.—The Boys' Boarding School has had an average attendance of thirty. A new building is greatly needed.

The Girls' Boarding school has had an average attendance of thirty-one, and final examinations showed that good progress in study had been made.

Day Schools. A school at Ho Tsun under Mrs. Machle's care has enrolled twenty-six, and the Woman's Day school at the Hospital for small children had seventeen pupils.

After Mr. Edwards' departure the school at Wong Pun was transferred to Dr. Chestnut's care with fifteen enrolled, and the school at Lung Hau, also in Dr. Chestnut's care, enrolled twenty pupils.

Dr. Machle had under his care a school with eight pupils. On school day at Lien-chou 150 pupils from different schools were brought together, some of whom came from villages several miles distant. Various exercises were the order, and the scholars acquitted themselves creditably.

Medical Work.—The hospital is a strong agency in dissipating prejudice, as well as affording substantial aid to the suffering. Work has been carried on not only in the hospital, but in out-stations and in the homes of the people. The medical missionary rejoices in his labors, for he knows that time, money and labor are not wasted which are spent on the cleansing of ulcers, the setting of broken bones, the lancing of abscesses, the extraction of teeth, and other ills, if thereby the doctor makes friends, and while treating the physical does not overlook the spiritual needs of those treated.

Evangelistic work has been carried on the hospital as far as practicable. Morning and evening services have been held with out-patients, in-patients, and attendants. A blind colporteur has taught the sick. Many books and tracts were given to patients. The main building has five private wards, and has a capacity of at least sixty beds. A pumping apparatus is needed. There are two dispensaries in connection with the hospital, one at Shek Kok and one at Lien-chou city. There are two medical classes, one engaged in the study of medicine and one in the study of dentistry.

Statistics. Out-patients, new 1606; old 3502; in-patients, 202; visits in homes, 170; itineration, 130; operations, 182.

At the Hospital for Women and Children, under Dr. Chestnut's care, steady work shows that the Hospital has the confidence of the people. It has had more in-patients than at any previous time. Two ladies, Mrs. Goo and Mrs. Tsu, came from Honolulu and are studying medicine to practice among their own Ha Ka people. There are also two pupil nurses.

Statistics. Hospital dispensary.—Old patients, 1647; new patients, 491; Saam Kong dispensary, old patients, 614; new patients, 669; in-patients, 125; calls, 12; receipts, $115.

All the buildings of the Station were destroyed in the awful tragedy of October 28. The Board promptly decided to rebuild. We are gratified to announce that Mr. Warner Van Norden, for many years a member of the Board, has pledged $4,000 for a new Hospital for Men; and that Mrs. James H. A. Brooks, of Philadelphia, has pledged $3,000 for a Hospital for Women. It is confidently believed that other gifts will soon be forthcoming for a Boys' Boarding School, a Girls' Boarding School, a Church and the three residences that are needed.

YEUNG KONG STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Steady work has been done by Mr. Patton. He has traversed 1,326 miles, held forty communion services and preached 118 sermons during the year.

For lack of funds the work suffers. Half a dozen chapels could be opened if funds were on hand. A Buddhist priest has made an offer of a temple and lands. In several localities groups of believers have sprung up. The chapel loan fund has done much for different out-stations. Sunday collections have been begun in places. During the year, 411 candidates were examined and 158 baptized. The native contributions show an increase of $200 over the previous year. The average per member was $2.24.

During the year $600 worth of literature was sold, including 5,000 Scripture calendars.

Yeung Kong City. Sunday services in this city are well attended. The old chapel will not hold the people. During the year several special services have been held with excellent results. Two new elders were ordained. The city chapel pays all expenses except the salary of the preacher.

A students' day was observed September 3, when eleven students were baptized.

The Ping Kong and Fau Cheung chapels have been supplied by theological students. The Pak Kwan chapel has had a few inquirers.

At Ngaa Shiu thirty-nine members have raised $800. A substantial chapel has been built. The local gentry have been sympathetic. A boys' school has been opened in the rear room of the chapel.

Yeung Chan and Kiu Lin chapels. The out-look here is very bright. In company with some theological students Mr. Patton made two trips to these points five days distant from Yeung Kong. Many tracts were sold. The people were very friendly. Here Mr. Marshall was stoned a few years ago. Unfortunately the chapel at Yeung Chan and the chapel at Chek Lung are closed for lack of funds.

At Slan Hei, the members have raised money to repair the chapel. The average contribution was $4.37 per member.

Shui Tung. A preacher and two elders are stationed here. Some progress has been made, but a new chapel is badly needed.

Mui Luk Chapel. The membership of Mui Luk and Yeung Kong chapels is about the same. The members have purchased their own chapel. The preacher's wife has taught a number of women. Subscriptions have been made to secure a Bible woman.

Faa Chau Chapel. Here the few Christians have done nobly. But seven in number, their gifts have averaged $14.66 apiece this year.

Ko Chau Chapel is the youngest in this field. It started with much promise and its growth has been steady.

EDUCATIONAL.—The best thing in our School work this year has been the reception of nineteen of our scholars into the Church. An Ancestral Hall was rented and fitted up for lectures. Four sons of the District Magistrate are enrolled. Miss Wilcox and Mr. Patton teach English daily, and Dr. Dobson lectures once a month. The School is self-supporting. The theological class numbers eight. They are promising students. Five chapels are supplied by these students. A weekly catechism class is open to all, and well attended.

The Boys' School at Yeung Kong enrolls twenty-two. Of these nine are Christians. The Shui Tung School has forty pupils and does a good work. At the Ngaa Shui Boys' school, twelve boys were enrolled, and the cost has been met by local contributions.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Mrs. Dobson has had charge of work among women.

An unusual willingness on the part of women to hear the Gospel message make our work a pleasure. One Bible woman has done excellent work in the country, while Mrs. Dobson has taken charge of woman's work in the city. By the patient work of the Bible woman ten or more women have been brought into the Church. Miss Wilcox has spent the full quota of time in the study of the Yeung Kong dialect. Mrs. Dobson has superintended the Sunday-school, and held prayer meetings for women.

MEDICAL.—This is the third year of Hospital work. Thousands have come to hear and to be healed.

The average stay of patients has been forty days, and many hearing, have accepted Christianity. Some of these converted patients have become heralds of the Gospel to their fellow-sufferers. Magazines and books are in the wards for circulation. Prayers attended by all the patients are held morning and evening. Visits to homes continue to open new fields. The Dispensary is open two days a week, and attendance has increased by over 400 over last year. The wards have been filled almost continuously. Dr. Dobson has preached on the street occasionally. The Chinese Sunday-school of the First Church, Jersey City, has presented to the Hospital a fine operating table. A new ward has been built through local contributions, only non-Christians contributing.

SHEK LUNG STATION.

Though nominally a separate Station this new field is still conducted practically as a part of the Canton Station. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, however, live at Shek Lung, their comfortable new house having been completed with the funds so generously given by the Rev. Dr. Vannuys of Goshen, Ind.

Shek Lung as last year has been under the care of Mr. Fisher. The increase in number of chapels, churches and converts has been very marked. In 1899 the membership was 490. To-day it is 1,100 organized into four churches, and the number of baptisms has been 617. Contributions for six years have been $4,500. New chapels have been built in several places and old chapels repaired. The church at Shek Lung has shown a spirit of activity, and twenty-seven baptized.

Sam Kong. Here, after long waiting fruit has appeared, and nineteen were baptized.

Tsang Shing. A new chapel has been erected by a friend in the Presbyterian Church of Santa Clara, Cal. The baptisms have been fifteen.

Ching Kwo. The work has continued along quiet lines, and the additions by confession were seven.

Uk Ha. There has not been the progress looked for. The chapel here was built by members, mostly farmers. During the year ten were baptized.

Liu Po Church. This church has no out-stations. Some disturbance has occurred owing to the action of a dismissed member. During the year thirteen were baptized.

The Yeung Mui Church. There are five chapels connected with this church—Tai Tong, Yau Ku Ling, San Wai, Wang Kong, and Yeung Mui. There has been nothing special to mark the year during the year. The baptisms were sixteen.

The Tai Fan Church now has four chapels. Tai Fan suffers because of the small chapel. A bright man is now in charge, and the outlook is encouraging.

Tung Kun City. The chapel is badly located, but many hear the Gospel. The total additions to the Tai Fan Church have been twenty-three.

In addition to looking after the interests of the Second Church of Canton Mr. Fisher has superintended the erection of the house at Shek Lung, and given as much time as possible to the study of the language. On the day of the "house-warming" more than 300 persons visited the premises, and some of the officials and the gentry made visits to the house. Mr. Fisher made a trip around the East River field, in absence of Dr. Beattie, and in February made a trip to Lien-chou, by appointment of Presbytery, to take part in the ordination of a native pastor.

Mrs. Fisher's time has been largely taken up with receiving of women in her new home in Shek Lung, and giving to them the Gospel message. She has also had charge of a girls' school, the teacher of which visited in the homes of the Christians.

Fitch, D.D., and Mrs. Fitch, Mr. Gilbert McIntosh and Mrs. McIntosh, Mr. C. W. Douglass and Mrs. Douglass, Rev. John M. Espey, Miss Mary Posey, Miss Mary E. Cogdal, Miss E. A. Lindholm, Miss Emma Silver.

HANGCHOW: the capital of Chekiang province, 150 miles northwest of Ningpo; occupied as a Mission Station, 1859. Missionaries—Rev. J. H. Judson and Mrs. Judson, Rev. E. L. Mattox and Mrs. Mattox, Rev. C. D. Herriott, Rev. F. W. Bible and Mrs. Bible, Miss J. Ricketts, Mrs. M. E. Lyon, Miss Lois D. Lyon, Mr. Arthur W. March.

SOOCHOW: 70 miles from Shanghai; occupied as a Mission Station, 1871. Missionaries—Rev. J. N. Hayes, D.D., and Mrs. Hayes, Rev. O. C. Crawford and Mrs. Crawford, Miss Mary Lattimore, Miss Nettie Moomau, Francis F. Cattell, M.D., Mary E. Fitch, M.D.

NANKING: on the Yang-tse-Kiang, 90 miles from its mouth; occupied as a Mission Station, 1876. Missionaries—Rev. Charles Leaman and Mrs. Leaman, Rev. W. J. Drummond and Mrs. Drummond, Rev. J. C. Garritt, D.D., and Mrs. Garritt, Rev. J. E. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Rev. John Reese Jones and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. L. S. Abbey, Miss E. E. Dresser, Miss M. A. Leaman, Miss Jane A. Hyde.

HWAI-YUEN: Rev. E. C. Lobenstine and Mrs. Lobenstine, Rev. D. B. S. Morris, Rev. J. B. Cochran and Mrs. Cochran, Samuel Cochran, M.D., and Mrs. Cochran.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. George F. Fitch and Mrs. Fitch, Miss Annie R. Morton, Frances F. Cattell, M.D., Rev. Charles Leaman and Mrs. Leaman, Mrs. L. S. Abbey, Miss Mary A. Leaman.

The Central China Mission has been strengthened during the year by the appointment of Rev. and Mrs. John Reese Jones and Miss Jane A. Hyde, who were assigned to Nanking, and the Rev. John M. Espey, who was assigned to Shanghai.

The movement toward Presbyterian Union has continued, although it is deemed best for the present that the union should take the form of federal relationship between independent

Synods, reserving the establishment of the General Assembly to be considered by these Synods at a later stage. Three of these synods are already fully organized, independent of the home churches, and including all of the Presbyterian churches within their bounds. These are the Synods of Manchuria, including the Mission churches of the United Free Church of Scotland and the Presbyterian Church of Ireland, the Synod of Fukien, including the Mission churches of the Reformed Church in America and of the Presbyterian Church of England, and the Synod of East Quangtung, including the Mission Churches of two Missions of the Presbyterian Church of England. The three Synods to be organized will include the Mission Churches of the American Presbyterian Church North and South, the Canadian Presbyterian Church, the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and some other bodies. These will be the Synods of North China, Central China, and West Quangtung.

The Mission has now grown to six Stations spread out over a large territory, and it has been deemed wise to divide the Mission into two, Ningpo, Shanghai, Hangchow and Soochow Stations to be known as the Central China Mission, and Nanking and Hwai Yuen to be known as the Nanking Mission, this change to take effect May 1.

NINGPO STATION.

The Station, as the year before, has been greatly shadowed with sickness, although happily there have been no deaths.

The Station feels greatly the need of new helpers. This is one of the largest Stations, and one of the best developed. There are 1218 communicant Church members in the Ningpo field, which was occupied sixty-two years ago, and there are ten organized churches, with twenty-one out-stations which are places of regular meeting. The report states:

Our native force just now it at a very critical stage. The old pastors, trained by Nevius, and other early missionaries—men who have rendered faithful and self-sacrificing service to their Master for almost two score years—are now beginning to rest from their labors, and there are no men to fill their places. The licentiatees now working in the Ningpo field are scarcely able to take up the work the veterans are laying down. What we need is earnest, consecrated, educated, able men for the ministry.

But not only are we in need of the ordained native worker. We need also good lay-workers and many of them. And here it is a problem of getting not the men, but the money. In our helpers' training class we are training efficient and consecrated young men, but the funds do not permit us to employ them.

There continues to be a good healthy growth in most of the churches. The Song-'ô church is in a sad state and bears strong testimony against the evil of organizing a church too soon and of ordaining a man who lacks the fundamental requisites for a successful pastor. A committee of native pastors was appointed by Presbytery to assist the pastor in effecting such reforms as should be found desirable after investigating the condition of the church. Mr. Shoemaker reports: "The great problem with this church—in fact with all our churches—is to secure suitable men for elders. Of the seven churches in the Yü-yiao field, all but the Yü-yiao city church have but one elder each. Nor is that one always a proper man for the place. Unless the missionary can help train men for the eldership our Presbyterian system is in danger of failing."

The Sunday-school for heathen children in the Fu-zin church has been conducted as usual by Mrs. Kepler and Mrs. Zih, and is steadily growing. As many as one hundred and eighty have been present at one meeting, and the average attendance has been over one hundred.

The elder of the Song-'ō church, Mr. Zia, having been found guilty of continual wrong use of the name of the church, was suspended, and the chapel formerly conducted by him in Zia-kō-dōng closed.

One of the most encouraging events of the year was the conversion of a military official named Li Vong-s, a native of Peking, who is stationed at Liang-long, a village among the hills south-east of Zōng-yü. The interest of this official in Christianity has grown; his grasp of spiritual truth in so short a time is most unusual, and he bears witness everywhere to the power of Christ and the Gospel.

ITINERATIONS.—All the out-stations have been carefully visited, Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker working from Yu-yiao where they reside, though still a part of the Ningpo Station.

During the year Mrs. Shoemaker visited eleven out-stations, made eight trips to Ningpo, made 164 calls and received about 700 callers desirous of seeing "the red-haired people and their red-haired house and its furnishings." These callers have given them unique opportunities to preach the Gospel and to distribute tracts.

For six weeks, beginning the last week in March, Miss Cunningham conducted a class for women and girls in 'O-ing, in the Dzing-bu-deo district. There were twenty-one women enrolled. They studied in the forenoon and for the first hour in the afternoon. Then they sewed for two hours, after which they had a Bible lesson for the last half hour of the afternoon. The pupils were paid a small sum for the sewing done, but if they did not attend for study in the morning they could not sew in the afternoon. The majority were quite diligent. Some learned to read, though haltingly. None of the class were professing Christians, though the husbands of some were. Since the close of the class one pupil has been admitted into church membership and three others have applied. Miss Cunningham has visited the women once since the close of the class and is much encouraged by the results.

EDUCATIONAL.—Day-schools.—There are ten day schools in the Ningpo field.

Mr. Kepler spent much time and more energy over a day-school which did not materialize. Near Pun-P'u the people of the eighth township unanimously requested our Mission to receive a temple and eighty-seven mow of land, to put away the idols and to convert the temple into a day-school, which would be made self-supporting by the annual income derived from the eighty-seven mow of land. The idols were ejected and the transfer about completed when a great protest arose from the surrounding gentry, who were men of influence, and also from the hsien official of that region. As a consequence it was decided wisest and best to withdraw entirely and return the property to the original party. If it did nothing else the affair at least very forcibly evidenced the little faith in, and reverence for, their idols that exists among the masses, and also their present great desire for Western education.

Presbyterian Academy.—

The discipline in the school has been fairly good. Two grave cases needed severe discipline. One case, where three of the students were suspended for two weeks for leaving school without permission to attend a heathen procession thirty li away, resulted in a general Anglo-Chinese struggle between teacher and the student body, and finally resulted in a compromise which proved satisfactory to all.

The religious life of the student body continues on the same high plane. More than two-thirds of the students are either professing Christians or from Christian homes, three having joined the church during the year. The Y. M. C. A. meetings have been regularly attended by all. The large boys do street chapel preaching every Sunday afternoon at the Bing-gyiao-deo. In application to enter the academy preference is given to Christian boys. But the school will not hold more than are now in attendance. Consequently, as the number of Christian boys increases, the number of heathen boys (paying $60.00 to $80.00 per year) is lessened, and the school revenues are deprived of that very surplus which enables us to give an education to Christian boys at the rate of $12.00, which pays for less than half their rice.

Girls' Boarding School.—No less than five of the ladies of the Station have taken their turn in the oversight of this school during the year, illness, furloughs and other necessities being responsible for this situation.

The number of girls enrolled in the school is forty-two. One joined the church last year. Several others expressed their desire to join, but after talking with them it was decided better to have them wait a little longer. There is a scarcity of teachers in the school. No Chinese woman can yet be found to assist in the teaching of English, and it is therefore an additional and an increasingly heavy burden, as the higher classes have come to a place where more advanced studies can be taken.

Eighteen girls attended the Short Term Boarding School, fourteen women the Women's Class, twelve men the Helpers' Training Class, and seventeen the Men's Training Class for Bible Study at Yu-yiao. Of the last the report states:

Three reasons account for this small number—the raising of the board charged to $1.50; the fear that we could not rent a house fitted to accommodate a large crowd, thus making it impossible for us to work the class up well in advance; and the heavy fall of snow and the great cold which froze the canals and otherwise made travel difficult. The class was particularly encouraging in the number of Christians who came for the second time and who thus received advanced instruction.

In the Helper's training class, the Life of Christ, as based on Mark, was studied and the Miracles and Parables were taken up in detail. The Catechism on the Three Religions, the Shorter Catechism, O. T. History and Pott's Preparation for the Kingdom were studied and Ephesians exegeted. In the afternoon the street chapel was opened and the men conducted the service. The speakers and subjects were previously assigned. After the service the men gathered while criticisms and comments were made on the efforts of the speakers. The men, thus while in the training class, received some practical as well as theoretical knowledge. The class consisted of newly appointed lay-helpers who had not yet received sufficient instruction.

Ten boarders and two day pupils were enrolled in the Anglo-Chinese Girls' School, designed to reach the better class of Chinese girls, and through them their families.

Though this number seems small we feel that the school is slowly and surely gaining ground. Applications have been received not only from Ningpo but also from the surrounding country, such as Ka-shing and Chu-sæn. The school has outgrown its first quarters and the ladies in charge have been obliged temporarily to move their dining-room into the Wright house to make room for more pupils. Only eight or nine more boarders can be accommodated in the present building.

Mr. Fitch's hopeful work in connection with the Ningpo College came to an end during the year. The Trustees opposed the Christian teaching and influence, without which Mr. Fitch was of course unwilling to continue his work, and though disagreeing in principles, Mr. Fitch and the Trustees amicably parted, Mr. Fitch retaining their good will and entire confidence, and the Trustees offering a large sum of money in compensation for what Mr. Fitch had done for the College, which he was to be free to use in connection with the Mission. They are already experiencing the difficulties from which Mr. Fitch's skill and personality alone could save them, and they seem to realize now the possibility of their having made a mistake. At the same time, the strong nationalistic feeling will probably prevent them from expressing their grief, and placing the College again under Mr. Fitch's control with a free hand for exerting Christian influence.

A Bi-monthly Conference with the Helpers has been continued through the year, and there has also been a series of Union Conferences with all the helpers with headquarters in Ningpo. A most useful conference for women helpers, attended by thirty, was held; but the great meeting of the year was the National Christian Endeavor Convention held in May. It was an unqualified success, the attendance was about 1200, and included delegates from all the coast provinces in the Yangtze valley. At one session the leading Chinese officials came, and there was a thoroughly friendly opportunity to lay before them clearly the character of the Christian movement in China.

SHANGHAI STATION.

The South Gate Church.—Nineteen were admitted on profession of faith, ten from the girls' school, five from the Lowrie High School, and one from the Berean Day School.

The Hongkew Church is now in its own home, financed entirely by the church itself.

The building is located near a large printing office—the Commercial Press, principally managed and owned by three former pupils of the Lowrie High School, who are all church members, and who give their more than 300 employees the Sabbath as a day of rest. This church has, from the first, grown slowly but steadily, and has now 222 members. The Rev. Yu Kok-tsung, now many years their pastor, is an able man and an eloquent preacher, and it is largely through his efforts that the church has been able to build their own house of worship.

There were twelve additions on profession of faith to the Lowrie Memorial Church, located at the City Press property, which now has a membership of 119.

Two Bible women, working under Mrs. Fitch's direction, and a day-school of twenty-eight pupils are maintained by this church, besides the support of its pastor and gifts for both Home and Foreign Missions.

ITINERATION.—It would seem that if there were only part of China that must have been thoroughly evangelized, it is that region round about Shanghai. A short visit into the country, however, is sufficient to show that there is as much room for evangelistic work here as in some of the most remote parts of the Empire. Mr. Partch, who returned to China alone, leaving Mrs. Partch in this country, but who has since had to return to America and to resign on account of Mrs. Partch's health, devoted himself during the year to the country work.

There still exists, on the part of many, a prejudice against the foreigners. Some have left the services when prayer was offered, for fear of being bewitched into believing. Some have said it was all right to go two or three times, but after that there was danger of being deceived. Placards were posted in three places defaming the foreigners and warning all to beware of contaminations.

Though only a limited field has been covered, and some have heard the Gospel repeatedly, yet there still exists the densest ignorance of our motives and our message. Some confound us with the Catholics, not because they are so numerous, but because they have been long on the field. Many questions are asked concerning marriage customs, abstaining from the use of meat, and extreme unction. Others call us the "Individual Society," in distinction from the Catholics, because we do not require the whole family to join the church at once. Some say Jesus was Sung Kong-pau, a Chinese traitor, who was crucified for secretly giving intelligence to foreigners.

The Pootung region, with its thousands of villages and tens of thousands of homes, still waits for the Gospel. Would that the church at home could hear the cry of lonely, homesick, sin-burdened heathen hearts and hasten to their relief. Mr. Partch, who on his return from furlough entered heartily into this country work, which had been so long neglected for lack of any man to take it up, having been recalled to the U. S. A. in August, after one year of seed sowing, the field must again be left to the one Chinese evangelist.

Miss Silver went for five weeks with a Bible woman to Tseu-poo, where she spent four months last year.

There are five church members here, and the year has been one of real spiritual growth with some of them. The preaching is still in the hands of volunteer workers, who must make the four or five hours' journey by boat or wheelbarrow which weather and tide often make most inconvenient, so that the services are too irregular for good results.

The building for the women's work, for which friends at home had given Miss Silver funds on furlough, was erected during the year.

While being detained in Shanghai in building the women's school building, Miss Silver, with her Bible women, undertook a systematic visitation of the homes in the district lying to the east of the compound at the South Gate. Three or four months of daily work has scarcely made an impression on it, as the streets are so densely populated.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are six day schools in connection with the work in Shanghai, in addition to two boarding schools. The strongest of the day schools is Miss Posey's Berean School.

Mention was made in the April Quarterly of four pupils who had been received in the inquirers' class. One of the four, a young man of about eighteen years of age, was baptized the first Sabbath in July. He is the son of a well-to-do family in a large village forty miles from Shanghai. If those who read this report could, in any small measure, appreciate or understand how difficult is the position of those who, like this young man, are the first converts in a village, many would be the prayers offered for the Christians in this and other such schools.

The aim of those in charge of this school is to make it self-supporting, and no appropriations have been made for the salaries of Chinese teachers or the general expenses of the school. When the accounts were closed at the end of this school year the income was found insufficient, but Mr. Chang, the teacher who left a far more lucrative position, because he felt called of God to this work, now proposes to pay the other teachers and sundry expenses with the funds in hand, but wait indefinitely for his own salary for the last two months. With characteristic bravery and faithfulness he intends to go on with the school.

The Lowrie High School.—The influence of the boycott was felt for a time in the school, although the leaders in the boycott declared that the American Mission schools and hospitals were not to be included in the boycott. There was also the necessity of some firmness of discipline during the year, so that the school closed the year with twenty-seven instead of sixty pupils. There are sixty-eight boarding pupils in the Girls' School, and they have to be packed in very closely. In each room, fifteen feet square, ten girls sleep, and in the larger dormitory, thirty-nine feet square, thirty-two girls.

One Saturday afternoon, not long since, invitation was sent to those who had gone out from the school in the last fourteen years to come together for a social reunion. Those living at a distance could not come, but twenty young women who live in Shanghai attended, and it was most encouraging to note that of this number all, except one, are teaching Christian schools or assisting in medical work, or have rendered such service until family cares left little or no time for outside work.

We would not give the impression that these former pupils are all that could be desired in spirituality and earnestness, for the majority are as hindered by pride, worldliness and selfishness as the average church member in Christian lands; but we rejoice and praise God for them and for what they have already attained in Christ Jesus.

Two classes for women were held during the winter.

Dr. Farnham and Mr. Silsby have continued to assist in the translation of the Shanghai Old Testament and the revision of the New Testament, while Dr. Farnham has continued to act as secretary of the Tract Society. This is publishing many other things, the Conference Commentary, of which there remains to be published only the Commentary of the Minor Prophets of Dr. Noyes. Many other lines of activity have been kept up by the Station, including the most useful work of rescue among Chinese Girls, in which Mrs. Fitch has done a great deal in connection with the Florence Crittenden Home.

HANGCHOW STATION.

Dr. and Mrs. Garritt's absence in America has been a great loss to the Station, but Mr. and Mrs. Judson returned to the field, and Mrs. Lyon was transferred from Soochow, and later her daughter came to join her. At the fall meeting of the Presbytery two young Chinese were licensed; one of them with his family has gone off to Zehem, where there are no Christians. To the church in Hangchow twenty-five new members have been added on confession of faith this year. The total number of members, in good and regular standing, is now 165. The pastor, Mr. Dzi, has been earnest and faithful in looking after his flock.

The people in the city seem to be gradually growing more friendly and willing to listen to the Gospel story.

Especially might be mentioned a man and his family who keep a restaurant. A friend brought him one Sunday afternoon. He seemed from the beginning to believe, bought a hymn book and Bible, and spent his spare time reading them. He came every Sunday and drank in the truth as it was set forth. After a few months we were invited to his home to witness the turning out of the idols and all pertaining to false worship and hold a little meeting for his family and servants to see that he believed what he had heard and read. His family, too, seem interested; his little son especially so. The fact that this man has his shop on a crowded street, and is very much laughed at by the people in neighboring shops and passers-by, makes it seem probable that he must be sincere.

We tried opening a similar Sunday-school in the home of an influential church member. The man is a carpenter, and has many apprentices, servants and relatives, besides girls winding silk in the house, so there were always a large number in attendance. The man's wife is not a Christian and not at all in sympathy with the work, so it was rather discouraging. The carpenter is very anxious that we should continue. Desire for the conversion of his wife is his chief motive for asking us.

Sin-z.—Pastor Tsang is kept very busy shepherding his growing flock at this place. Twenty-nine have entered the church this year. He divides his people into groups, praying for each group a certain day in the week. He also divides them and appoints overseers from among the older Christians to watch after and help the new and weaker ones. His people are scattered; sometimes only one or two Christians in a whole village or neighborhood.

Of the 116 members of this church eighty-five are men and only thirty-one are women. Almost three times as many men as women!

At one of the out-stations, Haining, an old woman has given her house to the Mission, reserving to herself only the right to live in it until her death.

The Tong-yang field was visited twice during the last year; once by Mr. Shoemaker in the fall of the year and again in the spring by Mr. Herriott. The outlook seems discouraging when one sees the results of a generation of constant and faithful itineration by the best and most experienced laborers, both foreign and native. There are three main districts in this field, separated by low mountain ranges—the P'u-kyang district, with two out-stations; the Tong-yang and I-u districts, with six out-stations, and the Dzang-loh district, with one out-station. The nine out-stations cover a distance of 320 li, which must be traveled overland.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are four day-schools in connection with the Station. Of the primary day-schools for the little Christian children the report states:

Miss Tse Sih-tsen, daughter of an elder in the church, and a girl who represents the third generation of Christians in China, was put in charge. Earnest, conscientious and tactful she has made a wonderful success of this little school, and reflects much credit on our school in Shanghai, where she was educated. As there is little expense outside the teacher's salary, and she will not accept a large sum, the school is nearly self-supporting. Fourteen pupils were enrolled, of whom twelve are children of our Christians.

Girls' School.—Twenty-six girls were enrolled, of whom twenty-two were boarders, taxing the school to its utmost capacity, using every seat and every bed. At the close of year the question of consolidating the school with the girls' school of the Southern Presbyterian Mission was under consideration.
Hangchow College.—

The large number of applicants made it necessary either for us to turn away a great many or make other arrangements for housing and teaching them. Here were fifty or sixty boys anxious to study, and we only had room for twenty in addition to our old students. This would bring us up to the limit of our school buildings. Last year we had 110 enrolled, with an attendance of nearly 100. Here were 120 or 125 waiting to enter school. We had not the heart to turn them away. So after talking the matter over we decided to throw open a building in one of the residence compounds, which could be fitted up to accommodate about thirty students. Tables and benches were procured, a black-board put up, two of the older students were secured as pupil-teachers, beds were provided upstairs, and in a few days everything was going along like clock-work with thirty-three pupils in the incoming class. In addition to these there were about twelve others received into the college buildings as irregular students. This brought the total enrollment up to 125, the largest by far we have ever had.

There is a good staff of native teachers, one of them, Mr. M. K. Chow, represented the Hangchow Presbytery at the Buffalo General Assembly, and who had charge of some Chinese merchants at the St. Louis Exposition, is still away visiting Europe and attending the Belgium Exposition.

Our present head teacher is Mr. K. F. Tin, one of our alumni, who has been teaching in the college since his graduation. He has the chair of physics and has done good work. He also was urged very strongly to accept a position in the government college, but he steadfastly refused to leave us, even though his salary would be more than trebled. Mr. Tin has thrown himself heartily into the management of the school, and, in addition to his teaching in the college, has also been giving some assistance in the Chinese government middle school, which is near us. They also tried to obtain his services, but he refused to go. We finally decided to let him help them out for two hours a day. For this they give him $40.00 per month, and he foregoes all salary with us.

Military drill has been kept up through the term. About half of the students have their new uniforms. They present a very striking if not warlike appearance with their straw hats, tight-fitting trousers with a waving yellow stripe, and neat-fitting blouses with a white star on the shoulder.

Our aim is to make all of our students soldiers of the Cross. All of our graduates have been Christians, and they are to be found today all over this part of China as preachers and teachers and Christian business men. Six students united with the church during the year. Several of the boys are looking forward to doing Christian work.

Ten of the members of the Y. M. C. A. in the college attended the Y. M. C. A. conference and summer school held at the West Lake, just outside the walls of Hangchow, July 15 to 24.

A gift of two thousand dollars was received from the estate of the late Dr. William M. Paxton, which will probably be used toward a Science building, and Mr. Arthur W. March, a graduate of Wooster University, and a son of the Rev. F. W. March of Syria, has been added to the College staff as a teacher of Science.

SOOCHOW STATION.

In spite of many heavy trials through which the Station has passed, there has been real blessing, fifteen having been received on confession of faith. The Shanghai Presbytery consolidated two churches into one organization in connection with the Hospital compound. Only Mr. Crawford has been able to do any itinerating, and he has been out but a month. He writes:

The trip to Dzang-hyin was the most interesting I have ever taken. All along the road the people were most friendly. Dzang-hyin is under the care of Pastor Tsong, a native ordained minister, and he and his work are responsible to the native home Missionary Society, and the funds for the work are contributed entirely by the native church.

Notwithstanding all this and the loneliness of the situation—for the place is only visited by the itinerant missionary, native and foreign, two or three times a year—the work is prospering. Pastor Tsong is slowly building up a church, and a number of Christians come in from the neighborhood, some coming thirty or forty li to the Sunday services, and the crowds are fast outgrowing and overcrowding the main building, where the Sunday services are held.

There are millions of people within a day's ride of Soochow, and comparatively few of them know of the way of life.

Miss Moomau has continued her work for women in greatly improved quarters in the city, and there is the customary chapel preaching. Mrs. Crawford took charge of the day-school which Mrs. Lyon had established, with forty-five pupils enrolled. Miss Moomau's day-school had the same number, and at the Chinese New Year, opened a girl's school, the two schools forming the nucleus for the women's work, and opening the way into the homes of the children. Thirty have been enrolled in Mrs. Hayes' school at the old compound. Addison Hayes has taken some time to teach the children to sing. The pupils attend the Sunday and midweek services; most of them are little tots. It is a pretty sight to see them march along two by two hand in hand.

Forty pupils have been enrolled in the High School, four of whom have been received into the Church. The school felt the influence of the boycott, though only two pupils permanently left the school! For a time it seemed that one-half would go; they were extremely restless, but finally they quieted down and went on with their work.

MEDICAL WORK.—During Dr. Cattell's absence, Dr. Fitch has borne the burden of the hospital and the rescue work, although with the latter and in all the evangelistic work of the hospital, Miss Lattimore has continued to be a tower of strength.

An unknown friend in America has provided us with $500.00 gold for the purchase and fitting out of a hospital boat, a most valuable and highly appreciated gift.

And some day we hope to report a definite provision in Soochow for the rescue work. How our hearts go out to these girls. As we write three crowd before our mind, pictures of the different ones whose lives have touched ours this year, and there is ringing in our ears the cry of one of them who came back to us to die: "Oh, if I had only listened to you before; if I had only listened to you before!"

Many of these girls come to the dispensary for treatment, for their native physicians cannot cure them; but they are not allowed to come unattended, and rarely allowed to stay in the wards as in-patients.

One of these pictures is that of a girl in the ante-room of a Chinese house lying at her long rest, a cover over her once beautiful face, and lights burning at her feet to guide her along the dark road. We think of her as she first came to us two years ago—a gentle, refined girl, guarded most jealously by her owner, for she was worth two hundred dollars. She was cured at the time, returned to the house, and later was bought by a well-to-do man and carried to his home in Hangchow.

One of our near neighbors, whom with mistaken kindness we insisted on treating, was secretly employing native "healers" at the same time. Opposite the house of another neighbor one day we saw the chair of a native physician. It had been a long, tedious case, where in spite of our Bible woman's earnest entreaty they had declined to send for us. Now fever had set in, and still, "No, they did not believe in the foreign doctor for inside diseases." So poor as they were they incurred a bill with the native doctor of thirty-six dollars for six visits—only a fraction of their expense. They called in a woman who could see into hell and communicate with the king of that region. He agreed to let the woman off this time, so the required prayers were said and incense burned. But the poor woman failed to profit by it at all, and the witch must be called in again. She saw she had made a mistake, and this time said the king needed the woman in hell, and there was no letting her off. The wretched woman died in terror, extracting promises from her people to do all in their power to deliver her from the purgatory she dreaded, "or I will come back and haunt you!" And days and days after her death the yellow-gowned priests were in that house beating their tom-toms and chanting prayers for her soul.

NANKING STATION.

The Station had to give up for a time the Leamans and all their active participation in the various departments of the work, the family having been ordered home on account of Mr. Leaman's health. Mrs. Abbey also has been detained at home on account of the needs of her children. Dr. and Mrs. Garritt, however, have returned to Nanking, Dr. Garritt having been assigned to the Union Theological Seminary, which had been established and is beginning its work most encouragingly.

EVANGELISTIC.—There are two organized churches in Nanking. When Mr. and Mrs. Leaman were leaving for America, the members of both churches subscribed altogether over sixty dollars as a token of their love. According to the expressed desire of the Leamans, this money was used for the church. The larger part of it was spent in buying lamps, hymn books and a clock for the church building. During the year twelve adults have been baptized and received into communion. The whole membership is 138. The Second Church is now housed in a beautiful new building. The two street chapels at Lu-dong and Yien-iao-fang, were visited daily until the Chinese New Year, by Mr. Leaman, who preached daily at both of them. At Ban-bien-ying the woman's work has been most encouraging. At Shwan-tang the church members have taken an interest in their new place of worship, contributing both time and money to its use and improvement.

In March there was held in Nanking a conference for native workers. All helpers in our Mission in Nanking and some from Hwai-yuen attended. The Southern Presbyterian Mission from Chinkiang and Suchien sent delegates. The conference lasted six days, and was much appreciated.

THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY.—The seminary has a piece of land over twenty-eight mow in extent, and surrounded on three sides by streets and with an entrance on the fourth to one of the large macadamized roads that now run through Nanking. The compound wall and gate are finished, and the dormitory and residence will be finished in November if the contract is fulfilled. It was expected that classes would be opened this winter, or spring of 1906.

COUNTRY WORK.—There are four out-stations in connection with Nanking.

Lih-shui is a walled city of some importance. A few days after she was joined by Mrs. Abbey and Miss Lyon, and together they made a canvass of the city and surrounding villages. Although the people were busy doing the last things before the New Year holidays closed down on the regular occupations, in most cases they were allowed to give their message, and even a large number responded to their invitation to come and hear more. For the first five days of the New Year the chapel was crowded from morning till night, and they had more than they could reach. One old lady spent five hours a day with them, and remarked she got more comfort, and enjoyed them more, than from the theatricals a little lower down on the streets. The station is intending to open a school at this place in the near future.

It is worth mentioning that a dozen or so of inquirers have been coming to us from the north of the river, and offered us a house in which to open a chapel. We tried to persuade them to unite with the Christian Mission, who have work in that part of the country, and to whom the field belongs by common consent, but they were not disposed to listen. They finally were refused admission to our church in order that we might hold harmonious relations with the other mission.

Mrs. Abbey visited Lih-yang twice, and she was again deeply impressed by the needs of this busy flourishing city which stands in the centre of a large untrodden field.

Shortly after returning from mission meeting last September Mrs. Abbey, Miss Dresser and two Bible women made a boat trip to Lih-yang.

They found in this way one old soul which otherwise might never have been found. "Delight thyself in the Lord, and trust also in Him, and He will give thee the desires of thy heart." God granted their desire. This old woman had five months before heard Miss Lattimore and Dr. Cattell just once tell of a Saviour's love, and since that time, she told them, she had been daily praying to the "Yesu pusah" (Jesus idol).

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—

Girls' Boarding School.—Some forty-five girls were enrolled in the boarding school this year, the largest number we have received in any one year. A larger number would have been taken in had they been able to fully pay all expenses. We had during the year eight applications from girls of high-class families. Many of them had father or brother or near relative sent by the government to Japan for study. Some of these young women were well able to read Chinese. They studied the Bible, Evidences of Christianity, Pilgrim's Progress, with their English work.

A Manchu brought his intended daughter-in-law to our school. The mother of the girl was unwilling to give her up, but the young man, to whom she was engaged, said she must study.

Boys' Boarding School.—There was an enrollment of thirty-five in the school. The educational situation in Nanking is changing greatly, however. At the Chinese New Year there were opened by the Viceroy, in the city of Nanking, forty primary or day-schools, each to accommodate forty or fifty boys. They are free schools, the government even supplying the books. In our schools we are obliged to charge a fee of fifty cents per month for tuition and supply no books. Besides, we attach great importance to the Christian books. Only a few are the children of Christians, and if any come it is because they are convinced that the teaching is better. It is not easy to foresee what effect these government schools will have on our schools later on.

In order to meet these changing conditions, so far as our boys' boarding school is concerned, the project of consolidating it with the school of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society or the Disciples is under consideration.

Of the Woman's School the report states :

At Christmas time we invited a number of country women to come in and spend Christmas with us. Most of these were lonely ones—in some cases, in fact in each case, the only Christians in the place where they lived. They spent ten days with us studying Gospel stories and learning hymns. The latter they simply loved. At the close of the time, and after having received the communion, they returned home.

The Mothers of the church had a meeting once a month at the home of Mrs. Williams. The attendance was never less than fifteen.

At Chinese New Year there were twenty-eight in all present. The meetings were quiet and orderly; the women came in their clean garments and brought their babies along. They took part in the singing and the praying. The subject for one meeting was "giving their children to the Lord." Mrs. Williams had the Christmas meeting, giving them all a pleasant time and trying to show them the real meaning of Christmas. One meeting was a Bible reading, when they were shown the promises for the children of believers.

One meeting was a special talk on how to treat minor ailments of their children, telling of simple remedies which mothers can easily use in their homes. At each meeting tea and cake were served and a little social meeting was held. It is hoped it has been a help and a break in the monotony of their lives.

Just this one branch of teaching the Christian mothers how to live Christian lives in the home, how to care for the souls and bodies of their children, and how to claim for their little ones the promises and blessings of the covenant, affords an ample field for one woman's time.

HWAI YUEN STATION.

The Hwai Yuen Station was opened to foreign residence in the fall of 1901, so that the present report covers the fourth year of its life and work. After very much discussion, it was finally decided to take into the Mission employ, Mr. Liu, the pharmacist in Hwai Yuen, who has been the foremost man in the little company of Chinese Christians.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—

The itinerating has fallen almost entirely upon Mr. Morris and Mr. Cochran. Apart from two short trips—one to the north by Dr. Cochran and one to the region southwest by Mr. Lobenstine—all of the country work has been done by them with the help of Mr. Suen and of Lao Tsao, our Christian coolie, barrow-man and colporteur. The latter left us in the summer of 1904 to return to his home in Shantung to "convert his parents." He had at no little pains learned to write, and for clearness of appeal had carefully worked out, on a folio volume of out-of-date calendars, the evidences of Christianity that he felt would appeal to his parents. Sometimes we smiled at his struggles, but we can but admire his simple faith and earnest prayer, for Mr. Robert Mateer baptized both parents at his first visit to their village, and gained through them an opening in a field he had long been desirous of entering.

Mr. Morris and Mr. Cochran have spent about three months each in the country. They have worked mostly in their respective fields; but made one long trip together to the north and west, visiting the cities of Po-chou, Kwei-teh-fu, in Honan, Nan-hsü-chou and the adjacent city of Hsü-chia-kou-tsi. This trip, and those taken by the other members of the station, were for the purpose of helping us to plan more definitely for the future expansion of the work in this region and to decide upon the location of the new station. We feel that Nan-hsü-chou is the best city for us to enter.

Undoubtedly the most hopeful sign in our country work has been the interest that has sprung up in a village about sixty li west of here, where there are several families by the name of Ken. Our first hold on them was gained through the hospital, and has been strengthened by semi-annual enquirers' classes and frequent visits.

During the year one of the most hopeful enquirers, a Mr. Chang Ku'en-yu, left his home, about ninety li northwest of here, with his younger son, saying he was coming to Hwai-yuen to see us, and has mysteriously disappeared. His acceptance of Christianity had been the cause of much bitter persecution on the part of his oldest son, a young man in the twenties, and the latter had beaten his father severely. Twice Mr. Suen was apparently able to set things right again, but not permanently. Now the father has wandered off we know not where, leaving home and property, and taking with him only his younger son. We trust that no harm has befallen them, and that they will find comfort in some other mission station.

Inquirers' Classes.—

In order to make it more clear to all just what we expect of those desirous of entering the church, we decided upon a pledge to be made publicly by all who wish to be baptized. They are then to be enrolled as enquirers and to enter upon a period of training and probation for not less than six months, after which, if they have made satisfactory progress in their knowledge of the truth, and shown themselves to be sincere, they will be received into the church. The pledge is as follows:—

"I promise to abstain from the worship of all idols and tablets, and to remove all such from my home. (The latter clause is omitted when the enquirer is not in a position to carry it into effect.) I promise to abstain from opium, drunkenness, gambling, and all known sins. Hereafter I will exert myself, to the best of my ability, to learn the teaching of Jesus Christ and to carry out His teaching in my life."

As this pledge is a public confession of their desire to be united with the Christian church, we do not allow any except those we have reason to believe sincere and really in earnest to take it. During the period of probation we expect them to memorize the Lord's Prayer, a prayer of confession of sin, and a table blessing; the Apostles' Creed, the Ten Commandments in abbreviated form, and to be prepared to answer questions on the life of Christ and on Mrs. Nevius' catechism. Where the candidate can read sufficiently we expect to require, in addition, the reading of the Gospels and the telling of selected parables of our Saviour in His own words.

At our last communion it was our great joy to have three women, three men and three of the school boys take the pledge. Three of the nine were from the family of the Christian boatman, Mr. Chiang. A year ago his wife was violently opposed to his fellowship with us, and one day, in a rage to spite her husband, threw her youngest child in the river and sought to drown it. This year she stood up before about twenty women, most of them heathen, and with her oldest daughter promised to follow the teachings of Christ.

The aged father and a younger brother of Mr. Chiang attended the fall enquirers' class; two sons have been sent to school and boarded at no slight expense by their father; and last spring he spent three months here that his wife and daughters might also have an opportunity to learn. It is most refreshing to see the way he has accepted Christ, not only for himself but for his entire family.

There has been a large attendance at the church services on Sunday of masons and carpenters employed on Mission buildings.

As we hired them by the day, and they could not be expected to find other work for Sundays, it seemed only fair that we should pay those thrown out of work half wages for the day. We made this conditional on their attendance at the Sunday services. To this they readily agreed, and on the whole they have been well behaved and attentive. The informal afternoon meetings with them have been the most profitable.

At the time of the district examinations about 800 students gathered in the city. The examination hall is almost opposite the chapel. We gave addresses on three evenings, and each time the chapel was crowded with students.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Boys' Day-school increased to a membership of twenty-four, and the Station hopes to develop it into a boarding school, as some of the boys are sons of Christians living at a distance and must be provided for. At the New Year a girls' day-school was established.

The teacher is an aged grandmother over seventy, who for some thirty years has been teaching in the family of a wealthy official's son. She is somewhat blind, and probably has no very high scholarship, but she knows sufficient character to teach the children, and is a good faithful old soul.

MEDICAL WORK.—

Seventy-six operations have been performed under an anæsthetic; 209 on the eye, besides a large number of lesser operations. The hospital is already far famed for its surgery. When they were in Kwei-teh-fu, Mr. Morris and Mr. Cochran found that even over the border in Honan it was known and praised. Dr. Cochran and his assistants have had their hands full. They need better accommodations very greatly. It is remarkable that in their low thatched room that serves for dispensary, drug room and operating room combined, they have been able to keep such a high standard of asepsis.

A large part of our city evangelistic work has centred around the hospital. In the small street chapel there is preaching every morning and afternoon, and aside from the morning prayers in the wards, conducted by the doctor and his assistant, systematic teaching has been done every day by Mr. Suen or Mr. Liu. It has been their effort to teach every in-patient and the relative who cares for him the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, and the most important truths of Christianity. The work has been much blessed. Every opening we have thus far gained in the country has been a result of our hospital work. Mr. Morris has now undertaken to arrange a card catalogue of all in-patients, on which are to be noted items that will be of help to us in our country work.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSION PRESS.

The foreign staff at the Press has been increased during the year, the Press meeting all the expense, by the addition of the Rev. C. M. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell and Mr. T. P. Thompson. A new chapel has been built at the new Press to seat nearly three hundred people.

Work has been executed for twenty-seven different Societies and Missions.

During the year under review there have been frequent opportunities of proving the practicability of our new buildings, augmented plant, and increased staff to meet fresh conditions, and their adaptability to cope with new problems. The test has not been so complete as was anticipated, there being a lull in the demand for books, caused possibly by the war clouds in the East, the later complications in the agitation attending the boycott of American goods, and the search for enlightenment taking the shape of sending Chinese students to Japan, America and Europe. It is reported that fully four thousand Chinese students are studying in Japan, mainly in Tokyo. The increased output, in connection with our Chinese printing, of nearly seventeen millions of pages over last year's Chinese total, is mainly accounted for by the increase in the printing of our own works so as to keep the men and machinery adequately employed.

There have been disappointing experiences in our desire to improve the quality of our output. The Chinese heads of departments have been faithful and efficient, but no amount of exertions, oversight, and foresight on their part have been able to satisfactorily cope with the "more-or-less" way of doing things, which is so frequently met with in native labor, and renders it anything but cheap.

The question of the employment of skilled Japanese workmen to act as an incentive and gauge to the others (a plan adopted by a well-known native firm) has been considered, but several difficulties prevented the experiment being made. We would much rather rise to a higher standard of workmanship through the improved mental concentration and efficient handicraft of our Chinese workmen.

There has been a marked increase this year in the circulation of The Chinese Christian Intelligencer, under the able editorship of Rev. S. Isett Woodbridge. The paper continues to be a powerful influence for good in all parts of China; and now that peace between Russia and Japan has been declared, will be still more widely distributed in Manchuria, and will greatly assist in bringing together the scattered churches.

Notwithstanding the establishment of new printing plants, at various centres, and increasing of facilities in the older ones, the demands are keeping in advance of supply. Skilled workmen are not to be had, except by training. Overtime work by the trained men in English and bi-lingual printing has been the rule five nights per week.

The books at the close of the year under review showed that we owed creditors $21,421.94 (we also had outstanding cash contracts for new stock due by early steamers amounting to $13,454.51) and that there was owing us from sundry debtors $48,233.73.

SCHOOLHOUSE AND SCHOLARS, NODOO, HAINAN, CHINA.

HAINAN MISSION.

HAINAN: a large island, 190 miles long by 100 miles broad, on the southeast coast, 200 miles southwest of Hongkong; occupied in 1885; established as a Mission, 1893.

KIUNG-CHOU ("The Grace A. Mead Memorial"): Missionaries—H. M. McCandliss, M.D., and Mrs. McCandliss, Rev. Wm. M. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Miss Etta Montgomery, Miss Alice Skinner, J. Franklin Kelly, M.D., and Mrs. Kelly, Rev. C. H. Newton and Mrs. Newton.

NODOA: occupied as a Station, 1889. Missionaries—Rev. P. W. McClintock and Mrs. McClintock, Mrs. M. R. Melrose, Rev. William J. Leverett, Herman Bryan, M.D.

KACHEK: occupied as a Station, 1900. Missionaries—Rev. Frank P. Gilman and Mrs. Gilman, Sidney L. Lasell, M.D., and Miss Kate L. Schaeffer.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. C. H. Newton, and Mrs. M. R. Melrose.

The Mission force has been unchanged during the past year, except by the departure on furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and the return of Miss Schaeffer and Mr. Newton. The health of all the missionaries has been good, and that too in spite of a severe epidemic or plague which seriously interfered with the work of Nodoa Station for several months. The retirement over a year ago of several members of the Mission, whose places have not yet been filled, has laid an unusually heavy burden on those who remain. The urgent need for reinforcement has now been met by the appointment of two men who will sail this summer. Numerous calls from the country districts are coming to the missionaries for some one to instruct them, but on account of the smallness of the force it is impossible to respond. Never was the opportunity for successful work greater in Hainan than at present, but these opportunities could not be used on account of the smallness of the Mission force. There is a condition of unrest and upheaval in the country which shows that the leaven has been working and that calls for larger evangelistic effort. On the whole the present year marks a distinct and encouraging advance in the work of the Mission among the people of Hainan.

KIUNG CHOU STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Kiung-chou city being the "hub of the universe" to the Hainanese students and literati, is an excellent center from which to do evangelistic work. In November and December thousands of students, the flower of the Kingdom, thronged the streets of the city. Mr. Tang was kept busy preaching and selling and distributing tracts. Mr. Campbell endeavored to rent a place for a chapel near the haunts of the students, but failing in this open air meetings were held. He writes:

Knowing the disposition of the Chinese students and their ability to raise a disturbance on short notice, I was rather doubtful of the reception we might have in making our work so open and public, but it was to do this or nothing it seemed. The result was that we usually had a good hearing. I had repeated invitations to go to the halls where the students had their quarters to have a pleasant chat. Many of the same students came to our Sunday services at the north gate.

The first of the year Mr. Campbell spent seventeen days in the country, visiting and preaching in six villages and five large market towns. While on this trip he invited those interested to come to Kiung-chou during the Chinese New Year's vacation for a week of Bible study. About half a dozen men responded. This trip was made primarily to encourage and strengthen some of the persecuted adherents in the village of Ji-ae.

One family had discarded their idols and put away heathen worship. They built a new addition to the home, and instead of choosing a lucky day they called in some of their friends who had accepted Christianity and had a prayer service at the house-raising. This brought persecution; they were boycotted. The road way to the new building was blocked. Workmen refused to finish the house and clay for filling in was denied. Mr. Campbell exchanged courtesies with the enraged villagers and advised them to be just, and the Christians were admonished to show their patience and willingness to suffer for the sake of Christ.

Miss Montgomery and Miss Skinner have made six trips into the country. They made four visits to this village of Ji-ae. Miss Montgomery writes:

There is a group of nine Christians and we have been pleased to see the growth they have made in knowledge. One family suffered persecution of such a nature as to make it difficult to bear, such as filthy and vile language which is heaped upon them whenever they leave the house. They have passed unmoved through such annoyances as not being permitted to rent fields, or to work for their neighbors, or to hire a cow for ploughing. The rest of the Christians contributed enough to enable them to buy a cow and a distant village rents them two fields.

The regular services in Kiung-chou and Hoi-how have not been devoid of results. Five adults have received baptism and the spiritual life of the Christians has been deepened. The lame and the halt and the blind who come to the hospital have had the Gospel preached to them every day in the year. The Bible women have done faithful and efficient service and are well spoken of by the people everywhere.

EDUCATIONAL.—The emergence of the Paxton Training School for Christian Workers has been the notable event in the educational work of this station for the present year. The school is named after the late Rev. William M. Paxton, D.D., LL.D., for so many years an honored and beloved member of the Board and formerly its President.

The school was opened by Mr. Campbell in October, 1904, and the students soon increased to forty. They come from several districts of the island, and are especially eager for Western learning. But while yielding largely to this demand the paramount effort is directed towards impressing the truths of Christianity on their minds.

During the prefectural examinations last year many students came to visit the School and manifested quite an interest in the work. When one of the school boys and Miss Skinner's personal teacher each received the first literary degree, there was considerable talk about the lucky situation of our compound. We believe it is a good situation not due to luck, and if we develop the school as it is designed we shall surely see great results in the conversion of the people of Hainan to Christ.

That the desire for Western learning has taken Hainan also in its grasp is very evident to the missionaries who come in contact with the people. Government schools are now being established to take the place of the old system of examinations, and unless the opportunity is seized at once non-Christian men will come in and mould the thought of the youth of Hainan. Thanks to the munificent gift of Mrs. William M. Paxton the means is now at hand to meet in part this emergency.

The girls' school has been in session about nine months of the year with an enrollment of twenty-three. Miss Montgomery writes:

We are trying to make useful and thrifty women of our girls by having them take turns in the kitchen, teaching them to make their own clothes, and this year the older girls have learned to make their own shoes. We need, very much, another school-room that the lower grades may be separated from the upper. We cannot find many people who think that girls are worth educating, but I do feel that with better accommodations we could greatly enlarge our sphere of usefulness.

HOSPITAL.—Dr. McCandliss has again been enabled to continue his work throughout the year. To meet the growing demands a new ward for women has been built, of which the story is best told in the Doctor's own words:

For several years the women and children patients have so increased in numbers that the limited quarters were entirely inadequate. The Mission asked the Board for help in this matter, but the Board was forced to answer that unless some donor made a special gift there were no funds available. Finally the Doctor became desperate and asked the Commissioner of Customs (an Englishman) to ascertain if the Europeans in the place would be inclined to help. As only three or four of the thirty Europeans ever come to our religious services we were not very hopeful, but they contributed $600 Mexican, and the Chinese officials, merchants and soldiers gave $1,035 Mexican. With this we have put up a pavilion containing three rooms holding seven beds<sup>o</sup> each and a school-room. The building of these rooms did not consume all the money, and so by the vote of the Mission the balance is being used to construct the needed cisterns for the hospital.

The routine work is much the same as last year—medical work and minor surgery in the morning, followed by a forty-minute prayer service, then the receiving of out-patients until 1 o'clock. The afternoon is devoted to the patients who are able to read, and to special surgical cases that require operation. Nearly all the helpers this year are Christians. The work for the year is larger than any previous year, as the following figures will show:

Visits of out-patients.....	10,084
Patients in the wards.....	427
Operations under chloroform.....	54
Attendants at chapel services.....	23,631

NODOA STATION.

CHURCH.—Our church work suffered along with all the other work during the plague season, for at times it was not safe for the village people to come to Nodoa on account of the risk of infection. But the three or four months of plague were not wholly lost, for during that time Sunday services were held in various farmhouses by appointment. It was not possible, however, to hold the regular week of meetings for conference and prayer.

There have been five communion services, at which thirteen have been added to the church on confession, bringing the number of members up to 107, while the contributions since 1904-5 have been $107.26. The attendance of Christians and their spirit has been very good. Interest is especially increasing in the Bae-niam region, about twenty miles to the east of Nodoa, there being six baptized Christians and a number of inquirers in these villages.

A Christian from Korea, Mr. Kim, while at his business as a travelling salesman of Korean ginseng, spent several weeks in Nodoa and greatly encouraged the Christians by his fellowship and his reports of the rapid spread of Christianity in his native land.

EVANGELISTIC.—The discouragements expressed in last year's report in regard to the aggressions of the Catholics in the regions of Fah-hih and Lin-ko have been removed by the interference of the authorities. Mr. Leverett made one trip between the markets lying between Nodoa and Fah-hih, including also the latter town, where he was joined by Dr. Kelly, of Hoihow, whose medical work was most heartily appreciated by the people. A compound in a desirable location has been rented to be used as a home for a native assistant as well as for meetings and accommodations for the visiting foreigner.

One visit was made to the Lin-ko region when Mr. Leverett was accompanied by one of the teachers from the boys' school whose work among the gentry was very earnest. Several members of one family near Hou-mong, a market town in that region, had given up their former worship and were following as well as they could the instructions of the one colporteur who understands their language. After three deaths had occurred in the family in a short time very heavy pressure was brought to bear on them to restore idol worship. As a result there seems to be only one of them left who perhaps believes in God, and he rather in secret.

The colporteurs have been kept busy traveling about the country, and both the Nam-fong assistant and Mr. Vang of Nodoa have done good work in the villages.

A new and timely feature of our work is a reading room and loan library which aims to contain at least one copy of all books and tracts published by the missionary presses in China, and as many other suitable Chinese books as can be obtained.

Evangelistic Work Among Women.—As soon as the plague subsided and the village women commenced to come to market again the meetings with the women were resumed. The teachers' meeting on Saturday has been the means of bringing the Christian women together in a more intimate way than could be done in a general meeting.

Some time ago a woman named A-jiu was taken into the church. She had been in the hospital and seemed very much in earnest, but as time went on she disappointed our expectations and we dubbed her "A-jiu, the shiftless." But to our surprise two women who were related to her and whom she had influenced began coming to church from a village miles away. Their custom was to come on Saturday afternoon, bringing their own rice, and to stay over Sunday or perhaps to the middle of the week. Thus little by little they learned of Jesus and in about a year were baptized. Now from that village there are sixteen inquirers, and from that immediate family five have acknowledged Christ as their Saviour. Poor A-jiu did what she could, and one woman's work has resulted in bringing the Gospel to an entirely new region.

Visits in the market have been kept up as regularly as possible, and a goodly number of visits have been made to villages where one or two knew of Christ. In every place we found a willingness to give up devil worship and to praise God. Our Christian women have done well in leading meetings and all kinds of Christian work.

Boys' Boarding School.—The prevalence of the bubonic plague prevented the opening of the school at the usual time. On opening there was the usual rush of applicants. Eighty were enrolled and about thirty refused for lack of room. The average attendance was seventy-five. The teaching force remains the same as last year. The entire discipline of the school is in the hands of Christian teachers.

The amount paid by the boys toward their expenses has been increased to 1,000 cash a month. The amount received last year was $385. This year's receipts will be proportionately larger, but the total will be less owing to the late opening of the school. A man has been employed to collect the school dues, and he has more than paid his entire year's salary in collecting debts considered irredeemably bad. The school boys are mostly from the immediate neighborhood, but three come from Lim-ko City, four from Notia and a number from Namfong. The school is very much crowded, but the congestion will be relieved when the new wing is erected. Materials for it are being collected and the building will be erected early next year. It having been decided to introduce compulsory physical training, the school boys themselves offered to build a large mat shed that could be used as a gymnasium. Their offer was accepted and fifteen of the boys, headed by one of their teachers, put up in three or four days the shed that is now being used. There is need for a foreign teacher who will learn one or more of the dialects spoken generally in this district.

The first class to complete the full course of study was graduated this year. Another class will be graduated next year and another at the end of the fourth year. The young men graduating have been employed for some time as student teachers.

Religious instruction has been given by Vang Tin-tae, and he has shown great interest and fidelity in his work. Two boys have united with the church during the year and two others asked for baptism. Sunday evening services are conducted by the older Christian boys. Several instances of refusal to participate in idolatrous ceremonies is a hopeful sign of the effect that the school is having toward releasing these people from superstition.

Girls' Boarding School.—School was not opened until June, when the plague had abated sufficiently for it to be safe to gather together so many children. By that time it was so late in the year that many parents did not want to send their daughters, as it would be for so short a time. This, with the death of three pupils and the marriage of three others, brought the enrollment down to fifteen. The girls have done faithful work since the opening of school, and will continue unless there is another epidemic of plague. Besides the fifteen girls there have been three little boys in constant attendance, as the boys' school was too crowded to permit of their being taken in there. The only girl left of the advanced class has been of assistance in teaching, and is so efficient that it is anticipated that she will develop into an excellent helper in the future. The Christian girls assist in the Sunday-school and other Christian work. Two girls were admitted into the church during the year, one of them being the first Christian in the family.

Mary Henry Hospital.—During the first half of the year the epidemic of bubonic and pneumonic plague decreased the population of Nodoa and of the surrounding markets from ten to fifteen per cent.

In some villages twenty per cent. of the people died. A number of cases were treated with a mortality of sixty per cent.; without treatment the mortality is usually ninety per cent. There were not, however, many calls for treatment, as it was feared that the spirits would kill the entire family should an attempt be made to cure one member. An offer was made to treat all cases freely if they would isolate them, but while the market subscribed hundreds of dollars to give to the priests to appease the evil spirits, they claimed they had no money to put up a cheap thatched building on the edge of the town.

The Christian villages followed the advice given fairly well, with the result that only one death occurred among the Christians, and that one occurred because the relatives insisted on obeying their renowned idol instead of taking the advice of the Christians in the family.

Because of the epidemic the patients at the hospital and dispensary were fewer than in previous year. There were 106 in-patients and 3,948 visits from dispensary patients.

The number of visits to the villages was increased, eighty-five visits being made, requiring from three to twenty-four hours for each one and seeing from one to six patients in each village. At one place an idol was presented, and this was the best fee received as it indicated the end of idolatry in that house.

Aside from the regular daily service before dispensing, the hospital assistant, Mr. Tong, the matron, and the Bible woman teach Catechism classes in the various dialects. The patients who are able also attend Sunday-school and church services and the school prayers.

The religious teaching is so closely interwoven by all on the compound that it is impossible to give the credit to any one agency. Here is an instance: One of our leading church members brought a patient, saying that he had been struck by a melon vine, and that wherever the melon blossoms touched him abscesses ("melons") would form. The "melons" (abscesses as large as coconuts) were opened from time to time as they "ripened" and steps taken to prevent their forming, and the man recovered. Before coming to the hospital the patient knew something of the truth from his friends and from the itinerators. He learned more at the hospital, the church services and the Sunday-school, and also from the preacher and colporteurs. By the time he was well he knew and said he believed the Gospel.

There has been received a donation of $108 from the ladies of the Princeton Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, which will be used in re-outfitting the hospital with instruments. During the year $374 were received from the sales of medicines.

KACHEK STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The beginning of the year found the Sunday meetings still held in the dispensary in the lower market. The completion of the school and chapel building at the manse made it possible to transfer the service there, where it has been held ever since by Mr. Gilman. The audience has not been large, averaging about forty, but there has been order and good attention. In the afternoon Sunday-school has been held and Bible classes in the evening. Daily Bible classes have also been held by Mr. Gilman and Miss Schaeffer in connection with the school and the various Chinese around the manse.

At the dispensary it was found more profitable at times to hold services in the chapel afternoons, rather than at the time of dispensing in the morning. In this Mr. Gilman helped largely, preaching and drawing crowds by his cornet accompanied by the baby organ. Regular evening Bible class has been held by Dr. Lasell for all Chinese connected with the dispensary.

At Ngai-chou regular services have been held by Mr. Ngang or during his absence by school teacher Ciu and others. The average attendance has been about thirty. In March a chapel was rented in Doa-lou, and services have been held almost every Sunday that was a market day (twice a month), generally by a foreigner. In the second and seventh months festivals were held at temples adjoining our property. The presence of the crowds was utilized for selling books, by erecting booths for book stalls, and much personal work was done with the people.

No one foreigner or Chinese has been able to give his time exclusively to itinerating, but as there has been opportunity each has done something. The most notable event was the trip of Mr. Gilman to Ngai-ciu immediately after the last annual meeting. Mr. Gilman went practically the entire circumference of the island, and his reports of the condition of affairs among the Ngai-ciu converts and catechumens were most encouraging. Four adults and six children were baptized. Five persons presented themselves and were received as catechumens.

EDUCATIONAL.—Formerly the school at Ka-chek was held partly in a temple and partly in Mr. Gilman's study. The completion of the little school and chapel furnished quarters for classes and fixed the school in the compound. In March a three-room dormitory was begun and was soon finished. The attendance averaged twenty.

No effort was made merely to increase numbers, as it was felt that a small school well under supervision will in the end be more profitable than a large one whose members receive their scholastic training without distinct Christian impressions. To increase the size of the school more dormitory room will be necessary and also quarters for a dining room, so that the scholars living entirely on the school compound may be thoroughly under the eye and control of the foreigner in charge.

One of the best features of the school has been a small circle of Christian students, five in number, three from this region and two from Ngai-ciu, the latter studying with the idea of becoming preachers.

These boys organized a prayer meeting among themselves which lasted some time, until it was broken up by the non-Christian boys. Mr. Gilman has sent his personal teacher who is a catechumen to sleep in that room, in hopes that another effort will be made and not interfered with.

At Ngai-ciu the school work has been under the charge of Mr. Ngang, the Chinese assistant. The school teacher, Mr. Ciu, has been paid half by the Christians and half by the Mission. Thirteen boys and two girls attended.

As there are no Christian women to work among the women, Mr. Ngang wisely used the school boys as a means to carry instruction to their mothers, who could not receive it directly from the preacher himself.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Miss Schaeffer has a Bible class for women in connection with the Sunday-school and an evening Bible class every evening during the week.

She has three women besides the Bible women under instruction in Chinese character and romanized. These three women, while not actually employed as Bible women, really do a great deal of that sort of work. Miss Schaeffer made two visits to the out-station at Doalou, spending fourteen days there, teaching and visiting the women. She also went to the lower market dispensary for five weeks during Dr. Lasell's absence, and carried on a school attended by the girls and women of the neighborhood.

MEDICAL.—Six thousand patients have been treated. This has been entirely dispensary work, with religious exercises connected with it. A number of serious injury cases have been treated.

Several of these came during Dr. Kelly's stay, and showed more vividly than ever the need of a hospital for in-patients. A very interesting feature was a visit made by Dr. Lasell, at the request of the Magistrate, to the little daughter of the latter, fifty miles south of Ka-chek. The whole journey was utilized by the natives along the route as an opportunity to get medical attention. The Magistrate himself entertained the Doctor very kindly and invited him to address a school carried on by his brother, a Christian man. Later the little girl was sent to Ka-chek for further treatment, and the kindness shown to her by the missionary women, at whose house she was a daily visitor, deeply impressed the Magistrate and his wife. Several weeks later, passing through Ka-chek on his way to a new position, he expressed his gratitude by presenting a banner with inscriptions in Chinese and English to the dispensary.

It is interesting to note that the financial condition has been such that only $100 Mexican, have been available for the medical work, the physician in charge having to supply the rest from whatever source possible.

The great event in connection with the medical work has been the purchase of a site for the new Kilborne Hospital. Mr. A. W. Kilborne generously gave the money several years ago, but unusually vexatious delays were experienced in securing the necessary land. The owners of the only practicable sites either flatly refused to sell at all or demanded an exorbitant price. At last, however, stamped deeds were secured, and when this report was prepared the building was well under way. The hospital is greatly needed, and its completion will mean greatly enlarged facilities.

HUNAN MISSION.

SIANGTAN: occupied 1900. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Lingle and Mrs. Lingle, Rev. W. T. Locke and Mrs. Locke, E. D. Vanderburgh, M. D., and Mrs. Vanderburgh, Miss Emma T. Kolfrat and Miss Mary Venable.

HENG CHOW: occupied 1902. Missionaries—Rev. Geo. L. Gelwicks and Mrs. Gelwicks, F. J. Tooker, M.D., Rev. D. E. Crabb and Mrs. Crabbe.

CHEN CHOW: occupied 1904. Missionaries—Stephen C. Lewis, M.D., Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Mitchell, and Rev. C. H. Derr and Mrs. Derr.

ON FURLOUGH DURING YEAR: Mr. and Mrs. Lingle.

The force of the Mission has been enlarged by the addition of the Rev. and Mrs. D. E. Crabb and Miss Mary Venable. Miss Venable's mother has gone to China to make her home with her daughter. The work of this new Mission has moved forward very encouragingly. In addition to the institutions already established, a boys' boarding school has been opened in Chen Chow, the Siangtan school being too far away. The first converts were baptized in Heng Chow and Chen Chow and the first communion service held at the former station. The two organized churches in the southwestern corner of the province, hitherto connected with the Lien Chow station of the Canton Mission, were transferred to the care of the Chen Chow station during the year.

SIANGTAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Services have been conducted in the city regularly at the Seventeenth ward and in what is now the girls' school at the Kun Ki Mun and in two out-stations, I Si Hoa and I Kia Wan.

The attendance at all the services has been good. A class for the study of Bible and Catechism has been held three nights a week at the Seventeenth ward, and while the attendance has been small owing to the difficulty of business men and their employees getting off in the evening, we have had good times and believe that they have been a great help to those who have been able to attend. We have at present twenty names on the church roll, nearly all of whom are regular in attendance on the Sabbath and a few of whom are beginning to have a real interest in the furtherance of the cause of Christ in the city. We received seven on profession of faith during the year. This number represents only a small number of those who have desired to join us. Some we refused on discovering that they had a "little affair" at the Yamen to be attended to. Others we advised to wait further instruction in the doctrine. Under present circumstances we consider it unwise to recognize a list of inquirers.

A class for women has been conducted and Chinese women have been received in missionary homes and visited in their own homes by the women workers. Evangelistic work has been carried on earnestly among those who come for medical treatment, and a large Bible class was conducted every Sunday afternoon by Dr. Vanderburgh.

Out-stations.—

At I Kia Wan we have had a fair hearing and Mr. Wang spent a month there during the summer. So far we have no converts; people are friendly and more inclined to receive our message seriously. We have visited this station forty times during the year. This seems a small matter, but it means travel of 3,200 li.

At I Si Hoa we have a more hopeful field. It is a large town and we have one Christian and five inquirers in regular attendance. Added to this we have a full chapel every time we visit the town and the people are becoming friendly. We have visited this place at least fifty times during the year, traveling 1,500 li. The visiting of these out-stations has meant preaching occasionally at the way-side tea shops to groups of country people.

The station has been very careful to prevent the use of its influence in connection with any native litigation. The report states gratefully:

We are thankful to say that our reputation on the native street is that there is no "protection" in the "Chang Lao Heui," which is equal to saying "there is no law business attended to here."

MEDICAL WORK.—Land for the hospital was bought by Mr. Nathaniel Tooker when he was in China, and has been donated to the Board, and the hospital buildings are under way.

A number of minor and a few major operations, professional visits to homes, personal work here and there, books, tracts, and calendars sold and given away, is in brief the work done. We trust that many have been reached and influenced for the Gospel everywhere. We have been unable to see the results on account of inability to follow up the work personally. Among the most interesting cases we have had this year are three women who seemed to be really impressed. Two of these especially seemed to believe, and during the month they spent with us gave every evidence of a desire to know more of the Gospel and were eager to learn hymns. The third, who ran away from her home in order to have an operation performed, against the wish of her husband, seemed very eager to learn, but the opposition of heathen relatives was too strong and she was compelled to cease coming.

A coal mining company of Chinese capitalists owns a short railway in Hunan with a terminus about twenty miles from Siang-tan. During the year we have treated a number of accident cases resulting from the slowness of the people to appreciate what a locomotive is capable of. Of these cases one man in particular seems deeply impressed with the Christian truth. He has previously come to the hospital with his little child who had been terribly burned, and it seemed providential that he should have another opportunity to study the doctrine in which he had showed so much interest. At a Sabbath service held at the north terminus of the railroad we were grateful for the interest shown and the demand for books to take home.

During the year there have been 891 attendants.

EDUCATIONAL.—A Day-school has been conducted in connection with the Seventeenth ward work. There are at present thirteen scholars who attend regularly.

Girls' School.—Soon after Mission meeting Miss Kolfrat moved into the native city for the purpose of opening the Girls Boarding School. A native house was put in order, and on the 19th of October school was opened with two girls by the Chinese. New Year's eight were enrolled. Nearly all pay something towards their support, some but fifty cents a month and others a dollar. After school had been in session a short time industrial work was begun. This has helped some in the running expenses of the school. The girls are taught to do plain sewing, knitting, cross stitching, and to make their own shoes. The girls seemed eager to learn to read and much interest was manifested in the study of the Gospel. At Easter time two of the eldest girls were baptized. These were the first women to be taken into our church at Siang-tan.

Coming from such poor homes as most of them do, we were amazed to see the change that took place after they had been in school for a few weeks. If a few weeks bring such a change, what will five years do? One of the girls has been the means of bringing her father and uncle to services. We hope it will not be long before they will ask for baptism. All the girls, except one, have unbound feet and we hope it will not be long before all will be unbound.

Boys' School.—During the year there have been thirty-six boys on the roll. The decision of the Mission not to teach English in the school resulted in the falling off of pupils, so that the year closed with eighteen in attendance.

Mr. Lovell for a time gave the boys lessons in physical culture which provided the boys with considerable fun and recreation, and the good results were at once apparent in both class and dining room. One boy was baptized during the year and we were pleased to notice how much the boys were impressed by his example. Most of the boys are very young and we hope that ere they leave us they will all be won for Christ.

Mr. and Mrs. Post, of Brooklyn, generously gave $2,500 for the provision of a suitable school property in memory of Mrs. Post's father, the Rev. John D. Wells, D.D., the late President of the Board.

HENG CHOW STATION.

The average attendance at the Sunday morning preaching service has been seventy-five. Of the other services of the church the most effective has been the Sunday evening meeting, which has been modeled after the Christian Endeavor Prayer meeting, with its related activities. Mr. Gelwicks reports:

The plan proved such a success in increasing attendance and interest and developing the spiritual possibilities of our people that after several months' trial it was decided in February to organize a full-fledged Endeavor Society. It started out with the usual officers and Lookout and Prayer Meeting Committees, to which an Evangelistic Committee was added a couple of months later. The work of this committee was the supervision of little groups of the members sent out on Sunday afternoons to towns near the city to tell the old, old story. Five towns have been visited in this way, and in addition to and perhaps more important than the opportunity given of hearing the truth was the influence of this service on the workers themselves. We all realize that service is the best stimulus to devotion, and a most important incidental effect of the plan was the help that it gave these babes in Christ in Sabbath observance. With preaching service in the morning, deputation work in the afternoon, and Endeavor meeting in the evening, there was not much room for temptation to profane the Lord's Day. Another incidental value in it was "the discomfiture of the hypocrite." The round trip walk on a warm afternoon of sometimes over six miles and the standing on the street corner to tell of a Saviour had no attractions for this class and very soon the interest of some (not in the least to our surprise) began to wane. Others, we are glad to say, seemed to find a genuine satisfaction in the work. Of course it was entirely voluntary, the reaching of some places requiring the crossing of the river and the payment of ferry fees from their own pockets.

In January, with fear and trembling lest a mistake be made in the laying of the foundation, six men and one woman were baptized, and two men who had previously received baptism in other Missions were received into fellowship. Thus began the first Presbyterian Church of Heng Chow. In connection with the service at which they were received our first communion service in Chinese was held. Since then the Lord's Supper has been observed quarterly, with a preparatory service on the Saturday afternoon preceding the observance. No elder has yet been ordained over our little flock, as we are waiting for the testing.

As in the other stations in Hunan, the number of callers at the missionaries' home has been very large, giving Mrs. Gelwicks ample opportunity for work among the women.

ITINERATION.—

The station has a very definite plan of country work which it earnestly hopes it may be allowed to carry out in detail. The plan is to open four fields or circuits corresponding roughly to the four points of the compass, each field to be visited once every three months by the missionary. Each field consists of seven or eight chief market towns at a central point in which a Chinese evangelist resides. He has a regular schedule, according to which each town of his circuit is visited every month, several days being spent in each place. Three of these fields are already being worked by the missionary and in two of them a Chinese evangelist is now resident, while a third worker is available whom we hope to start in the third field this winter. This plan has the following advantages: (1) It makes the largest possible economy of both men and money, while at the same time providing for an extensive but thorough evangelizing. (2) It prevents what is one of the sorest dangers of our native evangelists—idleness and consequent temptation. The truth that idle hands are Satan's workshop is nowhere more forcibly illustrated than in the case of a Chinese worker set down with no other duty than looking after a chapel in a small town, or even a larger one. (3) Such itineration certainly tends to foster an evangelistic spirit, while the sitting spider-like day in and day out in a chapel waiting for the flies that chance to fall into the net does not foster such a spirit. (4) It helps to make self-reliant Christians and encourages self-support. By this plan no town can get a hold on an evangelist as their pastor and just absorb him without any compensation. Every worker supported by foreign funds is a pastor-at-large, or, in other words, herald to the unevangelized, and when any town or towns feel that they must have more pastoral care than the itinerator can give them, they will be expected to provide the means for it. For this territory, extending in Chinese miles (three of which equal an English mile) southward 130 miles, westward 110 miles, northward 150 miles, while eastward the distance will be more, we expect to use only four men, beside the missionary, paid with foreign money.

But in order to carry out this plan with any hope of effectiveness two other items of expense, besides evangelist's salaries, are absolutely essential. These are (1) their itineration expenses and (2) money for chapel rent. If we cannot have the money for these the evangelists might as well be dismissed, and for the following reasons: First, the whole essence of this plan lies in the idea of itineration, and without an allowance the worker positively can't itinerate. Second, while in the beginning one can preach on the street, it is hopeless to expect any progress if this method is kept up indefinitely.

There must be some place where hearers can gather. Experience teaches us that it is utterly impossible to depend on the inns. And in this field, at least, it is not safe to accept offers of meeting places. Recognizing the possibility of exceptions, the words of a missionary of experience in China are doubtless true, that "the first people who come to you in a place are rascals." What is wanted is your prestige, not your message, and the casting your lot with such characters may hopelessly prejudice your cause with the right-minded people of the place. The only alternative is to rent a chapel or buy with Mission money. It is most important that in each of these three fields we should have without delay at least five chapels.

Dr. Tooker spent four months of the year at the station and was then transferred to Siangtan, and a new doctor was appointed who will reach the field this coming fall. No educational work was conducted, an experiment of day-schools having been unsatisfactory, and there being neither money nor place for a boarding school. Mr. Gelwicks says in closing his report:

While making no comparisons, we would say that this is a hard, a very hard field, and only the power of the Holy Spirit can make an impression on it.

CHEN CHOW STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Derr have been busy on the language, and the country work has been done by Mr. Mitchell, who had eighty-five days in the country during the year, the preaching at Chen Chow being done chiefly by Mr. Han, the Chinese preacher.

ORGANIZED CHURCHES.—

The two churches at Lin-wu and Kia-hwoa came into our care after last annual meeting, and so one of our important parts of our work during the year was the care of these churches. Three trips have been made during the year to Kia-hwoa and four to Lin-wu. Two adults and one infant were baptized at Kia-hwoa and four at Lin-wu. Two adults and one infant were baptized at Kia-hwoa and seven adults and two infants at Lin-wu. There were many others examined during the year at both places, but it was thought best to let them wait rather than to be too hasty, in view of the difficulty that has been experienced in the past. Both churches have their problems, but on the whole the year has been one of progress and the outlook is very hopeful.

At Lin-wu the church building is an old shop that is on the land recently purchased with a view to erecting a new church. The shop, being dark and narrow, is unsuitable for its present use. The members, poor for the most part, having already purchased land, glass and iron bars, ask us to help them in their building enterprise. The attempt of the Kia-hwoa church to rent a chapel inside the city of Kia-hwoa met the combined opposition of the official and the literati. A proclamation was put up announcing that whoever would rent a building to the Christians must first consult the literati, or else the building would be destroyed. Rather than make trouble we waived our right to rent, and the official posted a proclamation informing the people that Christianity is a good doctrine, that our purpose is to do good, and that whoever wished to rent to us should have no fear.

OUT-STATIONS.—There are out-stations at Yun-hsing, Hsing-ning, Kwei-yang-chow and Kia-hwoa which have been frequently visited.

WORK IN CHEN CHOW.—

On New Year's Sunday our first inquirer in this city was baptized, and the first celebration of the Lord's Supper was held. Among the attendants at our services there are ten regular inquirers. The experience of one of these is quite important, related to Mr. Han somewhat as follows: "My eyes were giving me such trouble that I despaired of ever being able to use them again. Some one selling Gospels came along, and buying one I read a little at different times, and saw there that Jesus healed many who were blind, and I also saw that prayer was required. Finding the Lord's Prayer, I repeated it several times a day. My eyes gradually became better until the pain entirely left, though the sight is impaired. I was so thankful that I memorized the Prayer and have prayed it many times a day for over a year." The case of another man is interesting, in that it shows that the heaven of the Gospel is working. This man is the maker of paper houses and ornaments that are burned for the dead. He has been frequently present at our street preaching services and told us that he believes Christian doctrine, but that his business would not allow him to become a member. Regular preaching services are conducted every Sunday morning and in the street preaching chapel five days a week; evening prayers are also conducted daily, attended by the servants and the school boys and often many others who come in attracted by the singing. A Sabbath-school service is also conducted on Sabbath afternoons. These services are usually well attended.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—

We have had a primary day school at Kia-hwoa which came to us with the southern field. There are eleven pupils at Kia-hwoa, most of whom came from Christian homes. The boys' school at Chen-Chow enrolled eighteen pupils, seven of whom we had to board. Six of these seven come from Christian families in our southern field and ought very soon to be fitted for evangelistic work. Three in particular have helped in selling and explaining tracts and Gospels in our street chapel. On account of the cost, distance to the Siangtan school and the age of the boys, we felt obliged to board them here.

In addition to the boys' work, there are four girls in our Lin-wu and Kia-hwoa day-schools. A girls' boarding school in Chen Chow is needed for the Christian constituency of our southern field.

WOMAN'S WORK.—

Multitudes have called to see the foreign women and inspect their homes. The Gospel has been given to them through song and conversation. Mrs. Mitchell has entertained as many as a hundred in one week. Whenever possible they remain to tea and hear something of what the Gospel has done for women and are invited to the regular services. Mrs. Derr and Mrs. Mitchell had an opportunity of beginning an orphanage during the spring, when two baby boys were brought to them to adopt because their mothers were unable to nourish them. In one case the baby was so nearly starved that in spite of the best medical help the baby died. The other baby was materially helped and is now provided for by its relatives. These cases show that prejudiced opinion against us is diminishing and that the confidence of the Chen Chow women has been in a measure gained.

MEDICAL WORK.—The medical work has lacked quarters and equipment, and Dr. Lewis was required to be absent from the field part of the time on account of the necessity of taking Mrs. Derr to Kuling in the hope that she might be able to shake off the persistent fever there. In all about 300 patients were seen, with more than 1000 treatments, with ten operations performed. A large number of patients have been from the military camp and most of them have been of the malarial type.

NORTH CHINA MISSION.

PEKING: the capital of China; occupied in 1863. Missionaries—Rev. John Wherry, D.D., and Mrs. Wherry, Rev. J. L. Whiting and Mrs. Whiting, Rev. A. N. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, Rev. C. H. Fenn, D.D., and Mrs. Fenn, Rev. W. W. Hicks and Mrs. Hicks, J. F. Griggs, M.D., and Mrs. Griggs, Rev. William H. Gleysteen, Miss Eliza E. Leonard, M.D., Miss Bessie McCoy, Miss Jennie McKillican, Miss Alice Carter and Rev. E. L. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson.

PAOTING-FU: occupied 1893. Missionaries—Mrs. Amelia P. Lowrie, Rev. J. W. Lowrie, D.D., Rev. J. A. Miller and Mrs. Miller, Rev. C. A. Killie and Mrs. Killie, Rev. W. A. Mather and Mrs. Mather, Charles E. Lewis, M.D., and Mrs. Lewis, Miss G. Newton, Miss A. Gowans and Miss Maud A. Mackey, M.D.

SHUNTE-FU: occupied in 1903. Missionaries—Guy W. Hamilton, M.D., and Mrs. Hamilton, Rev. and Mrs. Edwin C. Hawley, Miss Louise Keator, M.D., and Miss Emma Hicks.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. Wherry, Miss McKillican, Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Killie and Mrs. Griggs.

By vote of the Mission, cordially approved by the Board, the name of the Mission has been changed from the Peking Mission to the North China Mission. The name Peking was given when practically all the work of the Mission was confined to Peking and its immediate vicinity. Now that the Mission has spread itself over a wide area with three important central stations, the name Peking was a misnomer. North China more adequately expressed the importance and dignity of this great field in the Imperial Province of China.

While most of the members of the Mission force have enjoyed good health, some have suffered from illness, and to our deep regret Mr. and Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. Griggs have been obliged to return to America on account of serious and continued ill health. We earnestly hope and pray for the recovery which will permit them to return to the work for which they are so well fitted.

PEKING STATION.

Mr. Hicks writes on behalf of the Station:

It is with deep gratitude to Almighty God that we review the work of the fiscal year, in many respects the best year of our existence. Steady progress has been the keynote in almost every line of missionary activity. And although we have not been blessed with a great revival and ingathering of souls, as we have desired, yet thou have heard the old, old story of the Gospel, and read it from the printed page. Very many sick have had the healing hand of the physician laid upon them. A goodly number have had their minds opened to a new world of thought in our schools. Some of these have been quickened by the Holy Spirit into "newness of life." In others the seed of the Truth still remains awaiting the time of quickening, while in the hearts of others the "enemy of souls" has done his evil work in snatching away the "good seed of the Kingdom." Only eternity can reveal the numerical results of the year.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH AT PAOTING-FU, CHINA. THE HOUSE TO THE RIGHT IS THE WOMAN'S HOSPITAL

EVANGELISTIC.—City Work.—In the city of Peking the "centres of light" have increased from two to four, where the Word of Life has been almost daily dispensed in some of its varying forms. In the one organized church, of which Mr. Cunningham is pastor, the year has been one of unusual interest and encouragement. He writes:

Never before have I known so many sincere inquirers after God, so many asking, "What must I do to be saved?" The membership of this church is now more than 200, and is composed of persons from nearly all classes of society. Preaching, teaching and disciplining these have taken much time and heart. Sixty have been baptized during the year, and there are probably three or four times as many who are applicants for baptism and admission into the church. The church offerings during the year from the Chinese alone amounted to $126.00. A large portion of this was used in the support of one of our helpers in the east country field. So we are early trying to have our Christians know the joy of Home Missions in sending the Gospel to those of their own kind who do not know the liberty "that is in Christ Jesus."

New Street Chapel.—The opening of the new street chapel and dispensary on the An-ting great street was an event of great importance. At the dedication of this chapel Minister Conger, representatives of other Missions and a number of Chinese officials spoke. Mr. Conger's words were especially marked for their cordiality in expressing the feeling of the best class of American citizens for the welfare of China. It has been observed that the Emperor expressed no small interest in the changed appearance of this street corner. Formerly it was only a mass of tumbledown buildings, greatly in contrast to the somewhat imposing structure that now adorns the spot. Since the "opening" the doors have been opened every day in the afternoon and large numbers have listened attentively to the preaching, and a number have responded to the Gospel claims.

Toward the end of the year the interest in the Western Chapel became more encouraging than it has been since Boxer days. Dr. Wherry and a native helper have been in charge of this work, and the faithful, earnest presentation of the Gospel has found results in some baptisms. Miss McCoy's Sabbath-school for the children has been an important factor in breaking down prejudice. Sometimes over 200 children have pressed into the small room and the doors had to be closed, as all the seats and the standing room were taken.

Women's Work in Peking.—The woman's work in the city has received a new impetus. Services for women only, have been better attended than ever before. Several ten-day classes have been held during the year at our compound and in our Southwestern Chapel. So many of the women are unable to read, and when asked to "Search the Scriptures" they say, "How can I when I can't read?" and they are asked in return, "How can they unless they study?" A four years' course has been enthusiastically followed and the yearly examinations made. This year twenty-two women received certificates for work done.

Systematic visitation has been made of the women of the neighborhood.

In this house-to-house calling most of the ladies of the Station have done a greater or smaller part as time and opportunity permitted. The doors of the homes are open as never before, and almost always a most cordial welcome has been given as well as an invitation to repeat the call. Our ladies have also received many calls in return from the women of the neighborhood. In this way large numbers of women have been brought into contact with the Christian religion who would have otherwise never been reached.

Country Work.—In the two country fields the work has not been quite so encouraging as in the city, though the conditions have improved during the year.

The terrors of the Boxer year are still active in the minds of the people and this, coupled with their ignorance, superstition and natural prejudice against the foreigner and all that he has to present, has had its effect upon our work in country districts. Unfaithful church members (runaways in Boxer days) have had their part in retarding the growth of the church, especially in the east field. However, we have not been disheartened, but have gone steadily forward. Two more country chapels have been opened in the east field and one in the north field. One of the former was made possible by the generous gift of Mrs. Thaw and a loan from a member of the Station. The others in question are only rented. In all of our country centres of light we have either evangelists or colporteurs or both, with their families, preaching, selling tracts and living godly lives before their fellow-men.

Many fairs were visited by those in charge of the country work and the native assistants. Much street preaching has been done and a very large number of tracts have been sold. In view of all this we look for better times in these country districts, for God's Word cannot return unto Him void.

Country Work for Women.—The work among the women in the country is more encouraging. Miss McCoy has been able to make five visits into the east field. Two classes with eleven women each were held.

Several of these women had never studied or had any intelligent knowledge of the Word of God before. Much time was spent in visiting villages in which our church members live. In this way an excellent opportunity was given for instruction to the women of the family and to many of the heathen neighbors who always crowded the room, mostly out of curiosity to see the foreigners, but listened well to what was said.

The work among country women is a door which we have not entered efficiently because there has been no one to devote time to it. We believe it would prove a very fruitful field. Since Miss Carter has become an active member of the Station, it is expected that Miss McCoy will be freed from a large part of the city work to enter this wide open door for evangelizing the country women.

Class for Native Helpers.—A recent feature of our work is a sort of Seminary Class that has been held for one month each year for the last two years. This class has proved a much-needed stimulus to the evangelists. The men come feeling pretty well "preached out." But after a month's study in theology, sermonizing, church history, the parables and music, they return to their work with new enthusiasm and new zeal for souls. One great advantage of this method is that it gives them a much-needed training without taking them away from their posts for long at a time. Messrs. Cunningham and Fenn gave themselves untiringly to this work during the time that the class was in session, as well as in previous days in preparation for it.

MEDICAL WORK.—New Hospital and Dispensary.—At the time of the opening of the An-ting Chapel, the dispensary, which is connected with it, was also opened to the sick and suffering of all classes. The new Men's Hospital was opened to receive patients a few days later than the dispensary. Here the general medical and surgical cases were admitted until Chinese New Year. During this time, 3 months, 34 patients were admitted and 21 operations were performed, and 38 patients treated for the opium habit. The average number of patients seen in the street dispensary each afternoon on week-days was about 25. The dispensary was closed on the Sabbath.

Opium Retreat.—A new feature in the medical work for men was the opening of an Opium Retreat in connection with the hospital. Often as many as twenty slaves to this terrible drug were undergoing treatment at the same time.

Each patient was required to stay at least fifteen days. As to the proportion of permanent cures in this opium work, Dr. Griggs says it is impossible to state, but among those he was able to trace probably fifty per cent. were permanent. With the exception of thirteen who eloped, all the 185 patients were sent out free from the craving as well as the evil effects of the habit. The personnel of these opium patients is interesting. Among the number received were a Chinese doctor, a writer, bank clerks, tinkers, laborers, farmers, gentlemen of leisure and thirty eunuchs from the Imperial palace.

Salvation of Patients Sought.—Dr. Griggs has evinced a keen interest in the evangelism of his patients. The splendid opportunity given in the Opium Retreat was not lost, where the rudiments of the Gospel were taught by missionary and helper. He reports that at least six earnest Christians were reclaimed from the opium habit. The changed life of one of these men has been so marked that those most interested in him have felt that his case alone has made the work well worth while.

It is surely a source of pleasure to see the hollow cheeks fill out and the haggard, hunted look change to one of well-being and peace.

Country Work Needs a Doctor.—Last spring Dr. Griggs was able to make an eight days' trip into the east country field.

During his stay there were many more calls upon him for medical aid than he was able to answer, and he was firmly convinced of what some others in the Station have felt for a long time, viz., that there is a great need for a doctor for medical itineration, not only for the large number of sick in the country, but because it would be a great help to the evangelistic efforts in those regions.

WOMEN'S MEDICAL WORK.—The Douw Hospital for Women, in charge of Dr. Leonard, has had a busy year in trying to attend to the demands made upon it. The lack of trained native assistants is a great strain upon the strength and energy of the physician in charge, and it is hoped that the proposed Union Medical School for Women will meet this need and prepare nurses, dispensers and physicians, and help lift the burden that is already too heavy to bear. Dr. Leonard reports that the daily clinic attendance has been higher than usual most of the time during the year.

The number of in-patients is still small because, as the women say, "We can come every day, but we cannot leave home." It is true as long as a woman can do service at home she cannot get permission to come to the hospital to remain longer than the daily clinic.

A Bible woman for hospital work has been a long-felt need, and at last one has been found who gives good promise of filling the want. With her assistance a tract department has been provided for the waiting room, and Bibles, separate copies of the Gospels and tracts are on sale. Daily prayers are conducted by the physician in charge, and at times a number of the daily out-patients have been able to join in the worship.

The attendance shows considerable advance over last year. The figures are as follows:

Dispensary treatments.....	7,500
In-patients.....	64
Out-calls.....	241
Total.....	7,805

EDUCATIONAL.—Truth Hall Boarding School.—The teaching and training of young men in the formative period of life is as interesting as it is full of responsibility. We are glad that our Mission has a part in the preparation of men who shall mould the future thought and life of China. "Truth Hall" is well named, because of the high moral standard of life which is maintained and the right principles of thinking which are taught. The year has been a successful one in results, but a hard one in effort. Mrs. Cunningham has been very faithful in her supervision and has taught five classes a day during the school year. Sixty-nine pupils have been enrolled and the average attendance has been a little over fifty.

Four boys were graduated this year and are now ready to enter college. A happy feature of the commencement time was the organization of an Alumni Association, and fourteen of the sixteen graduates still living were present and gave a reception to the new graduates.

The new dormitory and furnaces have been greatly enjoyed and appreciated. But there is a sad need for recitation rooms and accommodations for the culinary department. The dilapidated buildings surrounding the dormitory give it a very poor setting, as well as a very poor impression to visitors of our work. We can hardly expect boys to come to a foreigner's place that is poorer than their own home, as is the case with some of those attending.

Religious Interest in the School.—The religious interest has been good through the year. The Y. M. C. A. and Junior Y. P. S. C. E. have held regular meetings. Except during the coldest weather, bands of boys have gone out and held street meetings and sold tracts and invited people to the church services and chapels. In the summer they have gone out into the country doing the same kind of work. A class in Bible study has been conducted during the year by Mr. Cunningham. Fifteen of the boys are church members and nine are catechumens.

Day Schools.—

China knows nothing about the advantages of the public school system, and hence multitudes of her youth are growing up to be numbered among the illiterates. To help some of the unfortunates, break down prejudice and enhance our opportunities for winning souls to Christ, our Station has established as many day schools as funds and teachers and scholars would warrant.

In the city of Peking three schools for boys and one for girls has been kept up a part or all the year. Miss Carter rendered valuable assistance in the girls' school in teaching some of the classes. The attendance and work done by the girls has been good.

Country Boarding Schools.—

Since Boxer days it has been difficult for us to open schools for either boys or girls in the country. The people were so terror-stricken at the time that they have been afraid to trust themselves or their children to the foreigner. But our patience in the matter has been quite satisfactorily rewarded this year. Early in the year we were able to open a school in our east country field with seventeen boys who have done very good work. We have strong hopes that this will prove a nucleus around which our work will revive to even larger proportions than before Boxer times.

A girls' boarding school in the east field, organized by Miss McCoy and taught by the helper's wife, is an item worthy of mention—a forecast of better days, we hope. The school numbered seven pupils. In the north field a similar school was organized by Mrs. Cunningham at the Chinese New Year and did very satisfactory work to the end of the year. This is the first one of its kind opened for years in this field.

SPECIAL WORK.—During three months of the year Dr. Wherry taught English to five young Japanese. One of the young men, Mr. Inada, is at the head of the new Japanese training school for the Peking police force, and is a man of influence.

Some special work done by Dr. Fenn is worthy of special note. As secretary of the North China Tract Society, he has added much to renew its life and effectiveness. He is the author of a much-needed and helpful tract entitled "The Sabbath for the Chinese," and another important work for which there has been a large demand, a Diatesseron or Interwoven Gospels. This is in two forms, one complete with indexes for students; the other abridged and with an introduction for heathen readers. Nearly all the Missions working in North China have adopted this book for inquirers, classes, etc.

North China Union College.—The Union Educational Work with the American Board and the London Missionary Society has started most promisingly. The American Board has the College at Teng-Chou and the Bridgman School for Girls in Peking; the London Missionary Society has the Medical College, and our Board has the Theological Seminary. These four institutions are merged as a united enterprise under the name of the North China Union College. There is a field Board of Directors, consisting of six experienced missionaries from each of the three co-operating Missions. The Empress Dowager contributed 10,000 taels towards the Medical College and it was formally opened February 13. The British Minister presided and many high officials of the Chinese Government were present, including the President of the Board of Foreign Affairs, representatives of the Board of Education, the Board of Imperial Railways, the Board of War and the members of the Diplomatic Corps.

An imposing building, capable of accommodating several hundred students and located in an important part of the city of Peking, is nearly completed. The school will be equipped with all the appliances known to up-to-date medical science. A very large proportion of the cost of this plant was provided by an earnest Christian gentleman in London. The Missions concerned in it have incurred no expense in its establishment, and will not be responsible for the running expenses in the future, except for the students which each may send. It is expected that this institution will furnish trained men for the Mission dispensaries and qualified doctors for practice among the people; which will be a long step in advance of what China has ever before known.

Mr. Morris K. Jesup, of New York, generously provided the money for the Union Theological Seminary Building, and Mr. John S. Kennedy, of New York, and Mr. John H. Converse, of Philadelphia, each provided a residence for a professor. Dr. Fenn is the Presbyterian representative in the Union Theological Seminary, and he has had a very laborious year in superintending the erection of these buildings, which occupy land already owned by the Board. The Seminary opened with twenty-three students, a most promising beginning.

These Unions have only been made possible by long and careful thought and many conferences. The representatives of our Station have done their full part in encouraging, planning and helping to bring to a consummation this most excellent scheme for the conservation of energy and efficiency of the missionary forces now at work in North China. The plan has been taken up in other places, and will doubtless be adopted more and more widely until the great goal shall have been attained, viz., a federation of the Christian Churches working in China and the establishment of one Chinese Christian Church.

PAOTING-FU STATION.

CHURCH.—The work in the Church during the past year has been exceedingly interesting, as it has brought in a new element, or rather an old element in very much increased numbers.

We have always had some soldiers, but this year they have come by the score, and one day we had more than 200 present. It is surprising to see the attention given by them to the sermon. There have been about as many present each Sabbath as the church would hold, and several days the gates had to be closed and the crowd stopped, as there were no more seats unoccupied. Mr. Miller has preached excellent sermons, which have held the attention of all classes, students, merchants, and soldiers alike, his sermons being on the vital themes of Salvation, Purity of Life, and Just Living. They have appealed to all classes and people have come again and again. This is all that many of the Government students get of a spiritual nature, and we are delighted to see them care as much as they do for it. Such sowing of the seed cannot but bear fruit.

The Sabbath-school has shown a good interest. Special classes are held for students and soldiers.

The midweek prayer meetings are increasing and are developing both old and new Christians. We trust the coming year may find the Church doing some special work for the 1,800 students in the city schools, as well as for the soldiers, of whom there are some 14,000 in the vicinity of the city. There have been thirteen additions to the Church during the year.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—To the west, in Man Cheng county, a preaching service and Sabbath-school have been regularly conducted with a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Killie "have held a service, or at least had Scripture reading and prayer, in every Christian home in that county, and have found such visits very profitable to all concerned. While there have not been many baptisms, there has been a real deepening of the spiritual life." A new chapel was completed in the Man Cheng field at an estimated cost of $900, of which about $200 were furnished from Mission funds, and the remainder was raised by Mr. Killie from friends, and given by the native Church both in Man Ch'eng and Paoting-fu.

Wan Hsien district was visited five or six times during the year, and great quantities of books and tracts sold. An interesting incident in this work was the baptizing of two brothers named Chang, well-to-do, sturdy farmers, who date their conversion to that black day in 1900 when Mr. Simcox and a native Christian were mobbed in Wan Hsien City and so nearly killed. Wang Lao Mei, an earnest Christian in Wan Hsien county, has offered his house for use as a chapel.

The Kuang Ch'ang work has been visited four times during the year, twice by Mr. Killie, once by Mr. Mather and some school boys, and since by Mr. Miller. Mr. Killie reports that four were baptized and several more enrolled as inquirers.

"The happy prayerful spirit shown by these people makes every visit to them an inspiration and delight to us." They show a ready willingness to spread the truth, and 500 Gospels were left with them to be distributed.

I Chou field has been visited twice by Mr. Killie, and once by Mr. Miller and Dr. Lewis, and a good demand was found there for Christian literature.

T'ang Hsien county has been visited twice, and a remarkable demand was shown there for Gospels and tracts. In connection with the foregoing trips made by Mr. Killie, he also continued his itinerating into the counties of Ling Ch'iu, Fan Ch'i, and Wu T'ai in Shansi province, also into Fu P'ing and a corner of Ch'u Yang in Chih-li province. On this trip between 300 and 400 pounds of Gospels and tracts were sold, some of the people bringing eggs with which to pay for the books.

Throughout this west field, there have been sold about 10,000 copies of Gospels and tracts during the year.

North Country Field.—Mr. Miller made two trips to the Ting Hsing county field, one to An Chou field, and one extensive tour through the eastern field, where he met large crowds of attentive listeners, and the book sales were much larger than during former years.

East Country Field.—Miss Gowans reports that the country work to the east of the city has not had a chance to make much progress.

There has literally been no one who has had time to work it. A Christian woman has had charge of a little rented chapel in Tsang T'sun, and another woman has been selling Gospels among the villages. As a result of this a number of women have come to the hospital, and remained to attend classes. Miss Gowans has made a trip once a month to the east field. Mr. Mather has held services in the villages round about the city itself, taking with him two or more of the school boys. Thus the fields have been gone over, but how much we need to have at least three foreigners and a strong native staff to give their undivided attention to this most important branch of our Mission work.

WOMAN'S WORK.—This branch of the work has been carried on in the western field by Mrs. Killie.

Two or three good and very profitable classes were held in the country, and then, when no Bible woman was available, I brought the class into the men's class-room on the compound, two such classes being held. Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Lewis helped somewhat in these classes also. In the city, the women's classes have been held from the 10th to the 20th of each month. The increase in attendance over last year has been forty-eight per cent., while the decrease in the cost to the church has been thirty-five per cent. The church provides lodging and fuel and helps a little with their food. Newcomers receive a little more, and some of the older ones in the work receive nothing at all but the use of the cooking utensils and fire. The average cost per person has been twelve cents gold for each class. Much interest has been shown, and although most of the time Miss Gowans has been without a Bible woman, the older students have helped the new ones, and the work has gone on very well. Two women have passed their examinations in the second year's work, comprising the Gospels of Mark, Luke, and the Acts of the Apostles, also selected Bible verses and hymns. Thirteen women have passed in their first year's work, and of these four are waiting to be examined in their second year's work. Some of the most promising have been entrusted with some evangelistic work.

By far the greater number of the women are reached through the city dispensary. This year has brought in a great many Mohammedan women, who have proved an interesting and interested class of women.

The women's service on Sabbath afternoon has had a fair attendance. Several of the higher class ladies have attended faithfully, and some who have gone to other cities have kept up their connection with Christian services.

Miss Gowans has also been much interested in securing an opportunity to tell the Gospel to the widows in the Widows' Refuge in the city, but has secured permission but once to preach to them there. She has secured, however, the admittance of her Christian women for one day each month, when they can tell the story of Christ to their unfortunate sisters.

HOSPITALS.—Douw Hospital for Women.—The women's hospital work has during the year grown beyond its present capacity for housing patients. During the spring as many as eight patients have been stored away in a room ten feet square. Dr. Mackey has held a daily clinic at the hospital, besides holding a clinic every other day at the women's classrooms in the city, having had in one day at the two places as many as 145 patients, besides having at the same time over sixty patients in the hospital to attend to.

These hospital patients have been very willing to study, and many have shown a deep interest in the truth. They have formed a veritable self-supporting study class, with Mrs. Miller or Miss McKillican leading them step by step into new light. Beside all of this work upon her, Dr. Mackey made two trips a month from October to February to the nearer country field; but this had to be abandoned, as it was too much for one person to carry, and such trips necessarily involved the services of others, whose time was taken up in regular work. There have been few out-calls, as all have been encouraged to come to the hospital rather than take up the time necessary for the doctor to attend them in their homes. Of course, where the patients were too sick to come to the hospital the doctor saw them in their homes. One case of this kind was visited some twenty miles distant on the railway line.

All of the patients are told of the Gospel while they wait in the waiting room, and are shown the practical working of the Gospel in kindly treatment and in a life of love being daily poured out for them. This is a work which cannot but be bearing its fruit in the hearts of very many.

Statistics: Treatments in dispensary, 8,661; hospital patients, 249; out-calls, 45; surgical operations, 61; total, 8,955.

MEN'S MEDICAL WORK.—Gorge Yardley Taylor Memorial Hospital.—The men's medical work has been marked with a fair attendance, an increased number of surgical cases in the hospital, and a rather phenomenal financial interest.

The opening of the Taylor Memorial Hospital on October 4 gave us an opportunity of meeting the officials and setting before them the real usefulness of such an institution; and many of them have become substantial patrons to the extent that we feel all right-minded officials should become. The new hospital has also opened to us room for in-patients, and since October we have been able to accommodate nearly all the patients who have come, there being but one time when patients had to be sent to the inns on account of our not having room. It is hoped that another ward, like the large Sturgess ward, may soon be forthcoming, and make our room for hospital patients ample. The bath-house and isolation ward have been completed during the year, and some forty trees have been planted. Dr. Kao has continued to render very good service, both in the hospital work and in helping to instruct the two medical students in course of training. There have been a good number of calls in the city to see patients, and one was seen some thirty miles out of the city on the line of the railroad. Charge is always made for leaving the hospital to see patients. A hospital preacher could not be secured, but by all connected with the hospital doing their share and having the occasional assistance of others, it is safe to say that all who passed within the walls of the hospital compound heard something of the truth; while many have heard and we trust received into their hearts that which shall make them wise unto salvation. Having secured the services of a preacher for the coming year, we truly hope that regular, systematic teaching will be given to all hospital patients, and that all dispensary patients may get some of the true light.

Statistics: New patients, 5,888; return calls, 8,914; patients seen at Provincial College, 585; calls in the city, 55; patients seen in the country, 200; total, 15,642.

Street Chapel.—The street chapel has been open every day during the year, and Mr. Chao has been faithful in preaching the word daily. Mr. Miller did considerable preaching in the spring, and Mr. Killie gave a stereopticon lecture to the business men of the city which was well attended and much appreciated.

Boys' School.—The boys' school has had an average attendance of twenty-seven. Until the Chinese New Year, the school was in the charge of Mr. Miller. After the New Year Mr. Mather took over the school. Mrs. Lewis also taught a class in geography.

Girls' School.—The attendance was considerably larger than that of the year before, there having been enrolled seventy-nine scholars.

Of these fifteen were from the Bridgman School in Peking, this being a temporary arrangement on account of building operations in that institution. After their return to Peking, there remained in the school sixty-four pupils. Of these twenty-one are Presbyterians, twenty-six are Congregationalists, two are from the London Mission, and five are from heathen families. Twenty-one of the Presbyterian pupils pay 138 tiao ching ch'ien toward their expenses, and the twenty-five Congregational pupils pay thirty-five.

Exclusive of foreigners' salaries and the freight on the furnace, the cost per day for each pupil, including food, fuel, salaries, and all other expenses, has been eleven and four-tenths cents Mexican.

The school course extends over five years, and the fifth or highest class will be graduated next June and be ready then for the Bridgman School. There are seven girls in this class. Some of the girls have done excellent work, and their written and oral examinations have been very satisfactory. The discipline has given no trouble, and Miss Newton reports that "as a usual thing we are at peace with each other and the world." Almost all of the girls of a suitable age are either church members or applicants for baptism, and some give evidence of spiritual development. Too much cannot be said in praise of Miss Li's faithful, efficient work. Mrs. Lewis has helped much in teaching a class in geography and taking a class in Scripture dictation.

SHUNTE-FU STATION.

The work of the past year at Shunte-fu has consisted of beginnings along the several lines of Mission activity. As all the permanently appointed members of the Station have still been busy with language study, and as the presence of older missionaries was thought to be imperative at the opening of new work, Dr. and Mrs. Whiting were temporarily transferred from Peking Station.

The year commenced with Dr. Whiting and Dr. Hamilton on the ground, with the completion of the Hamiltons' house and of the wall as the first imperative. Owing to some disturbances in southern Chih-li and in Honan, it was not considered wise for the ladies to go to the field until the last of September. In November, the house being completed, Mrs. Whiting and Mrs. Hamilton joined their husbands at Shunte-fu, and Mr. and Mrs. Hawley moved into Chinese buildings that are on the place. Dr. Keator, however, for lack of adequate accommodations to carry on her language study, has remained at Paoting-fu during the year.

Since no building for a street chapel could be found for some time, the work for women began earlier than that for men. Not long after arrival, Mrs. Whiting began to make visits to the neighboring villages, accompanied by the other ladies of the Station.

The confidence of the women was soon won. The first Chinese woman who paid a return visit said that she told her neighbors that she was not afraid to come, and added, "I am not afraid of anything." When once the women began to come to the compound there was no lack of visitors, the daily number varying from one to thirty. From the first of January until the last of June, over 1,900 women came to the Mission compound. Receiving these visitors and preaching to them occupied much time. Every Sunday services were held in Dr. Hamilton's study, sometimes with large and sometimes with small attendance, and owing to the inability of these simple people to grasp the idea of time, and the consequent fact that they came for worship at any and all times, Sunday was a hard day for the one in charge. Although unable to preach, Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Hawley were able to assist in trying to teach the women to sing and to recite Scripture.

As to the result of this work, new light has surely broken upon the darkened souls of many. Mrs. Whiting writes of one case as follows:

A woman came one day with a bundle of cloth for sale. She was on her way to the city, but when she heard the good news she manifested unusual interest, and finally decided to spend the night, that she might hear more. When she left in the morning, she said she would surely come the next worship day. Sunday morning we had a heavy rain and so did not expect her; but about ten o'clock she came, having walked miles through the mud on her bound feet in the rain, without overshoes or umbrella, and she was the only woman who came to meeting that day. But, as she said herself, she had done more than that for false gods; why should she not do something for the true? She had been a devout worshiper at the temples, and had knocked her head a hundred times in one day.

After she had been coming to us for several weeks, on one occasion she was late in going home, so that it was quite dark when she passed the temple at which she used to worship. Just as she passed, she suddenly became filled with superstitious fears and felt that the evil spirits were after her. But in telling about it the next Sunday she said, "I just looked up and said out loud, 'Heavenly Father, I am your child,' and all fear left me, and I walked on with new strength."

Of course the majority of the many women came out of curiosity. They wanted to see whether the foreign women's eyes were really made of glass or not, whether the tempers of the men were really as bad as foreigners' tempers are generally supposed to be, or perhaps to ascend to the coveted second story of the foreigners' house, and look out of the windows over the tops of their own poor mud huts. But there were those who came a second and a third time, inspired by worthier motives, and who carried away with them seeds of the true Word, which may spring up unto life eternal. Their gladness to receive and their willingness to visit the foreigners are an encouraging sign. Much credit is due to Mrs. Whiting for having established friendly relations with so many of the women, and for her attempts to feed their souls, even though they often came to satisfy worldly desires. For the coming year we have to draw again from the regular force of the Peking Station, and we rejoice that Miss McKillican can come to take charge of the evangelistic work for women.

The evangelistic work for men, which has been in charge of Dr. Whiting, formally began the 22d of January with the first Sunday service in the street chapel. Efforts to rent a building to serve as a chapel proved ineffectual for a long time, and finally, when the building was secured, repairs were necessary before the building was ready for occupancy.

From that time, Dr. Whiting has conducted regular preaching services on Sunday at the street chapel in the south suburb, and has been present weekdays to teach and preach as occasion offered. As the room is small, the preaching took a more informal type than has been usual in Peking, being often largely conversational. As this was less fatiguing than continual discourse, the chapel was kept open sometimes five or six hours. A more personal application could thus be made of the truths presented, and many misapprehensions corrected. Beside the attendance from the city and neighboring villages, men have at different times walked in from places distant twenty or forty miles, to remain perhaps a day or two, or perhaps a week, to learn of the Gospel message. Such have had lodging, but no pecuniary advantage. Beside the occasional listeners, who constitute a large proportion of the average chapel audiences, there are several men who came often, and are regular attendants on the Sunday services.

In addition to chapel preaching, a country field has been opened. In October a man came to the compound, saying that he represented a body of seventeen men who lived in or near Liu Chia T'un, a village distant some thirty miles, who having heard something of Christianity had a desire to learn more.

As Dr. Whiting felt unable to go himself, the helper, Mr. Li Ch'eng Sheng, was sent. The report he brought back was that a number of these men appeared to be seekers after a better way, and that they and others were eager to have a foreigner come and preach to them. But Dr. Whiting, besides being fully occupied with other duties, was not in a sufficiently robust state of health to warrant his making a country trip in winter. The request for a foreigner to come and teach was repeated again and again, and finally a request was sent to Dr. Fenn, of the Peking Station, to help in this itinerating work.

Dr. Fenn found a large number of persons eager to be enrolled as church members; but many of them had mistaken ideas as to the worldly advantages of belonging to the Presbyterian Church.

From the Roman Catholics and from some people in a not distant village who falsely claimed connection with the Protestant Church, many had got the idea that our Church would shield its members from the operation of the law of the land, and even protect them in wrongdoing. A large body of men also appealed to Dr. Fenn to take issue for them on the matter of the salt trade. They had been making their living by the manufacture of a crude salt from the otherwise useless alkali soil, contrary to the law which makes the manufacture of salt a Government monopoly, and now they are being deprived of a means of livelihood.

But in spite of the fact that many were actuated by such motives, before Dr. Fenn left the region he was satisfied that not a few were really sincere in their profession. He writes:

It is very important that all this field, in which I have spent these weeks, should be thoroughly worked at once, that the impressions may be followed up. In addition to the large number who definitely asked for instruction, I was told of some hundreds of others who were ready to receive the new doctrine. The other Missions working to the north and south have had a large success since the Boxer outbreak, and I believe that our Mission may be equally blessed with success. The contrast between the reception afforded me in this Shunte-fu field and that to which I have become accustomed in Peking and vicinity is most striking. While great care must be exercised to prevent men from entering the Church from wrong motives, yet the general impression produced by this month in the Shunte-fu field is most encouraging, and I believe that if the work be pushed the next few years will witness large gatherings.

Since this time, hardly a Sunday has passed that there have not been men from the P'ing Hsiang region present at the service, and several men have stayed on and studied.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Hamilton writes:

Language study, together with such professional work as I could do without my full equipment of drugs and instruments, composed the daily round till March, when Mrs. Hamilton and I completed the first year's course of study. Mrs. Hamilton entered with me upon the second year's course, but was obliged to remit her efforts by flagging health, which culminated a few weeks ago in a very serious illness.

Dr. Hamilton also made a five days' trip into the country field in P'ing Hsiang Hsien, where he met the inquirers and did some preaching. The inquirers there feel that they have certainly suffered some persecution, and they appreciate very much the visit of a foreigner.

No large results can be pointed out as the fruit of the first year of labor at Shunte-fu. But superstition has been broken into and friendly relations established. We trust the foundations have been laid that shall remain, and we look forward to the future with hope and faith, believing that there is here a large and needy field, and that God has a work for our Mission at Shunte-fu. As our force is small and most of us are still language pupils, the work of preparation must be continued for some time.

BUILDINGS.—Building operations have been continued through the year. One new residence has been added. The missionaries were almost overwhelmed with joy and gratitude when they learned, after the close of the Mission year, of the magnificent gift of $20,000 by Mrs. Hugh O'Neil, of New York, for the erection at Shunte-fu Station of a men's hospital, a women's hospital and a church in memory of her husband, the late Mr. Hugh O'Neil. Mrs. Darlington, a daughter of Mrs. O'Neil, added $3,000 for another residence. Both Mrs. O'Neil and Mrs. Darlington are members of the Fifth Avenue Church, which supports this Station. These munificent gifts will give that new Station a splendid equipment. The labor of constructing so many important buildings at once will necessarily occupy much of the missionaries' time for a considerable period.

EAST SHANTUNG MISSION.

TENG-CHOU: on the coast, 55 miles northwest of Chefoo; occupied 1861. Missionaries—W. F. Seymour, M.D., and Mrs. Seymour, Rev. J. P. Irwin and Mrs. Irwin, Miss M. A. Snodgrass, Mrs. Calvin Wight.

CHEFOO: an important foreign port; occupied 1862. Missionaries—Rev. Hunter Corbett, D.D., and Mrs. Corbett, Rev. George Cornwell and Mrs. Cornwell, Rev. W. O. Elterich and Mrs. Elterich, Mrs. John L. Nevius, Mrs. A. T. Mills, Miss Effie B. Cooper, M.D., Mr. Will C. Booth and Mrs. Booth, Rev. Mason Wells and Mrs. Wells.

TSING-TAU: 160 miles southwest of Chefoo, the large and growing German port and the terminus of the new railroad to Chinanfu; occupied 1898. Rev. Llewellyn J. Davies and Mrs. Davies, and Miss Louise Vaughan.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. A. T. Mills, Rev. H. Corbett, D.D., and Mrs. Corbett.

TENGCHOW STATION.

The force has been weakened by removals and sickness. We deeply regret that Mr. Metzler is unable to return on account of ill-health. Miss Hawes who rendered a year of efficient service at Tengchow, has returned to Wei-hsien, where she labored before the Boxer uprising. This leaves the Station with but two families and two single women.

Joined with us in this work is a native force of twelve evangelists, five Bible women, twenty-seven teachers in our high and day schools, and two native physicians and two hospital attendants. We have had some difficulties and discouragements, shortage of funds and insufficient help; yet we cannot but feel we have made some progress.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—I. Inquirers Classes. A class for men was held in the city under Mr. Irwin's care, but taught for the most part by Rev. Tingh Mei and other helpers. Eighty were enrolled.

A part of these were from the city, but most of them from the nearer villages. Some were already baptized Christians and were greatly strengthened in their Christian life. Many of the others have since been admitted to the Church. Smaller classes were also held for a shorter time in several of the outstations.

Three classes for women were held in the city, two at the Tsa Yuen Ho for the most part conducted and taught by Miss Snodgrass, each class with an attendance of thirteen. And one at the Kwan Lin Tang with an attendance of nineteen. Each class was taught for about two weeks. From the classes four or five have united with the church during the year. Miss Hawes also conducted classes, but for a shorter time, in several out-stations in Lai Choofu, and the south district.

Special Meetings.—While the Inquirer's Class was in session, a week of special evangelistic services were held in the city church. Posters were put up in many places through the city and a little invitation tract was largely distributed in the shops and homes.

There was not as free a response as we had hoped, but the attendance was fairly good and some good was accomplished. Special services were also held in several of the out-stations. In all of these Rev. Ting Mei took a large part. His salary of 18,000 large cash and expenses for six weeks was raised by the Christians in addition to their annual contributions. One very helpful feature of these meetings, both in the city and in the country, was the morning prayer and confession service. When at service they met together and without leader they bowed down and one by one let out their hearts to God in prayer. Sins were confessed and promises made for a better life. These meetings left an abiding impression on the lives of two of our evangelists, which has been very helpful in their work during the entire year.

Country Work.—The country work of the Station is scattered over four countries and part of another. In Lai Choofu the two organized churches have six out-stations where meetings are held and in the unorganized districts twenty-one or twenty-seven out-stations and places where the communions have to be held. In Lai Choofu the two churches have a membership of 170.

They are prepared to call a native pastor as soon as one can be found. In some of the out-stations in the south district, some sifting became necessary and a few were expelled from the church or dropped from the record. However there are quite a number of inquirers in these out-stations and twenty-five have been received on examination during the year.

Mr. Irwin has made two long trips over these country districts and some shorter ones to nearer places, having been out in all about sixty days. Miss Hawes spent about 110 days in this country work. A few short trips to nearer places have also been made by Dr. and Mrs. Seymour and Mrs. Wight, although none of them could be long away at a time.

City Work.—In the city two Bible women and one in Water City have been at work under the direction of Miss Snodgrass and one directed by Mrs. Seymour in the part of the city near the Swan Yin Tang.

Many calls have been made and received. Miss Snodgrass made 141 visits and her Bible women 570. The woman's prayer meetings have been very encouraging. They are held in three places on three different days at the Tsa Yuen Ho, Kwan Yin Tang and Water City. The largest number present at any one meeting was 110 at Tsa Yuen

Ho. At two other meetings there were 100 present each time. The average attendance at the three places per week has been ninety-two.

In addition to the Industrial School, Miss Snodgrass has had charge of one day school in the city and one in the Water City. For a few months she also had charge of an English service for the young men and boys who speak or are studying English. The average attendance per week was twenty-one.

The City Church.—A native pastor has been called and the services have been regular and for the most part quite well attended. The pastoral duties have chiefly devolved on Mr. Irwin, though Dr. Seymour and the native elders with one or two others have taken their regular turns in the preaching services. The church has continued the support of its native evangelist.

The Sabbath-schools, one for children and one for adults, have been held in two divisions, as the church could not seat them all. The primary school when first opened some years ago by Dr. and Mrs. Seymour was labeled the "Rag Tag" Sunday-school. It has however long since won a better name. Dr. Seymour reports:

The superintendency of the Sunday-school still requires part of my time and strength. The average attendance for the year has been 321. Thousands of Sunday-school lesson leaflets are distributed every year, as well as cards with texts written on them and we feel that they are being greatly used of God in breaking down prejudice and opening homes to the Gospel. One difficulty has been lack of suitable teachers. Both foreigners and native helpers were insufficient and a number of the more advanced boys and girls from the High Schools and some others were called on to assist and have done very well.

The church records have been revised, a number dismissed to other churches, and seventeen put on the reserved list. During the year thirty-two were added on examination. The active membership is now 263.

Among those received were three old women, one sixty, one eighty-five, and one ninety-two years of age. On the other hand there were twelve from the Boys' High School and nine from the Girls' High School and the two children of Elder Chang. At one communion fifteen of these stood up together and confessed Christ. It was impressive, not only because they were young but because a number of them were the second generation of Christians, having been consecrated by their parents and baptized in infancy.

Colporteurs.—Two colporteurs supported by the American Bible Society have preached at the fairs and in the markets and many villages.

Other evangelists and some Christians have also helped with this work. Over 2,000 portions and about fifty Bibles or Testaments have been sold or disbursed; also many Gospel tracts and booklets. In an old district like Tengchow, it is more difficult to sell Christian literature than in the new districts where less work has been done.

Totals of church membership: The additions this year to the other churches are: In the Lai Choofu churches six, with a total of 164, and in the unorganized work twenty-five, with a total of 180; which makes in connection with the Tengchow church a total of 607, 630 of whom were added on examination during this year.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Day Schools.—There are sixteen day-schools in the country and four in the city, with 240 boys and twenty-one girls.

Of these there is only one entirely for girls, the one in the city. However, there are three mixed schools where the girls can attend and we hope to open two more next year. In the city two of the schools are directed by Miss Snodgrass, one by Mrs. Wight and one by Mrs. Seymour. The country schools are still under Mr. Irwin's care. For these schools we were unable to procure a regular superintendent, but one of the evangelists devoted part of his time to this work and rendered quite a little assistance. We are trying gradually to work in the new methods and graded course.

Girl's High School.—The work of the school has gone on successfully.

The first term the total attendance increased to forty-nine; but the second term, owing to lack of funds, it has been kept under forty, and the new term shortened. The school has been fortunate in having the valuable services of Mr. Tu, who is also one of our elders. The girls have manifested considerable interest in their religious life and work, and nine of them have united with the church during the year. They are required to pay part of their food money and a total of 120,000 cash has been received.

Mrs. Wight who has charge of the school reports:

That we are reaping the reward of many years of labor is evidenced by several things. (1) By our teachers: Mr. Tu, a man of fifty-seven, with seventeen years' experience in the College and as Dr. Mateer's assistant. Mr. Lan Boo Chin, a College graduate, who is the son of the first teacher used by Mrs. Capp when this school was founded. Miss Chang, a graduate of the Girl's School, who came to school when but nine years of age, a friendless orphan. She was adopted by Miss Snodgrass and given a thorough education. (2) By our pupils: Of the nine pupils who joined the church this year five had never known heathen influence in their homes, having been baptized as children of Christian parents. Of the six graduates one is a Christian of the third generation. The others are daughters of Christian parents. (3) By our facilities for study: Suitable and well-furnished buildings; a splendid line of text-books prepared for the most part through long years of experience, and a fairly good outfit of apparatus, maps, etc. (4) By the demand for graduates: Of the six graduates, all secured places in Mission schools. This is evidence of much seed sowing and that we are reaping the fruits of former years. May there be a still greater harvest.

The Industrial School for making lace.—Miss Snodgrass has put quite a little time and strength into this work. There are fifteen women and girls and this opportunity comes to them as a boon, as it gives them not only a chance to earn their living, but to acquire the far greater riches of the Gospel.

Boys' High School.—In the spring we opened up this Boarding School for our boys. We did not expect over twenty or thirty, but there were over sixty applications and an enrollment of fifty-six the spring term, although they knew they must pay 6,000 cash each of their board and, if they should study English, then all or nearly all of their board.

The school sustained a serious loss when the excellent native teacher left us at the beginning of this fall term to accept a position in one of the city government schools at a salary more than three times the amount we were paying him.

Of the pupils, twelve primary, twenty academic and twenty-four English, forty-five were boarders and eleven day pupils. Although some of the English pupils who were boarders did not pay quite their full board, yet sufficient was received from the English tuition fully to cover it. The boys paid their 6,000 large cash on their board apparently quite willingly and only five or six who are really unable to pay, paid less; while two paid more, one his full board. A number of the English boys paid all their board besides an English tuition. This fall term we have cut down the total to forty boys, seventeen of whom are studying English. In all twenty-six are boarders. Twelve of the boys have united with the church during the year. Our chief difficulty has been lack of funds. Friends, however, have very generously helped us out this year and by saving some from other sources we hope to get through without debt.

The dispensary work has been carried on as last year at the old location, but a room has been fitted up at the Kwan Yin Tang and a small stock of drugs moved in. About 200 cases besides the school boys have been treated here. The Hospital has been moved into some of the old College dormitories.

Here we have six rooms for women and six rooms for men with sixteen beds in all for hospital patients. So far they have been sufficient. However, it is hoped to fit up a ward with a number of beds where the better or wealthier classes can be attended to better advantage. The work of fitting up has been delayed on account of lack of funds; still some changes have been made and lumber and mud brick partly sufficient have been procured. It is hoped soon to fit up the old museum building for a dispensary and also a room for bath-room, etc.

Dr. Seymour has also made a number of short trips to the country and visited the sick in a number of homes in the city, in all about 110 visits. These have been in homes from the richest down to the poorest of the people. Thus the Gospel is preached and access found to homes where others cannot go.

The statistics of the medical work are: Forty-four hospital patients, 2,491 new cases in dispensary, 3,890 old cases and calls from friends, 763 treatments of school boys, and 250 treated in homes and in the country, making a total of 7,438 cases.

CHEFOO STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—City Evangelistic Work.—Up to his departure in April Dr. Corbett had charge of the street chapel and museum, preaching daily to the large crowds which gathered there. After his departure Dr. Elterich took over the supervision of this work, elder Li Si Hwoa, an earnest and experienced evangelist, being placed in charge.

He had the assistance of three preachers and of others from time to time, either members of the training school or helpers from the country. Some new objects of interest were added to the museum, among them a live young Manchurian bear, the gift of a native firm in town. On special days during the Chinese New Year's season the usual large crowds of women attended and afforded an excellent opportunity for evangelistic effort to reach this class. During the year there was a total attendance of 93,000, which is larger than last year, and shows that the place has lost none of its interest and attractiveness. Six inquirers have been among the results.

Chefoo Church.—The Chefoo Church had two helpers at work in the territory within a radius of ten miles of Chefoo, One, however, died.

Work Among Women.—An effort was made to reach the women in their homes in the villages which lie on the outskirts of the town. Mrs. Elterich and Miss G. Corbett have been making such visits and are meeting with considerable encouragement. There is a large field for work along this line in this western part of Chefoo which is rapidly growing up.

Dispensary Work.—Dr. Cooper and a Bible woman preached to the patients which attended the dispensary, and as a result some have been attending the Sunday-school for women.

Work among South African Coolies.—Evangelistic work was also carried on among the coolies going to South Africa. Under Mr. Cornwell's superintendence ships were visited and tracts and books distributed. In response to an appeal from the Transvaal for preachers to work among the thousands of coolies from North China, Mr. Chang, a graduate from our English School, is planning to go.

Y. M. C. A. Work.—Mr. Cornwell has also been in charge of the native Y. M. C. A. work in town. This association has grown in strength and usefulness, and has been of great help to the Christian young men in the business firms in town.

Several American war-ships were in port during the summer and Mr. Cornwell secured and fitted up a room for special work among the sailors.

He was able also to secure the assistance of Mr. R. M. Thonberry, formerly Secretary of the Nagasaki Seamen's Home. For three months strenuous work was carried on among the seamen, and preaching services maintained on board the fleet, there being no chaplains. The members of the Bible Translating Committee and other missionaries stopping here rendered valuable assistance in preaching on board the ships.

Country Evangelistic Work.—A very aggressive and extended campaign has been conducted by Mr. Mason Wells. He carried on preaching in three street chapels opened by him, and at markets and fairs as well as the hundreds of villages principally in the district of Lai Yang, which has hitherto been almost untouched. He has thus far visited 800 villages. He found people friendly and ready to listen.

Inquirers Enrolled.—Many of the listeners were women, sometimes outnumbering the men, a remarkable fact. Thirty hopeful inquirers have been enrolled as a result of this aggressive campaign. Among these was a blind man who made a good living by telling fortunes. He gave up this means of support and gained a pittance by grinding grain. He has not long since been received into the church and is now in the School for the Blind at Peking. Another inquirer was instructed by his nephew and as a result gave up his opium and applied for baptism. He is a teacher and one of the gentry in the village in which he lives.

A promising young teacher in a wealthy and influential family embraced the faith, but his family forbids him now all intercourse with the missionary or native helpers. As a result of the work in a street chapel in Mr. Elterich's field, one man was received into the church, several inquirers enrolled, and a foothold secured in the wealthiest family of the town.

Mr. Wells worked mostly from the city of Lai Yang, where he has his headquarters.

This city is in fact the most important center with relation to our country evangelistic and pastoral work and we feel that the Mission and the Board should seriously consider the opening of this place at least as a substation.

Mr. Cornwell's Field.—In his country field Mr. Cornwell received thirty-seven members. There is a specially interesting work among the women and in the girls schools in his field.

Dr. Corbett's and Dr. Elterich's Fields.—During Dr. Corbett's absence, Dr. Elterich has had charge of his country field beside looking after his own. The work in these fields is prospering. Fifty-four inquirers were enrolled, of which fourteen were received into the church.

Bible and Inquirers' Classes.—Women's Classes. Dr. Cooper held one class for women at Chefoo and nine others in the country. The total number of those who attended was 175.

The women were eager to learn and some were not satisfied with attending one class, but at no little trouble and inconvenience followed Dr. Cooper to the next class. A large part of the expense of these classes was borne by the native Christians.

Pastoral Work.—Chefoo Church. Since Dr. Corbett's departure Dr. Elterich has assisted Pastor Wang in the services of the Chefoo Church besides having charge of the branch congregation at the street chapel. The new church completed last year has been well attended. Thirteen members were received on examination during the year. Mrs. Wells has had charge of the services for women since Mrs. Corbett's departure.

Sunday-schools.—The Sunday-school at the English school has been combined with the church school. There have been 256 pupils in this school and forty in the infant department conducted by Mrs. Cromwell and Miss Grace Corbett. A fine new organ was the gift of Messrs. McMullan and Huntley. The church supported two helpers and paid one-half of Pastor Wang's salary, the other half being contributed by the church on the east side, the Ki San Church, of which he is also pastor. The twenty-five members of this church come mostly from Chefoo Industrial School. Five were added during the church year. The congregation has been increasing so that the building, where services are being held, had to be considerably enlarged. After Sunday services preaching was done on the eastern outskirts of the town by Mr. McMullan, Elder Lio, and some of the church members. This work is meeting with encouragement.

Pastoral Work in Country.—In the country districts the pastoral work is also encouraging. In Dr. Corbett's field four new churches with twenty-six, forty-one, thirty-seven and eighty-nine members respectively were organized. In the Chinoa district Pastor Ting and Licentiate Tung had the pastoral care of five organized churches. These churches not only supported these two, but also raised one-half of the amount needed to support two blind evangelists who sing and play on flutes when itinerating. The general condition of the church work is good; there is a steady increase in numbers and in amount of contributions. Many of the Christians have shown zeal in the study of the Scriptures and committing of verses to memory, noticeably the women. Three of our helpers have applied and been accepted by Presbytery as candidates for the ministry.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boarding Schools.—Chefoo English School. In May Mr. W. C. Booth took charge of the English School. The prospects of the school are probably the best in its history.

The enrollment has been ninety-nine, with an average attendance of nearly ninety, and there is prospect of an increasing attendance now that there is a growing desire for English. This desire is not merely on account of increased earning capacity through a knowledge of English, but also as a matter of culture, especially since it has become a part of the curriculum of the new system instituted by the Chinese government for their schools.

Miss Downing and Mrs. William Hayes rendered valuable assistance in the school part of the time.

Six of the pupils have determined to become Christians, and one of the advanced boys, the son of an official, has been making special advances in the spiritual life. The school has secured an athletic field at the cost of $1,000 Mex., all of which is being raised in Chefoo.

Chefoo High School.—The Chefoo High School had forty pupils in the spring, but on account of lack of funds and change in curriculum the school was cut down in the autumn to a comparatively small number. Eight or nine of the boys formed a nucleus for a boys industrial school started by Mr. McMullan.

Training School.—Twelve young men have been under instruction to receive training to fit them for preachers. Dr. Elterich, Pastor Wang, Elder Li Si Hwoa and others gave them a course in Scripture study, and the young men received training in preaching at the street chapel and on the streets.

Day Schools.—City Day Schools. Of the city day schools Mrs. Nevius had charge of two schools for boys numbering thirty each. On Mrs. Corbett's departure Miss Grace Corbett took over the charge of the kindergarten, which is the only school of its kind in the Mission. The total number of pupils enrolled was sixty-three. During the year twenty-five day-schools with 483 pupils have been in operation in connection with the Station.

Special advance has been made in these schools through the introduction of the new school curriculum proposed by our Mission's Educational Committee. Pupils and patrons of the schools in general responded readily to the new system and but comparatively little difficulty was experienced in securing the payment for the new books and supplies.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Cooper spent much of her time in very useful and self-sacrificing medical evangelistic work in the outlying villages; while at the Station she conducted the dispensary regularly which was well attended especially by women and children.

LITERARY.—Mrs. Nevius has completed a brief commentary on the Minor Prophets and has prepared and printed a Primer in a system of Romanization which she worked out, basing it on the new Standard System of Romanization. She has also been preparing a descriptive and historical catalogue of all of Dr. Nevius' writings in Chinese.

HEALTH.—Most of the members of the Station have enjoyed good health, but Mrs. Nevius has suffered greatly from a long and serious illness. To the great relief of all she was much better when this report was made up. But it is with great sorrow that we record the death of her beloved associate, Mrs. L. Bainbridge.

She had voluntarily aided in the work of the Station for many years and not only her teaching but also her gentle, unselfish, Christian character have left lasting effects on the hearts and lives of the girls and women with whom she came in contact.

TSING-TAU STATION.

There has been progress in all parts of the Tsing-tau district with the single exception of the Ta Hsiu Tau Church. The number of additions is about double that of the preceding year. The average of Christian living has been higher. Some out-stations which have been very torpid have taken on new life. The evangelists have worked with increased zeal, and the standard of school work has been appreciably advanced. The greatest blessing is the hitherto unknown zeal and unity which have been manifest in almost all parts of the district. God has been answering our prayers beyond what we had dared to hope.

The Force.—The transfer of Miss Louisa Vaughan from Chefoo and the coming for six months of the Rev. and Mrs. T. N. Thompson of Ichow-fu brought great relief to Dr. and Mrs. Davies who had been carrying burdens far too heavy for one family. The Chinese staff has included two Chinese pastors, twelve evangelists, three Bible women and twenty-five school teachers. Four schools have been closed for the same reason.

Tsing-tau Local Work.—Rev. Han Chen Kang who took charge of the local church a year ago, is proving acceptable both as pastor and as preacher. The Ta Pan Tan congregations have increased in size. Three or four prayer meetings a week have been held for men in different centers, and there have been three gatherings for the women each week. Repairs to the two church buildings costing $80 were made without assistance of the Mission.

Church Work in the Country.—With the exception already noted there has been decided growth in all the out-stations.

The people have been drawn to each other and to the foreign and Chinese pastors as never before. Those who are sufficiently quick to apprehend what is going on wonder at the spirit of unity manifested.

There have been stirrings in two or three centers which had seemed almost dead. In the Lao Noa Chou Chia district, where our work was almost destroyed in 1901 by a law-suiting helper, several members have been received, and there is prospect of growth. The dissensions in the Sha Kou Church seem to have been healed. The general condition of the three Pingtu churches is better and they have united in a call to Rev. Mr. Swin, which he has accepted. We hope that his coming may mark the beginning of a new period in the life of these churches. The district in which Rev. Mr. Chao Tou Nan has been working has been especially blessed. The helpers have been inspired to better work, and the Christians have felt the uplift of his vigorous pastoral oversight. At one point in southern Pingtu a leader, who a year ago seemed likely to become a valuable helper, suddenly developed the law-suit disease. He did not respond readily to treatment and we feared that he would destroy the very hopeful work in the village. He has, however, taken himself off to Manchuria, to the great benefit of the twenty church members. In another place there have been five or six matters that have seriously threatened the peace of the new church, but the prayers and efforts of the pastor and helpers have been rewarded, and the Christians have manifested an unhopcd patience.

Additions to the Church.—In Tsing-tau ten have been received on examination and seven by letter. Six pupils from the Girl's School have united with the Ta Hsin Tan Church. Forty new members joined the Pingtu churches, and in the unorganized district 112 persons were baptized. This is 168 on examination, and seven by letter, a total of 175.

Schools.—The boarding school for girls at Ta Hsin Tan has averaged forty pupils.

Nine girls have gone from the school to the High School in Wei-hsien, where they are being fitted for teaching. The schools for day pupils number twenty-four with 265 pupils. The schools are doing better work than ever before. The employment of a school superintendent, Mr. Li Hsi Tien, has largely brought this about.

Bible Classes and Conferences.—Seven classes for women having an enrollment of 136 have been held in the country. Two conferences for evangelists and school teachers were conducted. All these have proved very helpful.

Contributions and Self-support.—The total contributions for church and school amount to a little more than $1700 Mex. or about $2.20 Mex. per member. This is really a gain as the total for last year was swelled by special contributions.

The Christians in the unorganized district have paid the whole of Mr. Chaos' salary. This is the most important step forward. The three Pingtu churches have also called a pastor for next year and are to pay his entire salary.

Dr. Davies closes his report as follows:

We are thankful that we have been permitted to have a part in this work for another year. We ask the prayers of any others who may read this report, that God's blessing may rest upon this district in yet greater measure.

WEST SHANTUNG MISSION.

CHINAN-FU: capital of the Shantung province; 300 miles south of Peking; occupied 1872. Missionaries—Rev. W. B. Hamilton and Mrs. Hamilton, Rev. John Murray, Miss Mary L. Burnham, M.D., James B. Neal, M.D., and Mrs. Neal, Miss Emma S. Boehne, Rev. Albert Dodd, Miss Mable B. Mennie, and Miss Caroline Merwin, M.D.

WEI-HSIEN: 150 miles southwest of Tengchow; occupied 1882. Missionaries—Rev. R. M. Mateer and Mrs. Mateer, Rev. F. H. Chalfant and Mrs. Chalfant, Rev. J. A. Fitch and Mrs. Fitch, W. R. Faries, M.D., and Mrs. Faries, Prof. Ralph Wells, Mrs. M. Crossette, Miss A. K. M. Franz, Dr. Margaret H. Bynon, Miss Mary C. Moore, Rev. C. W. Mateer, D.D., and Mrs. Mateer, Rev. Paul T. Bergen, D.D., and Mrs. Bergen, Rev. H. W. Luce and Mrs. Luce, C. K. Roys, M. D., and Mrs. Roys, Rev. Frank E. Field, Rev. W. M. Hayes, D.D., and Mrs. Hayes, and Miss Charlotte E. Hawes.

ICHOU-FU: 330 miles southwest of Chefoo; occupied 1891. Missionaries—C. F. Johnson, M.D., and Mrs. Johnson, Miss E. E. Fleming, M.D., Rev. Thomas N. Thompson and Mrs. Thompson, Rev. George A. Armstrong, Rev. William P. Chalfant, Rev. and Mrs. Paul P. Faris, and Frederich Foutz, M.D., and Mrs. Foutz.

CHINING-CHOU: 150 miles southwest of Chinan-fu; occupied 1892. Missionaries—Charles Lyon, M.D., and Mrs. Lyon, Rev. Harry G. Romig and Mrs. Romig, Rev. James S. Waite and Mrs. Waite, Rev. and Mrs. Alexander Waite.

I-HSIEN: 20 miles from the Grand Canal, about 60 miles southwest of Ichou-fu, and 90 miles west of Chining-chou; occupied 1905. Rev. N. S. Faris and Mrs. Faris, Miss Margaret Faris, Rev. C. H. Yerkes and Mrs. Yerkes, and W. R. Cunningham, M.D.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Faris, Rev. W. S. Faris and Mrs. Faris, Rev. F. H. Chalfant and Mrs. Chalfant, Dr. Mary L. Burnham, Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Luce, Rev. J. A. Fitch, Rev. James Waite and Mrs. Waite, and Dr. Emma E. Fleming.

The Mission has had the pleasure during the year of welcoming back Miss Charlotte E. Hawes, whom ill health had compelled to resign after the Boxer outbreak. It was also gladdened by the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Fouts, Miss Caroline S. Merwin, and Miss Margaret Faris as new missionaries. To the deep regret of all, the health of the Rev. Thomas R. Guy was becoming so impaired that he was forced to resign.

A notable event was the opening of Wei-hsien and Chinan-fu as treaty ports. This will mean foreign Consuls and the development of a foreign community. The railway has been completed to Chinan-fu, and with this direct contact with the rest of the world changes are rapidly taking place. The journey to Chinan-fu, that formerly required nearly two weeks of uncomfortable journeying in a cart or mule litter, can now be quickly and easily made in a day. The Chinese manifest their new spirit of independence, however. The strictness of the regulations which they have imposed upon the tract that has been set aside for the foreign concession property will not be sold to foreigners but only leased, and the Chinese will keep water, light, police, and other matters in their own hands.

The decrease of the working force has been felt during this year. In November, Mr. Murray and Mrs. Hamilton left on furlough, and in June, for health reasons, Mr. Guy was forced to resign, while Dr. Burnham is still kept in America by her father's ill health. Both Mr. Murray and Mrs. Hamilton, however, have since returned to the field.

CHINAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—In the absence of Mr. Murray, the pastoral work of the station has been almost entirely in charge of Mr. Hamilton. Much of the autumn and the entire spring were spent in the country, Mr. Dodd also using considerable time in visiting the field. A large majority of the Christians were visited in their homes. The work is progressing at a rate which a few years ago would have been regarded as quite remarkable. At least a dozen villages have been visited for the first time by invitation of new inquirers.

Encouraging Features.—

First.—Number of baptisms, in the city and country, was seventy-five. Of these twenty-nine were in three of the four country churches last year under Mr. Murray's care, and two in connection with his unorganized work; twenty-eight were in connection with Mr. Hamilton's unorganized work, and sixteen in connection with the city church.

Second.—The large number of women and girls in the Lin-i field, some thirty in number, who last spring came out as inquirers. This station is fifty miles north of Chinan. Hitherto the membership of the church there has been largely made up of men, and the new inquirers are almost all of them the wives or daughters of these men.

Third.—The growth of the work in the west suburb of Chinan. Several solid business men have been members there for some years, and through their influence and the efforts of the local elders the work there promises to be the nucleus of a second church in Chinan. Altogether the Christians and inquirers there number some thirty.

Fourth.—The advance toward self-support, especially in the Chinan Church. This church of about a hundred members supports three evangelists and a Bible woman. They have arranged to support entirely during the coming Chinese year the girls' school noted elsewhere. They are considering the calling of a native pastor. The country churches and Christian groups have also made some progress in paying a part of the helpers' salaries, and have shown considerable zeal in starting boys' and girls' schools which they are required to support in part.

Fifth.—Improved evangelistic conditions. The scare from the Boxer movement has now largely passed away. In the country it is quite a common thing for an entire stranger to bring you out a bench to sit upon while preaching in his village. Reviling of us as "foreign devils" has vastly diminished, though not yet is it a lost art. The attitude of the officials outwardly is increasingly friendly. Preaching to non-Christians is much more respectfully listened to than at any former time, the number of women on the outskirts of the audience being especially noticeable.

Bible Classes for Men.—The sixteen helpers and an equal number of advanced Christians were invited to Chinan twice during the year for instruction in Old Testament History, staying each time from three to four weeks. Two other classes were held before the New Year and two after, from twelve to twenty in each class. Messrs. Dodd and Guy took part in the instruction of these classes. Two classes for men were held in the country, one by Mr. Hamilton, the other by a helper.

Evangelistic Work and the Literary Classes.—The edict abolishing the old style literary examinations will bring us in relation with large numbers of reading men who would fain reach the goal of a degree by the Western route.

For a long time to come there will be much confusion in their minds as to what is learning and what is religion. That we are in China as the exponents of the latter, rather than of the former, will have to be ever and anon explained to them. Still, the edict will open to us many a door hitherto closed. A few days ago an elderly man without the least hesitation declared in the presence of a large crowd in a village market that before long he was going to enter the church and requested copies of all the books we had. When asked who he was, he replied to the effect that he was in charge of the new educational work in the Lin-i district. In a very brief tour through the country lately three applications by non-Christians of good scholarship were made for entrance into our Chinan Academy.

A number of students in the Shantung Provincial College came recently to their professor in English, Mr. Goodsell, an earnest Christian man, for instruction concerning Christianity. The matter was referred by Mr. Goodsell to the head of the College, Chen Taotai, and was permitted by him, provided the instruction be conducted outside of school hours.

Early in the spring Mr. Guy opened a school where he taught about twenty young men, sons of officials. The attraction was instruction in English and other Western branches. Prayers, however, were held every day, and all were required to study the Bible and the Westminster Shorter Catechism. Though the early departure of Mr. Guy precluded an adequate test of the expediency of such a school as a Mission enterprise, still the promise of influence it held out merits the careful consideration of the Mission.

Woman's Work.—The work among the women has keenly felt the absence of Mrs. Hamilton, who was able to make only one short trip before she left for America.

In November a class of over twenty women gathered in Chinan from the country field for a month's study of the Bible, Mrs. Neal being in charge.

One very interesting member of the class was a bride of fifteen, but with an experience in suffering and sorrow which few have had at home. With a bright, attractive face and a promising development of a sturdy, upright character, she now makes a good pupil in the west suburb school. Several old women of nearly seventy were eager learners in this class.

In March and April Mrs. Neal left her school work for two trips of two weeks each. Miss Boehme accompanied her. After two days of hard travel they were warmly welcomed by a pathetically eager class of forty-eight women and girls, a larger number than had been expected to study. But the Christians provided lodging and food for all. It was such a needy place, and the interest in learning so intense, that it was decided to return. The home journey was through several villages where no foreign ladies had ever been before. Immense but respectful audiences gathered and quietly listened while the native preacher spoke. It is encouraging to learn that in some of these villages added interest among the women has been manifested. A number of schools were also visited, and two interesting girls' schools examined.

In Chinan-fu the regular weekly meetings for women have been held with varying attendance both in the east and west suburbs. Some of the ladies assisted Mr. Guy in conducting a Sunday-school for the children of the street.

The young ladies of the Station, including Miss Reid, have had very pleasant intercourse with the ladies of several official families. Calls have been frequently exchanged, and it is hoped that there will be opportunities to give some knowledge of the truth. Occasionally one or more of the ladies come to the Sunday service.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Boys' Academy.—This school, on the whole, has had a prosperous year, in spite of the loss of three teachers who left unexpectedly at the close of last year. The two college graduates from Wei-hsien, who were secured just before the opening in September, have done faithful work.

The fees were increased at the beginning of the second term. $7 Mex. per year is now the fee for pupils not studying English, and $14 Mex. for those who do. This larger sum just about covers the cost of board. The whole amount received for fees was Mex. $320.92, and the whole cost of the school $867.32, so we are still far from being self-supporting.

Thirty-three boys were in attendance during the first and forty during the second term. Two entered the College on its removal to Wei-hsien, and one the Normal School at Ching-chowfu.

The Y. M. C. A. has been kept up, most of the scholars being members. Three of the pupils have been received into the church during the year, and it was a great pleasure while visiting in the homes of several of the boys during itinerating tours to discover that in a number of instances they had been the means of bringing their mothers and wives to a desire to become Christians.

Village Day Schools.—Seven new schools with fifty scholars have been opened during the year, quite a creditable advance. The pedagogic attainments of the teachers, however, leaves much to be desired.

Girls' Schools.—Although Chinan-fu has no school for girls at present, an account of the educational work of the Station should mention the little school for girls, which is almost entirely supported by the Christians of the west suburb.

The salary of the teacher is $5 Mex. per month, and half of this is paid out of Mission funds, the other half being paid by the two well-to-do Christians, Messrs. Liu Yu-ting and Wang Yue-tsi, who are responsible for all other expenses of the school. The building was leased for $1,000 Mex., and opened in the spring with a young woman from one of the Wei-hsien country schools as teacher. There were at first six boarders and four day pupils. Two other boarders are promised.

There are two other schools for girls in Chinan-fu, mention of which may perhaps be of interest, as showing the dawn of a brighter day for the women of China.

They are private schools, supported by the families of the pupils. Both favor the loosening of the bandages of the feet, which is rather fashionable just at present. They can scarcely be called unbound, for the shoes are still small, but much greater freedom of movement is allowed, for the feet of the young girls of this class are so tightly bound as not easily to regain their natural shape.

Mrs. Goodsell freely teaches English in one of these schools three mornings of the week. There are twenty-eight pupils in this school, which are housed in a two-story building in the southwest suburb. The other school is inside the city. Miss Reid gives four hours a day to teaching its eighteen scholars, who come from some of the best families in the city. It is through the pupils of these two schools that many opportunities are now being given to the women of the Station for introduction into some of the best families in Chinan-fu.

McIlvaine Hospital.—In the absence of Dr. Burnham, all the work for both men and women has been carried on in the McIlvaine Hospital, the Louisa Y. Boyd Hospital being temporarily closed; but the two classes of patients have been seen in separate quarters, the young woman assistant, who was trained by Dr. Burnham, having done good service in looking after the common ailments of the women and children, the more difficult affections and all eye diseases being seen by the men of the hospital staff.

The total attendance for the year in the two departments has been about the same as last year, a decrease of between five and six hundred on the women's side having been made up by a corresponding increase on the men's side.

A branch dispensary was started on the main street of the east suburb, but the attendance proved to be so small that after three months' trial it was given up. We are about to open a new daily dispensary inside the south gate of the city, in premises which belong to the Mission, which we hope may prove to be more needed and may develop into a permanent work.

The medical work continues to be self-supporting, the total income during the last fiscal year amounting to Mex. $1,840.14, two-thirds of this amount being made up of contributions from Chinese and foreigners and the balance of receipts from daily patients and sales.

During the year ninety-eight operations have been performed on the eye, of which five were for cataract, seven for pterygium and eighty-six for incurved eye lashes. Six lithotomies have also been performed, in two of which the stones weighed four and five ounces respectively.

The statistics of the year are: Men's Department: daily dispensary patients, new 3,828, old 5,570, total 9,398; hospital in-patients 154, out-calls 539; total on men's side 10,091. Women's Department: daily dispensary patients, new 1,656, old 1,183, total 2,839; hospital in-patients 37; total on women's side 2,876.

WEI-HSIEN STATION.

With the exception of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Chalfant, who were at home on furlough, the working force of the Station has remained the same as last year.

The coming of Mr. and Mrs. Couling and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Burt, of the English Baptist Mission, for work in the Shantung Union College made a very pleasant addition to the circle. Equally welcome were our new recruits, Dr. and Mrs. Roys, in November, and Mr. Field, in February.

A great sorrow came in December when God summoned Mrs. Burt. Though she had been so short a time with us, she had won all hearts. It is in place here likewise to mention one to whom Wei-hsien will ever owe a debt for the thorough way in which he rebuilt our compound. Mr. William Russell died at his home in Scotland in April last. The onerous duties of the rebuilding may easily have shortened his life. And we on whom the burden would have fallen had he not come, cannot be too grateful for what he did. To know him was to admire his sterling worth; and his death was a loss not to his family only, but to China.

Joy also has come. Wedding bells have rung in Wei-hsien. In March Dr. Edna B. Parks was married to Mr. Alexander Waite, and Chining has secured one of our most esteemed and efficient workers.

EDUCATIONAL.—The first year of the Shantung Union College at Wei-hsien has been a very successful one, 128 students having been matriculated.

The opening of the educational institutions at Wei-hsien and Ch'ing Chou-fu, along with the advantages accruing, has raised a peculiar difficulty in our day schools. There has been a general desertion by teachers in order to enter Training School and College, until the force of country school teachers is sadly depleted. And we find these schools decreasing in numbers just at the time when from every direction there are the most importunate demands for their increase.

This importunity is accompanied with a willingness to pay more toward the school. Preachers able to teach Western branches are demanding increased wages, and we are looking to the patrons to supply this increase. In boys' day schools the patrons pay at least one-third of the teachers' salary and furnish schoolhouse and pay for all their books.

For the girls' country schools there is also an increasing demand. There are eleven boarding schools and three day schools; but all boarding schools contain day pupils also. About three-tenths of the pupils are of the latter class.

All these boarders have to pay something themselves, from 1,500 large cash to 2,000, and purchase their books, and the wages of a cook where they have one. Just at present there is also a scarcity of teachers for girls' schools, which we hope will be relieved in a year or two by the increasing number of graduates of the girls' academy.

The Point Breeze Academy for boys records another year of work well done. The number of pupils has now reached fifty-eight, crowded three in a room. The Point Breeze Church of Pittsburg generously pledges the money for additional dormitories. The school is in charge of Mr. Wells.

The requirement that denies entrance to married boys or to boys engaged to heathen girls is having a salutary influence on the marriage question in the church. The young men themselves have more say in the matter of their marriages, and they are more apt to secure those who are true companions.

The girls' academy is in the same crowded condition as the boys' school, and there is the same imperative demand for more room. In both these schools the number eager to enter is rapidly increasing. The report shows this in the increased amount parents are willing to pay towards their children's expenses.

The great benefit to the church of these young people graduating and returning to their homes is everywhere apparent. A rich family has been known to feel compelled to send their daughters to school, because otherwise they could not make suitable matches for them. It is encouraging to be able to report that the sentiment favorable to unbinding the feet is steadily growing in these schools. Among 103 boarders in Mrs. Mateer's country schools there are but four left with bound feet. There is a considerable number, too, among the Christian women who are unbinding.

MEDICAL.—The men's hospital has not been open during the year, as Dr. Roys had, of course, to devote himself to language study. For the first seven months the women's hospital was under the care of Dr. Parks, and the remainder of the year of Dr. Bynon. The latter has endeavored to see all dispensary patients coming, but she has had to limit in-patients, so as to have time free for language study. The statistics show how many more than the sick are reached by the waiting-room talks. With both physicians fairly started in the language, the coming year will see a larger medical work. The generous gift of $1,750 of Mr. J. Amherst Wisner, of the Classon Avenue Church of Brooklyn, in memory of his son Clinton will also make possible the long-desired and greatly needed dispensary and chapel in the city.

EVANGELISTIC.—In every direction there seems to be a wide-open door, with almost no persecution or reviling.

Such a condition was never known in pre-Boxer days. It is not that men are pressing into the Church, but that everywhere there is a disposition to hear, which if it can be taken advantage of results in inquirers. It would almost seem as though the measure of results were only conditioned by the number of laborers we can place in the field. Relying on God, we are endeavoring with all our power to meet this condition. We are trying, first, to secure a larger amount of personal work; second, to stir pastors and helpers to greater zeal and consecration; third, to secure as many additional temporary helpers as possible, through the contributions of the Christians.

The number of new places to which the Gospel is spreading is a characteristic feature of the year. Mr. Mateer reports preaching campaigns with bands of helpers in five new centres, and seven new stations established during the year. Mr. Fitch reports two such campaigns and ten new places visited, some of which may be counted out-stations. In one portion of the field (Mr. Chalfant's) 144 inquirers were examined in thirteen days, thirty-nine were baptized, and five received into the Church who had been baptized in infancy. Mr. Mateer mentions having received 500 within the last two and one-half years, and there is a large number of inquirers. Mr. Fitch reports 138 adults received within the year, and about 300 inquirers.

We find great encouragement in the good work done by our native pastors. One of them reports ninety inquirers, and several of them are having a goodly increase in membership.

But of more importance than even this growth in numbers is the growth of Christian character under their ministrations. The zeal for calling pastors is steadily increasing in the Church. Seven pastors are already settled, and five churches have subscriptions ready to call pastors, and there are but two men who can be regarded as soon available to meet this need. The money subscribed for pastors has doubled within the year. The seven pastors settled, the deficit on their salaries has been only $94 Mex. This was met by subscriptions from the members of the Station. There is now raised by the Church for pastors' salaries 685,000 large cash. At our last Presbytery there was also reported raised for unordained evangelists the sum of 300,000 large cash.

One of the encouraging things is the eagerness shown by Christians to have their whole families become Christians. Another is that the disposition to involve the Church in law suits is greatly diminished.

The work in Ngan K'u city continues exceptionally encouraging. This work, begun since 1901, now, including baptized members and inquirers, has upwards of 100 worshipers. In Wei-hsien city services have been held in the chapel throughout the year. Members of the College faculty have assisted in looking after this work. The attendance, though not as large as we could wish, is still quite hopeful for this ultra-conservative old city.

In the latter part of August an interesting conference of the Y. M. C. A. was held in Wei-hsien. Ten institutions throughout the provinces were represented, and numbers of the pastors and helpers were present. The meetings were cumulatively interesting. Many made resolutions of life consecration to God and his service. Some decided to study for the ministry. All the workers seem to have received a stimulus to more consecrated service.

WOMAN'S WORK.—In the woman's department of evangelistic work there have been a goodly number of classes held. Some of them have been for the more advanced Christian women and for Bible women.

A substantial step in advance has been taken in classes held away from the Station in that now only millet broth and salt pickle are furnished at the class. The substantial part of their food is brought by the Christians from their homes. And in some classes even this has been met in whole or in part by gifts of the Christians. There are thirty Bible women now being used for part or all of their time. Their work is among Christians and inquirers and preaching to heathen women. Some of the native contributions go toward their support. Some work of visiting near places about the Station to teach and conduct prayer meetings has been done by the missionary women. Too much emphasis can scarcely be laid on these various forms of work for woman. It is doing much to deepen and solidify Christianity in home and church.

BOOK ROOM.—The book sales are fifty per cent, more than they were last year. This doubtless is partly, though not wholly, accounted for by the location here of the college.

LITERARY WORK.—Dr. and Mrs. Mateer give their whole time to literary work, chiefly to Bible translation. In addition, Mrs. Mateer is arranging a Greek-Chinese Concordance for the use of the translators. Dr. Mateer has completed the second part of the advanced Algebra.

Dr. Bergan is working on a College edition of the Chinese Classics, with Mandarin translation, and annotations. Mr. Robert M. Mateer is preparing a Mandarin Commentary on Hebrews. Mr. Luce is preparing Notes on the Life of Christ.

ICHOU-FU STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Faris have been absent on furlough during the year, but Mr. and Mrs. Yerkes and Dr. Cunningham, the new missionaries under appointment to I-hsien, have spent the year in language study at Ichou-fu. Since mission meeting Dr. Fleming has returned on furlough, and Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have been temporarily transferred to Tsing-tau on account of the ill health of Mrs. Thompson.

EVANGELISTIC.—In the evangelistic department there is much ground for encouragement, though the numerical increase has not been so large as last year. Throughout the field there have been several cases of discipline, two of which were in the Ichowfu Church.

After the last Mission meeting, Mr. Armstrong being still at work on the language, the whole field was divided between Mr. Thompson and Mr. Chalfant; Mr. Thompson taking the territory west of the I-Suei river, which conforms, roughly speaking, to a meridian line passing through Ichow-fu city, together with the sub-station at Lich-iachwang and adjacent territory southeast of the city. Mr. Chalfant undertook the care of the territory east and northeast of the city, together with oversight of the Ichow-fu Church and the pioneer work at I-hsien.

In the whole western field a vigorous campaign has been carried on in the market towns and 2,200 tracts and Scripture portions have been sold.

It is a curious fact that we have never yet gained a substantial foothold in the territory west and southwest of Ichow-fu city. We earnestly hope and pray that the time may be at hand when out-stations will multiply on both sides of the river. It is evident that several small out-stations northwest of the city will have to be practically abandoned, at least for the present, owing to the fact that they grew out of a desire upon the part of the people to secure foreign help against the Catholics. The Boxer troubles supervened and prevented the missionaries from following up the movement promptly enough to conserve any sincere desire for the Truth there may have been in it. Nevertheless this whole western field is open to the Gospel as never before.

At the Lichiachwang sub-station the outlook is particularly encouraging. The first fruits of what we hope will be a goodly harvest are already being gathered there.

In the field east of the river there was some work done among the market towns which met with marked encouragement. Owing to experiences with the Roman Catholics, the distrust of the foreigner is very pronounced in the region between Ichow-fu and the sea, a stretch of 200 "li."

The group of out-stations northeast of and near to Ichow-fu are in a fair condition. There is especial interest in Chi I Chwang, seventy-five "li" distant, where there are a number of inquirers and candidates for baptism, largely owing to the efforts of a single earnest convert. Then comes a painful gap of nearly one hundred "li" where there are no Christians at all. Crossing this spiritual desert, which probably only needs better irrigation to produce a bountiful harvest, we come to the sub-station of Chuchow, 180 "li" (or fifty-five miles) northeast of Ichow-fu, where interest in the Gospel continues, especially outside the city. Through the instrumentality of an enthusiastic catechumen an entrance has been effected at the large market town of Mao Pu, sixty "li" north of Chuchow and nearly midway between Ichow-fu and Wei-hsien. A new sub-station has been opened at I-Suei city and two evangelists make their headquarters there.

The five organized churches in our whole field, outside of Ichow-fu city, are in fair condition, but, with one doubtful exception, they show little signs of growth. This is to be attributed in part to the depletion of their membership by the departure of their young men for Ichow-fu, Tsing-tau and other places where they hope to secure employment.

The church at Pei Tsoa Ch'wan has repaired its church edifice at considerable expense and rejoices in the possession of three big foreign lamps presented by its dutiful sons at Tsingtau. They burn so much kerosene that the deacons are aghast and permit them to be lighted only on Sunday night.

The aggregate time spent in the country by the missionaries this year amounted to 367 days.

Two men's classes of inquirers, one very large, were held at Ichow-fu in the winter, and a large class of women assembled for three weeks' instruction. Four classes of women were taught in the country by Bible women.

This summer the experiment was made of gathering in our evangelists and a few others to the number of sixteen for three weeks' instruction in Old Testament history and New Testament exegesis.

In spite of the cases of discipline mentioned above, the Ichow-fu local church is in a prosperous condition. This is largely to be attributed to the faithful work of the missionary women, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Thompson and Dr. Fleming each helping actively. A service for women, conducted by them in turn, is now held in the chapel every Sunday, and simultaneously an open-air evangelistic service for men is held in the gateway of the men's hospital, while another preaching service is conducted at the city book-room.

We are rather proud of our Sunday-school, Dr. Johnson superintendent, which has an average attendance of 120. One of the classes has been organized by its teacher into a diminutive Christian Endeavor Society.

The city chapel and book-room, under the general superintendence of Mr. Thompson, has continued to do good work. Hundreds of people have listened there to the Gospel from the missionaries and native evangelists. Hymns are sung to attract the people. The sale of books is not large, partly owing to lack of money properly to stock the shelves.

MEDICAL.—The medical department has had an unusually successful year. The out-patients seen at the two dispensaries have aggregated 22,000.

Of this number 17,000 were seen on the men's side and 5,000 on the women's side. This represents an advance over last year of 6,000 patients—5,000 men and 1,000 women. The total number of hospital patients was 315, of whom 185 were on the men's side and 130 on the women's. The aggregate increase of in-patients over last year was seventy, and would doubtless have been larger had it not been for the unavoidable interference of the building and moving operations in the women's hospital. Moreover, a number of patients were turned away from the men's hospital owing to lack of ward accommodations. Both physicians responded to frequent out-calls from the city or surrounding country. These calls amounted to 143.

In both dispensaries and both hospitals regular evangelistic work has been done. In the men's hospital a qualified evangelist has given his whole time to this work, assisted by the missionaries from time to time.

In the women's department Mrs. Johnson, with a Bible woman, has been present in the waiting-room, as a rule, each afternoon. Mrs. Thompson has done some special work of this kind in the hospital wards.

We all share Dr. Fleming's satisfaction in her new hospital and dispensary now being built with funds contributed by the Woman's Board of the Southwest.

Several country trips were made by each physician, and over 700 cases were treated in this way. Special mention may be made of the last itinerary of this kind made by Dr. Johnson, when he saw no fewer than 605 patients in five working days.

There have been in the course of the year four or five definite instances where men and women have become inquirers as a direct result of the medical work. One man on leaving the hospital said: "I came burdened with pain and sin; I go loaded with happiness." Generally speaking, there has never been a year when the religious interest has been so strong among the patients.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are no boarding schools at Ichow-fu, but we have two excellent day schools under the care, respectively of Mr. Thompson and Mrs. Johnson.

They are steadily advancing in grade, and the boys' school has had to be divided for convenience in teaching. Both schools are represented in the academies at Wei-hsien. We trust that the time is at hand when we can have a boys' and a girls' academy of our own. Our country schools, which number twelve, are in a fair condition, two or three of them being very good indeed.

As to general policy, we have made a special effort this year to keep free from entanglements with lawsuits and have been able to avoid appealing to the Magistrates except in a single case when we thought best to write a letter to terminate a case of long standing. This policy has not been carried out without friction and there have been a few cases of alienation more or less serious.

There have been received into the Church in the past year forty-nine persons, and there are 125 candidates for baptism on the rolls. The whole number of our communicant members is now 447.

CHINING-CHOU STATION.

The marriage of Mr. Alexander Waite to Miss Edna Parks, of Wei-hsien, brought a most welcome addition to the Station force.

Although situated in a malarious region, the health of the members of the Station has on the whole been good, though illness and death have saddened the year. In January, 1905, Mr. Alexander Waite had a very serious illness lasting for several weeks. In August the shadow of death again descended and little Charles Gutelius Romig passed away after a short illness. It is hard to express the deep sympathy which all feel for Mr. and Mrs. Romig in this their second bereavement.

EVANGELISTIC.—In the section north and northwest of Chining our work extends eighty miles, the farthest point being north of the Yellow river. The field includes eight hsien (counties), each having its one and sometimes more than one walled city and many hundreds of villages.

During the past year there have been only three helpers and one colporteur at work. The colporteur also preached as he sold books. These did not nearly cover the field, but had to give the greater portion of their time to small groups of inquirers.

The tour of the whole field was made this spring by Mr. Romig, who is in charge of this portion of the work. At this time sixteen adults were baptized, making a total of twenty-three Christians in this vicinity.

In several places small groups were found studying the Bible. Though there were several persecution cases during the Boxer trouble of 1900, yet these sufferers remained true, and many of their near relatives are now studying.

Since the Congregationalists are at work in Linching-chou, after consultation it has been decided to settle our boundary at the Yellow river, the Congregationalists to work on the north, while we confine our efforts to that portion south of the river. This arrangement gives us as much scope as we could wish for in our work.

The Boys' School (in Mr Romig's charge).—In this department there has been development, though the number of pupils has remained at thirty.

The scholars are now classified and all are making progress. Fewer of the pupils appear to care for English. In fact, some of those who have spent some time studying English have given it up. Three of the older pupils have expressed their desire to take the training course for helpers at Ching-chou-fu, and it is probable that these three will go to Ching-chou-fu after the Chinese New Year.

A Chinese Y. M. C. A. has been organized during the year through the influence of Mr. Shao Pao Liang, a graduate of Tengchou-fu College. Delegates attended the annual convention held at Wei-hsien.

The school has contributed to its own support very well. $293 Mex. have been raised, all of which has been spent in providing food for the boarding pupils. Nearly half of the sum has been raised by the manual work of the boys, who have spent three hours or more per day in work of different kinds. Some of the boys have learned to cut type on the pear-wood boards, and they will print a few tracts and leaves for use in preaching and teaching.

The buildings now being used for school purposes are inadequate. They are poorly furnished, badly lighted and insufficiently ventilated. The pupils are crowded into small rooms, one of which never gets the sunshine at all. This is not healthful. We cannot develop much with the present surroundings. We need a school property with well-lighted and well-ventilated buildings, so that the health of the boys may not be impaired while they are fitting themselves for life's work.

The hope of the Station is that from our school boys there may be a number who shall prepare themselves for evangelistic and educational work in the Chining field.

The Girls' School (in charge of Mrs. Romig).—A girls' day school was started at the Chinese New Year and ran for five months.

To our disappointment the teacher was forced to resign this summer. If another can be secured the school will again be opened. The Christian families are eager to educate their girls, and there is a large opportunity for such work.

Ts'ao Chow Fu Field.—During this year there has been some growth in the Church in all the different parts of Mr. Alexander Waite's Ts'ao Chow Fu field. Twenty-two have been baptized and about seventy-five enrolled as catechumens. Twenty others have been examined and put on the waiting list until the missionary can be sure of the motives.

A new school with eight boys from Christian families has been opened during this year. At Ts'u Chia Chi the Christians have subscribed seventy strings of cash for a new chapel. At this place the Church is having a healthy growth. A large percentage of the forty inquirers are women and girls. The condition of the country is one of the discouragements of this field. It is overrun by robbers who go on their raids for hundreds of li to the east and southeast. The people seem to be terrorized and the officials are indifferent or powerless to suppress them. The helpers report the "Ta Tao Hwei" (Boxers) as having sprung up in nearly all the villages of two or three hsien of the Ts'ao-chou-fu prefecture.

Feng Hsien, T'eng Hsien and Chining Fields.—This field is in charge of Mr. James Waite. There have been some discouragements, but on the other hand there have been many encouragements.

Sixty have been received into the Church; in the Chining field, eight; in the T'eng Hsien field, twenty-eight; and in the Feng Hsien field, twenty-five. In the Feng Hsien and T'eng Hsien fields there are large numbers of inquirers, some of whom are seeking protection from Catholic persecution. Only those who could pass a creditable examination before the Session have been enrolled as catechumens. Four boys' schools have been opened during the year. These schools each have eight or more boys from Christian families, and the parents of the boys pay one-half of the teachers' salaries. One of the encouragements in these two fields is the large number of women and girls who have become catechumens.

WOMAN'S WORK.—This has been most encouraging. Mrs. Romig, Mrs. James Waite and Mrs. Lyon each held a well-attended class for women from city and country.

The number of women callers at the homes of the foreign ladies has also been large, and we consider it an important part of our work in winning at least friends.

Mrs. Romig, Mrs. James Waite and Mrs. Alexander Waite have held a regular Sunday-school for the Chinese children on the Mission compound and for as many as cared to come from outside. The class has been very large. Picture cards have been given out each Sunday together with lesson leaflets.

Each Sunday a class for women has been conducted by Mrs. Lyon, to which both Christian and non-Christian women come. This class has also been very well attended.

On Thursday afternoon of each week comes to women's prayer meeting, which is entirely in charge of our good hospital Bible-woman, Mrs. Han. The number of women at the meetings is generally large, not only Christian and street women attending, but also hospital and dispensary patients.

MEDICAL.—Rose Bachman and Hunter Memorial Hospitals.—In the work of the woman's department Mrs. Lyon has assisted Dr. Lyon by being present at operations and at the daily clinics, and by personal contact with the women patients in the wards, often inviting them to our home. Statistics for the year show an increase over last year of about 4,000.

In the Rose Bachman Hospital for men there have been 4,955 new cases, 7,297 old cases, 162 in-patients, 10 out-calls, 360 suicide cases, making a total of 12,784. In the Hunter Memorial Hospital for women there have been 1,534 new cases, 1,961 old cases, 94 in-patients and 4 out-calls, making a total of 3,593.

The total number of patients for both departments was 16,377. One hundred and twenty-one operations have been performed—fifty-eight on the men's side and sixty-three on the women's. Of these fifteen have been major operations.

In the way of self-support we have made a substantial advance, the contributions, sales, and gate receipts for the year amounting to 537,000 large cash.

One evangelistic helper has been employed during the entire year, and he has been faithful in preaching daily to the dispensary and in-patients. Dr. Lyon has also led daily prayers in the hospital, and has tried at that time personally to instruct and exhort the patients.

No medical itineration has been done this year for lack of funds. The work of the hospital has been greatly hampered by the lack of a suitable equipment, and especially a men's dispensary building and operating room. These needs have now been generously met by the New York Woman's Board which has raised a special fund for this purpose.

I-HSIEN STATION.

This Station, specially supported by the East Liberty Church of Pittsburg, has not yet been formally opened, as of course the first task of the new missionaries was the learning of the language. It was deemed better for them to do this at Ichow-fu, where they could have the associations and conveniences of one of the older Stations. The senior members of the new Station, the Rev. and Mrs. Wallace S. Paris, have been in America on furlough. They are now on their way back to China, and on their arrival they, together with Mr. and Mrs. Yerkes and Dr. Cunningham, expect to go to I-hsein, where land has already been secured, and begun with vigor the permanent occupation and development of the new field. Meantime work already developed has been superintended as well as possible by visits from Ichow-fu.

Shantung Union College.—All the friends of the College mourn the death of the Rev. A. G. Jones, of the English Baptist Mission. He was from the beginning a warm friend of the union in educational work and was the Chairman of the Field Board of Directors. The report also makes regretful mention of the death of Mr. William Russell, who so efficiently superintended the work of the erecting the College buildings.

The College has had a good year, and the union is working satisfactorily—very satisfactorily indeed, considering all the problems that have to be worked out and the readjustments and adaptations that are inevitable in such an enterprise. It is already clear that the Shantung Union College is to be a very large factor in the development of new conditions in North China.

One hundred and twenty-seven students have been in attendance during the year. This means much when we consider that all of them are in the College proper, preparatory students not being included, and that the curriculum of the College is as high as that of the best colleges in America.

Of the last graduating class of ten men three are evangelists, five are teaching and two acting as literary assistants. This is a gratifying record when we consider the inducements to enter Government or other service. Analyzing the students according to their homes and Mission affiliations, we find that seventy-six are from the American Presbyterian Mission in Shantung, twenty-nine are from the English Baptist Mission in Shantung, two are from the American Baptist Mission in Shantung, two from the American Presbyterian Mission in Hainan, one from the Southern Presbyterian Mission in Kiangsu, one from the China Inland Mission in Shanhsi.

The College year has been marked by three interesting events. The first was the dedication of the Main College Building in April last. There were visitors from different districts of Shantung, five nationalities and six Missions being represented. The program covered an entire day, the chief address being delivered by Mr. Jones, whom we little dreamed was to leave us so soon.

The afternoon was occupied with a feast and many brief speeches in Chinese. A pleasant social evening, closed with prayers led by Mr. Bruce, concluded the days exercises.

The graduation of the sixth class took place in June. The local officials were present, and the Magistrate, Mr. Sung, addressed a few words of exhortation to the class. Hereafter the classes will complete their course at the close of the Chinese year.

The third event worthy of being chronicled was the summer Y. M. C. A. Conference which assembled at the College during August. The session lasted six days. Besides eleven missionaries there were sixty-seven Chinese, of whom forty-nine were regular and eighteen visiting delegates, thus making it three times as large as last year's conference held in Tsing-tau. There were meetings for prayer and conference daily at 6.30, 8.30 and 11 A. M. In the afternoon, an hour's private study in the Bible was given. Later there were out-door games and athletic sports, in which both Chinese and foreigners, teachers and students, took part. There was a daily life-work meeting at 6 P. M. The evenings from 7.15 to 8.15, were devoted to delegation meetings, in which the work of the day was gathered up and personally applied. On Sunday afternoons the delegates were divided into four evangelistic bands, occupying four positions inside the city, where they preached to large and respectful crowds.

The College students present were much impressed and helped by the Conference.

The devotional services at which the attendance of all students is required number fifteen weekly.

The College Y. M. C. A. has a membership of ninety-eight. Five or six students generally take voluntary part at the meetings. Every evening, at 9 P. M., the members separate into nine classes and spend a short time in Bible study. Every Sunday morning from ten to fifteen of the members go into the villages and hold services where there are Christians, while in the afternoon a similar number go into the city and preach to outsiders. Over twenty members have resolved to keep the "Morning Watch," which consists in rising before College requirements in the morning and spending a season in prayer and Scripture reading. We may say, therefore, that the religious life of the students is sincere and fruitful in good works.

There is also in the College an educational society, known as the Shue shu Hwei. It was established many years ago at Teng-chou, the organization being now entirely in the hands of the Chinese and the funds coming largely from graduates of the Teng-chou College. The society supports at present a school about seven miles from Wei-hsien in the village of Waerh, having two teachers and twenty-five pupils.

In the department of Religious Instruction there are 22 classes weekly, in that of Chinese Language and Literature 71, in Natural Sciences 19, in Mathematical Sciences 57, in Philosophy and History 27, making a total of 197 recitations weekly, or an average of 39 each day.

Saturday forenoons are spent in the preparations of essays and the cultivation of penmanship. Saturday afternoon is a half holiday. As each head of a department will present the Directors with a personal report, more on this point will not be added here.

The one regrettable incident during the year was a temporary bad feeling between the students of the two Missions at the close of the spring term, ending in the defection of the Baptist students from the college. The pastors, native and foreign, came, however, to the rescue, the matters in dispute were gradually adjusted, and on the opening evening of the autumn term there was a special College prayer meeting held, at which were present, in addition to the Faculty and students, one Baptist Chinese pastor and one Baptist deacon, also two Presbyterian Chinese pastors, all of whom addressed the students with excellent effect. Baptist and Presbyterian students having during the autumn term been made room-mates, their mutual acquaintance has been facilitated and no further trouble experienced.

Literary Work:

The following books have been reduplicated in aniline ink for the use of the students: A Treatise on Zoology by Messrs. Couling and Sung; Mr. Bruce's Compend of Logic, under the direction of Mr. Burt, and Readings in Chinese General and Mandarin Literature, compiled by Mr. Bergen. The latter has also printed at the College Press a few copies of Readings in Chinese Philosophy with Introduction, and Mr. Liu Gwang Djao has completed books on Navigation and Geometry. Mr. Be Yu Djang has in hand also a book on Geology, with special reference to the Geology of Shantung. The meteorological record for the year is incomplete owing to the unfortunate breaking of the thermometers. College circulars in English and Chinese were prepared in accordance with the action of the Directors, 250 copies in each language. They have been widely circulated in Shantung, and the English edition also to some extent in other parts of China. The supply is about exhausted, and we request the Directors to authorize a reprint, with the introduction of any minor changes which may appear desirable.

College Plant:

We mention, first of all, and with sincere gratitude, the fact that Mr. John H. Converse, of Philadelphia, has made a gift to the College of $5,000 gold, for the erection of our much-desired and needed Science Hall. We record herewith our hearty thanks to Mr. Converse for his very generous gift, which has reached us at so opportune a time, just as the Chinese are experiencing more keenly than ever before their need for Western learning. The numerous applications pouring in upon us from circles of the population largely hitherto unreachd offer ample proof of this.

The plans for the Science Hall have been completed in their main features. The building will be rectangular, 80 by 34 feet, inside measurement. There will be a high basement containing the chemical laboratories and class-rooms. The second floor will be occupied by the Department of Physics, and the third by that of Geology and Biology. The large attic will be partly finished, so that this space, so often wasted, may be utilized.

It is hoped that the building may be occupied by the autumn term of this year.

The College library has been increased by sixty-seven thin volumes of the most famous writers of the Han and Sung dynasties, also a complete set of the Imperial Chinese Dynastic Histories in sixty large volumes.

These were purchased with money given the College by a former graduate of the Tengchou College, Dr. Liu Wei Lien, late of the Chinese navy, but now at home in a condition of almost hopeless paralysis. A number of the best Christian and scientific books lately issued have been purchased, and although they are for the most part only pamphlets, they are very useful.

Dr. Mateer has lately presented the library with a miscellaneous collection of Chinese books from his own shelves. It numbers 169 volumes, large and small, covering sixty-eight titles, including works on the Classics, History, Philosophy, and lighter literature, forming a valuable addition to our meagre collections.

Dr. Mateer has also lately purchased a powerful Ruhmkorff coil at a cost of about $500, which he places at the disposal of the Department of Physics, and this is also true of a complete X-ray apparatus. For these, and many other services done the College, we extend the Doctor our warmest thanks.

The printing office has been set in order, supplied with additional type, and a man trained to do simple printing. About 200 trees and shrubs have been planted in the College grounds within the year, most of which have survived. The aim is to secure as many as possible of the Shantung flora, thus gradually making the grounds a lesson in the botany of the province.

In a new institution like this, and particularly under the present conditions, with large demands being made upon it, the "needs", form an extensive topic.

Our great lack is that of a permanent endowment which would relieve our Missions of the burden of the support of the College. The merest beginning has been made in this direction, but we are working to this end, and by the blessing of God some day this fund will be secured. We owe much to the liberal policy and sympathetic cooperation of the Board in New York.

Fees.—There have been received during the year from 86 Presbyterian students $898.08 Mex., and from 29 Baptist students $270.84, making a total received from all students of $1168.92.

Dr. Mateer's gifts and oft-repeated assistance in the different departments of the College have been already mentioned, but we convey him here again our most hearty acknowledgments. We have also to thank Dr. Watson Hayes for his kindness in assisting us to secure another Chinese teacher.

There may now be said to exist, for the first time in the history of foreign relations with China, if we except the welcomed labors of the Jesuits at the beginning of this dynasty, a really strong and all but universal desire for Western learning. Hundreds of new schools have been opened, but with few suitable teachers. Thousands of young men are studying in Japan, in Europe and America. Supply increases the demand, and the educational wave which has swept across the empire, leaves us all but swamped by the number of young men seeking admittance to our doors.

Let us take a large view of our responsibilities as missionary educators, and plan in the fear of God to make this College an ever mightier power for good, not only within the ecclesiastical limits of our respective Missions, but throughout the province and the regions adjacent. Young men will come to us, if we will admit them, from circles hitherto unreached by us. They will appear before us in docile mood, eager to learn and prejudiced in favor of the message we have for them. How large a part we will take in the education of young Shantung rests largely with us to decide. Let us be ready to meet without vain confidence, but also without timidity, the broad demands which the impending reforms in national thought and procedure will make upon us, for these large changes mean new opportunities for Christian work of all kinds.

MISSION IN GUATEMALA.

GUATEMALA CITY: 60 miles from the seaport of San Jose; occupied 1882. Missionaries—Rev. Walker E. McBath and Rev. and Mrs. William B. Allison. Out-station: San Augustin.

QUEZALTENANGO: 125 miles northwest from Guatemala City; occupied 1898.

Miss Bodman was obliged, on account of ill health, to give up her work in Guatemala and return to the United States, leaving Mr. and Mrs. Allison alone in the work in Guatemala City, while Mr. McBath continues his work without an associate in Quezaltenango. There have been the regular preaching services in Guatemala City and Mr. McBath, in addition to the work in Quezaltenango, has visited some outlying points. He writes:

Just a week ago while passing the priest's house in San Marcos in company with the missionary of that Station we had about eight or nine stones thrown at us, but fortunately none of them struck us. Returning a few minutes later, a stone was thrown from his doorway at us and I rushed into the house after the boy who threw it and had the opportunity to preach to his reverence something of the true Gospel in the presence of some of his people. Later many of the better people of the town on hearing of it came to us repudiating his conduct toward the Christians. He is otherwise in disfavor among the decent people of the town.

The church here in Quezaltenango has grown but little in numbers during the past year and there have been many failings among the believers. There is noticeable growth among some that is encouraging enough to cheer the missionary in spite of the falling away of others.

The work at Retalhuleu has been given up indefinitely as the Mission force here has not been sufficient to provide a worker there, and until there are more missionaries on the field it would be unwise to attempt to reopen it or start any new work whatever.

Mrs. Allison has used her knowledge of medicine to help many who were in need in Mexico City and has thus won a way to the homes and hearts which otherwise would have been closed to her. Mr. Allison writes:

There is a wide open door for us among the poor people, where there will be no conflict with local physicians and where there will be no intrusion upon the territory of another. Children and poor people literally die here by the hundred without any proper medical care. The story in this line is simply pathetic, heartrending. Mrs. Allison has, with her very limited knowledge, saved the lives of many and if she had the strength could have done much for many more people, but she has had to give up this work, almost entirely.

You may know that a large proportion of the births here are out of wedlock. Young girls are led astray by the hundreds. This is the one most discouraging feature of our work. We simply must get hold of the girls as they have never been reached before.

INDIA

MISSIONS IN INDIA.

The conditions amidst which Christian missionary operations in India are carried on have undergone great changes within the past decade or two. These are most conspicuous amongst the well-to-do and educated classes of the people. To those who have more or less unconsciously, it may be, regarded as final the generalization that nothing in the East can happen quickly, a study of certain recent movements in the great Peninsula would be instructive.

The country is waking up in a most astonishing manner. The rapid spread of education, the multiplication of newspapers and other appliances of modern life, and the consequent familiarity of the people with the current life and thought of other lands, have wrought such a transformation in their ideas concerning social, political and religious questions as may be regarded as constituting a new order of things. The leaders of the people have begun to think. In spite of the heterogeneous character of the three hundred millions dwelling in the land, something very closely resembling a genuine national life is being felt and seen. Panjabi, Madras, Bengali and Hindustani foregather at the great assemblage of the National Congress once a year. Here they criticise the acts of Government, suggest reforms, and in the strongest terms, formulate demands for change. The Social Conference which also has its great annual gathering, deals with those questions which affect the domestic and social life of the population. Nowhere in the world can you find stronger or more eloquent condemnation of Child Marriage, Infanticide, the Purdah System, etc., etc., than in the resolutions of this Assembly. The conclusions reached by these active spirits, in their great conferences, are rapidly becoming the opinions of the multitude.

What is known as the Swadeshi movement has recently assumed an importance which it is not easy to measure. The movement proper is essentially an outgrowth of a most praiseworthy ambition on the part of the leaders of the people to encourage the manufacture of articles of common use within the country. In furtherance of this idea, societies have been formed and multitudes have taken vows upon themselves to refrain from the purchase and use of all goods of foreign manufacture. A tremendous impulse was given to the sentiment underlying this movement by the recent action of Lord Curzon's government in dividing the old Province of Bengal into two separate provinces, each having its own Governor and governmental machinery. The Bengalis bitterly resent this procedure, for reasons which need not now be entered upon. The indignation of Bengal against her British rulers became very intense. The cry of "India for the Indians" was raised and the Swadeshi agitation flourished apace. Many thousands bound themselves to purchase no English article of food or dress, some went so far as to destroy what they had bought in their calmer days, and others joined in an endeavor to forcibly prevent their neighbors from exercising any personal liberty in the way of engaging in any sort of commerce with the English.

The agitation flourishes most vigorously in Bengal, but throughout the country, chiefly amongst the Hindus, it has drawn into it the vast majority of the educated classes. That this feeling will prove to be of permanent significance, as a blow aimed at the British merchant, may be doubted, but that the agitation is profoundly significant of the transformation that is going on in the country does not admit of question.

Side by side and most intimately connected with these political and social movements are those which particularly relate to religious life and thought. Hindus, Mohammedans and Sikhs are organizing to stem the process of disintegration, the signs of which they have not been slow to discern. They are systematically and deliberately arming themselves against the direct and indirect influences of Christianity. They study the Anti-Christian literature of the West quite as eagerly as their own, in order to fortify themselves against the power of the Gospel. Books, newspapers and pamphlets almost innumerable are put into circulation and these convey to the multitude whatever may have in any age or country been cleverly and plausibly urged against the Christian faith.

Of all the obstacles to the progress of Christianity in this country there is perhaps no single one so formidable as that presented by the several sects which represent the spirit of compromise. They have accepted much of what Christianity has brought; some of them would cheerfully accept Christianity itself, without Christ, if that were possible. They represent so much that is lovely and of good report that the inquirer after the knowledge of God finds in the Somaj or the Anjuman a temporary, and alas! too often, a permanent resting place.

The year 1905 will stand out as an era in the history of Missions in India. The terrible earthquake in North India, overwhelming thirty thousand men, women and children in a few moments of time, will be long remembered as illustrating at once the instability of the works of man and the mighty power of God. The year was marked also as one in which the Plague wrought with greater fatality than ever before in the experience of men now living. But the event, which more than all marks this era in the history of the Church in India, was the great Revival, in which has been manifested the mighty power of the Spirit of God in many parts of the land. Beginning in the Khassia Hills of Assam, the Revival spread throughout the land, and continues in many places. While resulting in many additions to the churches from among the non-Christians, its influence was felt specially in the churches. Christians were quickened and lifted into a higher sphere of spiritual life and service, and nominal Christians were converted and made to rejoice in the knowledge of sin forgiven and the presence and power of God among them.

First, there is a renewed interest in prayer as a prime instrumentality in mission work.

A second fact of great significance is the attitude of the workers towards non-Christians. It is now that of intense sympathy. They are not regarded as Hindus and Muhammadans so much as sinful men needing and often seeking to know the Way of Life.

A third fact of very great interest, which has also come to be recognized in many places and mentioned by one and another in this report, is the unusual interest of Muhammadans in the claims of the Gospel.

Still another fact, worthy of special notice, is the increasingly large amount of Christian literature put in circulation among the people,—this too, in spite of the almost total disuse of the old fashioned colporteur.

The last point, we will mention as illustrating the new departure in our Mission work, is the expansion of the village work, much of it under the very efficient management of women.

PUNJAB MISSION.

LODIANA: near the river Sutlej, 1100 miles northwest of Calcutta; station begun 1846. Missionaries—Rev. E. P. Newton and Mrs. Newton, Rev. E. M. Wherry, D.D., and Mrs. Wherry, Rev. E. E. Fife and Mrs. Fife, Rev. J. N. Hyde, Rev. R. D. Tracy, Miss Sarah M. Wherry, Miss Emma Morris, Miss E. J. Jenks and Miss Mary C. Helm.

SAHARANPUR: 130 miles southeast of Lodiana; station begun 1836. Missionaries—Rev. C. W. Forman, M.D., and Mrs. Forman, Rev. H. C. Velte and Mrs. Velte, Rev. John Forman and Mrs. Forman, Rev. Christian Borup and Mrs. Borup, Miss Amanda M. Kerr and Miss Christine Herron.

SABATHU: in the lower Himalaya Mountains, 110 miles east of Lodiana; station begun 1836. Missionaries—M. B. Carleton, M.D., and Mrs. Carleton.

JULLUNDUR: 120 miles east of Lahore, 30 miles west of Lodiana; station begun 1846. Missionaries—Rev. C. B. Newton, D.D., Rev. Fred. J. Newton, Miss Caroline C. Downs, and Miss Margaret C. Given.

AMBALA: 55 miles southeast of Lodiana; station begun 1848. Missionaries—Rev. Reese Thackwell, D.D., and Mrs. Thackwell, Rev. F. B. McCuskey and Mrs. McCuskey, Mrs. William Calderwood, Miss J. R. Carleton, M.D., and Miss Mary E. Pratt.

LAHORE: the political center of the Punjab, 1225 miles northwest of Calcutta; station begun 1849. Missionaries—Rev. J. C. Rhea Ewing, D.D., and Mrs. Ewing, Rev. J. Harris Orbison, M.D., and Mrs. Orbison, Rev. H. D. Griswold, Ph.D., and Mrs. Griswold, Rev. Walter J. Clark and Mrs. Clark, Rev. D. J. Fleming and Mrs. Fleming, Miss Emily Marston, M.D., Miss M. J. MacDonald; out-stations at Waga, Miss Clara Thiede.

FEROZEPUR: 50 miles southwest of Lodiana; station begun 1882. Missionaries—Rev. F. J. Newton, M.D., and Mrs. Newton, Rev. R. H. Carter, Mrs. G. S. Forman, Miss M. M. Allen, M.D.

DEHRA: 47 miles east of Saharanpur; station begun 1853. Missionaries—Rev. U. S. G. Jones and Mrs. Jones, Rev. A. P. Kelso and Mrs. Kelso, Miss Emma Donaldson, Miss Sarah Vrooman, M.D., Miss Grace Woodside and Miss Alice B. Jones.

KASUR: Missionaries—Rev. A. B. Gould and Mrs. Gould.

HOSHYPUR: 45 miles north of Lodiana; station begun 1867. Laborers—Rev. K. C. Chatterjee and Mrs. Chatterjee and Miss Dora Chatterjee, M.D.

WOODSTOCK: in Landour, 15 miles east of Dehra; school begun 1847. Missionaries—Rev. H. M. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews, Miss Alice Mitchell, M.D., Miss Carrie R. Clark.

SABATHU LEPER ASYLUM, INDIA.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. Robert Morrison and Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. C. W. Forman, Rev. F. M. Wherry, D.D., and Mrs. Wherry, Miss Emily Marston, M.D., Rev. U. S. G. Jones and Mrs. Jones.

The Mission was reinforced during the year by the coming of the Rev. R. H. Carter and Miss A. M. Kerr; and lost by death Mrs. C. B. Newton, who passed away while at home on furlough; and by resignation, Mrs. John Newton, Jr.

LODIANA STATION

On the 4th of April, North India was visited by a terrible earthquake. The centre of it was in the Kangra District, where many towns and villages were totally wrecked, and it is estimated that 30,000 people lost their lives. Ludhiana was severely shaken and several buildings were wrecked. Many people had narrow escapes but no one was killed. The Mission houses were badly shaken and to some extent damaged, involving considerable expense to repair the injury. We have great reason for thanksgiving to God for our preservation from this danger.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The number of communicants in the Hindustani Church is now 130, of whom ten were added during the year. The attendance of the European community at the English service has been larger and more regular than for many years. At the Kotwali Chapel there has been regular preaching to the villagers who come up to the city. Of the village work Jaimal Singh says:

We visited four villages, whose inhabitants profess themselves to be atheists, being the followers of Gulab Dass (a noted Sikh Guru who taught atheism). Many of these now profess to believe in Jesus Christ but they are not yet prepared to be baptized.

They treated us very kindly and in my opinion they will sometime come to the point and embrace Christianity.

In August, I took Babu David Singh and Babu Yusuf with me, and undertook to visit two or three villages daily. Our plan was to go out very early in the morning and return in the afternoon. We preached in 35 villages lying along the bank of the Satluj river, where few had ever gone to preach. These villages are inhabited by Muhammadans. They are very bigoted and became furious at our preaching and were ready to beat the preachers.

Miss Jenks writes of the village work:

We were able to visit only about 125 of the 500 villages in this district but compared with former years we found more eager listeners to the message and greater sale and distribution of literature than in years before. In five villages baptisms occurred, the total number of which, including those who have come to Ja,graon for baptism, number thirty.

There has been only one reader in the training class; but he has greatly rewarded all the effort made for him. He was a Brahman faqir belonging to a wandering tribe from Hissar. Wadawa Singh found him sitting by the roadside reading. He had fulfilled eleven years of a vow he had taken to endure all kinds of physical hardships for twelve years in the hope of obtaining salvation, or, as he expressed it, "becoming a king in some future birth." Wadawa invited him to come with him and he would teach him about the True Saviour. He consented and after ten days of careful instruction, he was willing to give up his Hinduism and accept Christ as his Saviour. He seemed to find in Him the one whom he had been ignorantly seeking for many years. Wadawa Singh brought him to Jagraon, and he was baptized. Miss Wherry taught him daily for several months. He showed a most humble spirit, willing to do any work given him for his support. When the training school opened at Khanna, he was sent there, where he remained till near the close of the school. He was forcibly taken away by some of his fellow Sadhus and kept in confinement for several days. He was providentially released because of the serious illness of both his parents and while visiting them induced three of his relatives to desire to find his Saviour. They came back with him to Jagraon where they were taught for sometime and have all become Christians.

The one eager desire of these four Christians is to go to work among their own people and bring many more of them to a knowledge of their Saviour.

Of the school at Morinda she says :

It was a most inspiring school. The women shewed great eagerness to learn, and the days were too short for them to get all they wanted. Narain Singh, the blind singer from Anandpur, came to teach singing. This was a very popular part of each day's programme. One woman, who had never had any fellowship with Missionaries or Christians outside of her own village, said over and over again, "I have received new life here and will never be my old self again. I knew nothing but work and gossip, and quarreling, but now I shall never stop learning." It might also be mentioned that we taught Narain Singh to read through the primer of the Braille System of reading for the blind.

EDUCATIONAL.—Mrs. Wherry writes :

There are three schools for non-Christian girls in Ludhiana; one for Hindus, another for Mohammedans and one for Sweepers. In these schools there has been an average attendance of 75. Each school has for its head a Christian woman assisted by one or more non-Christian women either as a teacher or call-woman. The chief interest in these schools is that through them we get under our influence girls and children at an impressionable age, before they have become hardened by sin. Two of the Zenana workers serve without pay. During the year about 4,000 women have heard of the way of salvation, mostly through these voluntary workers. These figures do not include 114 women and girls, who are regularly taught two or three times a week in their zenanas, nor the 75 girls in the schools.

Christian Boys' School.—Mr. Fife reports :

The boys in the school are largely the sons of Mission or Government employees, with a sprinkling of others, many of whom are supported by or through English and American Missionaries.

Two Departments were closed during the year; the Commercial and the Weaving Departments. We were loth to close them, but as the expense of maintenance was more than the income it was felt to be necessary.

Mr. Tracy has had charge of the Lodiana Mission High School, whose enrollment has been 332 in the main school and 105 in the branch schools.

GENERAL.—Lodiana has continued to be a centre of very much literary activity, thanks to Dr. Wherry who, besides editing Nur Afshan, has published a number of books and tracts, including a valuable summary of the literature available in the English language on The Moslem Controversy.

In the Leper Asylum there have been fewer inmates than last year. The medical work in connection with the Institution is under the care of the ladies of the North India Medical School, where Dr. Noble and Dr. Fullerton of our own Church are doing invaluable work.

KHANNA STATION.

The Rev. E. P. Newton reports:

We have a church numbering forty communicants and eighty-one baptized adherents; but most of these have their homes in villages distant from three to fifteen miles and even more. Eleven adults and thirteen children were baptized during the year.

For the children, a primary boarding school was opened in 1903, having at its close seventeen children in attendance, of whom thirteen are boarders. We formerly employed a Christian woman to prepare the meals, but this arrangement has been discontinued and the duty of cooking is now assigned to six of the older children who do it in turn, two being appointed for each day. By this plan not only is money saved but the children are learning an art that will be useful to them in after life.

During the year, a new dormitory has been erected capable of accommodating twenty boys, or if necessary more; and also a comfortable airy school room, built with money subscribed for the purpose chiefly by the women's missionary societies in connection with the Ludhiana Presbytery. What we now most feel the need of is funds to enable us to provide for some kind of industrial training for the older boys.

The Summer Bible School for village workers was open from May 4, to August 28 with ten men in attendance, three being accompanied by their families. Four belonged to the Methodist Episcopal Mission in Patiala.

When the long drawn out insufferable days of dust and heat and glare, and the equally trying days of steamy heat, which characterizes the so-called rainy season, are drawing to a close: when the early morning air begins to feel cool and crisp and to give promise of better days to come, then our thoughts turn toward the godown in which the tents are stored, and we begin to lay plans for the winter campaign in the villages. So it has been this year. During the cold season of 1904-'05 I made six tours, in four of which I was accompanied by my wife, who devoted herself to visiting and teaching the women in the places where we encamped. The attitude of the people toward Christianity is in general not encouraging. Not that we meet with a great deal of active opposition. There is indeed comparatively little of this. Nor is it that the people are unfriendly. I seldom have cause of complaint on this ground. But there is an apathy with regard to spiritual things which is if possible more difficult to meet and overcome than open antagonism to the Gospel. If all who assent to our message acted on their professed convictions, forsook the old ways, and publicly confessed their faith in Christ by baptism, the triumph of God's kingdom in this country would not be long delayed. But between giving assent and renouncing all for Christ's sake there is a wide gulf which few are prepared to cross. That there is however a real interest in the minds of many and a disposition to learn more of the Gospel we have good reason to believe. This may be inferred partly from the extent to which the Scriptures and other books that contain Christian teaching are purchased.

Speaking of plague recalls a story, that was related to me by Ram Ditta a blacksmith living not far from here in the village of Kotla, which illustrates the mental and spiritual state of the Hindu, who is ignorant of or refuses to accept the blessed gospel of life, which has lightened the darkness and soothed the sorrow of countless mourners in Christian lands. 'Without God and without hope' is the Apostle's description of it. There are those even among professed Christians who tell us that it is a shame to disturb the beliefs of the Hindus. Do they not possess the ancient Vedas and Shasters, and have not pious pundits (high caste Brahmins our friends at home call them in a tone of awe) visited America and delivered charming lectures showing that Hinduism is really as good as Christianity, if not a good deal better? Is not their religion then quite sufficient for them? Perhaps so as long as the sky is clear and all goes well, though even then some people might think differently; but how does it work when death enters the home, as it always does sooner or later, and forcibly carries away one by one those with whom our souls are knit? Has it then anything to dry the tears or bring comfort to the broken heart? To this question let the following story supply the answer. It was told me in all seriousness by a man bowed down with sorrow and who was very far indeed from being in a mood to jest. It was Ram Ditta, the blacksmith of whom I have spoken. When I met him he had recently lost his son by plague. I had a long conversation with him and he laid open his heart to me. His only comfort was that the limit of a man's life is fixed, and when that limit is reached he must die. He cannot die sooner, nor can he live longer. Ram Ditta's son had reached that limit and had died and that was the end of him. What else could be expected? The operation of this law is illustrated by the following incident. Close to a certain village there grew a tree in which a ghost lived. Ghosts frequently make their homes in trees. A wealthy merchant, wishing to build himself a house, asked the villagers to sell him the tree to saw up into boards and rafters. This they refused to do, fearing they might offend its occupant and thereby bring calamity upon themselves. On his persisting however they at last told him he might if he liked cut it down on his own responsibility, but they would be no party to the transaction and would take no pay for it. He accordingly did so and built his house. On the flat roof he erected a pleasant airy little room and then calling the ghost he said to him: "Your honor has hitherto lived in great discomfort hanging on the boughs of that tree. I have cut it down, but you need not fear that you will be left homeless. This room I have built for you." The ghost was naturally very pleased with this arrangement and at once took up his abode in the merchant's house. The latter however was not so well satisfied. It was not pleasant to have a ghost sharing his house with him. These creatures are not to be trusted. They easily take offense; and it was not unlikely that he might on some slight provocation turn on him and kill him. But what was he to do? To turn him out would be fatal and he was not likely to leave such comfortable quarters of his own accord. The owner of the house had let him in originally to avoid any unpleasant consequences that might result from the cutting down of the tree, but it was not his wish that he should remain with him permanently. After much thought he at last hit on a ruse by which he succeeded in getting rid of his uncanny guest. It happened that the latter was on friendly terms with, and paid daily visits to Dharm Rae, the angel whose office it is, as men pass from this world to the next, to weigh their actions and assign them their reward or punishment. The merchant being aware of this went one day to his guest's room and said to him, "My brother there is a little favor I should like to ask you to do me if you don't mind." "Yes," said the ghost, "what is it?" "I wish," said he, "that the next time you visit Dharm Rae, you would ask him kindly to arrange for a shortening of term of life by ten or fifteen years." This was a small favor to ask and the ghost readily promised to bear it in mind. Accordingly the following day when he paid his accustomed visit, after some general conversation he mentioned the subject of the request. "My dear fellow," said Dharm Rae, "the thing is impossible. Tell him that the limit of every man's life is irrevocably fixed and until the time appointed arrives he cannot die." On his return the merchant asked him if he had remembered to present his petition. "Yes," said the ghost, "I spoke of it, but he says it is impossible to grant it. At the time appointed you will die but not before." "Then," said the merchant, "if that is the case you had better walk out of my house. I have endured your presence hitherto lest if I turned you out you might kill me, but I now understand that you have no power to do so till my time comes." And he put him out!

This is a long story, but does it not show clearly that to mourn for the dead is unreasonable? My poor old friend the blacksmith had wept till his eyes had become dim and he could not, as he told me, distinguish my face, but he tried to quiet his feelings by the reflection that his boy's time had come and it mattered little whether the end was reached by a stroke of the plague or through some other calamity. The future, he said, was all dark; and my endeavor to show him how the Gospel brings light and hope, even in the presence of death, made, I fear, little impression on his mind.

RUPAR AND PHILLOUR STATIONS.

Mr. Uppal and Mr. Golaknath, two of the most capable Hindu ministers, have charge of these fields. Mr. Uppal reports of Rupar:

We have a fund called "Chutki fund," to which all the workers including the Superintendent are expected to contribute one pice per rupee of their salary. This fund helps in part our blind singer Narain Singh at Anandpur, and the poor widows and orphans of the whole Christian community of Rupar and Morinda, and pays the travelling expenses of boys and girls sent to Saharanpur and Jagraon who are about twenty-five in number. In all the centers, the number of baptisms has been seventy-three; adults forty-four and infants twenty-nine. The whole community numbers upwards of 1100 souls.

Mr. Golaknath writes of Phillour that the general attitude of the people towards Christianity is one of marked toleration. They are not so bitter as they used to be.

JULLUNDUR STATION.

In February, Maulvi Ahmed Bakhsh, a learned Muhammadan of Kapurthala, was baptized here. He had been under Munshi Jamal ud Din's instruction for six months or more and seemed much in earnest. After his baptism, he determined to remain in Kapurthala in his position of clerk in the Household Department of the Maharajah; and accordingly he has remained there. He has been persecuted some but not as much as seemed probable.

Three regular Sunday-schools have been maintained during the year and the Boys' High School and the usual forms of work. Miss Downs and Miss Given report five girls' schools, with 205 pupils and 51 Zenana pupils.

The work of the Golaknath Memorial Church has been carried on as it was during the latter part of the preceding year. Rev. H. Golaknath of Phillour, the two elders and Rev. Fred. Newton taking turns in conducting the Sunday services. Mr. J. Basten has, as a rule, conducted the Wednesday afternoon prayer meetings. The effort to secure a native Indian pastor, which was being made when Dr. Newton left on furlough, has been continued and now seems on the point of being crowned with success. With the securing of a native pastor, largely supported by the Church itself, we hope the Church membership will feel its responsibility more and manifest greater activity in Christian work.

There has been, we believe, more general preaching and evangelistic work during the past than during the preceding year. Mr. John C. Newton and Licentiate Khazan Singh have both carried on regular preaching in Jullundur city. At two melas, the Mohammedan mela of Iman Nasir and the Hindu Dosehra mela (religious fair), a special effort has been made to preach to the multitudes of religious devotees and pleasure seekers who have flocked together. We cannot claim to have had as large crowds in the first mela as there were at the wrestling matches which took place at that time and which were thronged with eager spectators, but our listeners, although comparatively few, were generally speaking, attentive and peaceable. At the Dosehra mela we had a small tent pitched close to one of the main thoroughfares, with matting spread in front and some benches to sit on. With this arrangement we were able to gather better crowds than we had succeeded in collecting before. The members of the Arya Samaj had a preaching stand right alongside of ours, but although they seemed anxious for a public debate on religious questions, they were not as insistent as they had been before and we got along very well together.

HOSHYARPUR STATION.

Dr. Chatterjee writes:

In presenting our report of the progress of mission work for the last year, we have to record with deep sorrow the death of Sain Gamu Shah. He was associated with us in the work of the Lord for the last thirty years, and did devoted and faithful service all the time. He was the main instrument in the hand of God for bringing the Rajput Zamindars of Ghorawaha to Christ. A very full account of his conversion and the circumstances attending it was given in our report for the year 1874. So we shall not repeat it here. He was a man of simple faith, and died on October 26, at the ripe old age of eighty years, rejoicing in the hope of the life to come.

The attitude of the city people towards Christianity is the same as it was last year. It is friendly, and no more.

The young and the educated amongst them are taking to Theosophy, and endeavoring to find in its doctrine of the Fatherhood of God, and Brotherhood of man satisfaction for the religious longings of their souls. Several young men earnestly enquired into the truth of Christianity, and read portions of the Bible with me.

The village work continues to be the most encouraging branch of our work. It has been carried on from eight different centers, and by the same agents as before. The number of baptisms in connection with this work has been 346, of whom 224 were adults, and 122 children under twelve years of age. They were all from the depressed classes.

There is only one organized church in the district containing 900 communicants, and 647 baptized adults and children making a Christian community of 1,547 souls. About 120 of these are from the upper classes of Hindus and Mohammedans and the rest from the depressed classes. For the edification of this body, services have been held on Sundays and weekdays in seven different places. The average attendance on these has been 800. There are eight Sunday-schools connected with the Church with a membership of 800.

The Girl's Orphanage and Boarding School.—There were sixty-one girls on the roll at the beginning of the year. Four girls finished their course and left the school in August, but three new ones came in their place in October. So at the close of the year we had only fifty-eight on the roll. Of these forty-one were full orphans, five half orphans, and twelve had both parents alive.

Special attention is paid to industrial work suitable to girls. Plain sewing, knitting, lace-making and drawn-thread work form different branches of their industry.

Dr. Dora Chatterjee has continued in charge of the Denny Hospital for women and children. There were twenty-nine indoor patients, who were afflicted with various diseases and returned home perfectly cured. The number of out-patients in the dispensary was 8,226, and the number of visits paid by them was 19,765.

LAHORE STATION.

The Station met with a heavy loss during the year, in the death of Mrs. S. M. Datta, who was one of the most prominent members of the Indian Christian community in the Punjab, and was regarded with the highest esteem by people of all classes. Her father, Dr. R. C. Bose, was baptized in Lahore by Mr. Forman when he was seven years of age. She herself was baptized by Mr. Forman at the age of fourteen. Nearly the whole of her life was spent in this province and she has left a lasting impression here. She was a woman of marked personality; refined, gracious, and stately in demeanor; and fitted to shine in any society. She was respected alike by Europeans and Indians. She lived a beautiful and useful Christian life; and her end, though sudden (she died of cholera), was full of peace. She had scores of friends among the women of Lahore, especially among the educated Hindu and Mohammedan ladies of the city, whom she used to visit regularly as part of her missionary work. They regarded her with the deepest affection, and large numbers of them begged to be allowed one last look upon her face as she lay in her coffin. She leaves two daughters and one son, who is studying medicine at Edinburgh University and is thinking of giving himself to some form of mission work.

Forman Christian College.—Dr. Ewing reports :

The number of students upon the rolls of the College, on October 31, was 393, of whom twenty-one are members of the Master of Arts Class, sixty-four of the Senior, sixty-six of the Junior, 130 of the Sophomore and 122 of the Freshman class.

In the University examinations, our men made a very creditable showing indeed, in the M. A., B. A., B. Sc. and Intermediate tests. These good results have been followed by the inevitable consequence, in that they have attracted large numbers of new students to our institution. It continues to be the most largely attended College in the Province.

During the year, a new Gymnasium has been completed and paid for from tuition fees and a Government grant. It may be mentioned, that the College has received during the past four years Rs. 48,000 for buildings, Rs. 5,400 annually for current expenses, Rs. 1000 a special grant for our Library, and Rs. 1625 for physical science apparatus. In addition to these money grants, we have been given the free use of two fine pieces of land, near the College, as athletic grounds. We owe a great debt of gratitude to the Government of the Panjab for this practical sympathy with the work being done by this Institution. Our Boarding Houses are filled to overflowing, there being 160 residents in the Newton Hall, forty in the old Hostel, besides the thirty-one Christian students most of whom are accommodated in the Kennedy Hall and the St. John's Hostel, the latter being under the management of the missionaries of the Church Missionary Society.

It is the constant effort of the Professors to come into personal contact, as far as may be possible, with the men. One period of each day is devoted to the teaching of the Word of God. At that time the entire body of students is divided into eight classes, each class being under the charge of a Christian professor. In addition to this, frequent public addresses upon Christian themes, are heard by our men, and numerous personal interviews with their teachers afford excellent opportunities for impressing upon them the lessons which we desire that they should learn.

The opportunity furnished by the College for representing to the educated classes of the Province the Spirit and teaching of Christ is unique. The men come to us from all quarters of the Panjab, and return after years of life spent under these influences, to carry with them many of those ideas which are working mighty changes in the thought of the entire people. One's appreciation of the magnitude of our responsibility grows as the influence of the College increases. The year has brought to us some important lessons. One of the best things of these months has been the few moments spent in united prayer, every morning immediately before entering their class-rooms, by a number of the Christian professors. The prosperity and popularity of the College as an educational agency has been and is great. We are profoundly thankful to God for what He has wrought in the lives of our students in the years that are past.

The Rang Mahal School.—This has been under the care of the Mission Treasurer, Mr. Clark.

The number of scholars enrolled in the school and its four branches on the 30th September was 991, being eighteen more than a year ago but still 145 less than two years ago. One of the classes in the Primary Department is so large as to require division into four sections.

The Sunday-school connected with the Rang Mahal has an average attendance of 400, and many of the boys show much interest. A majority of the teachers are young men from the hostels connected with the Mission College and the C. M. S. Divinity College.

Mrs. Ewing has supervised the united Mohammedan Girls' School, and until her withdrawal from the Mission, Mrs. Gilbertson the Hindu Girls' School.

MEDICAL WORK.—The Delhi Gate Mission Dispensary, under Dr. Marston's care shows an attendance for the year of 10,900.

A new worker, Kiman Bibi, came to do evangelistic work. She has a very interesting history. About twelve years ago, a girl about fifteen years of age was brought to the Ambala Mission dispensary. She was so badly crippled from rheumatism that she could not walk, and had been neglected and uncared for by her relatives. Her parents died when she was a child. So far as I remember, her relatives did not trouble themselves any more about her. She was sent to Lucknow to the Home of the Homeless—as we could not take care of her. In the course of time, while in the Home, she became a Christian. She was still in the same helpless state and was wasting away from chronic disease. One day while asleep she had a vision of Christ coming and telling her to read the first verse of the 14th Chapter of John. She awoke and felt that she must get up and walk. With great difficulty she got on her feet, and walked across the room. This occurred some eight years ago, and she has never been ill since that time. She received training in the Muthra Praying Home and has been a woman for several years. Her faith is very strong, and she has had encouragement in the work at the dispensary. One often sees a group of women standing round her and talking long after they have had their medicines and are ready to go.

One hears many sad stories, but there are bright faces also to be seen, though these are very rare among the older women. I have thought that it was not possible to find in the world sadder, more hopeless faces than are to be seen among elderly Hindu women. The term of work in Lahore has had much of enjoyment as well as sadness. There are women I know whom it is easy to love, and I am sorry to part from them.

Zenana and village work and chapel preaching have gone on as heretofore.

AMBALA STATION.

The City Mission High School.—The Head Master, Mr. Ghose, writes:

The Ambala City Mission High School was established in 1854 by the Ludhiana Mission, to impart English education to the boys of this city, when there was not a single Vernacular or Anglo Vernacular school in this district. The school counts among its alumni Extra Assistant Commissioners, Tahsildars, Munsifs, Barristers, Pleaders, Assistant Surgeons, Engineers, and men of other professions. It has an encouraging past, and the out-look is the same.

The number of boys at the close of the school year was 539, being an increase of thirty-eight since last year.

We have the largest Boarding House in the District, containing eighty-five boarders.

Our chief aim is not to impart secular education and prepare boys only for the Departmental and University Examinations, but to set before them the blessed truth and teachings of the Holy Scriptures. For this purpose regular Bible instruction is given to all the classes, from the Infant to the Entrance, besides the Sunday-school lessons are taught week by week when boys and teachers all attend.

Girls' Schools and Zenanas.—Miss Pratt reports :

Most of the past year our Hindu school has been a source of much interest and, I confess, occasionally of anxiety. A number of the leading Aryas have become very restless about the influence of our teaching upon their daughters and have opposed us in various ways. "It is your religion Miss Sahib, it is your religion." Again and again has this been said to me. "You have taken great pains with my daughter and she has made fine progress," said one man, "But you see, it is the difference of religion." We still have a roll call of forty-five girls; and Mrs. Durga Parshad is doing good, faithful work.

To our teaching staff, we have added two from our own graduates, one in each school, and are most pleased to keep them with us.

Mr. McCuskey and the Rev. Asanand Rae were much in the district preaching at big non-Christian melas. Sixty-seven persons were baptized, most of whom are from the sweeper caste. Two of the converts were faqirs, one having been educated in our Mission School at Lahore and having passed the Entrance Examination.

One hundred and eighty-three boys were enrolled in the Cantonment Middle School.

Of her work in the zenanas in the Cantonment, Mrs. Calderwood writes :

One forenoon, my work in zenanas had been rather discouraging, and on my way home I looked in upon the Head Master's children, who had quite recently lost their mother. It was a treat to see the rooms neatly settled, and the oldest daughter teaching her youngest sister to read Persian Urdu, while at the same time her busy fingers were working a sewing machine, at which she was making clothing for her brothers.

I told the girl how this pleasant sight had cheered me up, and to prove to her the reality of my appreciation, I went to a shop and bought her an English-made morocco leather work-box, fitted with the latest of sewing requisites.

She was greatly pleased with my gift, and spoke in high terms of gratitude of the Dehra School for "Native Christians' daughters," where she had been educated, and where she is now a pupil teacher herself.

The difference between Christian and heathen homes had never before struck me so forcibly. My work that morning had been amongst the wives and daughters of the Baniya caste (corn merchants), who, it must be admitted, seem to do all they can to make work amongst them unpleasant and discouraging. As a rule, the houses and their inhabitants are very filthy, and the noise in most houses of this caste is indescribable. The mistresses and their servants do all their talking by shouting at each other, and the women folk amongst themselves talk in high pitched voices, and the abusive language they use, at the slightest provocation, is disgusting. Yet they are eager to learn, and listen to Gospel messages, and to the singing of hymns,—if you can wait long and patiently enough for your turn to talk, and to be listened to, or if you are bold enough to stop their chattering for a while, till you have had your "say."

A few months ago, an English lady said to me, "What becomes of the daughters of your Native Christians? You do not train them up to be servants. What becomes of them?"

"Well," I said, "if you are really anxious to know more about them, I will ask the daughter of our native pastor to come and see me, and if you like to have a look at her, you can come to my room while she is there, or I can take her to see you." The next day the girl came to me, and I gave the lady an opportunity of seeing her. To begin with, she was astonished at the good English the girl spoke, and was charmed with the ease with which she repeated a piece of poetry in English. The lady also remarked on the girl's nice modest bearing, which had none of the queer shyness, which, as a rule, girls in this country have. She questioned the girl as to all her studies, and was highly pleased when I told her, that this mere child did all the cooking for her father and brothers, during her vacation at home. This girl's mother died many years ago, and all she is, she owes to that excellent school in Dehra Doon for Christian girls.

I believe that those of us, whose work lies chiefly amongst Hindu and Mohammedan women and girls appreciate most of all the un-describable good done by that school, and what speaks volumes for it, that girls' brought up there, love the place all their lives.

The medical work in the Philadelphia Hospital for Women has continued under the care of Dr. Jessica Carleton.

SABATHU STATION.

Dr. Marcus Carleton writes:

The evangelistic work in the Station has been carried on by means of a weekly magic lantern display of pictures and talks on the Bible (chiefly on the life of Christ), and from house to house and personal work and the distribution of leaflets and papers. For more than a year the military authorities have stopped all preaching in the Bazar, giving us their reason that a crowd gathering may cause trouble. A row may take place especially, should soldiers, the worse for drink, happen to come along. So far as I know, this is the first time such an order has been issued during the entire history of the work of the Mission in this place, about seventy years.

One cause of this order was the spirit of opposition shown by the Aryas, a few of whom in recent years have come into the station and are bitterly opposed to Christianity, as well as to the orthodox Hindus, with whom they had more than one row. An Arya preacher bitterly and slanderously assailed the orthodox Hindus, who appealed to the

Magistrate, with the result that order was issued stopping all preaching in public places; and though I contended that such an order should not apply to Christians, as the Christian preachers were careful never to say one word against any of the other religions, yet I could not get the order modified in favor of our preaching.

MEDICAL WORK.—

The increase in number of surgical cases, especially, has been noticeable. Foreign surgery appeals to these people, but our system of medicine is not considered equal to their own. Hence they visit all their villages—and even distant village quacks—who usually belong to the two extremes of society, the Brahmin and the Chamar or other very low castes. When given up by their own herb and charm doctors, and having sacrificed any number of goats and sheep to their gods and goddesses, then, and only then, they seek our aid. By that time they are too weak to walk and so have to be carried. For that reason we have an unusual number of what we have named “chakwas” or “carried ones.” They come in dolies carried by four, others come tied in a blanket to a pole and are carried by two. Still others are carried on the backs of others, or come on bedsteads, or come sitting on small stools hung from a pole, or they come riding on horses and mules! The sight is often amusing, and always sad. Often they come in such a low condition, with hardly a hope of saving life, that I have sometimes asked if they have brought the patient for me to furnish the wood for the funeral pyre. Seeing they have spent months, and may be years, in trying their own quackery and when life is almost gone, the patient is brought to the foreign doctor. Charms, blistering, cupping and blood letting are the usual means used to work a cure.

The number of out-door patients has been 2,000 separate cases. The visits were over 6,000. In-door patients, not counting the inmates of the asylum, 224 and operations 107. Besides the above numbers from ten to fifteen lepers need daily medical and surgical care, some coming to the dispensary and others seen in their rooms.

Leper Asylum.—Among the hundred or more lepers, four have been Europeans.

Daily morning prayers are conducted with the lepers, at which all who are able to walk are present, Christians and non-Christian alike. Fifteen lepers came forward for the All Indian Sunday-school examination and all passed, most of them receiving high marks. Six persons were baptized. The number of Christians now is more than of non-Christians. No difference is made in the general care and treatment of Christians and non-Christians. Nine deaths occurred.

A home for untrained children of lepers was opened during the year, a short distance from the asylum; and we have had five inmates: four boys and a baby girl. The funds for the erection of the building were provided by the “Mission to Lepers in India and the East,” to whom our thanks are due.

Dr. Carleton concludes his report, saying:

Every day we see and hear of the working of God's Spirit in the lives of the Christian community, and not only in the Christian community, but every where throughout the heathen and Mohammedan world. The truths of Christianity are spreading and permeating the very thoughts and language of the people. Not long ago, at a mela here, several members of the Arya community distributed pamphlets, one of which gave a long description of the founding and progress of the C. M. S. Mission in the Panjab and advised the Hindu community to awake and follow their example, or before long the whole of the Panjab will become Christian.

In the leading Hindu paper of the Panjab, I saw the statement, that to obtain political privileges, "the nation must become Christian, a big price to pay, but the only thing to do." So straws are telling which way the wind of heaven is surely blowing.

FEROZEPORE STATION.

Dr. F. J. Newton writes :

An article appeared in the Tribune, an American paper, which made merry of missions to Mohammedans, and said that never a convert had yet been made from that faith to Christianity. I read it, and wrote a reply, stating certain facts in refutation, but this the editor did not see fit to publish. But then as to converts; there are converts of a kind that can be made easily enough with the help of a little cash, or the promise of a good living, and these may be from any class or religion. This is not incredible, when you consider how many there are who sell their souls for a few rupees, or even a few annas, by giving false evidence in the courts and swearing away the very lives of their fellow men. Men like these would find no bar to their becoming Christians, if they were paid for it. The chance of bettering circumstances has no doubt led some to adopt Christianity as a creed. Occasionally we are deceived by them. But what we aim at is to lead men to repentance and to Christ, that Christianity may be more a life to them than a creed.

In reference to the Mohammedans,— the Ahl i Islam,—in most of the essentials of their faith, they are theoretically much nearer to Christianity than the Hindus are. The Pantheism of the latter, with the blank atheism of some of the sects, is chilling. Their whole manner of thought is foreign to the teaching of the Gospels, and the plain prose narrative of these has little attraction for them. They do not contain enough of the metaphysical and speculative. The sonorous rhythm and rhyme too of their inspired writings is missed. That in itself, I think, goes far—as in the Granth of the Sikhs too—towards making an impression. The Mohanmedans, I say, are nearer to us in the essentials of their beliefs; yet the superstition and idolatry, into which the masses to them are fallen, as well as certain preconceived notions in reference to questions of Revelation and Inspiration, put a great barrier between us. By idolatry is meant, not worship of idols, but of saints and relics and tombs. It matters little what the character of the saint may have been in his lifetime; he is canonized any way after death. A lunatic or an idiot is sometimes canonized.

A poor filthy idiotic old woman we used to see hovering about the bazars of Ferozepore a few years ago, is now dead and has a monument over her grave. An annual mela—or gathering—is now held at the spot, where hundreds of Muslim men and women go with offerings of cash and grain, which they lay upon the tomb. In return she is expected to grant their petitions for earthly favors, such as children and cattle and success in business and the like.

Yet one meets with some, who are true to their creed, and honest in their lives. To say they are pious would be no commendation. There is an abundance of piety, such as it is. There is a lot of Pharisism.

I used to engage with much zest in the Mohammedan controversy in my early years in India. I avoid it now. As a rule little good comes of it.

They care little what one believes, not even though he believe in Christ, so long as he keeps quiet or is not baptized, or does not break caste. The Mohammedans really have no caste, they are distinctly allowed by their scriptures to eat with the Ahl i Kitab, the people of the Book, which means Christians and Jews. Nevertheless, they are for the most part so Hinduized, that the masses of them as strictly abstain from food touched by a Christian, as the Hindus do.

I have friends among them and do not doubt the sincerity of very many. Among my acquaintances are men of clean lives, who might put to shame many a so-called Christian. We try to appreciate the good in those, whose religious tenets do not agree with ours, while yet seeking to show them what we believe to be a more excellent way. I feel a sincere sympathy for those, whether Hindus or Musalmans, who grieve over what they regard as an apostasy, when one of their friends becomes a Christian, while yet not approving of the manner in which that grief is sometimes displayed. If we put ourselves in their places, we may easily imagine what our feelings would be in the same circumstances.

Yet the very words of the Lord are, "I came not to send peace on earth, but a sword." How much easier and pleasanter it would be to pursue in peace our philanthropic work of healing the sick, or of educating and training the children to a higher and purer standard of life. But this alone is not our mission, as it was not that of the Lord Himself.

In Mrs. Forman's girls' school twenty-six were enrolled. She reports that the work in the zenanas is most encouraging at the present time.

Woman's Hospital.—Besides the Christian women in the hospital, Dr. Allen reports:

There are some Hindu widows who were placed here at the request of a Hindu gentleman, and more immediately in Dr. Allen's care. The terms were that he himself should be responsible for their living expenses, while we should be at liberty to teach them what we chose, there being only one negative condition, namely, that they should not be baptized, in case they should make up their minds to be Christians, at least while under his patronage. These terms, we accepted readily enough. They live in the Womens' Hospital, where they receive lessons in reading and writing and the Scriptures. Miss V— is a daughter of the gentleman referred to. She is a Christian, baptized some years ago, and takes a keen interest in teaching others. She too lives with the rest and helps in their instruction, at the same time taking lessons herself in the art of midwifery. She it was that was instrumental in the rescue of one of these women, a Brahmani by caste. In the character of this latter, a marked change has been wrought. She is truly converted, if one may judge from the very simplicity and earnestness of her prayers, and the quietness and gentleness of her bearing. She asked to be taught a certain hymn, in which the words occur, "When all other did forsake me, then Christ, the Lord, did take me up." This, she said, exactly describes my experience. There is a curious little dwarf in this circle of women, for whom Pahli,—that is her name—had no strong liking, and who was not popular with the others either. She was rather an uncouth, loud little dwarf, and unpopular in consequence. She was somewhat quarrelsome too, and not being pleased with this new life, with its restraints, ran away. She ran away twice, but both times came back of her own accord. We hope she is going to stay now. The Brahmani, Pahlī, tried hard to overcome her repugnance to this little thing (she is only three feet high), and often prayed, "The Lord help me to love Kesuri" that was the dwarf's name,—and this prayer has been answered for the two live in harmony, and Kesuri seems happy in her relations with the Brahmani.

It is a rule in the Hospital to hold evening prayers, when there are indoor patients, in the chief wards. There is the reading of the Scriptures, a hymn and a prayer, and those of the patients who can leave their beds gather around, some from curiosity, some with real interest in what they hear, and all attracted by the singing, to which the women are very partial. Singing among Muhammadans is confined to professionals and consists chiefly of lewd and love songs, or what they call wahiyat songs. Hymns of praise in worship are entirely unknown. Singing of this kind is therefore a surprise to them.

The list of patients for the year is as follows: Indoor patients 206, outdoor patients 4,635; actual number of visits 5,778. There has been an increase of indoor patients during the year, the number for 1904 being 182.

The list of the patients in the city Dispensary is as follows:

New patients—Males.....	4,041
“ “ —Females .....	1,640
	5,681
Children, Males.....	687
Females .....	374
	1,061
Indoor patients.....	37
Surgical operations—Major.....	25
“ “ —Minor .....	387

SAHARANPUR STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mr. John Forman writes:

Late in March, Rev. B. B. Roy and myself, and about ten students went to the Hardwar Mela. About 100,000 pilgrims had collected at this place, and the sight of the people, all spiritually destitute, some coming for pleasure, others with a sincere desire to find salvation, was sadly impressive. It would be hard to forget the sight of one poor old woman, who was tottering along with the help of a young man. What had she come for? Her time to leave this world had nearly arrived, and she must do something to prepare for the great change. Knowing no better way, she had come to wash away her sins in the Ganges. Others there were no doubt, who with no great confidence in the river's saving power, had come under the sense of some need which they desired to have satisfied.

Since returning from furlough Dr. C. W. Forman has taken up work in the district, using a novel traveling conveyance. He writes :

The District of Saharanpur with its 2,000 square miles and more than one million inhabitants is occupied by our Mission at six important centres. Faithful work has been done at each of these stations. The surrounding villages have been regularly visited by our preachers; and there are small communities of Christians at the following places; viz. Sarsawa, Rampur, Gungoh, Garhi Behat, and Nagal. Two small schools for the education of Christian children exist, and we hope that others may be opened during the coming year.

This year about forty adults have been baptised in the villages, and ten in Saharanpur itself. These all belonged to the sweeper caste. The confession of the eunuch to Philip, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God," is all that we have divine authority for demanding of any penitent believer in order to be baptised. Christ requires no more, and it is not necessary to know and believe more, in order to participate in His great salvation. It afterwards becomes our duty to instruct and build up in the faith all who have confessed their belief in this saving truth. The care of this world is to be prevented from choking the word so that it becomes unfruitful. There is too the spirit of persecution, which in a hundred petty ways is shown by the surrounding Hindus and Muhammadans. The danger of too readily interfering for the defence of our new converts; and the opposite one of appearing indifferent to their troubles, many of which are the direct result of their confession of Christ, are both to be guarded against. Such problems will arise less frequently, as our Christians become stronger and more self-reliant.

With money, provided through the kind offices of Dr. H. A. Nelson (the former honored editor of the Church at Home and Abroad), a gospel van has been built, which has removed many of the difficulties connected with itinerant work. The van is supplied with medicine shelves, a bed, a writing table, compounding table, bath-room, etc.

Everything required for our own comfort and for the needs of the work is at hand and ready for use. When the time to advance comes, no packing has to be done. On the top of the van, we carry a small tent, which provides accommodation for the three or four other members of the party. Each one puts his own belongings either inside or on top, and there is still room for all who wish to ride. On arrival at our destination, the tent is soon pitched; and often within an hour the evangelistic force of the party has gone into the village to reconnoitre. Intimation is given to those we meet, that on the following day the Doctor will be ready to prescribe for any who are so unfortunate as to require his services. The morning always finds a goodly number assembled, who belong to this class; and they usually increase each day during our stay. The afternoon is occupied with more preaching and attending to struggling patients, who were so unfortunate as not to get the news soon enough to attend in the morning. In the evening our rule is to go to the Sweeper or Chamar quarters of the village to preach. As at this time the day's work is over and the people have finished their evening meal, we are generally rewarded by getting a good number of hearers.

Certainly there is a marked contrast between the receptive state of the minds of these low castes, compared with the bigoted opposition of Hindus and Muhammadans in general. May God add his blessing to our efforts to bring these, the outcasts of India, to Christ.

Mr. Velte has charge of the English work in the Station.

Of the Hindustani Church and Sunday-school, Mr. John Forman writes :

An effort recently made by the Endeavour Society in the direction of self-support, and teaching the dignity of manual labour, may be worthy of notice. Instead of depending on the Mission to provide a church bearer, they have resolved to do the bearer's work themselves. It was an unusual sight to see an Indian Christian young man, a graduate of the Calcutta University, and a Brahman convert, ringing the church bell in the presence of the congregation.

Theological Seminary.—The Seminary is under the care of Mr. Velte and Mr. Forman.

Five men of the Senior Class graduated, two receiving diplomas, and three certificates. All of these have taken up work in connection with our Missions. In all, twenty-five men were enrolled during the year, but we were not able to keep them all. Some dropped out on account of ill health, others came under discipline and had to be sent away. However painful this was to us, we were thankful to be rid of men, whom God had not chosen, and only regretted that they had ever been admitted to the Seminary.

At the end of the year, in July, nineteen students were in attendance. Of these, eleven belonged to the Panjab Mission, six to the North India Mission, the remaining two came from other Missions. This is a small number, but it is not large numbers we want so much as men chosen of God and filled with the Holy Spirit. And we thank God for the assurance He has given us, that many of our students are men chosen by Him, and for the deep longing He has awakened in them to be filled with the Spirit. We have no greater cause for praise than this; that we can see the beginning of an awakening in the Seminary.

We have recently been informed that the Rev. Colin Valentine, LL.D., F. R. S. E., late Principal of the Agra Medical Missionary Institution, and during his lifetime a warm friend of the Seminary, has left us by bequest the sum of Rs. 1,000, the interest of which is to be used in the way of prizes to students. We are thankful for this beginning of an endowment.

Mrs. Forman has had charge of the Women's School, made up of the wives of the Seminary students.

Industrial School and Orphanage.—Mr. Borup reports :

At the present time there are 144 boys in the Industrial School and Orphanage, of which thirty-six boys are learning carpentry; fifteen boys shoe-making; ten tailoring; five blacksmithing; two gardening and one cooking.

The rest of the boys are still too young to be admitted to the Industrial Departments, and are at present studying in the different classes in the school connected with the Orphanage.

Several of the older boys have begun to visit the surrounding villages on Sunday afternoons, of their own accord, for the purpose of holding religious meetings and Sunday-schools. Some of these boys have become a great help in the work, and are helping in looking after the smaller children.

Of the Girls' School work Mrs. Velte writes:

When I left for the hills in the middle of August, we had 158 girls on the roll; seventy-six of these being Mohammedans. But two Delhi Maulvies came up to Saharanpur for their holidays and began to busy themselves in working against us, and succeeded in frightening away forty of our girls. We are rejoiced to report that they are beginning to come back, since those gentlemen have gone back to Delhi. We hope we may before long gather in all whom they managed to take away. The fault they had to find was one, which is calculated to inspire us with joy and not with sorrow, in as much as it was that of accusing the children of singing hymns in their own homes and "learning to become Christians."

The Leper Asylum.—There are twenty-five inmates in the two wards of the Leper Asylum about three miles apart.

DEHRA STATION.

Mr. Jones has been in charge of the general work of the Station during the year, the School continuing under the admirable supervision of Miss Donaldson. The membership of the Hindustani Church is seventy-nine, four adults having been added during the year on confession. The English congregation is made up fully one-half of Indian Christians who understand English. Among them are fifty girls from the Girls' School.

The Christian Endeavor Society has been well attended during the year, the numbers ranging from fifteen in the summer to about thirty in the winter months. As an instance of what faithful persistent work can do, it may be mentioned that in the twelve years since its establishment, this society has contributed Rs. 5,000 to the relief fund, Rs. 960 to the Missionary fund, and Rs. 1,000 to the Library fund. From the two former funds a Bible woman is supported, and also two girls who are pupils, one in the Wynberg Orphanage, Mussoorie, and the other in the Girls' High School, Dehra. It has been the means of great spiritual blessing to the congregation.

Christian Girls' School.—

The enrollment for 1905 has been 167. One girl dropped out of the tenth class to be married in April, and two girls joined the ninth class, so increasing that class from eight to ten. We are glad to say that nearly all the teachers of last year are continuing their work, and doing it faithfully and acceptably. One of the old pupils who spent last year in Lucknow studying Kindergarten methods is, with the help of a pupil teacher, in charge of thirty or more children in the infant department.

The Government Inspectress says of the school:

The school claims to give a sound secular education, combined with the highest mental and moral training. This claim is verified in the wide awake happy practical lives and work of the children. She adds that in an Arithmetic class of twenty-six, nineteen girls got 100, and the rest over 80 per cent. In another large class, nearly all got 100 and none less than 83 per cent.

It may be of interest to note that, among the girls who have passed out in the last fifteen years, fifty have gone into Mission work. Most of the remainder are married, and to Christian men. Some of these are helping on the work as wives of pastors and catechists, and all are showing more or less clearly what a Christian home should be.

City Boys' High School.—The number on the roll is about 230, with ninety additional boys in a Branch School.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Vrooman reports 1500 individuals as coming for treatment.

NORTH INDIA MISSION.

ALLAHABAD: at the junction of the Ganges and the Jumna, 506 miles northwest of Calcutta; Station begun 1836. Missionaries—Rev. J. J. Lucas, D.D., and Mrs. Lucas, Rev. Arthur H. ## ALLAHABAD STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—

New elders were elected in the Jumna Church during the year, but the pastoral relationship which had been established and did not turn out happily was terminated.

In the Katra Church there have been three adults and five children baptized during the year and eight other additions. The Sunday-school numbers 165 pupils and eleven teachers. There is a Christian Endeavor Society composed of fifteen or twenty of the young men.

The Daschra meetings held under a Shamiana in the Katra Church Compound were well attended and proved a great help to the spiritual lives of many. The Christian young men of Katra were present in large numbers, some of them saying that in former years they spent the evenings of the Ram Lila in elbowing their way through crowds of Hindus to get a peep at the dumb show of the destruction of Ravana, but this year they had forgotten there was a Ram Lila.

The City Church has been open five nights in the week, the attendance varying, as well as the interest.

The work at Sirsa has been carried on most of the year by Mr. Rangil Singh, aided by visits from Mr. Fitch and Mr. Lucas. The latter spent between two and three weeks in Camp at Sirsa during the months of January and February. Plague greatly interfered with the work, whole villages deserted. There have been a few inquirers who seemed sincere, and one of them, a Brahmin, is ready to be baptized, only waiting until the coming of his young wife who is still with her father, but has written him that she will become a Christian with him.

Bazaar preaching, Sunday-schools and other forms of work have been carried on as usual. In all the work the influence of Dr. Lucas has continued full of rich spiritual fruitage. Prior to his returning on furlough Dr. Lucas writes in closing his personal report:

And now at the end of another year of missionary life, the end of my thirty-fifth year, I cannot but look back with a heart full of thanksgiving—thanksgiving for fellowship with my brethren of this Mission, thanksgiving for the many signs of God's presence with us, and thanksgiving for the deepening evidence and assurance of the Headship of the Lord Jesus over all things. The message which I seem to hear from Him in these days is that which He spoke to His disciples long ago. He breathed on them and saith unto them: "Receive ye the Holy Spirit." We, as a Mission and as individuals have asked and asked, sometimes with the importunity of faith and love and hope, and in reply to all this asking, is He not saying to each of us, as well as to us all together: "Receive ye, receive ye the Holy Spirit."

EDUCATIONAL.—

The Katra Boys' School has been well attended the last year, considering the presence of plague all around the school during the winter, drawing the sons of some of the best families in Katra.

The boys' school at Shadirjabad has continued with about twenty-five boys on the roll.

The Junna Boys' High School has been in its new building for most of the year. The higher classes are fuller than in previous years, while the lower classes are not quite so full. The school has been kept safe for three successive years of the fierce disease and we are very thankful.

Twenty-two boys have been in the Christian Boy's Boarding House under Mr. Higginbottom's charge.

The Allahabad Christian College.—There are now 104 students enrolled, of which number slightly more than half are in the second-year class.

The Princeton Building is being erected. This Princeton Building is the incarnation of an idea. Every institution needs, in addition to the class rooms and laboratories, a student center, and a College like ours requires separate rooms for Christian students. Moreover, every student center requires a missionary professor to be in residence. The Princeton Building meets these three needs. It is to contain a suite of rooms for a missionary professor, rooms for Christian students, and a common room with reading room and library for students. The Rev. C. A. R. Janvier is getting gifts for this building from Princeton men.

The Hostels are in charge of Mr. Edwards, who lives in the building set apart for Christian students. There are altogether, Christians, Hindus and Musulmans, thirty-one students in the residence, every room being occupied.

We are congratulating ourselves on the change of atmosphere among the Christian students. This session we have put into practical working the plan of requiring definite daily work in return for financial aid given by the College, and we find that the students seem to have more respect for the College and for themselves, are more faithful in study and more prompt in paying their bills than at any time heretofore.

Most students give excellent attention to Bible teaching, and the opportunities that come to the teacher to press home important truths are unique and full of encouragement. Probably in no other sphere of mission work does one oftener feel like saying to himself, "O, what an opportunity! God give me grace to meet it."

The present enrollment in the Mary Wanamaker Girl's School is eighty-five.

In the University examinations one student passed in the Entrance and four in the Vernacular Middle Standard, there being only one failure. The excellent work done in the school gained for it an increase in the grant from this Government. The number of girls in the higher classes is larger than ever before, and the prospects are good for a satisfactory standing again in next year's examination.

Medical.—Dr. Norris resigned at the close of the present year to marry Mr. Patterson of Silma. Of the medical work in the Seward Hospital during the year she reports:

During the year over 30,000 treatments were given, many operations performed, and many patients visited in their homes.

In many ways this year has been the most satisfactory. I have had more leisure to talk with the women, to visit them in their homes, and on Mela days have been able to go to the Mela to sell and give Gospels and tracts.

The Hospital has furnished a temporary home to many a poor woman rescued from a life of sin or danger.

GENERAL.—There have been five baptisms in the Lepher Asylum with its eighty inmates. There is also a Blind Asylum in which one of the blind who is a Christian is employed as a teacher for the others. The Makhzan-i-Masihi has been continued under the same editorial management.

Many of the readers live in places where they have little other reading, and the fortnightly visit of the Makhzan is looked for with the eagerness of a visit from an old friend. During the year, Dr. Torrey's book, How to Bring Men to Christ, translated by Rev. Prem Dass, has appeared in the columns of the Makhzan. A booklet by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe on the Second Coming of our Lord, translated by Mrs. Wyckoff, is now appearing in the Makhzan.

ETAWAH STATION.

Mr. Allison reports:

During the latter half of the year, or more properly speaking in October, we just planted ourselves in a canal bungalow near the people and preached to the same crowds morning and evening, and held interviews with inquirers between times. This work proved effective.

We have a preaching platform in the bazaar of the city, where the crowds congregate in the evening and during most of the year regularly preached to the moving throngs. During the season of opium weighments, April and May, the district came to us in the way of crowds aggregating 350 to 400, and every morning and evening our preacher spoke and sang and preached and conversed. Then during the hot months various Mohallas were visited in the early mornings. In this way almost every portion of Etawah City has been reached.

Perhaps the most satisfactory work in the city is that of the Zanana schools and homes. Over one hundred houses are accessible with upwards of 250 pupils. The people are generally friendly and eager to learn to read.

I desire to testify to the incalculable worth and help and inspiration which I have found in Andrew Murray's With Christ in the School of Prayer. In truth, my work before this was pointless and ineffective, as witnessed by six weeks of preaching in Bassehor without any visible results. In contrast with this ten days of work directed by prayer with definite objects in view, resulted in two conversions and a large number favorably inclined toward Christianity. This, by way of confession.

Miss Emily Forman who with Miss Cuthbertson has had charge of the woman's work, writes:

I try to manage to spend a few days each month in strictly evangelistic work, that is, going from house to house, both in the city and the surrounding villages, just wherever we can secure a hearing, singing the old Bhajans over and over again, followed by the Bible lesson. It has been a full year, very full. But when we look back for actual results, that is a spiritual awakening, any desire after a better life or a purer religion on the part of any of my pupils, we find none.

FATEHGARH STATION.

EDUCATIONAL.—This Station is a hive of busy industry and enterprise, with every form of mission work energetically conducted.

City High School.—Two hundred and eighty-two students have been on the roll. The average attendance has been 91 per cent. of the average enrollment, which testifies to the health and faithfulness of the pupils.

In the Rakha Christian Girls' Boarding School six girls have united with the Church and eight more are ready to appear before the session at its next meeting. The enrollment has been 141 and the average attendance in the school room has been 137.

In the Barhpur Christian Boys' Boarding School the average attendance has been nearly 150 out of an enrollment of 185. The large enrollment in comparison with the average attendance is due to two facts: That we have sent out a good many young men this year. Some have gone to the Seminary in Saharanpur; some have been transferred to the training class, and some are making their own way in the world. 2. This year we have taken in several wanderers from the other institutions in the Cape that we might be able to make something out of them, but in nearly every case they have failed to stay with us. Perhaps the chief reason is that we have insisted that such young fellows earn their living. It is easier to wander than to earn, and so they wander on. In the general style and management of the school there has been no change, except that we are rejoicing in more dormitory space. One long narrow room has been trebled in width, making a fine, big, airy hall for the small boys. It is admirably located for supervision, opening into the sleeping room of the house master. The boys still eat the simplest of foods and wear the simplest of clothes, except where a boy by special industry is able to afford a little finery.

The spiritual state of the school is fairly satisfactory, more so now than a few months back, partly owing to the wane of revival that seems to be spreading throughout the station.

In the City Girls' School for Hindu and Mohammedan girls the average attendance has been thirty-seven; out of an enrollment of sixty-two.

The school has and is making its impression on the hearts of the girls. A young widow who has been attending the school very regularly for some months says that she no longer worships idols and her friends call her a Christian and taunts her about it.

Training School for Christian Workers.—The total enrollment for the year has been 100, of whom sixty-one have been men and thirty-nine have been women. The average attendance has been twenty-six men and twenty-two women.

Barhpur Industrial School.—Forty boys and young men have received training in this department. The carpet making and rug making on which we reported last year has been discontinued because it was discovered that it was not a trade at which a reasonable living could be made. The trades of tailoring, carpentry, shoemaking and blacksmithing have been taught, the latter for but a few months. It is our intention to begin bicycle repair work as soon as we return from this meeting. In the tailoring department we have made all the clothes that nearly 150 boys can wear out, besides most of the sewing for the missionaries of the compounds and a good deal for the Indian Christian community. The shoemakers have made 553 pairs of shoes, besides a large amount of repairs. The carpentry department has made all the wood work for Miss Fullerton's house, almost completely built a carriage, besides making beds, a dresser, a book case, and many smaller articles and odd jobs of repair. The great need of the department is more capital or outfit.

The Christian Industrial Company.—While we are writing of industrials, we may as well write about the new stock company organized among the members of the Christian community of Fatehgarh.

It is a small concern as yet. Over two hundred shares of 10 Rs. each have been subscribed. Leather making is the only industry really begun, although we are prepared to fill orders for tents also. The leather industry has not yet proved itself very successful, but with the new force of head tanners we hope that it may prove more so. The objects are two—first, to provide a safe and profitable place for India Christians to invest their money, and, second, to provide Christians with remunerative employment.

Village Schools.—The schools are conducted solely for the benefit of the Christian community. They have numbered twenty-nine and have been in session for from a few months to a full year. The average attendance, 161, has been very small in proportion to the enrollment; yet a marked improvement is noted over the previous year. For the most part, these schools have been conducted by the preacher teachers and their wives.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Mr. Bandy writes:

In the Station this year we have recorded 689 baptisms. Nearly all of these people have been baptized in the villages, and by far the greater portion of them have been baptized either by me or in my presence. We have experienced more opposition this year than ever before; partly, because we have gone to more new villages than ever before, but mainly because our coming is pretty generally associated with the spread of the plague. I have several times been surrounded by angry mobs. On two occasions I was in real danger, which fortunately I did not fully appreciate till I was well out of it. Threatened violence has not been allowed to interfere with our visiting any village, and in every case we have continued our visits and made them so frequent that suspicion has been disarmed, and the people have learned to trust us, and if mussy sweets and milk which we have been compelled to eat and drink as our part in the peace offering is an indication we may assume that they have also learned to love us some.

In all, 140 odd people have been taken into our churches, all but a few have come from among these new Christians.

Special Meetings.—We have held a number of special meetings among Christians at places where churches have been organized or where we are preparing the people for organization. We have usually taken a few good singers along, and a so to speak orchestra of native instruments. On four occasions we have had a brass band, and, in addition to revival services among the Christians, we have conducted large parades where Sunday-school and Christian Endeavor and Temperance Society badges and banners were striking features, and where street preaching was the principal object. The effect of passing through a crowded bazaar on market day with banner and song interspersed with occasional preaching or selections by the brass band and much rejoicing with all, is tremendous and salutary. Christians are filled with hope and confidence, weak Christians are brought out squarely in their profession before the world, and non-Christians are convinced that Christianity is alive and a force in the land. So powerfully have some of these agencies been used that I do not know of a single case of persistent denial in the whole district.

Workers Conferences.—I have held monthly conferences with all the workers together in the central station. Usually these conferences have taken up two full days. In addition to Bible study and prayer, we have conducted a sort of normal training, in which we have had different ones instruct newly baptized converts or inquirers for Church membership. In the administration of the district I have nominally shifted the responsibility on to the members of the district conferences.

As you would expect I give a lot of advice and have a good deal to say, but never use my authority and do not vote nor hold office in the Conference. The Conference makes all transfers. The Conference keeps its members up to the mark. It is harder on lazy men than I would ever dare be, and the men yield to this discipline usually without a murmur, because, forsooth, there is no sympathetic person to listen to their murmurs. In addition to these monthly conferences I try to hold frequent sub-district conferences in which special needs and difficulties, hopes and opportunities and the like are talked and prayed over.

Bazaar preaching has not been conducted with any persistency, partly because other work was so much more pressing and largely because it does not seem to present such hope of immediate results as some other forms. That done has been mostly in connection with festival days and on Christian holidays.

Of the Evangelistic Work the Station report says:

It is in the village work that the greatest time and effort has been expended and it is there that we turn for the greatest tangible results. This is work almost altogether among the sweepers. From their attitude toward Christianity it would seem that nearly the entire sweeper population would very shortly become Christian. Of the 689 who have been baptized this year 622 have belonged to this class. This growth is not confined to one section. It has spread throughout nearly the whole district. Having experienced a good thing, they do not hide their enthusiasm and knowledge, but tell everyone. But a new convert who does not know how to read cannot teach others to read, neither can he who knows only that Jesus is mighty to save lead others into other and deeper truths of Christianity. Hence the need for trained workers.

The Churches.—It is when we look at the churches which God has established in this district, that we are filled with the most hope.

The churches are institutions depending for their continued existence on the people of the country. They form the centres from and through which the people themselves provide for their own instruction and for the carrying of the Gospel to the regions beyond. It is in the churches that leaders are developed and self-support, self-government and self-propagation are fostered. The church is the great conserving agency in all mission work. During the past year our churches have grown in numbers from five to eight. But this does not express the full growth, for two churches that were before incompletely organized have been able to choose elders. The number of communicants has increased from 412 last year to 558, of whom 148 have been added this year on examination. The gifts have grown from 1,072 to 1,394, or an increase of 322.

Sabbath-school Work.—During the past year thirty-nine Sabbath-schools have been conducted with a good deal of regularity. The average attendance has been 1,138. This is an increase over last year of sixteen schools and 129 scholars.

Christian Endeavor Societies.—In the Station there are fourteen Christian Endeavor Societies with a membership of 465, an increase over last year of three societies and forty-five members.

Woman's Work.—The women and girls of the Station have six societies among them.

How busy good missionaries in India are is shown in Mr. Smith's personal report:

My days in the Station have been full, teaching from one to two hours a day, attending to the multitudinous wants of and administering discipline and giving counsel to a large family of boys, superintending building operations and repairs, writing an average of about eight letters a day on all subjects, from those of mission policy and finance and regarding the support, care and marriage of orphans, to furnishing information about shoes, superintending the High School, Boarding School and Industrial Department, overseeing the keeping of innumerable accounts connected with the above institutions, and a few in connection with the Station at large, preaching in English on an average of four times a month while in the Station, serving on Mission, Presbyterial, and Synodical committees, acting as Treasurer of the Furrukhabad Home Mission Fund, and as Stated Clerk of the Presbytery and Stated Clerk pro tem. of the Synod, and making, perhaps, a dozen trips in the district to baptize new converts, help to organize churches and superintend the home mission work.

A very large part of my time has been taken up with the development of industrials. This is most confining, as there are so many odds and ends to attend to. Carelessness means financial loss which stares at one in such a haunting fashion at the end of the month when the books are made. Once this year I had the sensation of a small strike on my hands, when all my carpenters but one left because I objected to them making and carrying away so many chips. I employed new men and delivered an ultimatum to the old ones, and finally took them back on condition that they be allowed to carry away a limited number of chips for the space of one week. Thus the strike ended as most strikes do, in compromise. This is work that seems very much like serving tables, and yet I scarcely think a more important work is to be done if our work among boys is to be abiding. There are in it a great many opportunities to teach honesty and faithfulness, besides its being a contribution toward the end of all mission work, the establishment of a self-supporting church in India.

MEDICAL WORK.—The number of patients treated at the dispensary this last year was 7,335. Of these 4,174 were Christians, 2,917 were Hindus and 244 Mohammedans.

FATEHPUR STATION.

Mr. Mattison writes:

We have experienced a blessed revival in Fatehpur! As the members of the North India Mission gathered here, there was a remarkable spirit of expectation manifest. The conviction was frequently expressed that if the members returned without a very great blessing they would be guilty before God. At the very opening of the meeting word came of the wonderful experiences in the Lodiana gathering of the Punjab Presbyterian Mission, and the expectation rose higher and higher until Sabbath came. Then, in fellowship with the Church here, the Mission experienced a wonderful reviving which strengthened hearts and homes for a greater work this winter. At the tables, and during the time between the business sessions, and late into the night, songs of triumph would break forth. The reports of great ingatherings in three of the districts (nearly 1,500 in the past year), together with any other tokens of God's special blessing and favor, called for many seasons of thanksgiving and praise. And faith was given to praise for even greater blessings to come. The second Sabbath was also a great day of the Lord, and the whole Church is pulsing with a new power, and many of the workers are out nights seeking to bring men to Christ.

Fatehpur has been about the only place where special harvests have been gathered; but there is a strong conviction that even this winter harvests will be gathered here also. Is it too much to ask of readers that they set themselves to pray daily, and with great earnestness, for a work of great power here? I have come to depend much upon the prayers of those who hold the ropes at home. Pray the Lord of the harvest until He make this place a praise and a blessing far and wide. The Father has been very good to me through my time of suffering, and my broken hip now seems as sound as ever.

Pray for us—pray for the Christian Church and workers here—pray for the thirteen thousand unevangelized villages in this district.

Mr. Mattison has almost recovered from the effects of a severe fall at night from the roof-top of his house, but he and Mrs. Mattison have met with heavy sorrow in the death of two of their little children.

JHANSI STATION.

Mr. Forman reports:

There have in all been forty-five baptisms in connection with the City Church during the year.

Within the last week the father and grandfather of one of the families we baptized last winter have come into the Church. The father is seventy-two years of age, and the grandfather not less than ninety-four. The old man is very feeble, but his mind is as clear as ever. It was good to see the happiness of both men on becoming Christians. Their sons had been having daily prayers in the family since they (the sons) were baptized, and it was chiefly this that led the two old men to come out also.

The Sipri Church.—The Sipri Bazaar, lying near the railway quarters, one and a half miles to the west of the city, and the Sadar Bazaar, near the military lines, three-quarters of a mile to the south of the city, are the two large suburbs of Jhansi. As most of the Christians who come to Jhansi to get work are employed in the railway shops or on the running or clerical staffs, they usually settle in Sipri Bazaar. There are some forty or fifty families, about half of whom are Protestants, living there now. There has been no regular work kept up for them. As so often happens with those leaving the restraints and good influences of their homes in the East in America, and going out into the unrestrained life of the West, so with these people who have left the restraints of the communities in which they were brought up and have come here, many have fallen into reckless and wicked lives. Drink and immorality have gained a sad hold on the community. Some of them are good and true men and women, and not a few of those who have not been such are ashamed of the past, and want to live better lives. In March, at my suggestion, the people asked the Presbytery to organize them into a church and to install Masih Prakash as their pastor. The church was organized by a Committee of Presbytery on the 8th of April, and two elders were ordained, also Masih Prakash was ordained and installed as pastor. We rented a shop, in which to hold the services. The rental of Rs. 10 a month is paid by the City Church. There were about twenty members, and as many more adherents enrolled.

Work in the Out-Stations.—I found many professing to have cast off their old religion, and to believe in the one God, and even in Christ, yet because of their caste ties they felt it impossible to become Christians, unless the missionary would undertake to bring them into Jhansi and provide them with work, or become responsible for their support. This was of course impossible. And so the work was at a stand-still, except for the continued preaching of Dharam Singh. It was under these circumstances that I decided to baptize these persons without requiring them to break their caste by eating with us. Caste had not a religious significance to those whom I received, and as a social institution they could not disregard it and still continue to make their living in the old work, for to break it would be followed by a complete boycott, and they cannot be independent of each other in their work.

The baptisms that followed during the course of the winter were all the result of individual teaching and of personal friendship in the teaching. I stayed among them, and often sat and talked with them during these months. There was no general movement, but by ones and twos and threes there were baptized in all about forty-five persons during the winter. And during the summer more have been added, so that in all sixty have been baptized during the year in Ranipur.

In closing, the statistics of the Jhansi work, in brief, are: The population of the city, 60,000; of the district, 617,000. In our Mission, three ordained Indian ministers, and one unordained preacher. There are seven teachers employed, of whom four are men, and three women. In addition to these workers, Prabhu Charan, the Bible Society colporteur, works with us, and is a valuable man. In woman's work, besides the teachers just mentioned, are Miss Williamson, Miss Tresham and the Bible woman, Mrs. Nabi Bakhsh.

Our church statistics are: In Jhansi, two organized churches, and in Ranipur, two fairly regular meetings. There are at present sixty communicants on our rolls, of whom thirty-seven were added during the year. There were baptized during the year 122 adults and children. There are in addition to these some sixty-two whom we may count as adherents, though the term is so loose a one that it is difficult to know whom to count. It is to be remembered, however, that these figures, as they include the City Church, include the members of the other two missions, and are not exclusively of our own.

MAINPURIE STATION.

A pastor was ordained and installed over the Mainpurie Church. Dr. Johnson, assisted by his daughter, has had charge of the western half of the field, and Mr. Enders of the eastern. Of the Training Classes Dr. Johnson writes:

The teachers seem to be faithful in their work, but the results as shown in the examinations are rather disappointing. The fact is that village young men and women who have had no mental training in childhood find study a very difficult thing indeed, and we must make great allowances for them. If only they can develop good solid Christian characters, they can be exceedingly useful among the people of their own villages, even with a very moderate amount of education. In general, they have behaved very well and shown a good degree of application to their studies. At present ten are reading in the Men's Class; although with the present prospects in the district four times as many will be needed before they can finish their three years' course. But alas, there seems no prospect of being able to secure funds for any such enlargement of the work.

Five new out-stations have been started during the year, and there are six others.

In all of these the work has gone on in an interesting manner. In most of these baptisms have taken place, especially in those superintended by Mr. Enders.

Mr. Enders writes:

My heart has been won by the sweepers in the villages. They are not always cleanly; not invariably polite or attentive to the Message; nor are they always inspired by the truest motives; nor have they any adequate grasp of the meaning of life now or hereafter; but they are kind, teachable to a surprising degree, and blindly, pitifully groping after the Vision that has somehow dawned upon them. It is worth all that one has to be permitted to be the friend and helper of such a people. Since April we have visited and baptized the sweepers in about fifty villages and have been permitted to baptize 587—men and women and children.

The villages are so grouped as to be regularly visited by the workers in the field, not permitting, however, the close supervision one wishes for so helpless a people. In many places there are day schools, and in others the Sunday-school has a beginning, with services on the Sabbath at as many places as can be visited by the workers. The coming chief care will necessarily be to provide so far as possible for the spiritual instruction and guidance of this body of baptized.

In a number of villages great opposition was made by the Brahmins and Thakurs. In one village I was twice hindered by threats of violence, from baptizing the willing sweepers. At one time they threw a stone or two at me, and threatened the next time, if I came back, to beat me to death.

The villagers are generally mildly curious, ask a few questions, and show little further interest. The inert mass is, however, not to be despised in its powers of resistance, and it was never quite easy to win the sweepers to consent to the life of a Christian. It means visit upon visit, the earnest purpose and glowing words to arouse any interest anywhere. Yet strangely has God moved upon the hearts of these people, for they are hearing and heeding, and are singularly willing to be led.

Of the Woman's Training Class, Miss Johnson says:

There is no school room, except a dark, damp room, so we meet under a tree, except when it rains. The furniture consists of low stools, low benches, and pieces of matting. The course of study may not sound difficult, but it includes many things, and to impart it requires the labor it would to impart a college education to more favored individuals, both from teachers and taught. It is almost appalling to think of what they do not know, these young women just out of heathendom, baptized perhaps because their husbands were, and out of a caste whose touch means pollution, and this is the material out of which must come the leaders and teachers of their people. And besides the babies are such a handicap. However, the prophet's old rule holds good still. Line upon line—precept upon precept. Does the work pay? Yes, richly. But ask for those of us who do it more of love and patience and faith and above and beyond all these, the transforming power of His Spirit in our hearts and theirs.

ETAH STATION.

During the course of the year there have been 190 baptisms, and a great many more are said to be ready for baptism, the teachers reporting about 700 persons who are living within the bounds of their work and who are receiving instructions, who wish baptism.

Among the people there is a stronger sentiment against the old customs and a growing sentiment in favor of Christian observances. Much depends on the example set by the teachers, and we find encouragement in the fact that a corps of experienced and faithful men is being gathered. The few years that this work has been in existence must be kept in mind. A few years ago probably not one in a hundred of these people could read. Nearly the whole force of teachers has been prepared from absolutely uneducated material. Is it not something then to show thirty-five teachers among this mass of illiteracy, many of these developing into real leaders?

The teachers, on the whole, have been faithful in their work. Two have been dismissed for bad conduct, and one or two for inefficiency. We have continued in the custom of giving a teacher only where the people will furnish him a house, which they are invariably willing to do if they have any vacant.

This year greater emphasis has been put on preparation for church membership. Ten persons have been accepted and a church established at Basundra, while at present about fifty or sixty more are being prepared in five centers. We hope that within a short time churches will be established in these places.

DISTRICT WORK.—Mr. McGraw writes:

There is nothing to record about my work, until we started into the district in January. Our itinerary lasted but five or six weeks, and touched different centers, of which three were new to us.

We appreciated the opportunity of visiting former scenes of labor, and comparing the present state with what it was two years before. Our hearts were filled with praise at the progress, which we often remarked. The most striking way in which this progress was seen was in the attendance at the Sabbath services. Two years before, we were not sure of an attendance, and when there was one, usually not more than twelve or fifteen, of whom possibly two or three would be women. This year, to accommodate the people we had to raise three sides of our tent, remove tables, boxes, chairs and with the repeated admonition, especially to the boys, to sit close, most of the audience were able to sit under cover. We frequently had an audience of about eighty Christians and inquirers, of whom almost half would be women and girls. Frequently groups came from villages four or five miles distant. We were made to think the time had come for literally "lengthening our cords and strengthening our stakes." Again we noted progress in the more than proportionate increase in offerings. We still welcome those made in pice, or fruit or grain, or eggs or chickens, which constituted the most lively part of the collection. If they were placed on the collection mat tied, they were permitted to make choice quietly of other parts of the collection, but if loose they were driven forth to forage. An occasional bit indicates the beginning of the conception in their minds that God has a right to say to them "the silver is mine." Then again, there was perhaps none of those congregations in which one or more of the villagers did not lead in a few words of prayer, and when one hears of prayer meetings in a forty thousand dollar church in America, with several elders present, in which the only prayer of the service was the Lord's Prayer in concert, one may be permitted, certainly, to "thank God and take courage" for the saints at Etah.

My chief theme in every place was the Cross of Christ, and I have seldom had more inspiring or more responsive audiences or more liberty in speaking.

Our short campaign resulted in the baptism of 151 persons, of whom one-third were under ten years of age.

EDUCATIONAL.—

Boys' Boarding School.—The number is now about sixty, including the orphan boys who were brought from Etawah.

There is but one Hindu teacher employed. We have opened one industry this year among the boys which has been very successful—that of sewing.

This year a young man from a high caste (Brahmin) family in Etawah was baptised. He for a little time taught the boys some drill, is in charge of the work squad.

There are two Christian Endeavor Societies among the boys. There has also been an Anti-Galli Society begun. It is to work against bad language.

Girls' Boarding School.—There are fifteen girls in the school. They are in school four hours daily and during the rest of the time are busy grinding grain for their food, cooking their meals, drawing their water, cleaning up their courtyard, preparing their lessons for the following day, etc.

The school occupies seriously cramped quarters which renders isolation of any ill person impossible and will soon prevent admittance of any more girls. The tiny courtyard is almost unbearable in hot weather.

Training Class.—There has been no need to urge young to come in. Many who have applied have been refused. A number have been sent out to work, taking the places of several who have had to be dismissed, and others occupying new fields. The teaching has been fairly well done as shown by the last examination. The members of the class have been conducting Sunday-schools in the nearby villages, except for some time during the prevalence of the plague. The class had to be closed for nearly a month owing to the outbreak of plague on the compound. The men acquitted themselves nobly at that trying time. When one of the teachers was taken down, his wife was absent. One of the unmarried men insisted that he was going to stay by his teacher who had no one to give him a drink of water. He was told of the risk he was running, but he was firm and stayed by the sick man till he was convalescent. The others were given permission to go to their homes, but we urged them to remain for several days in a grove near the compound lest they carry the disease to their homes. This they faithfully did, through the unprecedented cold weather lying out in the open while ice froze on the water.

Women's Training Class.—It is interesting and gratifying to mark the gradual change from the filthy clothes and lively heads on their arrival to comparatively cleanliness, but the deepest joy is to see their spiritual life growing from strength to strength.

The woman's Christian Endeavor Society have during the year earned Rupees 45 in the sewing class meets every Saturday; and have given Rs. 4 of consecration money, most of which are donated to the Woman's Presbyterial Fund which is being used towards building churches in the different parts of the districts composing the Furrukhabad Presbytery.

CHURCHES.—

Twenty-four have joined in profession of faith, the roll showing a net increase of about ten.

A church was organized at Basundra, ten miles to the west of Etah. There were ten charter members.

The pastor in August made a feast on the occasion of his little son's birthday, having representatives from most of the surrounding villages present. It was made the occasion for a punchayat in which all decided that certain old customs must give place to Christian ones, and a committee of three prominent men were appointed from among those present to carry the decision into effect.

Village Schools.—The villagers in Etah appreciate the value of having their children read; in fact, this in some places is liable to displace the more important element of religious instruction if we are not careful. Many a man will say: 'What can we learn?' But they are learning, nevertheless. A good percentage of the children are learning to read, though often under difficulties, as the pigs and cattle have to be watched all day and at night they get together to read. We get First Hindu Books by the hundred, and I am sure that this year there have been four hundred First Books disposed of, most of them at one pice each. Some places the boys outgrow their teachers. Quite a number of boys are now reading in the Gospel. It must be remembered that there was scarcely one in five hundred who could even learn to read till the opening of our schools.

In her report of village visiting, Miss Prentice writes of one village:

There I also found a small girl with a leg broken five days before, but it was simple enough and we managed to set it nicely. In another village I was charmed with the attention of the women. "Do you know who Satan is?" I asked, after I had mentioned his name. "O, yes, indeed, we do! Satan is the one who makes people Christians whether they want to be or not!"

GWALIOR STATION.

Dr. Symington reports there are over 130 on his Sunday-school roll, and adds of the various forms of work at the Station:

Plague was severe for over two months of the year, and almost my whole time was given during these months to the treatment of those attacked. Some of the scenes during this time were dreadful and heartrending. Families bewailing their dead, men and women left by the roadside to die, with neither food nor water, everywhere families fleeing from the stricken town which latterly presented a desolated appearance with its streets of closed doors, and which gave me a weird feeling while driving through them.

In the house visitation during the year, we have been called into the znanas of some of the best families in Morar. There have been 12,761 treatments during the year and 207 operations. The medical work has opened the ears and hearts of many to the Gospel message, while many receive help for the afflictions of the body, but reject the word of Life. Talking to patients has also led to much discussion usually of a friendly though serious nature. Many will talk about the Christian religion but refuse to come to church or to any of the services or to believe on Christ. One man, the owner of a bungalow and head of a large family composed of his relations where I was called to see several patients, told me that Christ visited Thibet and received his philosophy there. A Mohammedan who was successfully brought through a severe attack of plague, being weeks in bed, denied the divinity of Christ. A portly Hindu, with his retinue of attendants, came a distance of over thirty miles to the bungalow for treatment. He wanted to be specially informed regarding what should be his diet while taking medicine. Among other articles I advised meat and vegetables. He lifted his hands in horror and said that he had never eaten meat in his life and that it was against his religion or caste. I asked why. He said that we could get other things to eat without giving pain, and that it was a sin to kill cattle. I advised him then to eat eggs, as he could have them without killing. "Yes," he said, "but there is life in the egg." I asked him how he knew, and that all eggs had not life, and that those that had not would be wasted if not eaten. At this he laughed and went away, saying, he would come again. Another man, a head carpenter, declared he could not take soup, as being against his religion. In the course of conversation, he said that he would not cut down a tree because it had life, which struck me as rather peculiar, coming from a carpenter. He remained silent, when asked if he had never reaped a wheat field.

A Maulvi, who had some two hundred followers, came repeatedly to the bungalow where we talked with him and prayed. We believe he was a true Christian and he was willing to be baptized. The Maulvi died during the plague.

There is one Boys' and Girls' School in Morar and one in Bashkar.

We were much encouraged to receive during the year a gift of R. 1,500 from the Maharajah Scindia for the church. This sum, with R. 483 already in the treasury for this purpose, will enable us to finish and furnish the church.

WESTERN INDIA MISSION.

KOLHAPUR: 200 miles southeast of Bombay; 45,000 inhabitants; station begun 1853; taken under care of the Board 1870. Missionaries—Rev. Joseph M. Goheen and Mrs. Goheen, Rev. L. B. Tedford and Mrs. Tedford, Rev. A. W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, Rev. E. W. Simpson and Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. R. G. Wilder, Miss Esther Patton, Miss Grace E. Wilder, Miss B. G. Johnson, Mrs. L. E. Havens, Miss Alice Giles, Miss E. E. Scheurman, Rev Shivaram Masoji.

RATNAGIRI: 82 miles northwest of Kolhapur, and 125 south of Bombay; station begun 1873. Missionaries—Rev. A. L. Wiley and Mrs. Wiley, Miss Emily T. Minor, Miss Amanda M. Jefferson.

KODOLI: 12 miles north of Kolhapur; station begun 1877. Missionaries—The Rev. J. P. Graham, Miss Isabelle Graham, Miss A. Adelaide Brown, Miss V. E. McArthur, M.D., Miss Sybel G. Brown.

SANGLI: 30 miles east of Kolhapur; station begun 1884. Missionaries—Mr. John Jolly and Mrs. Jolly, Rev. Edgar M. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Rev. J. M. Irwin and Mrs. Irwin, Rev. H. A. Kernen, Miss Grace Enright.

MIRAJ: 6 miles south of Sangli; station begun 1892. Missionaries—A. S. Wilson M. D. and Mrs. Wilson, William J. Wanless, M. D. and Mrs. Wanless, Rev. R. C. Richardson and Mrs. Richardson, Miss Elizabeth A. Foster, Miss D. E. Patterson, Miss W. E. S. Heston, M. D., R. H. Goheen, M.D., and Mrs. Goheen.

VENGURLE: station begun 1900. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Hannum and Mrs. Hannum.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mr. John Jolly and Mrs. Jolly, Dr. A. S. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Rev. L. B. Tedford and Mrs. Tedford, Miss E. A. Foster.

After an extended absence from the field on account of ill health Mrs. Wilder and Miss Wilder were able to return in May, to the delight of the Christian community and many Hindu friends. The only new missionaries sent out during the year were Dr. Robert H. Goheen and Mrs. Goheen, both of them children of missionaries, Dr. Goheen having been born in the Western India Mission, and Mrs. Goheen being a daughter of the Rev. J. C. R. Ewing, D.D., of Lahore. While there has been hardship, due to insufficient rainfall and a continuance of the terrible plague, the conditions have been less oppressive than in many previous years.

KOLHAPUR STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Churches.—Both Kolhapur and Wadgav Churches have suffered by the defection of some of their members. The reasons given for going back into Hinduism are persecution, failure to receive financial aid, the austerity of the Christian religion, and in one case, the desire to marry a daughter more advantageously than, in the opinion of the parents, could be done in the Christian community. Notwithstanding such discouragements the Christian community has grown somewhat in numbers and much in grace and influence. The pastors are noble, faithful men, seeking first the kingdom of God. The total number of communicants in the Kolhapur Church is 154, fourteen having been baptized on profession of faith during the year. There were seventy-one communicants in the Wadgav Church, with no additions on confession of faith.

The Kolhapur city Sunday-school has an average attendance of 300. Of these about 100 are non-Christians. Mrs. Goheen has had large groups, sometimes of men only, sometimes men, women and children, on the front veranda. Generally these are people who could not be induced to sit in a class in the church, even if there were room for them.

There is an infant Sunday-school on the Mission compound, with an enrollment of fifty-three boys and girls, six mothers and five on the cradle roll.

In connection with the Kolhapur Church there are Sunday-schools at Herle, Porle, and Tirpin, with seventy-one pupils. There are three Sunday-schools in the Wadgav Church, with 125 pupils.

Pastor Sidramji relates that his audience was moved to tears upon hearing of Jeremiah the prophet in the dungeon. The old elder arose, and with streaming eyes exhorted the people and himself to greater faithfulness and greater courage in proclaiming the Gospel, seeing that Jeremiah had been able by the grace of God to withstand even a king.

Mr. Goheen has preached on the street twice a week, until his ill health prevented his doing so. As the years go on he finds more and more people who are responsive to such preaching. Mr. Tedford has preached at various places in the city, and in the villages around Panhala hill in the hot season. He spent two months during the cold season in tenting and traveling in a destitute region south and southeast of Kolhapur, a region in which but little aggressive work had been done since the time of Mr. Wilder, a generation ago.

In his touring Mr. Tedford found the magic lantern exceedingly useful, not only to draw crowds, but as a means of impressing the lessons he wished to teach.

Some notes of his touring journal are given below:

"To-day we ascended a high mountain, and in a small town, amid the wilds of nature and heathen darkness, preached the truth of the God of nature and the God of grace to a number of men. On our way back, a young man came running after us to say that he had forgotten the name of Jesus and wanted to hear it. He seemed greatly in earnest.

"In this part of the Kolhapur State we came into contact with some of the wandering Roman Catholic Goa. They have left their sea-bounded country, a hundred miles away, and have come up into this high mountainous region. Living constantly among the Hindus they are similar to them in appearance, customs and religion. Rarely do they ever have a visiting priest, but when he comes 'up goes the cross and down goes the idol.' And when he departs, 'down goes the cross and up goes the idol.' The Kolhapur census compiler suggests that these 1,500 semi-heathen be brought under the care of a Christian missionary,"

Mr. Simpson and Mr. Graham made a tour on foot, visiting about twenty-five villages.

Mr. Simpson also mentions the use of the magic lantern. He writes: "The views used were confined to the life of Christ, two native helpers taking turns in explaining the pictures and driving home the Gospel truth. The popularity of the lantern was evidenced by the fact that people would come long distances to secure lantern exhibitions, carrying the lantern and fixtures both ways; for in no instance was an exhibition given unless the villagers were willing to do this. So far as visible evidences of awakened consciences were concerned, and visible evidences of opposition to the work the magic lantern exhibition of the life of Christ brought them to light."

Gangaramji, of Herle, reports that in this year he visited 129 villages, and preached to more than 16,000 people.

The Bible women have worked in the Government hospital and in the villages.

SCHOOLS.—Of the six boys' day schools, the Shukrawar in Kolhapur city is the oldest and best known, having been for eighteen years under the care of Vithoba Hazare as principal teacher. There are seventy boys in the school. There are three girls' day schools. Mrs. Goheen, who has charge of these girls' schools, writes:

The marriage season always causes a commotion and temporarily lessens the attendance. This year it was markedly so. One day in Aidotwar, before school hours, six little girls were speaking of it. They complained of the tediousness of their marriages, while rejoicing in the fact that the important ceremony had taken place. Only one of the group was unmarried, and she said sadly that they had not been successful in finding a husband for her. The youngest, a baby-faced child of six, chirped up, 'Mine's done, done all right,' as though it had been a problem in arithmetic; and indeed it often is.

Girls' Boarding School.—Miss Patton says:

In the three dormitories of the home department we have now 249 girls, of ages ranging from four to seventeen years. One of the sources of income for the girls is still the killing of rats, for which I give two pice according to size. Rats are a great pest in the carrying of the plague.

During the year fifteen of the girls united with the church. I have generally heard good reports of those who have gone out from the school, and 'I have no greater joy than to hear that my children walk in the truth.'

The Young Men's Christian Association is holding regular weekly meetings. A small group of young men of the Association have formed a prayer circle to pray for special objects. They meet three or four times each week, late in the evenings, in a secluded spot just beyond the hedge of the mission compound.

There have been twenty-three women in the Alice Home. The Women's Home Missionary Society is carrying on its work energetically, employing during the hot season a Sangli school boy as colporteur.

KODOLI STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—During the year forty-six persons have united with the church at Kodoli and seven with the church at Ayatanade. Both churches are without a pastor. Mr. Graham complains that it is difficult, if not impossible, to get Christian people who are not in missionary employment to contribute regularly, but many of them are generous givers.

Lumaji, our senior elder, whom some of the younger brethren thought should be retired from the eldership because he was too old to endure the fatigue of walking to the villages where many of our Christian people live, has far excelled them all. For a long time he was sick, and when he had recovered strength enough to go out to his fields, which are at some distance from the town, I was surprised, as Sabbath after Sabbath went by, not to see him back in his place in the church and Sunday-school, where he had been a constant attendant. Subsequently it was learned that he was foraging in the villages, sometimes visiting three and even four on a single Sabbath, and at such distances from each other as made it necessary for him to walk from twelve to fifteen miles during the day. When I spoke to him about it, he told me that in his sickness he had made a vow that the rest of his life should be given more unreservedly to the service of his Master.

In July, Ramji, another of our elders, of whose ability and tact in settling family quarrels much was said in Kodoli Station report two years ago, brought Mr. Graham a sum equal to a month's wages for a laboring man. He handed it over with the remark that it was a thank-offering which he and his wife wished to give for the Lord's work, because of what He had done for them in a recent time of trial. He did not volunteer to give, and was not asked to give, any further information as to the circumstances in the case.

There are four Sabbath-schools in Kodoli and three in adjoining villages, the church Sabbath-school with an average attendance of 228, a men's class of fifty and a women's class of forty. The infant Sabbath-school has 170 little folks. Large colored picture rolls and the little cards accompanying them have wrought wonders.

At the close of the year a Young Men's Christian Association was organized at Kodoli.

Miss Adelaide Brown spent three months touring and teaching in the villages where Christian people are living in tents. Miss Sybel Brown has had a weekly sewing class of 100 Christian women, among them twenty heathen women who came voluntarily, and who have attended regularly the women's prayer meeting, some of them seeking baptism. There is a weekly meeting also of forty old lame and blind women.

MEDICAL WORK.—The dispensary was open all the year except the month of May, and the hospital through all the year. Dr. McArthur reports:

The plague has been an ever-present source of anxiety during the year. Six of our Christians in Kodoli have died from plague, and more have died in the villages. That is a small number when we consider how many have died in the town. A heathen man in town remarked a few days ago, "Your Christian people don't die of plague as we do. Your God hears your prayers. You just make Him keep us from dying from plague, and we will all become Christians."

FAMINE ORPHANS.—Three hundred and seventy-five of these children are still under the care and support of the Kodoli Station.

In the school there has been an average enrollment of 158, with an average daily attendance of 138. Aside from this we have always had a few regarded as little visitors, because they seemed of too tender an age to come under all the rules and regulations. After coming regularly for a few months they too are enrolled.

The boys like their school, and when sickness even compels absence, to hear them one would think the sole aim of life was school. A few of the older boys required punishment of some kind one day, and they were excused from attendance for half a day; several came forward asking that any other punishment be given, but don't keep us from school. It meant a loss in marks, which would result in a lower class standing for the whole of the next month.

In the middle of June the boys' dormitory was opened. There are eighty-two boys in the house. The wee boys and the babies are still domiciled in the homes of the Christian people. The large assembly hall of the school is used as the dining room and at meal time it presents an interesting sight; a row of boys lines each of the four walls, and there is a line of smaller lads in the centre of the room. Before each is a copper drinking vessel filled with cold water, and if it is the evening meal each brass plate has a good helping of rice with some curry poured over it. The boys squat nicely on the floor, Turkish fashion, and wait for the blessing to be asked; then they will all begin their meal together, and they do enjoy this part of the routine of each day. As a rule the boys are well, a great blessing in these days of plague.

Miss Scheurman writes :

I must tell you about our last arrival at the dormitory, No. 83. She is our Little Queen, and is loved by all the boys, who take turns in playing with her out of school hours; she has two brothers in the dormitory; three brothers were made Brownies in the days of famine, but the youngest returned to his parents when the stress of want was over. Their village is about two miles from here. In July plague entered their town and wrought its deadly work with a powerful hand. Reports had it that every house in a given section of the town had some one stricken with plague, and little Shevant's home was no exception. Her father's three brothers took it and died. Then her father himself came down, her brother and her mother. Chandra, her oldest brother, one of our Brownie boys, came to ask leave to go home and to bring Shevanti here, for he had just heard that his father, mother and brother were down with plague. She said she was about two years old, though we think her nearer three. But could he care for a child so young? He thought he could, and said he would willingly stay with her in the quarantine camp ten days. So he started, but he had not gone very far on his way when he met an aunt returning to her home here in Kodoli, and bringing little Shevanti with her. She also brought the news of his mother's death—father, mother and brother in one week. Next day this aunt took plague and died within twenty-four hours. Poor Chandra! these were sad days for him. He soon had little Shevanti at the bungalow, and then she was taken up to the quarantine camp where she was thoroughly scrubbed, until in her childish accent she cried out repeatedly to her brother, "That's enough! That's enough!" She evidently associates me with that scrubbing, and the sight of me makes her run. She is getting over her fear, however, and a long way off she condescends to smile, to laugh and salaam; but should any advance be made toward her the fun is quickly brought to a close, and my little girl is off, or, ostrich-like, hides her face in the clothing of the nearest boy. It is a good thing for the boys to have one so helpless and dependent among them: they are all ready to make some sacrifice for little Shevanti. Miss Brown gave her a bright Sunday frock, which makes her look gay and which she delights to wear. The boys like to have her sit beside them in Sabbath services, so they take turns in taking her to church and Sunday-school. She sits very quiet, only once in a while glancing around to see how things are behind; but for all that she sets a worthy example to many of her elders.

About the Brownies' clothing and sewing, Miss Brown says: 'Sewing classes, making and mending something like 1,500 garments, have been part of the education of both children and Missi Sahebi. Imagine the miles of cotton cloth purchased; imagine the spools of thread used, imagine the scoldings gently or ungently administered to unscrupulous Krishna-worshiping cloth merchants, and one sees at a glance that here is education, indeed, higher education.'

Miss Sybel Brown has been busy laying the foundations of the industrial work, by which it is hoped to train the children in industries which will enable them to take care of themselves.

Of the children, sixty are now full communicants, while 181 have been baptized. The whole number is 375. Some of the older girls have married Christians and have gone to other villages. Several have been taken by relatives and married to Hindus. You may think that our boys and girls are all grown up now. Oh, no! In 1900, famine year, we took many babies and wee toddlers; they will need help for many years yet. Even this year we have taken in destitute children, some of them babies, orphaned by plague. More than half the Brownies at present are under ten years of age.

SANGLI STATION.

The native pastor says in his quaint English:

This year many things came to pass. Some made us joyful and some made us painful. The membership of the church is now eighty-six; average attendance 250; thirteen persons were taken into the church on profession of faith; fifteen joined by letter; three were transferred; one member died; one was suspended; eight adults and one child were baptized.

BOARDING SCHOOLS.—Dr. and Mrs. Irwin were obliged to be away from the field a good part of the year on account of health, and in their absence Mr. Kernan and Mr. Simpson took charge. In the industrial work:

Five departments have been carried on as heretofore. These are blacksmithing, carpentry, masonry, work in brass, copper, aluminum and sewing. At the close of the year the numbers in each department are as follows:

	Total Number.	Completing course.
Carpentry .....	70	6
Blacksmithing .....	10	3
Masonry .....	5
Metal work .....	8

Twenty-seven of the ninety-three boys in the workshop work at least four hours a day. When a boy completes a course, say in carpentry, it does not follow that he is ready to launch out as an independent carpenter. The prescribed course may be finished in two years or less; but after it is finished, the boy ought to have at least a year or two of practical work in the shop before he undertakes to set up for himself.

In the blacksmith shop, in addition to lessons, three water tanks have been made, with a capacity of 100 to 300 gallons.

On the first two tanks the master did considerable work. The third was made almost entirely by the boys. They have also under construction and nearly finished iron trusses to the roof of the new addition to the shop. This addition to the shop is to be used for copper, brass and aluminum. During the vacation the orphanage boys excavated for the foundation and also dug out all the black earth three feet over the entire area of the addition. This was necessary in order to insure a good floor. The filling of this excavation with loose stone has given work to the boys anxious to earn money to pay their fees. We are planning to have practically all this addition built by the boys. The class in masonry has as yet no regular course of lessons. A course is needed, but we will probably be compelled to make one for ourselves.

Good work has been done by some of the boys in the sewing class.

Some will soon be ready to make their own living. One is already doing so.

ORPHANAGE.—

Two of the older boys have left the school and are making their own living.

About two months ago a bright lad came to the bungalow, smiling and salaaming. He brought a younger brother with him to put him in school. I recognized the older boy's face as one of our former pupils, who had gone to his village. His parting words to his brother were, 'Behave yourself, keep clean, and learn the Scriptures.' The house master informed me that this boy knew the Bible well and was teaching the people of his village.

MIRAJ STATION.

The church membership at present is forty-one. There are three Sunday-schools carried on, a Young Men's Christian Association, together with active work among all classes of women and among the children:

The school and medical work is doing two things for the house-to-house visitor; it is opening homes and making the people think and enquire concerning better things. One couldn't ask for more attentive audiences; week after week the people listen, following the visitors from one house to another to hear more, and yet no one makes a profession of their faith in Christ.

From the beginning of the touring among the villages until the heat drove them back to the station, the missionary and his helpers received very cordial welcome from the people. From many of the villages they received earnest requests to return, and they sold more portions of Scripture than during any previous season, averaging 150 per month.

At the town called Mudigle one man said, "Wait, Sahib, until I ring the big bell and call all the people; they must hear this also."

During the touring season the missionary and helper walked 430 miles, preached at sixty-seven villages to 8,690 people. The visits to the villages within walking distance of Miraj have not been as fruitful as the work among the more distant villages, although there have always been large and attentive audiences, who have sometimes been inclined to be argumentative, especially the Jains, who talk as if there is only one sin that should worry or disturb people, namely, the taking of life, and to whom the killing of a dog seems as heinous a crime as killing a man. The need is seen for a Christian school in each of these villages.

THE HOSPITAL.—Dr. Wilson was in charge during Dr. Wanless's absence until February when he was laid aside with typhoid fever, and Dr. Winifred Heston took charge until Dr. Wanless returned in July, when the medical work soon resumed its full volume.

The hospital contains sixty-five beds, but for major part of the past two months between eighty-five and ninety-five in-patients have been under treatment. In September alone more than 260 surgical operations were performed, reaching the number of twenty-six in one day, most of which were upon the eye.

The attempt is being made to do a larger amount of personal religious work, with the result that the workers are getting nearer the hearts of the people.

Notwithstanding sickness and the closure of the hospital for three and a half months, a substantial amount of medical work has been accomplished. In the hospital 692 in-patients have been treated. In the out-door dispensary the total attendance was 9,120, and the number of new patients, 5,068.

Miss Patterson took charge of the nursing superintendence of the hospital on Miss Foster's departure for her furlough. The medical school continued, with seven students.

LEPER ASYLUM.—

The year at the Leper Asylum has been almost a doubling of the number of inmates, so that at the present time the number of lepers exceed the number which the asylum was built to accommodate and applicants have been turned away for want of room.

Three religious services are held with them every week besides the service on Sabbath. While there are only ten Christians, or about one in every four, they all enjoy the singing of hymns and listen very attentively to the preaching of the Gospel, sometimes asking questions. There is one Brahmin inmate, who at first was inclined to sneer at all the religious work, but is now taking part in the singing of hymns and reading of Scripture, and asked for a book for himself; he is now studying the New Testament.

VENGURLE STATION.

The missionaries in this hard field have gone courageously forward with their work in spite of the hardness of the soil and the difficulties of the climate.

The attendance at the church services has continued this year to be very small; occasionally we were gratified to see from a dozen to a score or more Hindu and Mohammedan men present at the service.

There have been three or four intelligent young men who have come frequently to discuss religion or to read the Bible with Mr. Hannum.

One interesting person of this group was telegraph operator at Vengurle for a season. He was an uncommonly intelligent and ambitious young Brahmin, and had a Bible that Mr. Robert P. Wilder had presented to him a few years ago in Poona. Though he admitted that this Bible usually lay untouched, yet he evidently retained a strong impression of Mr. Wilder's work, and was delighted to hear of our acquaintance with him. When he received orders transferring him to Bombay, he besought Mr. Hannum to pray for the reversal of the order, adding that he had prayed to all of his gods and had asked the Roman Catholic priest to pray that he might be allowed to stay at Vengurle. But he had to go. He has written in a very friendly way since arriving in Bombay.

In December we endeavored to start a school in the Mahar district of the town, nearest the bungalow, but we failed as in the past.

In the meantime we are cultivating their friendship as much as we can, and have gained something in this way. Often we have a group of three boys on the veranda of the bungalow at Sunday-school time, especially during the singing, but they usually leave before it is over, with a whoop and a run, their long hair flying behind them or flapping on their naked backs.

Mr. Hannum has served on the Municipal Council throughout the year and on the School Committee. He has found this a good means of cultivating the acquaintance of an influential group of the men of Vengurle, while his official visits to the eight schools of the town have given him an increased acquaintance with the children. During the rainy season he made weekly visits to the English school to help the boys in their study of English.

In his further study of the languages of the country, Mr. Hannum has frequently gone to the local priest of the Roman Catholic Church for help in Portuguese and Konkani, and found him most friendly. At the close of the season he presented the priest with a copy of the Imitation of Christ, who replied:

"The book is so precious a one that all Christian people love it, whatsoever may be his creed; and in its every reading there is something to learn. 'Imitation of Christ,—it is all, and the only thing that we ought to do.'"

During the rainy season, the showers being unusually light, Mr. Hannum was able to go out often with the teacher, Kishaovao, and they were frequently joined by the other two helpers.

At the village of Tulas, in the next valley to the southeast of Vengurle, they encountered a devotee of Krishna, who advanced the claims of his deity with marvelous volubility. Our preacher, however, who himself has no mean voice, was equal to the occasion, and for perhaps the first half hour of the disputation offered only enough of remark and question to stimulate the flow of the other's speech, and then, when the Hindu opponent had begun to tire himself, and had shown a large number of vulnerable points in his reasonings, our preacher politely but firmly insisted on an opportunity to answer, and proceeded to show, on the ground of the Hindu Scriptures and traditions, the utter unsatisfactoriness of Krishna's character and of his cult, and simply but most forcibly, and yet kindly, stated the facts about Jesus, and some reasons for believing in Him. It all furnished a good example of a wise and patient way of dealing with a violent opponent. Though our preacher had a humorous way of showing up some of the faults of his antagonist's reasoning, it was pleasant to observe the prevailing good will at parting. On such occasions it is better to leave the extended arguments to the Indian preacher, who usually has the advantage of the Westerner in knowledge of the Oriental mode of reasoning, as well as in the language and in religious traditions. So the missionary usually contents himself with some opening or closing remark. On other occasions, however, of an ordinarily quiet sort, the people are pleased to hear what the foreign man has to say. In the neighborhood near the harbor one morning we encountered determined opposition, led by a large elderly man, who, as we afterward learned, was a police officer. Perhaps for want of a better text for his bantering, he demanded that since we claimed to have a Divine religion we should add ten years to his life, a demand probably deliberately framed to make it impossible to comply visibly with it then and there. It seems almost a rule that at each of the places where our men most frequently speak there is some one person to lead the opposition, some Hindu "Village Hampden with dauntless breast."

Mr. Marshall's new stereopticon has been a success as an attraction at a weekly meeting held in the town. The hall was usually crowded, perhaps 200 people being crowded into the small room on some evenings. The pictures used were those illustrating the "Life of Christ," the parables of "The Prodigal Son" and "The Good Samaritan," the Lord's Prayer, the Beatitudes and the Twenty-third Psalm. The experience of some missionaries has been such that we hesitated to use pictures representing Christ, and especially those of the crucifixion. We were gratified, therefore, by the quietness with which they were received. When the pictures of the crucifixion were thrown on the screen there was a perceptible hush and feeling of deep solemnity and awe seemed to come over the audience, and as the facts of the crucifixion of our Lord and their significance were explained, the impression seemed to deepen to an almost breathless stillness. We feel sure those pictures will not soon be forgotten.

During the touring season the Gospel was preached in about seventy-five towns and villages, about forty of these not having been before reached by this Station. Over 500 Gospels were sold and thousands of tracts distributed.

MEDICAL.—Mrs. Marshall has continued to do what medical work was practicable :

Through the monsoon months an ever increasing number of patients has been treated, Mr. Marshall assisting with the compounding. A small bath-room had to serve as a dispensary room, and the veranda of the bungalow as a waiting room. But this has proved most unsatisfactory, and indeed became almost intolerable. Long before a reasonable dispensary hour, the veranda is taken possession of by a class of people very undesirable in one's home—many of them suffering from loathsome and contagious diseases, an occasional leper finding his way with the rest. Not content to sit down and quietly wait their turn, they must improve the opportunity to see how the Sahibs live and see how a bungalow looks inside. So room after room is inspected from door and window, some of the bolder ones going in to inspect things at close range. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall have frequently been interrupted in the midst of a meal by patients emerging from the bedroom into the dining room in their search for the Doctor and in their curiosity to see things.

RATNAGIRI STATION.

It is a cause for rejoicing to see the church well filled with Christian people, the men and women, boys and girls fast becoming young men and women, and even the bench crowded with the little tots, is cause for praise as one thinks of the possibilities regarding them. It is a cause for praise to see all, young and old, becoming familiar with and established upon God's Word, and we also rejoice to see the work in schools and out-villages, and the work increasing in every way. And the shadows, what are they? The causes for sorrow are, when we see those bearing the Lord's name fall into sin, and dishonor His name by living unworthy lives, by dishonesty, bad tempers and quarreling. What a store of patience and wisdom is needed in dealing with these, who are perhaps old in years but like children in understanding. And yet is it not for this purpose that we are in this land.

There has been a great lack of rain this year, the rice crop is fast dying, and the prospect of famine seems before us. The Konkan seldom suffers from real famine, though there has been distress from lack of proper amount of rain, but famine conditions now appear to be near.

THE CHURCH.—Where the members of a church have come from a community that is steeped in vice, and themselves, up to the time of coming into the church, accustomed to the sight and practice of such vice, and old associates bending every energy to draw them back into sin, is it to be wondered at if occasionally one falls back into his old life, especially when we remember that habit is religion and life to the Hindu? The true Christian in India has battles to fight of which the Christian at home knows nothing.

There have been eight members received into the communion of the church during the time under report; six of these were by confession and two by letter. There are at present seventy-eight communicant members and thirty-two baptized children.

An addition of five rooms has been made to the church for the accommodation of the growing Sabbath-school. The cost of this building was rupees 700, of which about rupees 400 were contributed by the church and rupees 300 by missionaries and Government officials. In addition to this, the church contributed about rupees 100 to other work. The Sabbath school, consisting of eleven classes of 110 members, has studied the International Lessons with great profit.

The reading room has been well patronized by boys from the Government High school and others. We are receiving at present twenty-four newspapers, and have about 400 books in the library.

Of his work with the Ratnagiri Church, Mr. Wiley writes :

The writer has had the privilege of looking into the dark faces of this congregation for six years. For some months he could take no part in the public services, save to pronounce the Benediction; then later to read the Scripture lesson. For four years he has tried to break to them the Bread of Life. Last Sabbath, as he spoke to them on the subject of obedience, and saw in those dark faces the 'light that never was seen on land or sea,' instead of the dense darkness that brooded there six years ago, a feeling of discouragement that had possessed him for a time was dissipated; the heavens that had been brass over him became bright with rainbow tints; and he looked up into the face of his Father and thanked Him for the privilege that had been granted him to be with others a co-laborer with the Lord in the work of transformation that is taking place here and everywhere that Christ is preached to-day.

The Station is carrying on an earnest evangelistic work in and about the city and on country tours. Of one of these Miss Jefferson writes :

During the ninety days spent on tour we camped at six different headquarters, and visited the surrounding towns and villages. It was our custom to rise early, usually before four o'clock, in order to reach the villages by daylight or soon after, else we would miss the people, for they go early to their fields. The waning of the moon was our delight; then no lantern was needed, for the night was as the day, and we could pick our way along the narrow winding stony paths without fears of stumbling or, worse, being bitten by a snake.

THE OPHANAGE.—The work of the Orphanage is sufficiently set forth in Mrs. Wiley's story of a poor little orphan girl who entered during the year:

This little one was a poor little Brahman girl who had been dreadfully abused by her grandmother. She had no father or mother, and her friends thought that she was possessed by an evil spirit and would not live, so sent her to us. When she saw a white face the first time she screamed with fear, but when a cup of milk was brought and she knew it was for her all fear passed away, and it made us so sad when we saw how hungry she was; and when she told us how she had been beaten, our hearts just ached for the poor little cripple.

Our two little babies were still such a care, and neither was yet six months old; so when Bhinabai, a woman belonging to the farmer caste, came with her little girls two and a half years old, and a little delicate baby a month old, and wanted us to take the baby so she could support herself and little girl, we did hesitate; but when Mr. Wiley pointed to the little ones who had been such a care once, but were now such dear happy, healthy children, we could not say 'No,' but decided to try to persuade the mother to remain and nurse the baby. She had heard how missionaries were supposed to defile people, and was very much afraid. Finally, when one of the servants, who was a man of her own caste, said he would cook her food for her, she said she would stay and went up to the Home. When we returned from school at four o'clock and began to prepare the evening meal she was surprised, and asked what it meant, for she had been told that we only got to eat what the missionaries had prepared. When it was all explained to her she asked for food and ate a large meal. When our evening meal was ready she was again hungry, and then said, "If I can get food like this I shall never again go out and beg." The little girl is such a dear bright little thing, and was often heard saying to her mother, "We never before had so much to eat. We never had peppers and fish. Let us always stay here." The mother has told how, after begging or working a whole day she would take the little rice that had been given to her and cook it in a lot of water and drink it. After they had been here a few months the little girl, with such a beaming face, came to tell us that her mother was learning; and not only the mother had learned, but this little child repeated two or three verses of the Twenty-third Psalm.

A few days later, early one morning, we saw such a sad-looking little famine waif coming into the compound. She was a little Mohammedan girl whose mother had died, leaving this little girl and a little brother. The father was away from home, but when he received word that the wife and mother was dead he returned home, and taking the two little motherless children to the sea attempted to drown them. Some neighbors interfered and saved the children. In a few days the father and little brother died of plague, leaving poor little Kuleem to wander about and beg. She had no relatives or friends. Finally a low caste beggar woman, who had been helped at different times, brought her to us. The filth on her body was beyond description. Most of her hair was gone, and the poor little thing had gone without food so long that she could not eat. In a few days she went down with famine fever. She was taken to the Civil Hospital, where she remained five weeks and received every care. She is about ten years of age, and after she had been in the hospital a few days they weighed her, and she only weighed thirty-two and one-fourth pounds.

Eleven have correctly repeated the Westminster Shorter Catechism, question and answer, and are expecting a Bible from America for having done so.

EDUCATIONAL.—Ninety-seven children have been enrolled in the station school. A passing grade of sixty is required in all subjects excepting arithmetic, and in this the passing grade is fifty. In the Government schools a grade of  $33 \frac{1}{3}$  per cent only is required. Of the Bible study in the school Mr. Wiley writes:

In an examination before a committee of the station recently, out of a division of the class on the subject of New Testament history two passed with the grade of 100, with such questions as the following: "Name the events in order of the first year of Christ's public ministry." Of the third year, "Give in order the events in the life of Paul from birth to death." This last question was answered by tracing on the map Paul's journeys and naming each event that occurred, including the letters written. It required fifteen minutes or more to answer this question, but most of the class answered it without a mistake. How many who read this can do as well?

Good work has been done in the school at Pataone. At Amba Seta the school steadily increased until the shed, formerly a cattle-stable, was buzzing like a bee hive with thirty-six restless, ignorant, dirty, ragged bits of humanity. For some of these wee girls it means "schooling" under difficulties, for a baby brother or sister has to be attached to the hip all day. These babies specially enjoy the motion songs, as they get an extra tossing up when their sisters "turn themselves about" in the game.

The Women's Benevolent Society has worked weekly under Miss Minor's care.

Of the continuance of the plague the report states:

Plague seems to have come to stay, or rather it recurs annually in the cold season. We have been visited by it annually for four years, with ever-increasing severity. The past year the worst type prevailed. The Government physician, who had had experience in two plague epidemics in other places, with a record in one place of 66 per cent. of recoveries in cases treated, did not have a single recovery in this epidemic. The epidemic lasted from November to May. There were about 800 deaths, and so far as known but five recoveries. We gave medicine to those who requested it, and had two recoveries. The medicine we used was furnished by our Mission Hospital at Miraj. The Government physician here got the prescription from Dr. Wilson, but said it was the same he was using without avail. Medicine seemed of no avail. The greater number of those attacked would not take medicine, believing that they should not interfere with fate. We would talk with a man who was in perfect health one day, and hear the next that he was in eternity. A gloom settled over the town, business was practically stopped, the town deserted.

During the year the Zenana Bible and Medical Mission, whose workers for years have been settled in the Ratnagiri field and have worked in closest coöperation and sympathy with the station, has discontinued its work in this part of India. Some of the workers, however, who have been specially representing it, have not as yet withdrawn, and it has been earnestly hoped that by some arrangement these most faithful and efficient women, who had the language and the confidence of the people, might be enabled to remain in this field. In their itinerating work the workers of the Mission reached 103 villages.

VILLAGE SETTLEMENT

During the four months of the cool season Miss Giles was out in the districts, touring in tents, assisted by a Bible woman, and for a short time by a preacher. A large number of villages were thus reached from five centres, sometimes all-day trips being made to distant villages.

That much of this work must be done by women was evidenced in the words of one young Brahman who said, "We do not believe in our idols any more and are ready to throw them away, but our women will not let us; unless we have worshipped them they will not set a meal before us. Come and teach them." The reception of the tourers by the villagers was almost always good, often cordial, hospitality being pressed upon them, and maybe a hand lovingly laid on Miss Giles at parting with the pathetic question, "When shall we see you again?" Once a dear woman nearly took her breath away by throwing her arms about her and calling her fondly "My sparrow," much to the amusement of the bystanders.

How was the message received? In a very few cases with controversy and hatred, often with wonder and interest, not infrequently it was drunk in eagerly.

During the rainy season the Village Settlement plan has been in full operation at Kasegaon, despite the smallness of their working force and the fact that the building occupied was only a rented Government bungalow. No missionary or Christian in this whole village district, how great the need and the privilege of meeting it as far as possible in one brief season!

Owing to the sad failure of the rains, visiting in the villages could be continued as in the dry season; but beside this large numbers, in groups or singly, have come to the bungalow to listen.

The need of a doctor was very much felt in the group. Even with their ignorance they felt they must try to help the people, who imagine every white person must be a doctor and the dispensaries were so far away. These opportunities have been used for telling of the Great Physician. Ordinary drugs have been in constant demand and also plague medicine. One man took medicine for twenty-five plague cases in another village and reported only three "spoiled," as he expressed it. He said, "I give it as you do in the name of Jesus and victory comes." During one month some 200 calls came for plague medicine, twenty on one very busy afternoon. Shortly before this time the village had made a plague image, presented it with cocoanuts and other offerings and carried it on a wee wooden cart outside the town. These people have surely proved that plague is not thus averted. Individuals there are who respond to the message. One man repeated the name of Jesus Christ so readily that he was asked, "Have you heard this name before?" "Yes," he replied; "six years ago a lady came to our village and told us and I did not let it go. I have to-day prayed twice to Him." "But His must be the only Name." He replied, "I have asked in this Name and in other names also, but from to-day I will let the others go."

MISSIONS IN JAPAN.

In the annual letter of the East Japan Mission to the Board, where is set forth as usual a careful statement of the general religious conditions and of the political situation, also as far as these effect the Mission work, the immense opportunities developed by the war are touched upon, and also the further developments in the important negotiations between the Church of Christ and the Missions, with reference to the proper basis of co-operation. It is hoped that this great and inevitable problem in Mission work may be wisely solved in Japan to the advantage of the work in other fields where in due time the same problem is sure to arise.

In behalf of the East Japan Mission, Mr. MacNair writes of the general situation and conditions throughout the country:

With regard to the outlook for Christian propagandism, we share in the belief that it is unusually promising, and that the political and social conditions produced by the war have helped to make it so. In China, the feeling prevails among men of intelligence, that the triumph of Japan is a triumph of materialism, with which Christian thought and the influence of Christian civilization have had little or nothing to do. This means a new barrier to the reception of Christianity there, and of western ideas generally. It would not be correct, however, to say of the Japanese that their success had affected them similarly, as against the truths of the Gospel. On the contrary, they appear to be definitely bent on securing whatever benefits are to be had from the closest contact with the western world, and on exercising their new responsibilities, political and moral, in the light of such ethical theories as are demonstrably the best. If one may rightly judge of the situation by what the newspapers are saying, and by the public utterances of prominent men, and by such acts as that of His Majesty, the Emperor, in contributing to the support of the Christian institutions, it is clear that Christianity has been accorded a place of real significance in the national life, and is surrounded, as it has not been at any previous time, with an atmosphere of popular respect, if not actual favor.

Some weeks ago a large religious meeting was held in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, in memory of the soldiers from Tokyo, who had died during the war. Hundreds from the bereaved families were present, and with them there were a number of the commanding officers from the army and navy. Some of these made short addresses, and they were outspoken in appreciation of what had been done by Christian men and women in the alleviation of distress and the administration of comfort.

One of the happiest of providences in this direction was that which led to the securing of a foothold in Manchuria for the army work of the Young Men's Christian Association, and of the missions and churches which were able to take part in the same. It was made clear from the outset, that the effort involved no interference with the military interests of Japan, but was calculated to benefit the soldiers, morally intellectually and physically, and officers, who were at first suspicious and unsympathetic, became the firm supporters of the movement, and helpful in its extension. It is no small matter that men by the hundreds of thousands have visited the rooms of the Association, and carried away the impressions there obtained of the intelligent and cordial concern of Christian men for their spiritual welfare. It is difficult to conceive of a more far-reaching advertisement of Christianity than this has been. It is estimated that by the time the soldiers shall all have returned from the front as many as eighty per cent. of the entire number will have been reached more or less effectively.

At Dalny is located one of the principal points of contact. All, or most, of the returning troops pass through the place, and are there for several hours at least, if not days, and they find two centers of interest awaiting them. One is a sort of general store, which is under the supervision of a Christian commissariat officer; and that it is highly attractive to men long out of touch with anything of the kind, may be seen from the fact that, although the purchasing ability of the average soldier is limited to only a few sen, the daily sales amount to eighteen hundred of two thousand yen ($1,000). The arithmetic of such numbers is easy, carrying to upwards of twenty or thirty thousands of visiting individuals. And yet the Young Men's Christian Association headquarters, which constitutes the other center of interest, has more to its credit by actual count from day to day. The men enter by companies, almost by regiments. And the books and papers to read, and the writing materials, and the music and games, and the Christian conversation and addresses combine to make up the general composite, to which the word Yaso is attached, signifying Christianity in general. The influence of it all upon the impressionable Japanese soldier may be imagined; and the soldier is just now a peculiarly effective influence in his turn in city and town and country side, wherever he is known.

The violent opposition to Christianity, as being the religion of the enemy, which was created early in the war, was short lived, for the most part, and only of local influence. It took no lasting hold on the men who did the fighting, or this success of Christian work among them would not have been possible.

Nor would the evidences of interest in Christianity on the part of the thousands of sick and wounded have been forthcoming, as testified to by those who have been most active in hospital visitation. The time is near when the spectacular part of this hospital work will come to an end, namely, the preaching of the Cross to hundreds together in wards and recreation halls; but we have had the great opportunity, and it has been extensively used. The seed has been sown over a wide area, and it has already begun to bear fruit. The provision, in response to numerous requests, of a list of churches and preaching-places of Tokyo, for handing to hospital convalescents, whose interest in the truth of Christ has been awakened, is a detail, which suggests that the baptisms already reported are not the only results to be expected from this persistent and self-sacrificing effort. For one thing this work is significant, as bearing on the consistency, with which the constitutional freedom of religious belief in modern Japan is observed. The hospital authorities would almost seem to have gone out of their way to demonstrate the fact that Christian truth is not bound; though there are other reasons for the consideration, as appears from an appeal, entitled "Books for soldiers' barracks." This, is an appeal from an army doctor who is not a Christian, but has seen so much of the value of Christianity as a moral and therapeutic agency, that he conceived the idea of bringing together the results of his observations, and printing them for wide distribution. The appeal is for aid in publishing, and is meeting with a satisfactory response.

The discussion of the independency question in Synod and Presbytery, and in the religious press, and by individuals more or less generally throughout the Church, did not cease with the failure in the Synod of 1904, to carry through a particular scheme of change. With many, and perhaps an increasing number, the desire continued, that they might manifest to the Christian world the existence of a power, inherent in the organization, sufficient for the maintenance of all forms of church life, without further reliance upon the aid that has hitherto been rendered from abroad. The desire is one with which we sympathize, as a matter of course. Its realization is also the aim of any proper mission policy, and it is our prayer that the effort may be speedily crowned with success. There is, and there can be, no difference of opinion, as to the rightness and worthiness of this ambition on the part of the Church, and of the desire for its realization now, or in the near future. It is only in our estimates of the Church's ability to carry out the plans proposed, and of the spirit it manifests in the process, that we have failed to fully agree. The several proposals that were informally voted upon at the meeting of the Council last summer were eloquent of this difference.

These proposals fell naturally into three classes, one of which recommended an out and out separation from the Japanese ecclesiastical organization, with no co-operation at all, except as the results of mission effort should be passed over to the Church, the decision as to the time when, to rest with the converts themselves, singly or in companies, as the case might be. Another class recommended the virtual acceptance of the position taken by the Synod years ago, which required the submission of all foreign aid to the joint administration of missionaries and Japanese presbyters, and the third class took a somewhat middle-course, with the provision of machinery for consultation between the representatives of a Mission and those of Presbytery a consultation which should secure to the Missions and the evangelistic work maintained by them the benefits of presbyterial advice and information, and at the same time avoid anything like organic reliance on foreign funds, and the dangers to self-support incident thereon.

In the spring the proposals were made to the members of the Council living in Tokyo by the five or six young men who had been instrumental in defeating the independency resolution in the Synod of 1904. These brethren stood firmly for the principle of co-operation. They had started a paper, in which to advocate its claims, and they invited us to take part in conducting the same, with a view to the education of the Church away from the radical, and as they seemed separative proposals of the other party. We did not accept the invitation, preferring not to take sides in a controversy, which was already endangering the peace and unity of the Church. The lines had been somewhat sharply drawn between the adherents of the two views, the non-co-operative and the co-operative, or the independency and its opposite, and had led to unpleasant consequences, such as the failure of a series of meetings, held during the winter, for evangelistic purposes, and for deepening the spiritual life of the Church.

There were some of the Japanese ministers, however, who claimed to stand midway between the two extremes, and who took it upon them to act as mediators; and when a later conference on the co-operation question was held with us of the Missions, a plan had been agreed upon, which we were to be asked to accept, and then later to support at the annual meeting of the Council. Previous to this time, that is, to the date of the second conference, no very definite proposals had been made. It was the co-operative principle in general that was talked about. But now a definite plan was presented, and it proved to be in principle much the same as that which the Synod had contended for in the years 1897 and 1898. It was as given below. One clause only was omitted (from section 2), which covered the location and direction of such of the missionaries as were engaged in evangelistic work. The proposal was put in the form of a resolution to be introduced in the Synod at its next meeting, in case the Council gave a favorable response.

"The Synod hereby resolves to appoint a Committee to consult with the Missions in regard to the following items, in order to co-operate in evangelistic work:

"1. Hereafter, the evangelistic work of the Mission within the bounds of any Presbytery shall be carried on by a joint Committee, appointed by the Presbytery and the Mission concerned.

"2. The matters, about which this Committee shall consult, are such as the selection, maintenance and dissolution of preaching places; appointment, discharge and salaries of evangelists, etc.

"3. The particulars of this plan are to receive the approval of the Presbytery and the Mission concerned.

"4. In order to maintain the unity and consult for the advancement of the evangelistic work in the different Presbyteries, a conference of all the Presbyterial Committees shall be held annually at the time of the meeting of Synod."

In the conference held with the proposers of this plan we neither agreed to nor opposed it, feeling that the case was one which in courtesy to the Council we might not properly prejudge.

Then came the meeting of the Council and the three days of discussion, the result of which was published in the Council minutes, as follows:

The Committee, appointed to consider the matter of co-operation between the Missions and the Nihon Kirisuto Kyokwai, which question was introduced in Council through a communication from Rev. Messrs. Hata, Ishiwara, Nagai, Kiyama, Arima, and Matsunga, proposing a plan of co-operation and requesting an expression from the Council with reference to it and to the general subject of co-operation, having considered this and several other plans and proposals, beg leave to report recommending that Council reply to these brethren, as follows:

"The Council, co-operating with the Church of Christ in Japan, records with gratitude to God the growth of the Church in this country, and recognizes the fact that such growth brings with it new problems to solve and new plans to be proposed for the furtherance of the Kingdom of Christ in this country and the world.

"We are profoundly grateful also for the able, educated, and faithful ministry and laity, raised up in God's providence to be leaders in this Church. We deem it a privilege and a pleasure to be associated with such men in the promotion of the work of our common Lord, and most heartily desire that form of co-operation which promises to be most effective in the accomplishment of the common end which we have in view.

"We are greatly encouraged also by the desire, so prevalent throughout the Church at this time, to hasten the day of absolute self-support and true independence, and express ourselves in favor of co-operation upon a suitable basis with the Nihon Kirisuto Kyokwai.

"Such co-operation, in the judgment of the Council, should conserve the following interests:—

"1. The rights of the Presbytery.

"2. The rights of the local church.

"3. The rights of the mission.

"Council, therefore, approves of the following plan:

"1. The Missions are free to engage in work in unevangelized places, it being understood of course, that, wherever practicable, consultation shall be had with the local workers and Christians.

"2. In the case of organized groups of believers, until they supply half of their total expenses, their affairs shall be administered by themselves and the representative of the supporting Mission, subject to the ecclesiastical oversight of the Presbytery.

"3. When such a group of believers supplies half of its expenses, its affairs shall be administered by the local congregation and the Presbytery; any aid from the Mission being given directly to the local organization."

It was in October that the Synod met, and the next step was taken toward the settlement of this vexed question. There may be differences of opinion as to whether it was best for the Council to take action in the matter prior to the meeting of the Synod; but as a result of its doing so, the proposal of the seven Japanese to approach the Synod on the subject was not carried out, and as a further consequence, it was decided to make no second stand, like that of the year before, in opposition to the movement toward independence; and when that matter was again brought forward, it was carried by a large majority.

Two closely related resolutions were passed, one concerning independence proper, and the other concerning co-operation. The latter was to the effect that in 1897 it had come to be recognized that no real co-operation existed between the Missions and the Church, and that no change had since taken place, and that it was useless to expect any in future. A committee was accordingly appointed to prepare a statement concerning the matter, for communication to the Japanese churches, and to the several Missions, and also to the Boards in America. The independency action made it obligatory on the Presbyteries to see that by September of next year (1907) all so called churches within their respective bounds should justify their right to the name by the fact of full self-support; on penalty, so to speak, of having their present church privileges withdrawn, in case of failure, the status of regular churches to be then replaced by that of evangelistic ("dendo") churches, with certain self governing powers, but no representation in Presbytery.

The decision to make a declaration of independence at this time—and by the way of a parallel is drawn to the declaration of American political independence, and is defended on the ground that, as that had to be fought for through long years of continuing war, so also this of Japan involves a struggle, and perhaps a long one—the decision, we say, was intended to serve as a spur to the non-self-supporting churches, which presumably will not wish to fall, if it can possibly be avoided, to the level of mere companies of believers, or practically that. It is a fair question whether the right of an individual church to recognition as such should be made to depend solely of financial considerations, rather than on membership and a reasonable exercise of the functions properly belonging to a church organization; and since opinions differ on this point, it is probable that when the time limit is reached next year, grace will be allowed, wherever progress has been made, and there is prospect that self-support may soon be attained; and such other things as importance of location or noticeable evangelistic activity may also be taken into account.

It is clear that we have no immediate concern as a Mission with any arrangements the Church may choose to make, regarding ecclesiastical status, whether that of individuals or of companies of believers, within its jurisdiction. Our relations with the work we have helped to maintain can go on undisturbed, just as they have done in fact, since the action of Synod was taken.

The question arises, Will the self-support and independency plans carry with the individual churches throughout the country? It is a question frequently heard among the Christians themselves. There appears to be a disposition in some quarters to oppose the Synod's action. In the North the pastors and evangelists of Sendai and vicinity are said to have needed only a word, and they would have set up an independent Presbytery; and a similar resolve was in the minds of a company of some thirty or more, associated with the Southern Presbyterians; and here also the foreign brake was applied. It is on the ground of undue haste toward the attainment of self-support, for one thing, that these objections are raised, the impossibility, in other words, for the dependent churches in the greater number of places to qualify for presbyterial standing by September of 1907. And there are those who feel that this inability is foreseen, and that therefore the move is clearly in the direction of a centralization of power. This would be the effect, if church status and privilege were to be lost in a good many instances, where they are now possessed; and if in consequence two or three of the Presbyteries were to go out of existence. We mention the feeling, not to endorse it, but for your information.

We must insist that there has been practicable co-operation between us and the Japanese. Our desire and our practice has been to magnify the Church as an institution, and we believe that we have consistently done this, and that there is no ground in fact for serious criticisms of the status quo, in so far as any rate as it affects us in our part of the field. We have sought to work, not at arm's length, but in thorough accord with the church. To suggest a single detail, if a pastor or evangelist is needed for some church or preaching-place, with which we have to do, it has been our custom, not only to consult with the leading pastors as to the fitness of an available candidate, but we have endeavored, wherever possible, to secure a meeting between the man and the people, and their joint concurrence in the management before bringing them permanently together. One other illustration. In order to facilitate the oversight by Presbytery of all work done within its bounds, we and the Dutch Reformed Mission have for years provided a considerable fund for the purpose, more indeed than was provided by the Presbytery itself. And we have shared as presbyterial appointees in the service of visitation.

This deserves to be said, in view of the assertion, which is sometimes made, that only in Tokyo and vicinity, or mainly so is serious discontent to be found, and that the causes must therefore be local. Undoubtedly the storm center is here, but the remote causes are not, they are elsewhere, except as they are sentimental with the leading Japanese brethren. We mean that they are elsewhere, in so far as missionary responsibility for them is concerned.—or so it seems to us.

With regard to the co-operation principle, however, as fundamentally considered, the opinions we held as a Mission are somewhat divided. Some of would be willing to see the idea contained in the definition of the Synod, or in the paper presented to the Council, adopted in its entirety, believing that it would work out as harmoniously in evangelistic, as it has done in educational work.

Others of us, however, feel that the best interests of the Church call for the adoption of a different course. We should like to see some sort of consultation machinery established, which should accomplish all that is really asked for, in the way of direct Japanese participation in the financial care of the independent work, and which nevertheless would not go so far as to the establishment of an organic lien upon American Christians. Every one knows the dangers connected with the protection of industry. It may be necessary or desirable for a time, but the time is likely to be long. It is at least an open question if the healthier, surer, and more rapid development of the Church toward full self-support would not be secured through a continuation of the present policy, which theoretically, and now since the last meeting of Synod very definitely, leaves foreign aid altogether out of account. The Dendo Kyoku, or Home Board of the Church, might be pointed to as an illustration of the reasonableness of this theory. The Kyoku has reached its present efficiency through Japanese effort alone. Foreign contributions to its treasury have been relatively small. Certainly the direct contributions have been. As an evidence of interest and good will the precedent set by the Congregational Mission might perhaps be wisely followed, and a sum of money given, or guaranteed, to the Kyoku for a number of years, two or three, or five. This would be a temporary arrangement, to be terminated at a fixed time. A grant of this nature would be acceptable to the Church, there is no doubt of that; for it would be unaccompanied by the "embarrassing and belittling" conditions, of which so much has been said.

The future is uncertain. The temper of the Church may change. That of another Synod may be materially different from the one displayed last October. Time is needed to discover what is the mind of the Christian body as a whole, both in the matter of the self-support problem, and in that of co-operation. A reaction may set in, of which advantage will be taken to inaugurate, either locally or generally, the plan proposed at the Council or something like it; though there would appear to be no hope for the plan proposed by the Council. This would seem to be evident from the fact that the Synod knew of the appointment of a Council committee, possessed of conference powers, and that the members of this committee were present at the meeting; whereas a motion to delay proceedings until a joint conference could be held was overwhelmingly rejected. Plainly there was no disposition to recede in any degree, or under any circumstances, from the position taken in 1897 and 1898. It was that kind of co-operation or nothing; and with some, if not many, of the members of Synod, it is doubtful if even that kind would now have been acceptable, so committed were they to the course of complete separation, and to the taking of a stand which would justify the claim that absolute independence had at last been secured. The steps taken to inform the Missions and the Boards regarding the whole matter certainly bore all the marks of finality.

Nevertheless, as we may say, there may be a reaction, under influences from outside, such as the possible failure to "carry the country."

After all is said, the practical question remains, as to how the individual missionary is affected by what has taken place. Are our standing and influence impaired? It will very likely appear to you that such need not be the case, and we hasten to say that, so far as we can see, it is not the case. There is no difficulty from the side of personal individual intercourse with the people one meets from day to day,—the students in the schools, the great majority of church-members, the evangelists in general and most of the pastors, and then outside the Christian ranks with practically everybody; no difficulty, at any rate, which did not exist before. Our aims are to reach individuals with the message of the truth, and to help in building up the Kingdom of God,—primarily of course in connection with the Church of Christ in Japan, but elsewhere as well, for there are other folds.

One of the most significant of the changes that have recently taken place in Japan is in connection with the private schools of the empire; and it affects the mission schools no less than others. Government institutions, from the universities down, are dominated by principles and methods that are essentially bureaucratic. The model followed is the German. To make good government officials is the principal aim, for schools of the higher grades, and everything else is subordinated to that. The results have not been fortunate, from the point of view of the general public; and prominent Japanese have for a long time been opposing the system, notably Count Okuma and the late Mr. Fukuzawa. The two private universities, founded by these men, are the outcome of the prevailing dissatisfaction, and the success of both has been extraordinary. The students are numbered by the thousands.

But these are only conspicuous examples. Private schools flourish more or less everywhere; and it is not simply because the government schools are full to overflowing. It is in part also because of the freer atmosphere which pervades the private schools, and the fact that their curricula are made to reflect a somewhat broader and more eclectic culture. At any rate, this is a common opinion, and now that all religious disabilities are removed, and the privilege of freedom from conscription into the army up to the age of twenty-eight years is no longer reserved to government school students alone but may be had also by those in private schools, which possess the proper qualifications, large numbers have been flocking to these latter as a class, and the mission schools share largely in the patronage.

The figures for the Meiji Gakuin are now higher than they have ever been, and the need of accommodation is such that already living quarters for the Theological classes have been secured away from the grounds, so that the dormitory formerly used by them might accommodate the overflow from the large academic building; and a similar course is in contemplation with regard to the Theological class rooms. The School has undoubtedly an assured and interesting future.

But the educational advance extend also to the schools for girls; as appears from the records for the Joshi Gakuin, and other similar institutions. Here there are no such high government schools to compete with, as in those for young men, and if there were room enough for all who apply the classes could be materially enlarged.

There is one feature of the educational situation, to which we would refer at some length, namely, the presence in Japan of the largely increased number of students from China, over that of a year ago. At one time as many as 10,000 were gathered in Tokyo, and over 8,000 are here still. For a few weeks early in the winter there was much dissatisfaction among them on account of fancied ill-treatment by the Japanese educational authorities, and as a result about 2,000 withdrew. But the trouble has now been arranged, and is not likely to recur. Though with a body of young men of this magnitude, clubbed together as no Chinese youth have ever been before, and learning thereby the power of organized and unified sentiment, there is no telling what mischief may arise, or what folly be run into.

There are great possibilities of good, however, that may not be ignored, and much careful thought is being put upon the problem of how best to reach the young men with moral and Christian influences, with the difficulties and the possibilities of development for good and evil.

The evil lies in the license, which only too natural under the circumstances, license not only in conduct, but also in thought, moral and political. Of morals there are said to be next to none. All that were brought over from China were thrown away, along with any religious beliefs that were previously entertained. And in politics the students are revolutionary almost without exception. Nothing would suit them so well as the downfall of the Manchu dynasty, and they are inspiring an anti-government propaganda in certain parts of China. They are not all boys, you must know, and they are in a position to exert an influence quite out of proportion to their numbers, or even to their years, supposing them to be still mostly under age. Towards Christianity there is no leaning whatever; unless with a very few individuals. Why should there be, they say, with demonstration by Japan of a triumph of materialistic science over a power that was conspicuously linked with the Christian name? This feeling, as we have said, is more or less general throughout China, but these students here are particularly full of it. That they will carry the impression back with them on their return goes without saying; unless in the meantime they can be shown its falsity.

To this end also the opinions of noted Japanese, regarding the national indebtedness to Christian knowledge, and morals, are now being gotten together for publication here, and in China, and in India, where also the antiforeign and antichristian virus, due to Japan's successes, is said to be at work.

Something will doubtless be accomplished in this way, and something more through an attempt that is making by the Y. M. C. A. to get better Japanese teachers appointed for service in the modernized Chinese schools. Thus far the Japanese connected with such schools have not been a success. Cheap rather than good men have been employed, we are told. But now a better class would be welcome, and men like Count Okuma have been asked, and have consented, to lend the influence of their names in support of an effort by the Y. M. C. A. organizations of China and Japan to act as purveyors of Japanese teachers for the Chinese schools, much as the Y. M. C. A. of Japan has been instrumental in bringing out first rate American young men to be teachers of English in so many of the schools in this country.

Japanese teachers are now at a premium in China over all other kinds, and if they could be invariably men of the right stamp, they would be the instruments for doing great good. Certainly there is the opportunity. This Count Okuma and others of like character and prominence readily see; and hence their endorsement of the project, and their willingness to work for its success.

EASTERN JAPAN MISSION.

YOKOHAMA: on the bay, a few miles below Tokyo; Mission begun 1859.

TOKYO: the capital of Japan; Station occupied 1869. Missionaries—Rev. David Thompson, D. D., and Mrs. Thompson, Rev. William Imbrie, D.D., and Mrs. Imbrie, Mrs. J. M. McCauley, Rev. H. M. IN THIS COUNTRY: J. C. Hepburn, M. D., Miss A. P. Ballagh, Miss Sarah Gardner.

The general report which has just been so generously quoted covers the various aspects of the work of the East Japan Mission. The various evangelistic workers have gone on steadily with their work. Dr. Thompson writes:

As for myself, since resuming work, I have made several trips to stations in the country. At one place, Oonata, eight adults were baptized and one marriage celebrated. At another place, Urawa, one adult received baptism. Two of these places, Usunomiya and Urawa, received aid from the mission and co-operate with it. One place, Oonata, belongs to the self-supporting, independent group; yet for one reason or another, we are able to co-operate with it also. To understand the vast and vexed question of co-operation, one needs a knowledge of local conditions. This is something which we cannot easily communicate to our friends in the United States, so I fear many of them will be obliged to remain in the dark. Besides the oversight of country stations, I expect to preach every other Sunday for the Mei-Sei Church.

The Mission has been strengthened during the year by the appointment of Mr. and Mrs. Reischauer and Miss Campbell. Mr. Reischauer, in addition to studying the language, has been attached to the Meiji Gakuin, and Miss Campbell has taken up her work in the Joshi Gakuin.

All friends of the work in Japan were saddened by the death of Mrs. J. C. Hepburn on March 4. The Board adopted the following minute expressive of its sorrow and its sympathy with Dr Hepburn :

The Board heard with deep sorrow of the death of Mrs. J. C. Hepburn, one of the oldest and most beloved missionaries of the Church.

Mrs. Hepburn was born at Guilford, Connecticut, July 26, 1818, and was appointed with her husband missionary of the Board on March 2, 1840. She sailed in the fall of the same year for China, and worked with Dr. Hepburn for five years in China. In 1846, she returned to the United States, but in 1859, she was appointed with her husband to Japan. For thirty-four years she worked in Japan, holding securely the affections of the people, and especially revered and loved by all foreigners.

Mrs. Hepburn was a woman of great charm of character, of irresistible affectionateness of disposition, and active mind. She gave distinction to any work with which she was connected, and when she and her husband left Japan, she was recognized by all as having been his true helpmeet in the enduring work which had been done.

The Board voted to express its loving sympathy with Dr. Hepburn, and its earnest prayer that the peace of God may abide with him during the evening hours of his long and useful life.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn removed during the year from Tokyo to Niigata. Mr. Vaughn writes :

I am teaching two Bible classes on Sunday, in the Life and Teachings of Jesus. They are called English Bible classes. One is for business men, one for the students of the Commercial School. There seems to be real interest in them. There are requests for other such classes by the students of the other schools, which it has seemed impracticable to meet as yet. I am going this month with the evangelist Dr. Owada to Sanjo and Niitsu, spending several days at each place, working as much as I can with the teachers and those who may understand a little English and helping with the singing. These two now unworked cities, with a large adjacent territory full of villages, are to be our Echigo field from this time on.

Meiji Gakuin.—The number of students now in attendance is 231. More than twenty applicants for admission to the two highest classes of the middle school course could not be received as those classes are as large as our present accommodations will allow. There are forty-four Christian students in the school and seven have been baptized during this year.

President Ibuka and Dr. Imbrie were employed in America, and with no small measure of success, in providing an endowment fund for institutions in connection with this work. Dr. Ibuka also rendered great services in presenting the mission work in Japan before the leading churches in America. Two students were graduated from the theological department, and, with the close of the year, there were four in the regular theological department and fifteen in the special.

Joshi Gakuin.—The year 1905-06 in the Joshi Gakuin has been characterized by overcrowded dormitories and class rooms.

The statistics for the year stand as follows :

Pupil-boarders .....	120
Pupils—day .....	120
Graduates .....	3
Baptisms .....	7
Members of Senior Class .....	9
Teachers—Japanese .....	15

The School still remains a very democratic institution. Girls from all ranks in life attend the school and the spirit of the school is very cordial and kindly. In view of the crowded condition of the school, it has been decided to remove the higher department to the building in Tsuna Hazo, erected by friends in America through the effort of Mrs. True for the Sanitarium and Training School for Nurses. The teachers of the Joshi Gakuin continued their active evangelizing work among the churches. Miss Milliken writes :

My Bible class of young men at Ushigame Church has had an attendance varying from ten to thirty. One of last year's members is now Superintendent of the Sunday-school and three others are teachers. The present members come from the Waseda and Imperial Universities, and the Higher Commercial School, the School for Foreign Languages and one or two other schools.

Of her schools and other work, Mrs. McCauley writes :

Keimo School this year has grown to such an extent that I feel like "the old woman who lived in a shoe, she had so many children she did not know what to do." In the spring a lean-to was added to one room, to take in one more row of seats, twenty children, but by summer vacation we were again congested. We were able, however, to make room for fourteen more children there. The school, at present, numbers 236, an increase over last year of eighty-five pupils. This school takes in the very poor of tsukiji, also many of the petty traders, and tradesmen's children, and the artisan class. These boys and girls will follow the life of their parents, but improve upon them, and will be the merchants, architects, wholesale merchants of the future, and business will be done from a Christian standard. Every child who remains after completing the primary (sho gakko grade) and enters the koto (higher grade), becomes at once an associate Junior Christian Endeavorer, and in every case, before a year, a full Junior Christian Endeavorer and a Loyal Temperance Legion soldier. Weekly meetings are held, and the children catch the spirit of organized work, like to have responsibility, and also to report work done, serve on Committees in a proper way, and are being thus fitted to be real workers in the church when they take that step.

The Shiba School has at present 150 children. The war conditions show in this school. Many of the children in the higher department have left school to help in supplying the daily bread. The spiritual condition, however, is very encouraging; eighteen children and two kindergarten teachers at the close of the year, before Christmas, professed a saving faith in Christ.

The Rescue Home has been a part of my responsibility, in which I have given two hours religious instruction daily; and we have been permitted to see the fruit of our labors in eleven of the girls at one time deciding for Christ.

It has been my privilege to work for the sick and wounded soldiers in Toyama Hospital. From January till September, two weekly religious services, where a sermon, song-service, and prayer, was the regular programme; and at times large numbers of men would ask to be prayed for, and at times from twenty to thirty or more would remain for an after-meeting, but since October, there has been a constant revival, a wonderful outpouring; up till Christmas, more than 1200 men had confessed a saving faith in Christ, and New Year's Day more than 200, and the following Thursday (January 4), 150 men came out on the Lord's side. The Christian men now have a daily prayer meeting and Bible class, whether the missionary comes or not. The work in the wards is none the less fruitful. Testaments, tracts, religious papers, temperance magazines, cards, picture-albums, have been given to the soldiers far past counting, and God has supplied all that was needed to pay, for what was not given, through generous friends.

The Leper's Home has been greatly blest this year. In December, I was present when twelve candidates were examined for baptism; eight of them came to a decision at a service held in November, by the Rev. H. Kimura; among these twelve, one, a converted Buddhist priest. On the Christmas following this same young ex-priest told his story and it was indeed touching. He in his talk said: "the words of the hymn: 'I'm but a pilgrim here, heaven is my home,' expresses my feeling better than any I can frame, but if I could now be given my choice, perfect health, freedom from this awful disease, and Buddhism, my only hope, I would choose to remain as I am, with my bright hope, and my present peace."

Mrs. MacNair writes of the Shinagawa Kindergarten:

That faithful work has been done, both in the school and among the families of the pupils, is evidenced by the baptism of several of the parents and other friends of the little ones. In certain cases, it has been slow work, but we have every reason to hope that it will, on that account, perhaps, be the more sure. Among the recent applicants for baptism, were the father and mother of a bright little girl, who was, herself, baptized at the same time. The father is a journalist connected with one of the leading newspapers of Tokyo, and three years ago was an avowed atheist. His surprise at his own changed viewpoint and the result in his life is very interesting; so also is the delight of his little daughter, who proclaims everywhere that she is baptized and has a Father in Heaven as well as one in Shinagawa.

Christianity for and in the family is becoming one of the demands in Tokyo. We enjoyed a very interesting visit from an Army officer well up in the rank, who became a Christian by investigating its teachings in order that his children might have the advantages of what he had heard was a Christian home. Buschido does not meet the moral and spiritual needs of modern Japan any more than it did during the period when it is said to have flourished.

Of the Training School for Bible women, Miss West writes:

While the regular work of the school has gone on as usual, the war has brought about a marked change in the outside work. We were asked by the members of the "Imon Kwai" (a society for comforting the families of soldiers gone to the front) to allow the students to visit families in this part of the city. A large district, including Takanawa, Dai Machi, Shirokane, Shida Machi, was assigned to our upper classes. They subdivided this district and have carried on the work systematically, acting as agents of the Society, investigating conditions, dispensing funds, attending funerals, and comforting those who were bereft or were in anxiety. During the school term, two afternoons of each week were devoted to this visiting—in vacation, five days of the week.

Hokkaido.—Mr. and Mrs. Pierson returned from furlough in July to meet a very cordial welcome and to find Japan in what Mr. Pierson calls “a day of spiritual reconstruction.”

We find:—

1. Our church people, the women especially, have been hard at work, denying themselves comforts, to minister to the soldiers in the hospitals.

2. Our special work, a soldiers' club, with a reading room every day and Bible lesson and sermon on Sundays, is being blessed. Occasionally we visit the military hospitals.

3. Work for the Anin also honored and hence encouraging. Mrs. Pierson relieving physical and spiritual distress among them almost daily.

4. Calls to work in the outlying provinces of Teschio, Kitami, Kushiro, and Tokachi imperious. We receive almost weekly letters urging and urging and hearing to no denial from these places. In Teschio, one place, Piuka, a farming community, with a church of forty, setting aside certain acres which the Christians farm in turn for the support of the evangelist. They are within sight of self-support. Between us and them, another place, Nayoro, meetings twice a month. besides interval prayer meetings, at houses of believers. A farm colony nearby also opens its doors and meetings of thirty and forty are held there. I was there last week; the manager introduced my subject in a brief address of forty or fifty minutes, in which he belabored Buddhism for incompetency and weakness and urged his farmers to turn from superstition to the truth. In another province, Kitami, two fields are in great need of a man, or rather two men. The tables are turned; the missionary no longer urges, he is urged.

In another province, there are demands that some one come and begin the work of our church; in one place almost one hundred inquirers, besides a Women's Society of larger membership, which is not Christian, but which opens its sessions with prayer and the Bible.

Mr. Johnson reports:

Since Mr. Pierson's return, the Hokkaido field has been divided; Mr. Pierson taking the northern section beginning at Takikawa, while the section to the south has been allotted to me. In this southern section there is a Church at Momoetsu, a preaching place at Muroran and a church partly self-supporting at Otaru. These are the places where work has been established for some time. The work in Otaru is a growing steadily and the church should be self-supporting in a year or year and a half. The Otura Church is the strongest church in the city and is doing a fine work. Otaru is a rapidly growing and excessively wicked city. The pastor, Mr. Hikaru, is carrying on a work that will ultimately tell in the life of the people. The pastor at Mombetsu supplies the Church at Muroran as well as his own, and amid much discouragement is holding high the banner of the Cross.

The very prosperous city Kucchan is still asking for a worker. We try to have services there every two weeks and would like to open a preaching place, but our funds will not permit. Ever since I have been in Hokkaido, this place has been asking for some one to be sent there to work permanently, but to every call we have had to say "no money." The postmaster, a leading man in the town, comes to Sapporo frequently, and every time he calls I am compelled to tell him that our appropriations will not admit of our opening new work as much as we would like to do it. Here is a town of 10,000 people, the headquarters of the new railroad, the largest town between Otaru and Hakodate, and we are unable to do anything for lack of funds. Were a preaching place opened, we have every reason to believe that a church could be formed in a relatively short time. Until sufficient funds are appropriated, we can not hope to open new fields, nor carry on a successful itineration.

I have a very fine lot of agricultural students studying the Gospel of Mark. I hope to see some permanent results before the class disbands in June. Mrs. Johnson has taken the daughters of the Vice-Governor and is training them in foreign ways. They are two very bright young ladies, and the fact that they are coming to our house for instruction is a door opened into a very large field of missionary work.

There has been an enrollment of 200 in the Sapporo Girls' Boarding School, with an average attendance of 150 and with 192 of the pupils paying. Fifty-three are boarders. Ten were graduated during the year and fifty-eight united with the Church. Miss Ward says:

In the school we have started a Christian Endeavor Society and a Junior Endeavor Society, both of which are very full of life. These societies take the place of the former King's Daughter and Helping Hand Circles. They have, besides having most interesting meetings every Sunday, given money for various good causes, including the church and a sum of sixteen yen for the famine sufferers.

Of the Girls' School in Otaru, Miss Rose writes:

Six of our girls have been baptized during the year, and three others are now asking for the same blessing, while others still are unusually thoughtful.

One of the best things about our work, really the thing which appeals to the Japanese, is the housekeeping and home-making department. It is so popular that we cannot meet the demands. More than fifty have been enrolled during the year, and more than one hundred in the kindergarten department. The kindergarten department brings us in touch with parents and other relatives of the children. It is surprising how the old wall of "caste" is being broken, children of bankers and coolies sitting side by side. Our work is large enough, we could do justice to no more.

GROUP OF OSAKA CHRISTIANS, JAPAN.

WESTERN JAPAN MISSION.

KANAZAWA: on the west coast of the main island, about 180 miles northwest of Tokyo; Station occupied 1879. Missionaries—Rev. G. W. Fulton and Mrs. Fulton, Miss Ida R. Luther, Miss Anna K. Gibbons and Miss Janet M. Johnston.

OSAKA: a seaport on the main island, about twenty miles from Hiogo; Station occupied 1881. Missionaries—Rev. Thomas C. Winn and Mrs. Winn, Rev. D. A. Murray, D.D., and Mrs. Murray, Miss Ann E. Garvin.

HIROSHIMA: on the Inland Sea; Station occupied 1887. Missionaries—Rev. Harvey W. Brokaw and Mrs. Brokaw, Rev. W. B. Langsdorf, Ph.D., and Mrs. Langsdorf.

KYOTO: Station occupied 1890. Missionaries—Rev. J. P. Gorbold and Mrs. Gorbold, Rev. F. S. Curtis and Mrs. Curtis, Miss Alice Hawthorth and Miss M. B. Cooper.

YAMAGUCHI: occupied 1891. Missionaries—Rev. W. Y. Jones and Mrs. Jones, Rev. J. P. Erdman and Mrs. Erdman, Miss Gertrude L. Bigelow, and Miss L. E. Mayo.

FUKUI: Station occupied 1891. Missionaries—Rev. J. G. Dunlop and Mrs. Dunlop.

MATSUYAMA: occupied 1901. Missionaries—Rev. A. V. Bryan and Mrs. Bryan, Miss Lillian Wells.

MOJI: occupied 1904. Missionaries—Rev. J. B. Ayres and Mrs. Ayres.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. F. S. Curtis and Mrs. Curtis, Miss Alice Hawthorth.

The Mission has been reinforced during the year by the appointment of Miss Janet M. Johnston. The Mission lost Miss Jones, however, who has been married to the Rev. H. J. Bennett, of the Congregational Mission. Within the ranks of the Mission, Dr. Murray and Miss Foster, both of whom had gone out to the field from Ottumwa, Iowa, and from the same church, were married.

KANAZAWA STATION.

The unusual opportunity for work in the military hospitals, reported so encouragingly last year, was closed to the Station the latter part of January.

At that time most of the higher officials in the hospitals were changed, and with the new men came new methods. In this way, either those in authority were influenced against us, or else the priests, fearing our increasing power, made an extra effort at that time to stir up opposition. The real source of the trouble we have not been able to discover, but the result has been too evident. On going as usual with a supply of Gospels, books and tracts to distribute in the wards, we were met at the door and requested to wait until the head of the hospital was consulted. After a half hour or more of waiting a reply came, and we were politely refused permission to continue our work. They said that they would receive at the office any books or papers we wished to leave for the men; but that we could not take them around to the wards any more. So of course our work was ended; the singing in the different rooms, the talks with those who wished to ask questions, and the explanation of the Bible pictures hung on the walls all had to be given up. Since then we go occasionally to talk with the men who are our friends, and take them flowers and books; but that is all we can do, for our hands are tied.

To take the place of these opportunities lost, the Station found new opportunities in visiting and relieving the needs of the families of the soldiers. Mrs. Fulton writes:

If those who gave the money could have seen the tired faces, the sad hearts, the dark, smelly rooms, the poverty and misery that we saw as we went from one house to another, I know they would have wished with us that they had a hundredfold more to give. When once the people realized why we had come, and what we had brought, the change in their attitude was most striking. They could not seem to thank us enough, and many found out where we lived and came, often a long distance, to thank us again.

Miss Gibbons refers to the same subject, and reports also one of the many hopeful results from the hospital work.

I don't believe anyone can ever begin to realize the harvest that will come from this great time of seed sowing. Just one example. One evening at the prayer meeting at the Ishuramachi Church a strange man rose and said: "I have just left the hospital to-day. A few days ago a foreign lady passed through our ward, and she handed me a small book. I have read it through. I find it teaches that all men are sinners and that only Christ saves from sin. I am to go back to the war in a few days and I hope to go back a Christian." He was studying faithfully when he went away.

I received some money from friends in America to be distributed among the poor families of soldiers who had been sent to the front. I got a list of these poor people from the City Hall and took money to them in some cases and rice in others. We took New Testaments and tracts with us to these places, and in the majority of these places they said there was some one who could read and they would read them. It was heart-rending to see how some of them were struggling to keep starvation from the door, and I wished in most cases that I could leave more. I tried to persuade them that it was not necessary for them to come to our home to make a bow to me for the little I had done for them, as in most of the cases they were old men and women who could not walk very well and they were a long distance from the school; but in the majority of the cases they came and the tears rolled down their faces. I have called at some of the places again and hope to keep up the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Gorbold did not open the work at Toyama, as was expected, going instead to Kioto. Mr. Nakamura, the evangelist in Toyama, was called away to the army.

These disturbances naturally have served to hinder the Toyama work, and Mrs. Nakamura has remained on the ground and faithfully kept things moving forward in a straight line. In the meantime a little girl baby came to bless the Nakamura household, which the absent father has not yet seen. Notwithstanding this interruption, Mrs. Nakamura has done her full portion of work, looking after the Sunday-school and women's meetings, visiting, and the finances of the church. The work has been remarkably kept up, and to-day is in a very fair condition. The Sunday-school remains about as before with an enrollment of nearly a hundred children, who are regular in attendance and show evidence of being well taught.

In Kanazawa the chief development of the year in evangelistic work was the calling of a pastor to Tonomachi Church. Mr. Toda has begun his work energetically and nine have been added to this church on confession of faith. The church pays more than half of the pastor's salary in addition to the church expenses. Four years ago it was proposed to abandon this organization. The missionaries were reproached for opposing its dissolution. The issue has fully justified their course.

OUT-STATION WORK.—

About seven miles out of Toyama is the town of Kosugi. It has a population of perhaps 5,000 and is the centre of a rich and thriving agricultural district. Near this town has been living for several years one of our Christians, a former student in our boys' school, and a pupil of mine fifteen years ago. He is a farmer in very good circumstances, and has been doing the business of a broker besides. Meetings have been held in his house. At an opening held in April about forty or fifty leading men came by invitation and heard the Gospel from the lips of three speakers. The young farmer is intensely interested in the enterprise, is present at every service, and frequently takes part either as leader of the meeting or as speaker.

This young farmer has been interested also in Takaoka, a neighboring city of 30,000 inhabitants. A Bible man from Dr. Murray's training class was located at Komatsu. Mr. Fulton writes:

With the coming of this Bible man to Komatsu, an opening presented itself for me to go to the Komatsu Middle School and teach the Bible in English to the teachers and students once a week. I improved the opportunity, and have kept this work up since May. A large body of students have attended diligently; and the teachers too have come regularly. After my class at the school is finished I adjourn to the chapel and receive any who come, talking with them or singing, and have another Bible lesson in Japanese and English mixed according to the character of the audience. The Bible man also joins in this latter work. This autumn a new Director came to the school.

During the spring the school had been headless, and the Bible class had been begun on the responsibility of the head teacher. The matter was presented to the Director who hesitated, fearing the consequences of such a departure in such a Buddhist stronghold. And before he gave his consent he took the matter to the Inspector of Education who said there was no objection, and so I was invited to continue. I make my talks very simple, so that some at least of my auditors will understand most of what I say, others will get a little, and upon all will come the influence of the fact that the Bible is allowed in their school, and hence Christianity is not such a bad thing after all in the estimate of the authorities.

I have a similar class in the First Middle School in Kanazawa where I have taught now for two years. The Director approves of it, sometimes coming himself to listen, and the head English teacher interpreting what I say for the benefit of those who do not understand so well.

CORRESPONDENCE BIBLE STUDY WORK.—Mr. Fulton writes:

We now publish 1,100 copies of the Yako each issue. Of this number 300 go to Osaka and 130 to Fukui. The remainder are mailed direct to the applicants.

Our membership is a great variety. For example, we have quite a sprinkling of Buddhist priests, and we do not know how many sermons of the monks are inspired by our moral and spiritual lessons with simply a change of terminology. I suppose we ought to rejoice with Paul that in every way the substance of the Gospel is preached. The following is a recent letter from a Shinsu priest asking for enrollment:

"I am a priest of the Shinsu sect, but I desire to study the salvation of the Lord by means of your paper. Please permit me to be enrolled as a member."

Here is another application from a man awakening from infidelity: "Hitherto I have been a rank infidel, but happening to see a copy of the Yako yesterday in the school, I was deeply impressed by what I read, and determined to put myself under your kind instruction; hence I beg you will enroll me among your members. Upon admittance it is my purpose to contribute as much as I am able, but not having a surplus of funds just now, I will have to send it later. Please grant my request."

Another young fellow enrolled some time ago recently sent a contribution of ten sen in stamps, saying that he was a printer boy, and had not much extra cash, but the enclosed was what he had managed to save from his earnings, and he gladly sent it as an offering in return for the great good he was receiving from the study of the Bible through the Yako.

WOMAN'S WORK.—There have been the usual Bible classes and cooking classes and home visiting among the women, and Mrs. Fulton writes especially of the work of Mrs. Iwamoto, a competent Bible woman:

Mrs. Iwamoto is a faithful worker, always ready for any good deed. She is President of the Kanazawa W. C. T. U., and is trying to work up our Society to take a more active part in the effort to purify and enlighten Japan. She is one of the district superintendents in the Ladies' Patriotic Association, and through it has gained an entrance into many good homes. It gives her a better understanding also in the eyes of the people and increases her influence over them. She is really a very capable woman, and is never at a loss for something to say.

Mrs. Iwamoto's aim is to visit someone every day. Often she goes to several homes and stays away all day, but she says that when she lies down at night, if she cannot think of some one to whom she has spoken of the way of life, she feels that she has failed in her duty and that the day is lost to her.

In the spring, at the request of some of the people of Komatsu, I organized a cooking class in that town, where direct Christian work has been almost impossible. The class numbers fifteen, all of them teachers or the wives of teachers, so they are a very bright class, and I enjoy meeting with them very much.

HOKURIKU GIRLS' SCHOOL.—Miss Luther reports:

When the year opened in April of 1904 we had 120 girls enrolled, when the year closed there were 114. We opened in April of this year with 170 enrolled, and that number actually crowded into chapel and class-rooms. Our daily attendance this term is 162.

Though but four graduated in March, we have a class of twelve for next year, and are hoping for one of twenty this year. Thus we are slowly reaching our aim for the school, namely, an entering class of fifty-five each year and a graduating class of twenty-five. We still have a waiting list and have already entered applications for next April.

But, far above these material signs of prosperity, our hearts have been gladdened by the great spiritual awakening among the girls. Though one by one had been coming to Christ, last December marked the beginning of a real revival in the school.

To have nine in one month, more than all the rest of the year together, made our hearts rejoice, and thus we passed the most precious Christmas we have ever known.

Even better things were in store for the school, however, and during some evangelistic meetings conducted by Mr. Mimaki, a Japanese evangelist of prayer and power, thirty more girls definitely decided for Christ.

Following such a week of the Spirit's working, we feared Satan would begin his work and stir up trouble. The opposition soon began and one of our best girls—one we had long prayed for, and one who came out so beautifully during that week—was almost turned from the home when she told what she had done. She was taken from the school and sent to Tokyo. The last we heard she was still holding on to Christ. Several others were threatened, and more compelled to put off being baptized. One was so frightened that she drew back into her shell, and while I am sure she believes, she will not make any profession. Several have been baptized, but the larger number are waiting for permission from home, which is coming very slowly, though there are signs of parents' hearts relenting a little, for some are now allowed to attend church.

In June we celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the school and welcomed nearly 150 guests, which included the Governor and wife, the two generals' wives, a number of school principals and officials, as well as many parents and guardians.

One of the new teachers is the largest Japanese woman I have ever seen. She is the head of the gymnastic department and a leader she proves to be. It is a real joy to see her standing erectly before her class and a greater satisfaction to see her straighten up the girls. Her advent brought a new interest in physical culture and we anticipate a marked improvement in the near future in seeing stronger-looking girls and straighter figures.

Dress reform struck the school this past spring, and sailor blouses, full foreign dresses for little girls, as well as shoes and stockings, were quite the style. Some presented a favorable appearance, but, for the most part, the attempt beyond the shoes proved anything but a success. We are convinced of one thing; while the very poor people may be poorer since the war, the better class are surely richer, for the girls seem able to get anything they want and pay good prices for things, too.

The kindergarten and Sunday-school for street children have been efficiently conducted, although Miss Mayo has been prevented by ill health this year, as for several years, from doing all that she has wished, but has heroically done what she could. Fifty-eight have been enrolled in the kindergarten, with others on the waiting list. It is recognized as the best kindergarten in Kanazawa, and the people prefer to send their children to it rather than to other schools.

In closing his report, Mr. Fulton narrates an incident well illustrating the need of missionary work in Japan.

Early in the spring a young man came to me and asked me to teach him English and the Bible. He was the son of a prominent dyer in Kanazawa, and was planning to go to America. He had been advised by a friend already in America that he ought to study the Bible before coming, as he would get along much better if he did. I consented to help him, and I gave him lessons in conversation, and afterwards had a lesson each time in the Gospel of Matthew. After a few lessons I began to comprehend where he was spiritually. His condition will be fairly well understood when I say that he did not know whether he had a soul or not, consequently life after death was a query with him, as was everything superhuman. I had many long talks with him before he began to comprehend the fundamental truths of religion. By and by the fact of a Creator and a Heavenly Father began to take hold of him, which gave him new interest in the study before him. Oftentimes he seemed to hurry through the English lesson in order to get at the Bible. His soul was revealed to him and also its immortal existence, and things began to clarify before him. The first question in the Westminster Catechism, when duly expounded, next took fast hold of him. He saw that his former life had been purposeless and that there was set before every man a high object of being, which he had thus far entirely missed, namely, to glorify God and enjoy Him forever. It was remarkable the effect of this truth over his mind. It seemed to be constantly before him, controlling all his thinking and study. He began to pray. But here he halted and stumbled for a long time. He felt the necessity and importance of prayer, but he had the feeling constantly that his prayers were not heard, that his religion was not deep enough, that he did not enter into the joy of faith the way he ought to. He seemed in great distress when he talked, and wondered if, after all, the salvation of God was intended for him. Two communion seasons came and went, but still he felt unworthy to take the step which would enroll him among Christians. He now understood what it meant to be a Christian, and he feared he had not reached that standard yet. He hated hypocrisy, and would not pretend to be what he was not. He was in this condition when summer came on and he had to give up his studies while I was absent. I fully expected him to be baptized in August, but he did not offer himself for examination at the preparatory service. But the following week opposition arose from some source in his family. This brought matters to a head. He was either to advance now or retreat. What had not been given him before in time of peace came now to him in his time of battle. He decided to go forward. With the decision came the promise fulfilled. The clouds lifted and he was in the full sunlight of faith. He went at once to the pastor and asked to be baptized. The ordinance was administered to him the following Sabbath, and in September he left for Tokyo preparatory to going to America. He makes another added to the number of those with whom I have come in contact who stand out before us as living testimonies of the divinity and power of the Christian religion. Were other witnesses to fail, these objective proofs, these real evidences would remain. There was something more than human that moved upon these souls and led them into the new life.

OSAKA STATION.

One of the most interesting features of the year has been the development of the work in Sakai. Two years ago they were but a handful. At the last Chukwai (i.e., Presbytery) they were erected into an organized church with a building costing over 2,200 yen, and this spring were able to move into it entirely paid for and free of debt.

The Training School has done satisfactory work during the year. Some have been drawn out for practical work, and a number of new men have come in this fall, so that the number in the school is about the same as last year. A very interesting work was carried on during the winter in one of the large cotton-spinning factories, whose superintendent became interested through one of our street-chapel services. He had once been a professing Christian, but had fallen away. Besides being revived himself and uniting with the North Church, he has been very earnest in providing for meetings in the factory, till press of business there made it best to discontinue for a while.

There continues to be the closest co-operation with the Cumberland Presbyterians and the joint girls' school is maintained most efficiently.

The children's day school, attended last year by about 130, was discontinued during the year, partly because of the inability to find suitable quarters, and partly because of the difficulty of getting a satisfactory Japanese head.

Of her evangelistic work in out-stations in the city, Miss Garvin writes:

By invitation of the Christian women of Sakai, I have continued going to speak at their monthly meeting. They are most cordial and appreciative, and carry on their meetings harmoniously and heartily.

Sometimes they cheerfully walk to Haze village, four miles away, in order to hold their meeting at the house of one of their members and see the moon rise on the way home. Sometimes they get on the train and go to the next station, where the Christian station-master and his wife welcome us to their rooms, opening off the station platform, and after the meeting give us all a free ride home. Once these women traveled as far as to Hamadera, in order that a sick sister from Kyoto who was taking treatment at the Hamadera Hospital for Consumptives might have the pleasure of meeting with them. Next time they go abroad for their meeting they are to come to Usaka.

The Bible woman at Sakai, a graduate of the Naniwa, is doing a quiet but solid and affective work.

I have made repeated visits to Sasayama (in Tamba, two and one-half hours by train from Osaka) this year, as last, and never once without hearing Mr. Woodhull spoken of as well as the Winns.

On the way to Saji we had stopped at Narimatsu, where I had arranged to meet in a quiet way the three Christian women and their friends, but a mixed audience of about 200 assembled and a general meeting resulted. Now on our way back from Saji another public meeting was held there, the evangelist having arrived by that time. Always we had the same quiet attentive audience, not only outside, but filling all the room and the mats.

As everywhere else, the people (mostly workingmen in this case) helped us send the children away, and then themselves sat down and listened carefully to two sermons.

HOSPITAL WORK.—

The Osaka wards alone, when full, numbered 15,000 patients, and just outside the city was the additional hospital at Tenka-cha-ya, holding perhaps another thousand. With the help of two Bible women I have distributed from the first about 12,000 Gospels and a still larger number of tracts.

HIROSHIMA STATION.

The work hitherto carried on at Onomichi was transferred to an occupied but important district in Hiroshima.

In this part of the city there are about 25,000 people not reached by any other Christian work. Although the preaching place has only been opened since the beginning of the year, we have reason to be encouraged. There are 150 enrolled in the Sabbath-school, and at our Thursday evening prayer meeting there is an average attendance of about thirty. The regular Sabbath evening services have from nineteen to forty-five present.

There have been two baptisms.

In the field of the Station there are two churches, Hiroshima and Kure, and five preaching places, Hiroshima, Kure, Iwakuni, Mihara and Tadonomi.

Dr. Langsdorf reports:

In addition to this I know of six others who, although led to Christ as the result of our work, on account of having been called away by the war, were baptized elsewhere.

The Tsūshin Dendō (Correspondence Evangelistic Plan) with its accompaniment, the Fukuin Geppo (Gospel Message), has been continued, and has grown from 1,150 to 1,250. This is exclusive of the number used in hospital work among the soldiers. The war has had its effect of greatly reducing the demand for our library books, and our hearts are often saddened when the Geppo comes back, "Address not known." "Gone to the front," "Killed in battle," etc. And yet we feel grateful that it was our privilege to bring to them something of the truth before they were called. On the other hand, it has been a great joy to receive letters and cards from all parts of the Empire, from Formosa, from men in the army in Manchuria, from sailors on war vessels, telling how they enjoy and eagerly look forward to its coming, calling it their "second father," and in many cases asking that it be sent to some of their friends that they too may learn of the Way of Life.

We have fifteen hours of Bible class work every week—four taught by my mother, composed of Middle and Normal School students; four by my wife—Normal students and women; five by our Bible women; and two by myself—Higher Normal School students and a special class composed of teachers, together with the Principal of a Buddhist school. In all these classes the interest seems to be greater than ever, and, with the exception of one or two, all have been carried on for about a year. Three baptisms have resulted from these.

One of Mrs. Langsdorf's girls is now a Red Cross nurse and says she often reads the Scriptures to the soldiers and prays with them. Another Red Cross nurse belonging to the Kosai Maru has become a Christian, and every time the boat returns to Ujina with its sick and wounded, she comes for instruction on the organ.

Another and very important phase of evangelistic work was that which we tried to do in the military hospitals. Last year I reported at some length on this, and so feel that little more need be said as to its general character or scope. In the division of the work which the missionaries of the city made, all of what is known as hospital No. 3, accommodating 1,500, and part of No. 6, 2,500, was left to us to look after. Three days of every week have been spent in going from cot to cot, talking to the men personally and giving them Scripture portions, Christian literature, pictures, albums, etc. We have taken a baby organ and violin and sung hymns, given short talks or sermons, and magic lantern talks containing Scripture truths. You will readily understand how much seed sowing has been going on when I tell you that during the last year over 175,000 soldiers have been passing through the Hiroshima military hospitals. The Lord of the harvest only knows how much seed has taken root.

Hiroshima has suffered this year not only from the effects of the war, but from earthquakes, floods and typhoons. After the two great shocks of June 2, which caused so much damage, we had from two to six more every day for a month, causing plaster, boards, and tiles to fall. Hundreds of houses collapsed in the city, and many people lost their lives. In the flood which followed 1,448 houses were submerged, and fourteen persons were drowned. I am very glad to say we were away when the typhoon came, and so were spared that nervous strain. The damage done to the property can be estimated at about 100 yen.

Miss Cooper spent part of the year in Hiroshima, and the rest after Miss Haworth's leaving on furlough at Kioto. She writes:

In response to an invitation from the Red Cross authorities, I had the privilege of doing some Christian work in the military hospitals in company with other missionaries and Japanese workers, our Station being responsible for Red Cross Hospital No. 3 and partly for No. 6. Of course it was very little I could do. My work consisted in distributing tracts and flowers and helping to sing hymns. The inmates seemed to appreciate our going and eagerly received the Gospels and helps we had to give them. I went to Iwakuni one month and taught a cooking class for Mrs. Langsdorf. The cooking class received their instruction in the afternoon and the prayer meeting was held at night. In connection with the evening meeting we had a song service at the request of some present.

In connection with my language study and other work I taught two Bible classes each week.

KYOTO STATION.

After Mr. and Mrs. Curtis left for their furlough, the Station was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Gorbold, who reported:

We have one church, four Sunday-schools, three preaching places for regular work, and one day of each month is devoted to tent evangelistic work. The Muro Machi Church has received twenty-two members during the past year. They raised 500 yen, including something over 100 yen raised by the Women's Society, and paid it toward the debt on the church lot.

The attendance at the service is good, the Sunday-school having about 100 pupils enrolled. Mr. Sasaki, the pastor, has twenty or more inquirers on his list.

A great many young men attend all of the services. After the Sunday morning service about a dozen remain for prayer. Since the first of June I have had an English Bible class, meeting for an hour before the evening service, with an attendance of from twenty to forty, most of them remaining for the preaching service.

Mr. Curtis reports:

The help of the missionary has been most cordially welcomed by pastor, officers, and the people as a whole, including the young men. At a meeting held just before our departure, not only to bid us farewell but to welcome Miss Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. Gorbold and the Honaga family, Mr. Yokohama, one of the elders, spoke for the church as follows:

"We have but one favor to ask of you as you go to the States: that is, that you will kindly bear our hearty thanks to those who for the glory of God have given us such sympathy and financial help. Indeed, we owe your countrymen our best thanks, not only as those who have been instrumental in leading us out into civilization, but as Christian friends. We are very solicitous also lest we should be deficient in showing sympathy toward our foreign benefactors who have come to labor among us."

Many other appreciative things were said, but those quoted are quite sufficient to show that the Muromachi Church, at least, has nothing but the most kindly spirit toward missionaries.

In Kyoto there is a school for training young men for the postal and telegraph service. Koga San is the Principal of this school. He came to my English Bible class through the introduction of one of the other members of the class. From the first he evinced a keen interest in the truth, and on the following Sunday came to my Japanese Bible class. At the close of the lesson he told me that in the future he would bring his students with him. I expected that this would mean perhaps half a dozen for a week or two, but the next week I found a company of twenty-four, and these students have continued to attend both my English and Japanese classes ever since, in numbers ranging from ten to forty. Koga San's chief motive in bringing his boys was that he realized their need of morality based upon the true religion. In a recent letter to me he says, "Our inner heart will be devise only by help of a religion and the Christianity is the best religion—this is my third reason of believing the Christ."

I am sure we all feel that there is a growing sentiment in Japan in favor of more distinctively Christian ethics. As another case in point, the Vice Principal of the Higher Primary School, opposite the Mission House in Kyoto, told me that although he was not a Christian and did not attend Christian services, yet he was teaching his children the morality of the New Testament.

But to return to Mr. Koga. His interest in Christianity seemed to grow as its teachings were unfolded to him. The truth took strong hold upon heart and life. In the class one evening he said, that week by week he felt the purifying effect of Christ's teachings upon his heart and in his home. And finally, to my great joy, he was received into the Church. He is most earnest and fearless in his efforts to bring Christianity home to his students, and has interested one of the departments of the Kyoto post-office to such an extent that nearly if not quite every man in it made a contribution for the purpose of placing Bibles in this Postal and Telegraph School.

There has been an excellent tent work carried on on a wide thoroughfare which leads up to a large and important Buddhist temple, to which thousands of people come on the 25th of every month.

This work requires the united efforts of the pastor, the evangelist, two Koto Gakko students, two of Dr. Murray's men and the missionary, as it is kept up without cessation for about twelve hours each time, the speaking being interrupted only for the singing of a hymn, during which time the workers pass among the crowds and sell Gospels and distribute tracts. At the June meeting we sold nearly six yens' worth of one-sen Gospels and five-sen Testaments. Why not follow up every Matsuri (religious festival) with this kind of evangelistic effort? Surely this is preaching to the multitudes. The tracts are read, and the notices given out inform the people of our various churches and preaching places and some hunt them up or come to the missionary's home.

Mr. Gorbold is especially impressed with the large opportunities for work among the students. He writes:

Kyoto is full of students. If some one were free to give all his time to teaching the Bible classes and doing personal work in English, the church could be filled twice every Sabbath with students who would also hear the Japanese sermons and results would thus be conserved. The men in the schools to-day are the men who will be at the helm as Japan sails through the straits of critical crises in the world's history. We can give no better legacy to the Nihon Kirisuto Kyokwai than an educated ministry and an educated laity. It is my desire to be able to give all my time to students. This does not mean the neglecting of the masses; it is preparing men who can reach the masses. Students still in school can often be used in preaching to the people. A crowd will listen to a bright, intelligent student anywhere. And such preaching fits one for greater usefulness when he becomes a minister or goes out into his lifework whatever his calling may be. It does not mean, I say, the neglect of evangelistic work. But it does mean the giving of the time of a man to direct work for students—a work of great importance at this special time with English at such a premium, a strained relationship with the Japanese Church, and thousands of students who will probably never be reached in any other way willing to hear the English Bible. In many cases they may come only for the English at first, but where the English is taught from God's Word that Word takes hold.

There has been relief work among the destitute families of soldiers in Kyoto also, in which the Sunday-school at the Nishijin preaching place has participated. Mrs. Gorbold writes of this.

‡ The school is well organized, having five different classes. The children became interested in bringing their rins or sens to give to the destitute families of the soldiers, and in a few months those children of our poor Kindergarten gave several yen. Mrs. Curtis took this money to the President of the Christian Temperance Women's Society in the city. It was added to other funds given for the same purpose, and first Mrs. Curtis and then myself went with Mrs. Wada, the President, to the homes to distribute money, leave tracts and speak a word of comfort. The addresses of the most needy families had been obtained from the city authorities, and surely it would be impossible to imagine the possibility of any greater need than we found in some of the houses or hovels, and of the dozen or more that we were able to help there was not one but what needed far more than we could give in addition to the amount received from the Government. One woman's husband was off at the front, having left her with five very small children to care for. Their home was a most distressing place. All of the children's heads were masses of sores, and only one of the children was large enough to be of any assistance and that only in watching the younger four. We saw a loom in the room, so asked the woman about how much she made and suggested "twenty sen perhaps?" She said, "No, indeed, if I could make that much I would not be so troubled. I make about twelve or thirteen sen only." Think of feeding six mouths with six or seven cents a day, augmented by one dollar a month from the Government! In another hovel we found two widows whose son and grandson had been called to the war. The younger woman had lost her place in a factory a day or two before we went, and the older woman, who could not walk, earned two or three sen a day winding thread. Another old couple had been glad to see their son and support go to fight for their country even though it left them absolutely destitute, except for the four yen a month from the Government. The old lady was paralyzed and the old man so drawn up with rheumatism that he sat hopelessly suffering all the time. After paying the rent for their shanty, the remainder of the four yen kept them through most of the month by eating scant rations each day. But the last few days each time before the Government money was paid they went hungry. The day we went there was not one mouthful of food in the house and no prospect of any for five days, till we gave them a very small sum, wishing it could be many times multiplied. With streaming eyes and faces beaming with gratitude and relief they thanked us over and over.

YAMAGUCHI STATION.

Mr. Erdman writes:

"I have conducted a number of Bible classes during the year, one in English on Sunday mornings at the church, three in Japanese and one in English during the week-days. Two of the students of these classes have received baptism and united with the church during the year. On the other hand, I have been disappointed in my hopes that two others would take a public stand for Christ.

As an experiment, in January I undertook a class of Kencho officials who wished to study English. We met two times each week in the evening for about five months. I made the acquaintance of a number of fine young men in this way and managed to get a few of them to attend church sometimes, but beyond this there were no visible results.

KOJO JO GAKUIN.—Miss Bigelow writes of the school:

We have now sixty in regular attendance and do not intend to take more. Seven pupils receive varying degrees of assistance from individual missionaries. Nine receive assistance in greater or less degree from the Board. All these do hand work for tuition. There are twenty-five boarders and a waiting list of those who want to come into the boarding department.

There are sixteen professing Christians. Two were received into the church during the year. Nineteen pupils, or about one-third of the whole number, come from Christian homes or from homes where one parent at least is a Christian.

There is Sunday-school work as usual, so pleasant when the little boys do not come, so very trying when they do come, and an uneasy conscience when one is relieved that they have not come.

On the whole, though, the people of Yamaguchi highly approve girls' schools, including our own; the position of the public school teachers with respect to the Sunday-schools has not improved.

Mrs. Erdman had charge of the Kindergarten after Mr. and Mrs. Ayres left for Moji.

FUKUI STATION.

There are two preaching places in Fukui City and three in out-stations. The former have thirty-eight members, of whom seventeen are living in Fukui. Seven adults were baptized during the year. Mr. Dunlop writes:

The above shows pitiful results, both for the year and for all the past years, in comparison with the number of workers and expenditure of every sort, but such is and has been Fukui. Christian work has been carried on in Fukui over twenty years. Our own work here is over fifteen years old. There are four denominations altogether, but the four of us muster for Sunday worship not more than fifty or sixty persons—about one in one thousand of the population of the city. We now and then have twenty-five or thirty at our service and have our hearts warmed for a week by such a fine congregation. Is there a Mission Station in all the East that shows a poorer return for the labor, the prayers, the study, the treasure of gold, and the treasure of health, and the treasure of the lives of missionary children with their loneliness and privation and dangers? Sometimes we ask ourselves, Has the outlay here all these years been a waste? Did the Mission come in too soon? Should we not be as far ahead twenty years hence if we were starting in fresh now or five years from now, instead of having a work with nearly twenty years of peevish debility behind it? Shall we be stronger twenty years hence for these twenty years of weakness? Or, should we be stronger in the end if we had never had them? Or, if we were starting in new now, should we have to have such years anyway?

These are idle speculations. The one sure thing is that the Mission would have deemed itself recreant to a plain duty if it had been established these twenty-five years in Kanazawa, as it has been, and never stretched out its hand towards Fukui. Our work started here none too soon. Looking at it in that way we may be sure that even the twenty years of weakness in God's providence have their good purpose.

But we believe the work has not been altogether stationary. The Christians have grown in spiritual knowledge and life. Most of them are faithful in attendance at the services of their preaching place and at other meetings and in trying to bring others under Christian influence. They are paying for the support of the work more than they did, and since the beginning of this year have made themselves responsible for the miscellaneous expenses of the preaching place—fuel, light, and the like. They paid only part of this last year. They also keep well up to the work in subscriptions to the Home Missionary Society and for Synod and Presbytery expenses. There are a number of hopeful inquirers, some of whom will doubtless make their decision during the coming months. But our constant grief is about the many who stop short at the point of "almost persuaded." The power of public opinion—or public prejudice—the influence of the family or the old people of the family, who in a place like Fukui are sure to be strongly attached to Buddhism, are sufficient in many cases to keep back the inquirer, especially if a woman or a school girl, as a number of ours are.

During the part of the year I was in Fukui I taught an English class of Normal school students once a week, and on Sundays we had the same boys in a Bible class. Mrs. Dunlop taught the class during my absence in Manchuria and part of the time before I went away. Three of the six converts this year were members of that class.

By rights Mrs. Dunlop should be writing this report, for she has had a larger share in the work of Fukui this year than I have had. I have spoken of her work in Sunday-school and Bible class. She has assisted in all our other meetings at both preaching places, if in no other way, at least by her constant attendance. Then her work in connection with the Red Cross Society, though not evangelistic, is religious and missionary and has weighed strongly in breaking down prejudice among the better classes in Fukui. Our enemies, the Buddhist priests, recognize this and would gladly have her shut out of the Society if that were now possible. Some of them have shown their malevolence in the childish way of making faces at her as she has gone about her work with the other Red Cross ladies at the Fukui railway station. From first to last, over 29,000 wounded and sick of the Ninth Division passed through Fukui on their way to the hospitals at Kanazawa. Every one of the many scores of trains stopped at Fukui for from a half hour to two or three hours and was met by the members of the Red Cross Nursing Association, who ministered to the soldiers in various ways, giving caps to those who had none, refastening loose bandages, and carrying tea, hot water and cakes to all. Mrs. Dunlop whenever possible took her turn with the others, often rising early in the morning or staying at the station late at night to do it. Not only trains with the wounded were met in this way, but also trains going in the other direction loaded with reserves. Besides the service at the railway station, the Red Cross work has included rolling bandages, listening to lectures, and taking lessons in bandaging and other parts of the profession of nursing. It has taken a great deal of time and strength.

Quite a number of the Red Cross ladies have come into Mrs. Dunlop's cooking and Bible class, which meets twice a month, and others would come in if the class were not full. There are seventeen in it and others waiting for vacancies. Some of these women who have come to the meetings from the first are Christians in heart, and with freer home relations would certainly join the church.

This is a very modest reference to the heroic work which Mrs. Dunlop did through the year, having her household and four children to care for and all the work to maintain while Mr. Dunlop was at work among the soldiers in Manchuria for five months. Of this he reports:

I left Fukui at the beginning of April and landed at Yingkow on the 20th, and the next day began work at Nin-chia-tien on the Liao river, about three miles above Yingkow. My work for the four months with the exception of two trips—one north as far as Liao-Yang and the other south to Dalny and Port Arthur—was exclusively at Nin-chia-tien. To a west coast missionary especially it was something novel and delightful to be in such close and constant and helpful contact with needy and appreciative men. We kept no tally, but our estimate was that between 400 and 500 men were in the rooms every day. If it had rested with the officers with whom we came in contact we should have been allowed freely through the field, but only the War Office in Tokyo could give such privileges to foreigners. The War Office could not be blamed. There is no Government but would conduct its wars in absolute secrecy if it could, and would have no correspondents, attachés, or other outsiders whatever following its armies. With secrecy the object, no other men could be so difficult to keep in the dark as the Y. M. C. A. secretaries. We had the Japanese language and we had daily contact with hundreds of soldiers, most of them simple-hearted men who had not wit enough to keep their own counsel about military movements. The war correspondents and the attachés could learn just as much as the Government allowed their official keepers, the interpreters, to filter through to them, while the Y. M. C. A. secretaries were in a position that made it impossible to hide anything from them.

To speak briefly of the results of the work. I have had the joy of leading several soldiers into Christ's Kingdom, and am not without faith that to many others the Kingdom has been brought nearer through my public addresses and private conversations, not only in our building at Nin-chia-tien, but also in the soldiers' quarters, hospitals, offices, and by train and boat, and by the roadside. The experience in individual work itself has been a blessed one. The wonderful hospitality and kindness that I have experienced at the hands of Japanese officers and civil officials in the field have increased my love for the Japanese people. The stalwart character of the Christians in the army, most of whom are under fire not only from the front, but also from the rear, from their own companions in arms, has increased my respect for the product of our missions in Japan. Altogether it has been a blessed work and experience.

MATSUYAMA STATION.

Through the kindness of the Rev. W. W. Atterbury, D.D., of New York City, the generous sum of $1,800 has been given for a church building. Mr. Bryan writes:

Young women from the Higher Girls' School and a dozen young men from the Normal School, all of them earnestly studying the Bible, have increased the size of our morning meeting. In Ozu the work is slowly growing and meetings are held in seven villages in the neighborhood of Ozu. In nearly all these villages there are a few Christians, and some of them who are school teachers are earnestly working to bring others to Christ.

A number of Russian prisoners were kept at Matsuyama, and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan often ministered to them. Mr. Bryan writes:

I was at the Russian Hospital day before yesterday when the news of the fall of Port Arthur was received. As I was talking to one of the officers who speaks English (I mean the Russian officer) the head doctor came in the room to tell him the news. He grasped him by the hand, and told the interpreter to convey to this Russian officer his great regret at the news and told him he hoped that it would not affect his spirits. The doctor put his arm around the waist of this Russian officer, and I thought the doctor was going to burst into tears. I never saw a Japanese man so overcome by his emotions before. The whole scene was touching and I was glad that I was able to see it, for it was to me only another proof of the genuine sympathy that the Japanese have to their prisoners of war. Of course there was excitement over the news in the office of the hospital that day, but it soon quieted down and each man went at his regular work again as if the thing had never happened. The Japanese have wonderful control over their feelings, and for this reason are often misunderstood by us who have always been taught to express fully all our feelings. To-day there is to be a celebration of the event, the bad weather yesterday preventing any out-of-door celebration. When the news about Port Arthur was told the Russians, most of them would not believe it, one man saying it would take two months more yet. One of our Christians who led the prayer meeting last night referred to the old hatred in Japan of foreigners, and thanked the Lord that it has so largely passed away, and then he prayed that the fear in Europe of the "yellow peril" might also pass away and that harmony might fill the hearts of all nations. Recognizing the hatred that the Japanese formerly had towards foreigners, he deprecated the hatred of Europeans toward the Japanese.

Miss Wells carried on two cooking classes, a young men's Bible class, a Sunday-school with thirty-five children, and an Endeavor Society of twenty-four members.

MOJI STATION.

After the last Mission meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Ayres moved to Moji for the year, in order to look more carefully after the work on the Shimonoseki Straits. It was difficult to get a suitable house, and it has been by no means an easy year, although it has been an efficient and fruitful year. Mr. Ayres writes:

I planned to spend three afternoons of each week at Kokura, spending at least one evening each week with the Christians in their weekly prayer meeting. There are three military hospitals in Kokura, and I decided to give my attention to the one which was receiving the least attention from the other Christian workers. It was about fifteen minutes' bicycle ride from the Kokura station. As soon as I finished my dinner I went to the station at Moji and took the train for Kokura. This enabled me to reach the Kitagata hospital some time before two o'clock. I saluted the gatekeeper and walked across the grounds to the ward I had decided to attend. Arrived there, I asked the head nurse of the ward if there was any objection to my speaking to the patients on the subject of Christianity. Owing, doubtless, to the fact that the superintendent of the hospital is a Christian and a very earnest one who lets his light shine, in all my experience, the answer was that there was no objection: "Please walk right in." I went into the ward, and first gave each inmate, both patients and nurses, a copy of a Gospel. Then I opened a Gospel to my text and told them where to find it. I preached never more than forty minutes. Then I selected some man or group to whom I felt some way drawn to speak to, and approaching them opened a conversation on the subject of the sermon. The rest of the afternoon went all too soon, explaining and answering questions. Some times objectors and opposition were met, but on the whole I never saw men so much in earnest and so eager to hear. It was most delightful work. My hope was to be able to take a different ward each afternoon, returning from time to time to wards previously visited to keep in touch with those who showed special interest. But before I had gotten fairly started, I came down sick. I think it was in the third week of my hospital work.

As to the condition of the churches, the most marked feature of the year has been the steps taken toward self-support. The Toyoura Church came up to half of its expenses and Aoyamasan was installed as pastor. One-half doesn't seem very large, but it was a great step for them. The meetings are well attended, so far as the membership is concerned.

In Shimonoseki, the church has become entirely self-supporting, and the prospect is good that it is the real thing and will endure. When they asked for a committee to be appointed to install a pastor in the church at the meeting of Chukwai, they were asked to wait until they could become self-supporting. They did so, and we had the pleasure of attending the twentieth anniversary of the church, at which time a pastor was installed over them, the principal parts in the service being taken by Aoyama Shozaburo and Hattori Shozo, who began the work of evangelization in that city. One part of the anniversary service was the presentation of handsome inkstones to Aoyama, Hattori and the Mission by the church.

At Moji the church services continue to crowd the room now occupied.

In view of post-bellum developments, this region is most interesting and important to the Church of Christ, as well as to the nation. It is to be hoped that some arrangement can soon be made that will insure the permanent location of a missionary of our Mission on the Shimonoseki Straits.

KOREA MISSION

THE KOREA MISSION.

SEOUL: The capital, near the western coast, in the latitude of Richmond, Va., on the Han river and 25 miles overland from the port, Chemulpo, with which it is connected by railroad; population about 300,000; Mission begun in 1884. Missionaries—Rev. H. G. Underwood, D.D., and Mrs. Underwood, M.D., Rev. James S. Gale and Mrs. Gale, C. C. Vinton, M.D., Rev. S. F. Moore and Mrs. Moore, Rev. F. S. Miller and Mrs. Miller, O. R. Avison, M.D., and Mrs. Avison, Rev. A. G. Welbon and Mrs. Welbon, Rev. E. H. Miller and Mrs. Miller, Rev. C. A. Clark and Mrs. Clark, Miss K. Wambold, Miss E. H. Field, M.D., Miss M. B. Barrett, Miss E. L. Shields, Rev. A. A. Pieters, Jesse W. Hirst, M.D., Rev. E. F. Hall and Mrs. Hall, and Marion M. Null, M.D., and Mrs. Null, M.D.

FUSAN: a port on the southeast coast, the terminus of the Seoul-Fusan R. R., occupied as a station 1891. Missionaries—C. H. Irvin, M.D., and Mrs. Irvin, Rev. R. H. Sidebotham and Mrs. Sidebotham, Rev. W. E. Smith and Mrs. Smith.

PYENG YANG: ancient capital of the northern kingdom, centre of a wide influence, 50 miles up the Taitong river; occupied as a station 1894. Missionaries—Rev. S. A. Moffett, D.D., and Mrs. Moffett, Rev. W. M. Baird and Mrs. Baird, Rev. G. Lee and Mrs. Lee, Rev. W. L. Swallen and Mrs. Swallen, J. H. Wells, M.D., and Mrs. Wells, Rev. C. F. Bernheisel, Rev. W. N. Blair and Mrs. Blair, Miss V. L. Snook, Miss M. Best, Miss Helen B. Kirkwood, and Rev. G. S. McCune and Mrs. McCune.

TAIKU: ancient capital of the southern kingdom, centre of influence in the most fertile and prosperous of the provinces, 100 miles inland from Fusan, on the Naktong river; occupied as a station 1898. Missionaries—Rev. J. E. Adams and Mrs. Adams, W. O. Johnson, M.D., and Mrs. Johnson, Rev. H. M. Bruen and Mrs. Bruen, Rev. W. M. Barrett and Mrs. Barrett, Rev. Edward F. McFarland and Mrs. McFarland, and Miss C. H. Cameron.

SYEN CHEUN: in the extreme north of the Korea field, 50 miles from the Yalu river, 100 miles from Pyeng Yang; occupied as a station 1901. Missionaries—Rev. N. C. Whittemore, Rev. Cyril Ross and Mrs. Ross, M.D., Rev. Carl E. Kearns and Mrs. Kearns, A. M. Sharrocks, M.D., and Mrs. Sharrocks, Miss M. L. Chase, Miss Jennie Samuel, Rev. Herbert E. Blair.

CHAI RYONG: opened 1906. Missionaries—Rev. W. B. Hunt, Rev. C. E. Sharp and Mrs. Sharp, Rev. E. Wade Koons and Mrs. Koons, H. C. Whiting, M.D., and Mrs. Whiting.

IN THIS COUNTRY: W. O. Johnson, M.D., and Mrs. Johnson, Miss M. L. Chase, Miss Margaret Best, Dr. Eva H. Field, Mrs. Sidebotham, Rev. J. S. Gale and Mrs. Gale, Miss Shields, Rev. S. A. Moffett and Mrs. Moffett.

The year has been an anxious one for our Korea Mission. The close of the Russia-Japan war brought an inexpressible relief, but it brought also the large problems of readjustment to new conditions. The period following a war is always a trying one anywhere. A series of internal disturbances culminated in the Convention of December 17, by which Japan virtually annexed Korea. The forms of the Korean Government are to be maintained and the Korean Emperor will continue to be the ostensible ruler of the country, but there is a Japanese Governor-General who will be to Korea, in the language of a Japanese editor, "What Lord C—— is to Egypt, only more so." Japan immediately began with vigor the process of reconstruction. The whole governmental system is being reorganized, while many changes of an economic and social character are being made. The effort to reorganize was in charge of a military department and was characterized by a sternness and decisiveness which were greatly resented by the Koreans, and which resulted in many cases with personal hardship. With the inauguration of civil authority, however, under Marquis Ito better conditions began to prevail. It is fortunate that the first Governor-General is of the type of Marquis Ito, for he is a man of exceptional ability and wisdom.

It will readily be understood that the position of the missionaries at such a transition period is one of great difficulty and delicacy.

During the year illness has brought anxiety to several homes. Mrs. Moore, Dr. Null, Dr. and Mrs. Clark, and Mr. Hall have all suffered seriously, while others have been far from well. Mr. and Mrs. Kearns and Mr. and Mrs. Clark were bereaved by the death of little ones whom they tenderly loved. Heavy calamity to the Mission circle came in the deaths of Mrs. William Hunt and Mrs. A. A. Pieters. Mrs. Hunt had been in Korea nearly eight years. As an untiring missionary, as a sympathetic, devoted friend, as an example in the home, among the Koreans, and in all the complex life on the foreign field, she was ever constant, ever noble and helpful. She continually unveiled Jesus Christ. Out from her clear life flowed a refreshing influence. We all felt it. We shall all miss it more and more as the clearer realization of her quiet force of character and life is driven home by her vacant place in our working force. The Korean women loved her, and her last month in Whang Hai Do was a triumphant entry into the dark hearts of many who in the "Eternal City" will seek her first after they see Him, face to face, whom she loved and served.

Mrs. Pieters had been in Korea only about a year, but during that period she made a remarkable impression upon all who met her. While the death of Mrs. Hunt was sudden, that of Mrs. Pieters followed a lingering illness. During that illness Mrs. Pieters manifested remarkable fortitude and sweetness and faith, so that multitudes in Seoul gained from her sick chamber new conceptions of the beauty and the strength of the Christian faith.

But in spite of political agitation and personal illness and sorrow, the year from the viewpoint of mission work has been a wonderful one. The hearts of the people appear open to an unusual degree even for Korea. There is indeed some resentment against the United States Government because it was the first of the Western nations to withdraw its legation, but it is not believed that this will hamper the missionaries in their work.

During the year the following new missionaries arrived: The Rev. and Mrs. Geo. S. McCune, Mrs. E. Wade Koons, Miss C. H. Cameron and Mrs. E. F. McFarland.

Mr. and Mrs. McCune and Mrs. Koons were on the ill fated steamer "Anto-maru" which was wrecked off the coast of Korea, and they had a trying experience and a very narrow escape from death, but God mercifully spared them.

A movement of unusual significance toward a union with the Methodists was proposed by the Methodist Bishop Harris, and taken up with great enthusiasm by the missionaries. There are many details yet to be worked out, and of course there are certain questions which must be passed upon by the ecclesiastical bodies concerned; but our Board has signified its hearty approval of the steps that have thus far been taken and its cordial willingness to consider the questions of detail as fast as they are matured and presented by the Mission.

SEOUL STATION.

While the armies of two great nations have waged a mighty conflict in the land to the north, and our own territory has been continuously under martial law, the workers of Seoul Station have pressed on during the past year in their task of carrying the Bread of Life to needy souls.

Whether the war and its various incidents and issues have been the prevailing factor, or whether a more spiritual attitude on the part of the Church, and of the missionaries too, be thought to have brought it about, it is an assured fact that audiences have been larger, conversions more frequent, the attitude of the whole community still more friendly to the preaching, and this not in Seoul alone, but also in nearly all parts of the district.

It is therefore a good year which we report, a year of marked advances, both spiritually and statistically.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Up to the present the evangelistic territory of Seoul Station is technically the same as formerly. Still, for a year past, in the mind's eye of those engaged in working it, it has undergone a decided contraction at each extremity. To the northward we are in process of setting off as part of the territory of the new Chai Ryong Station a very considerable portion, containing some of our best churches, and among them that progressive church at Sorai, which dates back to the very beginning of missionary work in Korea. To the south the entire province of Chung Chong Do is being definitely separated to be the territory of Chong Ju Station.

The City Church.—

Meeting places, 26. Baptized members, 500; catechumens, 107. Members added during the year, 97; catechumens, 114. Total adherents, 1650. Offerings, 1837.60 yen.

The year has been one of changes and contemplated changes, but on them all there is the stamp of progress. Amid these and other discouragements the Church as a whole has continued its Sabbath afternoon meetings and with an attendance larger at the close of the year than at its beginning. The generous gift of Mr. John H. Converse, of Philadelphia, secured the long-desired site for a Central Church. The first Sabbath in August the united congregation began to worship in the new temporary "Central Church." The acquiring of this desirable site has given a new impetus to the Church in Seoul as a united organization, and the members are already planning timidly for a house of worship which shall answer all needs of the work.

Mr. Clark reports that, in spite of many removals, the average attendance has fully equaled that of last year, and on the woman's side especially new faces have been seen at every meeting. The congregation has carried its full share of the work of the Home Missionary Society, giving 93 Korean dollars; to the Bible Societies, the Tract Society, to education, and to the poor, 32 dollars; and raising a total of $344.72 Korean, or about 160 yen. Street preaching in front of the church has been kept up daily all through the year, and the total sales at the bookshop in connection with the church has been 1,600 Bibles and portions and 3,490 tracts, besides 2,000 leaflets distributed.

The Missionary Society of the Church has gone on steadily with its work during the year, employing one additional colporteur, making two men and one woman so employed. Their sales have much increased, totaling 10,000, or 400 each per month. The Society is doing good work, both in spreading the Gospel and in promoting the spirit of unity. The feeling of brotherhood in Christ was very strong among the congregation just at Christmas time, when all united in raising generous sums for the support of two beds in the hospital.

Services have been well attended at the Yun-mot-kol Church, and the building is now being enlarged. The larger number of newcomers are men of the upper class, who at last come freely and worship with those who are of no account socially. The homes of the aristocracy are open to the Bible and classes are being held in different parts of the official quarter, one of them in a gentleman's foreign drawing-room surrounded by beautiful trees and garden grounds and attended by his acquaintances and friends.

Among those who have attended services this year are the family of Princess Chil-yong, who for so many years has been chief purveyor of superstitions to His Majesty and the late Queen Min. To this day none other gains the royal ear so readily as she. It is a noteworthy proof of change of the times to see her in church and have her as an inquirer.

The usual activities of the West Gate congregation have been increased during the year. The class system has been kept up, so that now there are twenty-four classes, each holding weekly meetings under a special leader. Regular mid-week meetings are held at Chantari and Chamsil, as well as at the church. The Y. P. S. C. E. has forty members of both sexes. The congregation is keeping up its schools, support of both male and female assistants to the pastor, and many forms of benevolent work, bearing also its full share in the work of the Home Missionary Society of the Church.

Not a little of the activity in the West Gate Church Dr. Underwood considers due to the kind assistance of Prof. H. B. Hulbert, who has always been ready to occupy the pulpit, and who has rendered special aid during the entire year at Chantari by his weekly services. In addition, through his instrumentality and liberality a day school has been organized at the latter point with nearly twenty boys in attendance.

West Kyeng Keui District.—Under the care of Rev. H. G. Underwood, D.D.

Meeting places, 16. Baptized members, 446; catechumens, 112. Members added during the year, 84; catechumens, 97. Total adherents, 700. Offerings, 280.32 yen.

All the groups have received one visit this year and some of them two, despite the fact that Dr. Underwood did much Bible translation and literary work. In nearly all the groups there has been a steady advance.

Of the points near to Seoul, Hang Ju and To-keuni continues to be the most promising, and these two points, together with Samoui and Chai Chong Mal, are preparing to pay the cost of a helper, who shall give his entire time to watching over these churches. Kol-poni and Sam Chuk Dong continue to hold the first place in their respective counties. The church building in Sam Chuk Dong has been completed, and the people of Kol-poni are now earnestly striving to follow the good example and are preparing to have a regular church building of their own. A number of groups in these two counties have agreed to support a helper. Throughout the whole section there has been a considerable increase in liberality in gifts, and general interest manifested in the work is at a steady increase, and this despite the fact that this work lies in a section of the country through which the railroad to the north runs, and where there has been no little disturbance due to forced labor in connection with this railroad, in many cases without any remuneration.

South Kyeng Keui and Chung Chong Districts.—Under care of Rev. F. S. Miller and Rev. A. A. Pieters.

Meeting places, 12. Baptized members, 89; catechumens, 64. Members added during the year, 8; catechumens, 39. Total adherents, 500. Offerings, 137.62 yen.

A marked change has taken place in the removal of Mr. Miller and his family and of Elder Kin to Chong Ju, the proposed new stations, in June.

In October the task began of buying the property and opening up evangelistic work in that city. In both these works we have been divinely led, so that doors were opened to us to the best families of Chong Ju, and we were enabled to buy from the start a good thatched roof halfway house at the railroad station, and a temporary residence, book store and chapel in Chong Ju, on the best part of the main street.

We find the people of Chung Chong province much less illiterate than those of South Kyeng Keui, and have made special effort to reach them with the printed page.

The Lord has shown His presence with us in this work in ways that have impressed Koreans and missionary alike, and often have they exclaimed, "This is God's favor!" as difficulty after difficulty has been overcome in answer to prayer.

The spiritual side of the work in Chong Ju has been progressing encouragingly, too. The Sabbath morning services are attended by fifty men and women and the midweek prayer meeting by twenty. The church has been enlarged three times during the year.

Of Mr. Miller's time nearly six months were spent in country work. Eleven classes were held in this field, of which Miss Shields, Miss Barrett, and Mrs. Miller held three, and three were held by Koreans.

Mr. Pieters was able only to make a single brief trip through the groups in Kyeng Keui Do, and reports them in a discouraging condition.

Pai Chun District.—Under care of Rev. S. F. Moore.

Meeting places, 20. Baptized members, 253; catechumens, 51. Members added during the year, 40; baptized children, 29. Total adherents, 505. Offerings, 361.77 yen.

The spiritual condition of the circuit has been rather better than last year.

The deed to the chapel at Putenai, one of the best in the district, was turned over to the Committee this year by Mr. Cho, who built it. At Tang Kol and Pong Tong buildings have been purchased by the Korean brethren, which are being used as chapels.

Work has been commenced in four new centres, two in Kum Chun and two in Pai Chun counties. Two of the villages thus reached are among the largest in the county, and the outlook is hopeful.

One man was suspended for drinking, and a half dozen for working on the Sabbath in harvest time. One leader and one steward were removed for cause.

Mr. T. C. Kim was unanimously chosen at the winter class as colporteur. Besides abandoning idolatry, drink, and gambling, his repentance is marked by his dismissing his concubine and ceasing to use tobacco.

The chief feature in the development of the work in this circuit this year was along the educational line, the one day school multiplying itself by six. These schools have all been self-supporting, except that the teachers received a suit of winter clothes from the missionary. The self-denial of the parents in order to educate their children and the self-denial of the teachers has been worthy of all praise. Two of the teachers are recent converts: one, Kim, a former High Priest in charge of a Buddhist monastery, is a fine scholar and has done excellent work at Pai Chun magistracy.

Offerings for all purposes have amounted to 361.77 yen, an amount more than double that of any previous year.

Kang Won District.—Under care of Rev. A. G. Welbon.

Meeting places, 18. Baptized members, 71; catechumens, 52. Members added during the year, 20; catechumens, 52; baptized children, 7. Total adherents, 225. Offerings, 279.20 yen.

Mr. Welbon made four trips through his territory during the year, occupying nearly four months, time and traveling 1,600 miles. Among the butcher groups nearest to Seoul the work has grown very little since it was established eight to ten years ago.

The work farther out, within a circle of 200 li from the city, was started four years ago and has had a steady growth ever since. Still farther on, upon his third tour, Mr. Welbon visited an unoccupied region to the east, as well as two groups 300 li to the northwest of Seoul. Sixteen counties were visited. The same ground was once more gone over in the spring and one new group established in this unoccupied region. Two hundred and two was the total number of candidates examined for the year. Four were suspended and one was excommunicated.

In February the country training class was held, twenty-six men attending and thirteen women, there being representatives from all the groups save those of the butcher class. The men brought their own rice and ate but two meals a day. The evening meetings were all studies along the line of the baptism of the Holy Spirit for service.

Miss Shields held classes for women in two of the groups, with an attendance of fifteen and eighteen respectively. These classes were greatly appreciated by the women.

Southwest Whang Hai District.—Under care of Rev. C. E. Sharp.

Meeting places, 28. Baptized members, 580; catechumens, 165. Members added during the year, 71; catechumens, 91; baptized children, 17. Total adherents, 1,070. Offerings, 841.00 yen.

Death and removals have weakened a few of the groups, but nearly all are stronger than they were a year ago. In the two northern counties, Pung Chun and Eul Yul, there has been a spirit of revival. The Christians have been roused to new zeal and the heathen are more ready to listen to the Gospel than ever before.

Interest in Bible study and class work continues to grow. Special effort has been made to reach a large number of the Christians with the class work. With this aim in view, classes were held in various parts of the field. The aggregate attendance on all the classes was between 600 and 700. In this way direct and continuous teaching for a number of days was given to a large number of people.

Four helpers and a colporteur have assisted in looking after the needs of the field. The salaries of three helpers are paid entirely by the native Church.

There are now twenty-two groups in this field. The past year four new houses of worship have been secured, and five new primary schools have been started, one of them a school for girls. Seventy-one adults have been baptized and seventeen infants. Ninety-one catechumens have been enrolled.

Training Classes.—The established policy of multiplying classes has been carried even farther than in previous years, and the number held and the number of persons in attendance is greater than formerly.

The usual Helpers' Class in Seoul was held in January, instruction being given by all the clergymen of the station and by Dr. Avison. The attendance was about fifty, and the spiritual tone of the gathering was good, not a little street preaching being done by those in attendance.

Mr. Sharp held five classes in his district, receiving help from Dr. and Mrs. Underwood, Mr. Hunt and Mr. Pieters, and three larger and many smaller classes were held by the leaders. The aggregate attendance on all these classes was over 600. In Mr. Miller's district eight classes were held, with an aggregate attendance of nearly 150. Mr. Welbon reports one class, at which twenty-six men and thirteen women attended. Mr. Moore held the usual class at Pai Chun in February. In several sections a number of classes have also been held by Koreans.

Woman's Evangelistic Work.—During the past year there has been no woman of the station in full health who could give her undivided time to evangelistic work.

While each of the married women has done what she could, and while the three single women have done whatever poor health and pressure of other duties would permit, the entire outcome has seemed fragmentary and the ground covered far from adequate for the demands of opportunities arising.

Miss Shields was able to hold country classes of six or eight days in length at An Sung, where thirty-seven were enrolled; Kim Po, with twenty-nine enrolled; Sai Chang, where eighteen enrolled; Sam Kak Kol, where fifteen were registered; Chai Jang Mal, Eul Yul, with fifty-three enrolled, and Ot Kol, where forty-one registered. Each class had its own encouraging and interesting features. In most places the memorizing of Scripture was made a specialty. In the spring again Miss Shields spent three weeks in a village, San Chuk Dong, where a number were sick with scarlet fever, nursing and teaching nursing to the girls and women, as well as studying the Bible with them.

In addition to much work in teaching and in preparing school-books, Mrs. E. H. Miller conducted a weekly catechumen class for women, a Sabbath-school class, helped in the industrial work of the girls' school, and took one trip with a Bible woman to a neighboring village.

Mrs. F. S. Miller, Miss Barrett, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Avison, Mrs. Underwood and Mrs. Welbon all did more or less special work of various kinds.

The Seoul Women's Class was held in February in the Jacobson Memorial Home; Miss Shields, Mrs. Underwood, Mrs. F. S. Miller, Mrs. Avison, and Mrs. Welbon being assisted in instruction by some of the men of the station. Fifty-eight women were enrolled.

EDUCATIONAL.—John D. Wells Training School for Christian Workers.—Rev. E. H. Miller, Principal.

A steady advance in all lines has been made and another year has been added to the curriculum.

Our lack of room, both for living quarters and for class-rooms, prevented some applicants from entering, and yet, in spite of all the drawbacks from poor equipment in buildings, lack of text-books for much of the work, and the shortage in the teaching force, the forty-nine boys and young men who were in attendance accomplished results more than worthy of all the efforts put forth for their benefit. The new building now nearing completion will be an immense gain. Several members of the Station have given more or less help in instruction.

Girls' Boarding School.—Miss M. B. Barrett, Principal.

Twenty-three girls have been enrolled. Two helpers have assisted Miss Barrett; one, Mrs. Sin, who has been in the school for so many years, being matron. Dr. Gale, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Miller and Mr. Pieters have helped in the class-room.

The girls have done their reciting one-half the day, worked the other half, and studied in the evenings. Besides doing all their own housework, they have done sewing, knitting etc., on orders to the amount of about 130 yen. More than half of this went for materials, the rest was applied to general school expenses.

Sixteen of the girls are Christians and three of the new pupils came from Christian homes. Four deaths from tuberculosis, one of them a beloved teacher, sorrowfully emphasize the need of a better building than the unsanitary native structure in which the school is conducted. That ever sympathetic friend, Mr. John H. Converse, of Philadelphia, has provided the money, and construction only awaits the negotiations for union with the Methodists.

Primary Schools.—The number of primary schools has considerably more than doubled during the year.

To the three boys' schools in Seoul one other has been added, that at the former hospital compound maintained by the congregation of the Central Church. Here twenty-nine boys have been under instruction, inside the West Gate twenty-eight, and at Yun-mot-kol eleven. The Central Church people have also opened a school for girls, taught during the past year by a graduate of the Girls' Boarding School. It has had fifteen pupils. No little sacrifice has been made by the parents of this congregation in order that their children might be taught; they have paid a full half of all the boys' school expenses and a third of those of the girls' school, a total of fifty yen for the former and twenty for the latter.

In the Pai Chum district the single school of last year has become six this year. Here too the willingness of parents to undergo hardship, that their children may be better trained for life's requirements, has been notable. In all thirty-five boys and thirteen girls have been under instruction in this district.

In the Kang Won district one new school is reported, making two in all, the enrollment being fifteen in both. In the Southwest Whang Hui district five new schools are reported, making now eight in the district, one of them a school for girls. The total number of pupils has been eighty-eight boys and ten girls.

In all the Station reports twenty-one primary schools, teaching twenty-two boys and thirty-eight girls.

MEDICAL WORK.—Physicians, Dr. O. R. Avison, Dr. J. W. Hirst, Mrs. H. G. Underwood, M.D.

An "At Home" was given to the whole foreign community on November 16, which was well attended by diplomats of all the foreign countries represented in Korea, by Korean officials, foreign business men, and missionaries. The American Minister, Dr. Allen, delivered an address.

The handsome and commodious Severance Hospital, the gift of Mr. Louis H. Severance, of Cleveland, was dedicated September 23. December 21 the women of the Korean Church were invited to inspect the hospital, and about 250 responded. After listening to addresses from a Korean brother, and notably to one from a Korean woman, Mrs. Sin, teacher in the girls' school, they visited all parts of the hospital and partook of light refreshments. On the following evening the men of the Church were similarly entertained; but they diversified the programme by turning the meeting into one of introspection, in which they considered their own responsibility for the carrying on of such work, in view of all that was being done for them and their fellow-countrymen by foreigners, the result being the immediate contribution of 200 yen to pay for the support of two beds for one year.

Evangelistic work in connection with the hospital has been carried on along all the usual lines and with encouraging results in many cases. In addition to the regular evangelistic staff, the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Sai Mun An Church has for some months supplied every day at least two lay workers, who have attended the dispensary and faithfully explained the Gospel to the waiting patients.

Medical education has not had that share of attention that the needs of our work demand, on account of other calls on the time of the doctors; but as five text-books have been completed and will be in the hands of the students this autumn, we hope for better things the coming year.

Miss Shields spent all the time that was at her disposal when she was in Seoul in helping with the nursing. Mrs. Underwood has treated quite a number of patients at her home.

LITERARY WORK.—In one or more of the many lines of literary effort which is designed to supply the crying needs of this fast developing people several members have spent nearly their whole time, others the most of their leisure.

Dr. Underwood and Dr. Gale have taken part in the translation of a number of the books of the Old Testament and in the further thorough revision which is being given the New Testament, and of late in the close supervision of the progress of the latter through the press.

Mr. Moore has effected a final revision of his Algebra, has printed a revised edition of Sabbath-school Lessons, covering the Life of Christ, and has reissued a tract. Mr. F. S. Miller has completed his translation of Torrey's "How to Lead Men to Christ." Mr. E. H. Miller has prepared an "Elementary Arithmetic, Part I," and the prayer-meeting topics for the year. Mrs. E. H. Miller has had drawn a series of maps for an "Intermediate Geography" and has written out a text to accompany them.

Dr. Avison has worked diligently upon the series of medical treatises he has in hand. Several have been so far completed that they are being printed upon the mimeograph and distributed to other stations. Mr. Clark has overseen the translation of Condit's "Important Purposes of the Parables" out of Chinese.

Volumes are in course of preparation by Drs. Gale, Underwood, Avison, and Vinton.

Dr. Gale, with the assistance of Mr. F. S. Miller, has carried the "Christian News" through another year of usefulness; and Mr. Miller has passed the Council Hymn-book once more through the press. Dr. Vinton's work for the Tract Society has been largely the preparation of matter for the press and the oversight of printing, both in English and the vernacular. He has passed twenty-three volumes through the press during the year. He has also, as before, issued the "Korean Field," acted as business manager of the "Christian News," and done the work of Mission Treasurer.

PROPERTY.—Although the occupation of the South Gate plant seemed to give us cause a year ago for looking forward to a year little broken by the annoyances of property changes, yet it has proved not so, and no inconsiderable amount of time on the part of different members of the Station has been unavoidably consumed in this trying pursuit. The number of committee meetings and consultations held over such matters has perhaps equaled the number of gatherings for all other Station purposes, and the nerve wear resultant has been no small factor in reducing the aggregate working capacity of the Station.

FUSAN STATION.

The work has developed more slowly in the Fusan field than in some of the other stations, but the missionaries now see signs of a large ingathering.

A people ready to hear the Gospel message, no opposition other than the natural unwillingness of the human heart to give up sinning, an increasing interest in the study of God's Word and a desire to lead others to Christ on the part of the Christians, longer lists of church members and catechumens, new church buildings and new groups of believers springing up and requesting the missionary to visit them—these are evidences that the Spirit of God is at work.

Our list of missionaries does not represent a full working force, because three of them are still studying the language.

We are also grateful for undisturbed peace in this time of war. Save the presence of war vessels from time to time, the occasional passing of a Japanese fleet, the booming of cannon which told that Admiral Togo's vessels were preparing for the conflict with the Baltic fleet at their rendezvous near Masanpo, and the hurried construction of the new railroad, we should not have known that a war was in progress. We have been unmolested in our homes and in our work, and have traveled anywhere in our territory in perfect safety.

A branch of the railroad has been built from Masanpo, connecting with the main line about thirty miles from Fusan. This and the main line carry us to many points in our territory, and thus save much weary traveling on foot and horse.

Aside from the political aspect, probably at no place in Korea is the influence of the Japanese seen more markedly than in Fusan. The Japanese population is about 15,000.

They bring with them their heathen religion, and build their temples in the faces of the Koreans. It is evident that the two races are not yet in such relations as to readily amalgamate, for the Koreans feel a natural antipathy to the race that is taking possession of their land, and that is forcing them to take a subordinate place. There seems to be no reason to think that the Koreans will be dominated by their conquerors in religious things. There is need of vigorous work among the Japanese along with efforts to evangelize Korea. A Japanese missionary is now located at Fusan. We should not look with alarm at the coming of a superior power, but rather consider that in the providence of God this is one of the combination of circumstances that is to work out the salvation of the East in the coming of the Kingdom of God among these lands.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Tongnai County.—Fusan Yung Sun Kogei. There being as yet no suitable material for the eldership, and it being deemed wise for the native Christians to have some voice in the management of the church, in June a Board of Managers was elected, consisting of five men, who, with the pastor, are to manage the financial affairs of the church.

There has seemed to be a lack of deep spirituality and the presence of much worldliness in the Church during the past year, which doubtless accounts for the fact that but little growth has been apparent. Some trouble among the members resulted in an unfortunate affair in January, and this has doubtless had a deterring influence. However, that has subsided, and we trust that it will eventually prove to be but one of the purifying fires by which the Church is to be cleansed. In spite of that the congregations have not decreased. We do not feel apprehensive as to the future, but we are rather hopeful that ere long the apparent standstill condition of the Church will give way before a wave of spirituality.

The Sabbath-school and the mid-week prayer meeting have been maintained with interest and a fair attendance, and have been potent factors for good. So, too, has been the work for girls, of which mention will be made in another place. Thus far the services have all been held in a building belonging to the Board which is situated on the compound. The need is felt for a new church which shall be the property of the natives, and they have taken steps to secure ground for the erection of a building.

Fusan Yung Do (Deer Island).—In September this group was set off as a separate church under Mr. Smith's leadership, it having previously been connected with the parent church at Fusan Yung Sun Kogei.

Naturally, the influences that operate in the parent church affect this congregation, and this has been in a measure true this year. However, the congregations have been maintained, and difficulties have been surmounted. When the church building was purchased the parent church loaned some money, and during the year a large part of that has been paid.

Away from the port we have but one other established group in this county. That is at the walled city of San Sung, on the top of a high mountain. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered there for the first time in May to the one believing family, in the presence of many onlookers. Who shall say that that testimony will not bear fruit in the lives of those who curiously viewed the emblems of a Saviour's love?

There are several believers scattered through the county who we trust will soon form the nucleus of other groups. Some of them frequently come more than ten miles to attend divine service at Fusan.

Kimhai County.—Last year's report did not speak very encouragingly of the Kimhai City Church. This year we are happy to say that great advance has been made. From a church in which the spiritual life seemed low and the enthusiasm small, it has grown to one whose deep spirituality is manifested by its works.

The congregations became so large that the church building would not accommodate them, and a new building was imperative. The old building was sold, new ground bought large enough to erect a church that will admit several hundred persons, and a six kan church built, in which more than one hundred people can worship. But even that is too small, and the prospect is that it will need to be enlarged before another annual report is written. On a recent Sabbath it was inspiring to see the church thronged with worshipers three times, and many standing about all the doors and windows unable to gain admittance. The influence of the church is felt far outside the city, and persons from other villages attend service there. Nor is that all. Through the faithful preaching of the leader a new group has sprung up in the city of Oong Chun, fifty li distant.

The work in the rest of the county is in a healthy condition. No great results can be reported, but all of the churches have been lights in the midst of heathen darkness, and according to their strength have upheld Christ in their neighborhoods.

The wonder is that with such little knowledge and such poor leadership as many of the remote groups have they accomplish as much as they do. That the lights do not go out is a proof of the power of Christianity. One new group has sprung up this year in a place where there was such bitter opposition that the head men of the village threatened to cut off the missionary's head if he came there. But their threats proved idle, for the missionaries have not been molested, though they have been there three times.

Kimhai is a county of twenty-four myen, or townships, and is probably as populous as any county in Korea. This is the original home of one branch of the Kim family, and the city of Kimhai is one of influence in this part of Korea. It is fortunate that the work has started so favorably in such a strategic centre.

Milyang County.—For the third successive year Milyang has shown the most rapid growth of any county in our work. Three new groups have been organized, two of them being the result of preaching from the house of Mr. Ko, of Whasan, and the third fostered by that family.

† Not only have Mr. Ko and his wife been faithful as before in proclaiming the Word, but their eldest son, the leader of the Whasan group, has given without pay several days a month in travel for the Master's sake. The new groups immediately encountered severe persecution, but there has been a reaction, until in the village of Yusoo there are more Christians than heathen. A young man, beaten by his father because he would not give up his new religion, lay three days unable to rise, but he clung to his faith, and brought his father to Christ. In each of these new groups there are ten families.

Yung San County.—Here also we report progress. Two new groups have been formed, and there have been several additions to the churches. The new groups give signs of rapid progress. One of the new groups is in the county-seat. This new work is an evidence of the evangelistic spirit of the native Christians.

Chang Yung County.—The church in the village of Twesan is the banner church.

It is not the largest, as it numbers only thirty-seven people, but its quality is prime. The first believer is not two and one-half years old in the faith, but nowhere among all our work is there a group like this one in knowledge, musical skill, preaching zeal, organization or righteous life. The eight men all came seventy-five miles to the Men's Bible Class in Fusan in February. A young man has just entered the catechumenate whose change of life is the talk of the town. A few months ago there was not a more inveterate gambler and drinker than he. "It must be this Jesus doctrine is a good thing, since it has reformed him," the villagers say. A new church building and a colporteur are some of the fruits of this year's work, and in other counties two new groups owe their birth to this banner church.

Yang San County.—Here, too, the light has been shining brightly during the year.

Though no great numerical results can be reported, yet there has been a sure growth. It is especially gratifying to learn that the efforts of the Bible woman who has recently moved there have borne good fruitage in inspiring the Christians and in interesting others in the things of the Christian life.

Chikwun County.—The work at Yung Dong especially continues to be encouraging. It is one of our most thriving groups. Though not a large church, the spiritual life is deep and strong and the evangelistic spirit marked. The membership has increased during the year by about one-half. An encouraging feature is the formation of a boys' school with nine scholars enrolled.

Chang Wun County.—As in all the other counties, so also in this one we report growth. No new groups have been formed, but the old ones have been strengthened.

The church at Mapo, the Korean part of the port of Masanpo, has been through a severe trial, but has not lost courage. The new railroad was surveyed through the church property, and the railroad authorities seized it and destroyed the building. They paid a nominal sum for the building, but, according to some agreement with the Government, the land was appropriated without compensation. The destruction of their house of worship without receiving money with which to purchase another was a sad blow to them. As the building was the property of the natives, the missionaries were powerless to help them in securing redress. However, the people rallied and purchased another house which they fitted up as a church. In spite of this drawback, the membership has increased from six to nine and the catechumen roll from five to twenty-one, and the attendance has doubled.

Oong Chun County.—We are happy to report that at last this county, which is one of the nearest to Fusan, has begun to believe. A group of believers began to assemble regularly three months ago and are calling for the missionary to come and visit them.

The group is in the county-seat, and we trust that it will become a vigorous church which shall influence the rest of the county. This is the direct outcome of the work of the Kimhai City Church, and more especially of its leader, who as a colporteur has visited Oong Chun City several times. In his work as colporteur and church leader he has proven himself a true evangelist, and one who preaches not only by his words, but by his clean life as well.

Pioneer Evangelistic Work.—The remaining counties are in the northwestern part of the province, and are those which were assigned to us for development by the division of territory with the Australian Mission. That part of the field has been explored by Protestant missionaries for the first time during the past year.

We found it virgin soil, finding scarcely anyone who had even heard of the "Jesus Church." We made it a tour of exploration and seed sowing. We found the same kind of people that live in other parts of Korea, just as ready to hear the Gospel message without oppositions, just as gentle and simple, just as sinful and needy. It is a populous region, though more mountainous, and consequently less thickly inhabited towards the western boundary. It is far from Fusan, which means that it cannot be visited as often as nearer places, yet the railroad will help us somewhat in reaching it. There should be a rest-house at some central point where the missionaries could make their headquarters for some weeks at a time, and where certain supplies could be kept. We visited all the county-seats, usually on market day, and several other markets, selling literature and preaching. Colporteurs have visited the region several times during the year. On returning from a recent trip they reported a group of believers of over ten families, and a request to the missionary to visit them was signed by more than thirty persons. Severe persecution of person and property had driven some away and perhaps intimidated others, leaving only thirteen or fourteen men with their families, who declared that though they should forfeit their lives they would be faithful. We trust that this is the beginning of a large harvest in that part of the province in the years to come.

EDUCATIONAL.—There has been an advance along the line of religious instruction, which means better equipped helpers, colporteurs, elders and preachers. One country school was established during the year, and at other places efforts are being made to establish schools.

The Men's Bible Class.—The fourth annual Men's Bible Class was held for eleven days at the Korean New Year season, and was far the best that has been held.

It was a union class, we uniting with the Australians in the church at Old Fusan. The enrollment was eighty-five, of whom fifty-eight came from our work. One church in which there are only eight men sent all of them seventy-five miles to the class, while another group fifty-five miles away sent seven men, the only one not attending being an ignorant old man. Mr. Engel, Mr. Sidebotham and Mr. Smith gave the Bible instruction, Dr. Irvin gave lectures on medical topics, and Mr. Hall instructed in music. Valuable assistance was also given by some of the Australians' helpers. The instruction was graded, the men being taught in three classes. It was encouraging to see several boys at the class, boys who in their own churches manifest a keen interest in Christianity. This means well-trained laymen and preachers in coming years.

The Leaders' Class.—The second class for leaders and treasurers was held in Kimhai City, December 15–22. Mr. Sidebotham, Mr. Smith and Mr. Moore, of Seoul, led.

Topics relating to church life were discussed—such things as those who have charge of the churches under the direction of the missionaries have constantly to face. Nearly all of our churches were represented by their leaders, and a few by their treasurers. About thirty attended, while the evening gatherings filled the building. Considerable interest was manifested in choosing the ten chapters in the Bible which were considered most precious. They selected Matthew i, v, vi, vii, xxviii, Luke ii, John iii, xiv, Romans xii and I Cor. xiii.

Helpers' Classes.—In August the Australian Mission and the Taiku and Fusan Stations of our Mission united in a helper's class in the church of the Australian Mission at Fusan Choryang. The class included both helpers and colporteurs, and numbered twenty-two.

Instruction was given by Mr. Adams, of Taiku, Mr. Engel and Mr. Adamson, of the Australian Mission, and Mr. Sidebotham, of Fusan Station. The class continued for two weeks. The second class convened in Taiku in April, attended by twenty-two helpers and colporteurs. This class also lasted two weeks. It was evident that some of the men had done faithful work since the previous class, for the papers handed in were better.

The helpers and colporteurs have been meeting with Mr. Sidebotham two days each month for study, which has proven very helpful, as shown in the examinations at the April class.

In connection with the training of workers, it should be said that we have been encouraged by the number of available men that we have found during the year for helpers and colporteurs. We felt rather discouraged for a time, because those who had been in training had accepted other positions. But good men have been raised up who give promise of great usefulness.

Girls' School, Fusan.—Mrs. Irvin's work here has been excellent.

The bright, earnest faces of the oldest class, their neat dress and quiet, courteous ways, when compared even with the middle class, which is as yet in transition, is a lesson in what may be accomplished by constant and untiring effort, while only a glance at the babies in the beginners' class reveals what seems a wonderful transition. During the past year the girls have been meeting on two week nights and Sunday evening. On week nights the first and second divisions have gathered around one long table, while the babies were in a separate room. The oldest girls studied geography, arithmetic and physiology. They read and write well, and with it all enjoy themselves like school-girls at home. The monotony of lessons has sometimes been relieved by having the children do knitting, and they have enjoyed seeing the bright colors grow into wonderful wristlets.

At Christmas, and again at Easter, a floor full of smiling mothers viewed with parental pride the picturesque rows of bright faces and gay dresses, and listened as the well-trained young voices sang the hymns that were ringing out in other tongues in other parts of Christendom. More than forty girls took part in the services.

Perhaps the best time of all in the girls' work is the Sunday evening meetings, when in the quiet sarang, grouped on the floor around their beloved teacher, there is a happy hour of hymn and recitation of Bible verses, followed by a little time when all heads are bowed, and one after another in clear childish voices and unflinching words speaks out in prayer the simple desires or wider petitions that may be asked by His children of a loving Heavenly Father, for some are growing with the years into a nearer love and a deeper understanding of the heavenly things.

Of the other influences of this work—of the little brothers and sisters taught at home, of the hymns sung and Scripture repeated on Sundays by the mothers who cannot read, of the young friends quietly told of the wonderful things learned—who can know until the time when in the beauty of the harvest there shall be brought forth "some thirty, and some sixty, and some an hundredfold."

WOMAN'S WORK.—Outside of Fusan the work for women has been done by the natives, there having been none of the women of the Station who could go to the country. Among the natives the only regularly employed woman has been Mrs. Kang, whose teaching has borne good fruits.

The churches have some faithful women who teach their sisters up to the limit of their understanding and ability. It is an interesting sight to see the women in the churches on Sunday. They often come so far that they cannot go home between services, so spend the day in the church. On those days there is much studying of the Scriptures and hymn book, and not a few women gain their knowledge of how to read in this way. The Christian men often teach their wives, a thing which is not done by heathen. Gradually the women of Korea are becoming a reading class of people.

At Fusan a Sabbath-school class has been conducted by Mrs. Irvin. This has been well attended, and the women have taken a real interest in the study of the Bible. The work for girls is reported under educational work.

Women's Bible Class.—The third annual Women's Bible Class was held in Milyang, December 27 to January 4. The attendance was twice as large as in previous years, there being sixty enrolled, representing many of our country churches. The class was taught by Mr. Sidebotham and Mr. Smith, of our Station, and Miss Menzies, of the Australian Mission, who was ably assisted by one of her Bible women.

They were a bright lot of Korean women, and their faces showed that Christianity had done for them what their heathen sisters had not even dreamed of.

MEDICAL WORK.—The Mary Collins Whiting Dispensary has been an active centre where many sufferers, including high and low, rich and poor, young and old, have received treatment.

In name a dispensary may seem a minor affair as compared with a hospital, but in Korea, where the great majority of cases must be treated from the dispensary, it demands much time and energy, especially so when many must be treated there who should be admitted to the hospital. The treatment of children forms one of the chief duties of a physician here, which will be readily understood by any one who has spent a little time in Korea and has noticed the utter lack of sense in rearing children. The mortality among children is very great, due largely to ignorance, and before much can be done to reduce it the people will have to be taught the simple principles of hygiene and sanitation.

In September, 1904, the Junkin Memorial Hospital was formally opened, the first modern hospital opened in Korea. The building is substantially constructed and is well adapted for up-to-date work. The orderly conduct on the part of the staff has had an excellent moral effect on the patients, who are also expected to observe certain rules while being treated. Like nearly all mission hospitals, the chief difficulty is the lack of sufficient funds to carry on the work properly, as most of the patients are too poor to pay all that treatment costs.

During the past year 8,764 patients have been treated, including 108 major surgical and six medical cases in the hospital.

Medical Evangelistic Work.—An evangelist is regularly employed whose work is entirely among the patients in the dispensary and hospital.

While people are waiting to be examined in the dispensary waiting-room, he is preaching to them the Gospel of the Great Physician. Probably no one preaches to more people in the course of a year in this province than he. The good that is done cannot be measured, for no one can tell where the seed will be scattered, nor on what prepared soil it will fall.

As she has had opportunity Mrs. Irvin has visited the patients, and in many ways has aided as only a woman can in arranging the hospital furnishings and in making it homelike.

The Junkin Memorial Hospital opened a new and rich avenue for evangelistic work. While the dispensary provides a greater opportunity for broadcast seed-sowing, the hospital furnishes a chance for more thorough evangelistic work, even to the complete winning of souls for Christ, and this has been demonstrated this year. Those who are unable to attend the daily services in the reading-room are visited in their wards and are urged to receive the healing from sin sickness, and we are glad to say that there are those who have been led to Christ while being treated in the hospital.

It should be said that not only does the regular evangelist preach to the patients, but the hospital staff are earnest Christians, and by their words and acts try to preach a living Gospel to those whose bodies they care for. It is the aim to make the hospital and dispensary pre-eminently evangelistic forces by creating a Christian atmosphere and by clearly pointing out to the patients that there is a Physician who heals sin-sick souls.

SUMMARY.—

Briefly to summarize the work of the year in some of its more important details, ninety-one communicants have been added during the year, thus increasing the roll to 280; the catechumen roll has grown from 204 to 252; the number of adherents has grown from 675 to 943; six new groups have been formed; five church buildings have been added; country school work has been commenced; the new hospital has been opened, where during the first nine months 114 persons were treated, while in the hospital and dispensary 8,764 patients were cared for; no groups have been disbanded, and there is an encouraging advance in all parts of the field; the Bible classes for both men and women were twice as large as previously; new native workers have arisen to meet our needs; seven counties, hitherto untouched, have been explored and seed has been sown in them which is already yielding fruit.

PYENG YANG STATION.

This report covers what has been in many respects the most remarkable year since the Station was opened. All forms of work show corresponding advance.

EVANGELISTIC.—Pyeng Yang City Churches.—The year is marked by the revival and the accession of new believers, so that the question of a new third church building is an urgent one.

Last year most promising meetings were interrupted by the war; but this year the course of the war, changing conditions, political, social and commercial, the incoming of the Japanese, the railroad, the collapse of the Tong Hak movement, and the organization of various political societies, all contributed to turn the thoughts of the people to the Gospel, so that thousands of people who for years have been hearing the Gospel and secretly reading the Scriptures and tracts were ready to listen with new interest.

When the meetings in connection with the New Year's city classes were once under way with house-to-house visitation, hundreds in the city were ready to reach a decision. The churches were soon filled with zealous Christians and interested inquirers, so that each night, after Scripture teaching and witness bearing and confession from many Christians, there was an instant response from others. Each night from twenty to sixty men and women gave in their names, until in both churches over a thousand had decided, many of them from the country. The churches became schools for catechetical instruction, and on one Sabbath in April in the Central Church alone 247 catechumens were received, a sight which was an inspiration.

For the year 374 catechumens have been enrolled. On Christmas Day twenty-five infants were baptized, and later a second class of twenty-three baptized children eight years of age began the study of the Catechism. In May eighty-six adults were baptized, giving a total membership of 915, which with 150 children and 499 catechumens makes a total enrollment of 1,556.

Our greatest loss was the death of Sin Si, the converted sorceress, who became a most faithful worker and died in full assurance of joy beyond. She left 200 nyang for missions.

The Church Association Building, with book store and reading room, designed as a centre of religious activity for the men of the city, is now in process of erection. July 10 the new South Gate Church was occupied, though the building was not completed. There have been good congregations all the year. In February during the evangelistic campaign in the city the numbers increased to 450. Since then about 400 have gathered regularly for services.

During the revival in February the congregations of the Central and South Gate Churches became so large as to render it impracticable to meet together even once a month, and in June the church voted to assume all responsibility for its current expenses, without help from the Central Church, at the same time increasing the helper's salary. At the June meeting of the Presbyterial Committee permission was given to elect three elders.

The Way Sung Chapel is now facing a discouraging situation. Since the territory to this church has been included in the Japanese military reservation most of the congregation has moved away. Those who remain are faithful, but there are few recruits.

COUNTRY WORK.—The men in charge of the country work report "Opportunities great"; "There has never been a better year''; ''Far more satisfactory than last year''; ''The best yet.'' All the reports are optimistic in tone, and all give reasons for their optimism.

Not one of the ten circuits fails to report at least one new group, and one has twelve, with ''others forming but not yet reported.'' Three new helpers are at work and one new evangelist sent out by the Korean Church. Four men are to be ordained as elders this fall, and eight more groups have received permission to elect elders.

Several more circuits have this year assumed full support of the helpers laboring in them. The Central Church has by vote of a largely attended congregational meeting made the helper's salary twenty-five yen per month. This is far in advance of the highest figure yet given, and shows an increasing appreciation of the helper's work. House-to-house visiting for the purpose of preaching has become a feature of the city classes and most of the country classes, so that to hold a training class means to give every person in the neighborhood a chance to hear the Gospel.

A new feature now almost universal is pledging of so many days preaching by individuals. Nineteen new church buildings and six newly established schools show the spirit of the people. Mr. Swallen says: ''A good tile-roofed chapel was erected this year, which taxed the Christians heavily but with good effect.''

The revival which was so pronounced in the city in January, February and March extended to the country circuits, and splendid reports of spiritual growth came from many districts. The tangible results from this movement in the country are not shown in this report, but will form part of that of the coming year.

The changes due to the war have had a marked effect both in city and country. The report of the South Gate Church says:

''The one discouraging feature is the uncertainty arising from the unsettled condition of the people in this section. The Koreans fear lest what has come to their brethren in the Way Sung may now be forced upon them, and they are somewhat justified in their fear by the way Japanese are purchasing property, laying out roads, and evidently expecting to occupy this section also . . . . Some of our best men have already sold and are about to move out of the district.'' This purchasing of desirable property is not confined to any one section or city, but seems to be going on all over the country, and is the beginning of a change that will go deep into the national life. ''Military occupation'' of churches along the line of the railway has caused trouble and loss. This is, of course, unavoidable, and the authorities have shown a disposition to do the fair thing in the way of compensation when the matter was clearly laid before them.

In many places God is using troublous times and new conditions to turn men's minds to His Gospel. They want something they can depend upon and they are learning where to find it.

Some changes of administration are worthy of note. In the city of An Ju the work conducted by Mr. Morris, of the Methodist Mission, has been turned over to Mr. Blair, increasing our force by thirty new members, and giving the added strength of a new esprit de corps. Already they have bought a tiled building for a school and are planning to enlarge the church. Some other causes of friction have been removed by similar concessions on both sides. Mr. Bernheisel and Mr. Becker in particular have transferred the oversight of several groups under their care.

September 20, the twentieth anniversary of the settlement of the first Protestant missionary in Korea, was observed very largely as Korean Thanksgiving Day, most of the churches and groups holding special services and making thank-offerings, usually for Home Missions.

Discouraging features are not absent. Lack of time for the missionary to give the personal oversight needed and lack of men to look after new converts and would-be believers is a prevailing condition. Though most of the married ladies have done some country work and Miss Snook and Miss Kirkwood have given to it all the time their strength would allow, the needs of the country women have been far from being met. The unrest that prevails turns men from the Gospel as well as to it, and the forced labor exacted for building the railroad has put an added difficulty in the way of Sunday observance. Some of the weaker brethren have failed at this test, but most of the Church stands firm on this vital matter.

The men to whom the oversight of the work is committed are not always worthy of their trust, and the work suffers proportionately. One group reports that its strongest man had been committing adultery and the group became practically disbanded. At a recent visit the missionary in charge gathered the people once more, and the sin was publicly confessed and a new start taken. At another place the leader's son has been suspended for the same sin, and the group is badly set back, though it is hoped that it may prosper again under the new leader just appointed.

But these cases are rare, and the prevailing spirit is one of steady aggressive work for the souls of men. Each year sees the Christians better instructed and their influence more felt.

Many instances deserve special mention.

A group in Sung Chun county was started by a young man's getting hold of a Testament as part of his inheritance at his father's death. Eight families are now believing in that village. Two young men in Whang Hai built a church for their group, putting in such time as they could spare from their farming. One of the new groups reported is at a village where for several years there has been but one believer, a young man who stood firm in spite of persecutions from family and friends. This spring he was baptized, and nine people whom his preaching and example had won were received as catechumens.

At Yung Yu magistracy a new church, seating about 300, has just been completed. All the Christians in the county helped to build it, and they gather there to worship at appointed times, beside using it for the work of the local church.

An evangelist has been sent by the Korean Church to a village in An Ju county. He is to receive no salary, but was given a lump sum equal to one year's pay, with which he bought a house, moved his family, and set up a little business. He is to remain there in what is practically untouched country and preach as opportunity offers. Eleven people now worship in his house, and a strong group is in prospect.

Training Classes.—Training classes have been most satisfactory in every way; 144 classes were held with an attendance of 7,021. Perhaps the most important matter connected with these classes is their evangelistic nature. Though their first object is to give Bible instruction to the Christians, they have become almost universally an opportunity for house-to-house preaching, so that a training class usually means a revival in the church where it is held and a thorough presentation of the Gospel in the whole village or city.

Korean Committee of Missions.—

The contributions have been much larger this year owing to the passing of the war disturbances, so that the Committee has sent out four missionary evangelists for the whole year. It has also used 1,000 nyang towards the settlement of an evangelist in the unevangelized territory of An Ju county, where without further expense to the Committee he preaches while making his own living, following Paul's example at Corinth and Thessalonica.

Arrangements have just been made to send another evangelist for three months to Whang Hai province with funds received as Thanksgiving Day offerings from that section.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Theological Class.—The year witnesses marked progress in the preparation of men for the ministry. The advanced class of eight men took the third year's course and a new class of fourteen men took the first year's course.

Teaching Force.—

Dr. Moffett gave most of his time for three months to this work; Mr. Foote, of the Canadian Mission, gave one month; Mr. Junkin, of the Southern Presbyterian Mission, a month and a half, and Dr. Underwood, of Seoul Station, gave one month; so that with considerable time also from Mr. Swallen, Dr. Baird, Mr. Bernheisel and Mr. Blair, with lectures on hygiene from Dr. Wells, we were able to complete the course outlined for these two years. Both classes did good work. Students came from three stations of our Mission, two of the Southern Presbyterian Mission and one of the Australia Mission.

Examinations in the Helpers' Course of Study were conducted in Syen Chun and Pyeng Yang in the winter and in Pyeng Yang at the time of the summer class. A number finishing this course are transferred to the Theological classes, while fifteen are enrolled in a new class just finished.

The Academy.—W. M. Baird, Ph.D., Principal.

The Academy opened October 12. The total enrollment was 102 pupils. In spite of disturbing war conditions the attendance remained good until the close of the year. Applicants from wealthy and high-class families have been unprecedentedly numerous. Pupils were enrolled from twenty-nine counties. Four pupils were granted diplomas June 12. The graduating exercises of this the second class to graduate were apparently enjoyed by a large number of Koreans.

Several missionaries assisted Dr. Baird as far as their other duties permitted. The bulk of the work in the lower classes has been done by the three Korean teachers and two tutors, all of whom were trained in the Academy. The work done by the pupils has been in all respects the most encouraging in the history of the school.

Most of the pupils are Christians. About one-third are actively engaged in aggressive Christian work, being voluntarily organized into a band for street preaching and village visitation. The ambition of very many of the pupils is to fit themselves to do the Lord's work. Graduates of the school and pupils in the advanced classes have been constantly in demand for important positions. Cheering reports come from most of those who have dropped out and are filling places in the church work as colporteurs, leaders, teachers, etc.

The school has been loyally appreciated by Korean patrons, both in prayerful interest, in sending pupils, and in financial contributions. Gifts from the churches have aggregated 1,565 nyang, or 121 yen, from eighty-two churches.

Manual Labor Department.—

As in the past, about half the pupils obtained their board in return for labor rendered in the work department. The scholarship of these compares favorably with that of those who do not work. In no year has the work been of a better quality or more cheerfully rendered. Pupils at the beginning are employed in hard rough work, such as making roads, work in the garden or fields, janitor work, making straw rope or shoes, and general coolie labor. After an apprenticeship of this kind many of them pass to more skillful work, such as map-drawing, copying text-books, making musical, astronomical, botanical and zoological charts, teaching in the lower classes and in the lower schools, teaching in the blind school, helping missionaries in their literary and secretarial work. Four pupils have been employed in the press-room, which has sent out 521,270 printed pages for use in the work. Additional type and apparatus have been added to the printing press plant by the gifts of Miss Emma H. Paige, of Minneapolis.

Blacksmithing and carpentering have been carried on under Mr. Lee's oversight in the Anna Davis shops, and the printing press plant is also located there. Among additions to the apparatus presented to the school this year may be mentioned a glass cabinet for scientific specimens, a clock, and bath-house utensils.

New Instruments.—Great joy was caused in the school by the arrival of the long-expected scientific instruments. A fine sextant and transit were the gifts of Commander John B. Blish, of the U. S. Navy. A beautiful five-foot tube telescope with four-inch object glass was the joint gift of several good friends.

These instruments emphasize the need long felt for a science hall, as the increase of students has made our accommodations crowded.

Higher Education.—

The time has come for taking advanced steps in educational work. Graduates and undergraduates are looking to us to furnish a thorough collegiate education. The demands of our constituency and the changing character of the times make it imperative that we move forward. We believe that we should found and equip a college of high grade in order to hold the advantages already gained and to improve the opportunities which are pressing upon us. The fact of a large and rapidly growing work is the finger of God pointing to open doors of present possibilities of service.

Union.—

With a view to the highest economy of the working force in accomplishing more and better work, we favor the founding of one union college in this field. During the year the Station expressed itself as being in favor of joint educational work in conjunction with the Canadian Presbyterian Mission, and also with the Methodist Mission. Good hopes are entertained that wise plans for co-operation may be formed by the respective Missions, by which all may unite in founding one strong educational plant which will do the work of all with a minimum amount of labor and expense and a maximum of efficiency.

Advanced School for Girls and Women.—The Advanced School for Girls and Women was this year in charge of Miss Snook.

The school opened October 15 for a three and a half months' term. The enrollment was fifty. The teaching was done by the ladies of the Station and two Koreans. Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Lee had charge of the boarding department. Three small Korean houses on Mission property, the only quarters available, were cleaned and slightly re-modeled for dining room and dormitory. They were not desirable as they were not protected as they should be, but we look forward with pleasure to next year when the school will occupy the buildings now used as a hospital. Twelve girls were in the boarding department and eleven widows and young women were in the women's room where they managed their own housekeeping. The girls in the boarding department brought food or its equivalent in money and did their own cooking and sewing. Aside from the advanced school there has been held, as usual, a school for older women or such as could not attend daily classes. This was in charge of Mrs. Wells assisted by her Bible woman. Three sessions a week were held and the enrollment was forty-five, with average attendance of nineteen.

There are in connection with the Pyeng Yang City churches five primary schools for boys, one new one having been established this year at the South Gate. Nine teachers and tutors have been employed. From one-fourth to one-half of school expenses are from foreign funds, the remainder being supplied by the parents. The fourth graduating exercises were held and five boys completed the course.

There are three primary schools for girls in connection with the Pyeng Yang City churches. One in the city is in charge of Miss Kirkwood, one at the Mission compound in charge of Mrs. Wells, and the one at the South Gate in charge of Mrs. Blair.

The South Gate School was established during the past year and is entirely supported by the Koreans. The other two receive less than half their support from foreign funds. The total enrollment is 122 girls, with average attendance of ninety-one.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Alice F. Moffett reports frequent requests for advice and treatment. A few professional calls have been made in homes and 154 women and children came to the house for treatment.

Dr. Whiting reports 680 patients and sixty-two calls at Pyeng Yang, 229 and five calls at Syen Chyun, 1,303 and thirty-four calls at Chai Ryong.

In Chai Ryong nothing of a human agency has done more to make the way smooth and open the hearts of the people to the loving influence of the Gospel. At different times he has had full charge of the medical work in Pyeng Yang and in Syen Chyun, and in other ways has been of great assistance.

Dr. Wells reports for the six months since his return from furlough an increasing number of converts, advance in self-support, an eager class of Christian medical students, overcrowded accommodations and increase in number and importance of surgical operations.

The patients average from 20 to 120 a day, 7,385 being the number of different ones recorded from November to May.

Surgical operations for the six months numbered 217 by Dr. Wells and 118 by the student assistants. The salary list is about thirty-five yen a month, this is small because of the services rendered by the students.

Caroline A. Ladd Hospital.—The much appreciated and good gift of $5,000 from Mrs. Ladd, of Portland, Oregon, for the new hospital, with $1,500 from other sources for equipment, gave great pleasure to all.

The main building is now up, and others under the skilled oversight of Mr. Lee are being constructed. Combining, as the plant does, all the good things of Korean architecture and construction, and at the same time conserving all the essential principles of modern hospital construction, especially in ventilation, we are getting, on the pavilion plan, a model for the money.

Medical Class.—The medical class numbers the full six allowed by Mission rule. There were some twenty applicants, and as Dr. Folwell and Dr. Wells have united their medical classes, we hope it is but the precursor of more intimate relations in hospital work. The students are perforce self-supporting.

Health Report.—Sickness in the missionary community has been constant. In the children the causes were various. In the men and women it is plain that the nervous strain is telling. With an average of some 2,000 adherents to each clerical man, with expenses increasing on all lines and no increase in the source of income, with itinerating, country and city classes in a'almost constant operation, multiplying cares in oversight of native helpers, etc., plead powerfully for change and rest more often than the long term of service provides.

Mrs. Baird has completed a text-book on Zoology. Mr. Swallen reports completed during the year: Studies in Philippians, an Outline of Revelation, and a Chronology of the Four Gospels, with other works in progress.

Dr. Wells has prepared a new edition of his "Hygiene" and Handbook of Therapeutics. Mr. Baird has completed an Outline of Hebrews and an Outline of the Acts of the Apostles. Previous editions of the tracts "Guide to Heaven," "The True Saviour of the World," and the "Atonement" having been exhausted, Mr. Baird has revised them. Outlines of Mark were revised. For class-room use an Illustrated Astronomy has been brought almost to completion, and the Book of Daniel has been translated. Some work has been done on the preparation of glossaries of scientific terms. Work has been done in preparing a school geography. Several translations from valuable books in the Chinese have been made by a literary assistant and are ready for a final revision.

TAIKU STATION.

When Mr. Adams first came to Taiku in 1899 he came by river boat, spending eleven days on the way. Later the journey to the port was shortened to three days across the mountains by sedan chair and pack pony. Now a well-equipped express takes us down in three hours and a half. Then our only preaching quarters was a building 16 by 16 feet, and the missionaries were housed in a native house down in the walled city. Now the church building has a seating capacity of 300, and there are three six-roomed residences and a hospital outside the city wall. This change in material things is fairly indicative of the advance of the Kingdom of God throughout the province during these same years; the work having about doubled yearly since the founding of the Station.

The opening of the Seoul-Fusan Railroad has brought us many visitors during the year. We rejoice to have others to know of our work, and are pleased to share with them the delights of our situation.

EVANGELISTIC.—The evangelistic work during the past year has been the most successful of any year in the history of the Station. Not only have we had a larger increase in the number of believers, but the spiritual life of the people has been deepened and their knowledge of God's Word is clearer and broader than ever before.

Taiku City Church.—Rev. James E. Adams, Pastor.—Membership, 38; catechumens, 67; adherents, 225; baptized during the year, 13; catechumens received during the year, 80.

This circuit lies eastward of Taiku, covers twelve counties and extends to the Japan Sea.

The growth has been good but not phenomenal; it has been simply a healthful growth. Two or three of the smaller groups have dropped out and others have been consolidated. A number of new groups have sprung up. The groups are as yet widely separated and small and there is not much feeling of unity among them. We hope the present effort along this line will cultivate such a spirit. They have succeeded in raising about one-half of a helper's salary. During the year two Bible Study Classes have been held in this district.

Western Circuit.—Rev. H. M. Bruen, Pastor.—Groups, 25; communicants, 57; catechumens, 550; adherents, 1,215; baptized during the year, 39; catechumens added during the year, 416; church buildings, 25.

This circuit has during the past two years been the scene of our greatest work, and the present year has not been an exception. On one trip in the fall Mr. Bruen had the pleasure of receiving more catechumens than he had reported in all the territory only three months before. This increase though phenomenal has continued during the year, and where last year he reported 350 believers he now reports 1,215.

In this circuit also the support of a helper has been undertaken. Four of the largest groups have subscribed seven-eighths of the amount, a number of the smaller ones contributing the remainder. This marks an epoch in our work, as he is the first helper to be fully supported by the native Church.

Mr. Bruen writes:

Besides a steady growth marked in many of the groups there has been a remarkable growth in the large counties of Sung Ju and Sang Ju. Upon investigation it was found that this growth was not altogether a healthy one, the idea of making the church serve as a lever in gaining civil ends having taken root. This spirit had affected some of the groups, so that in some cases considerable amounts of money had been forced from certain individuals by other individuals calling themselves Christians, feigning that the Church would back them up in their demands. With few exceptions none of these men were in any formal connection with the Church, and these were promptly dropped from the catechumenate, while most of the money was re-collected and paid back to its rightful owners. In some cases these sums obtained were sums collectible through the courts, in others they were in the nature of fees for services rendered, and again others were clear cases of robbery. The prompt action in dismissing and punishing the offenders has, I hope, in these sections at least put a stop to the evil.

Mr. Bruen also says:

This spring Mrs. Bruen and Miss Carson spent several days with me visiting a number of my larger groups. The glimpses of our foreign women were very much appreciated. Some of my groups are so situated that in a radius of fifteen li there is a constituency of 400 Christians, which will make an excellent opportunity for country classes for women. In the absence of a foreign woman teacher during the past year, two old women of one group, one of them being a woman who regularly wades or swims the Naktong river to attend church, and the other a woman over seventy years of age, set out on an evangelistic tour. They walked more than 100 li, and visited three other groups. Their object was to get the wives of those already professing Christianity to realize that they too must be active Christians. A few months later I visited these groups and noticed a marked change in the knowledge, interest and earnestness of the women.

Northern Circuit.—Rev. William. M. Barrett, Pastor.—Meeting places, 8; communicants, 2; catechumens, 19; adherents, 79; villages where are Christians, 20; native contributions, yen 18.00.

This Northern circuit is the newest one of our circuits, the work having been begun about three years ago. Mr. Barrett writes:

This year, with my helper, I have made three extended trips through this district in caring for the churches and preaching to the heathen. It has been my policy as far as possible to spend the Sabbath at the churches, and during the weekdays visit the markets and scatter literature. When possible I have enlisted the local brethren in this work. On the whole on these trips I have found the work generally encouraging, with of course some discouraging features. One of the great drawbacks is the lack of competent leaders in the groups, men capable of instructing and leading others. For the solving of this problem it seems to me the missionary must give more time to leaders' classes. In this way I believe he may many times multiply his efforts and their results.

The past year has been a more prosperous one in Korea than the two years previous and the selling of literature has been correspondingly easier. The people too have had less anxiety and their minds have been open to Gospel truth. Many times in the open market they have asked intelligent and interested questions. It was with great sorrow that last summer I discharged my only colporteur because of lack of funds to support him, for I felt at the time and feel doubly so now that the past year has been a golden opportunity for the sowing of seed. With the coming Fall I trust to start a man once more in this important work.

Woman's Work.—The work among the women this year has kept pace with that among the men.

On her return from America Mrs. Adams reorganized her woman's Bible class with forty-six women and eight girls present. Later the enrollment reached sixty. October 28 she commenced an advanced class for baptized women, and has had during the year a class of women in the Sabbath-school. She has made eighty calls in the homes of the people and has received several hundred women in her home, besides coming in touch with the women of six other groups through itineration.

Of a visit to Kyung San, Mrs. Adams says:

Twenty-five women met us at the railroad station, and escorted us to the church where we were to eat and sleep. They had apparently planned to make the most of the visit and soon had out their Bibles and hymn books, and were ready for study. They left us to get supper, but were back again in the evening and studied to near ten. Sunday the church and courtyard were filled with women all day, many of them being sightseers who had come out of curiosity to see the foreigners. In the evening the church women were back again for more study. Although Monday morning proved rainy twenty-four women met for a final study of the Word.

Concerning the class at Kyung Ju, Mrs. Adams writes:

There were several conversions during the class, one that of an old woman with a hungry look in her eyes. Sunday, after the Gospel meeting, she commenced preaching to some old women, saying, "You are getting old, and haven't much longer to live. You ought to believe. Why when I first came here to learn of this, I sat all day long without eating, and didn't know I was hungry." Dear old soul! She had been hungry for the Bread of Life, and finding that was satisfied.

Mrs. Bruen during the year has kept up her class of girls, assisted at times by Miss Carson. Many of the girls have made considerable advancement and the class is promising, one having been baptized and three received as catechumens during the year. Miss Carson has also organized a class for young women which she meets once a week. Mrs. Null has entertained hundreds of women in her home, dispensed much medicine and has answered innumerable calls in the homes of the people.

The new Woman's Guest Room has been kept open most of the days of the week, and here many women have gathered and many books have been bought. The number of women received as catechumens and baptized during the year has been about equal with that of the men.

Training Classes.—This year the fifth winter Bible class for men was held at Taiku. The enrollment this year reached 400. The attendance for the five years has been as follows:

Men's winter class enrollment . . . . .	6	14	30	200	400

This year we made an earnest effort to limit the number to 250, but in spite of our giving out tickets to this end more than 150 others came. All our available space was more than full and we knew not what to do with all the people. Knowing their influence on our work we are loth to limit the number allowed to attend, yet without ample room it is difficult to make the study profitable. A Men's Guest House or Class Building would help solve our difficulty, and we hope some good friends at home during the coming year will provide one for us.

The fourth annual Bible class for women was held this year. Mrs. Adams was assisted in the Bible instruction by Miss Brown, of the Australian Mission at Fusan. The class was of twelve days' duration, the attendance being eighty, double that of last year. A gramophone and some stereopticon views of the life of Christ, which were given to Mr. and Mrs. Adams for the work by friends in America, proved interesting and profitable additions to the course of instruction.

Country Classes.—Two country classes have been held, both at Kyung Ju, the centre of the Eastern circuit; one, a class for men, was conducted by Mr. Adams, lasted five days and had an average attendance of fifty; the other, a class for women, was conducted by Mrs. Adams, the attendance being twenty-five and the duration an equal period.

Helpers' Class.—

Fusan Station and the Australian Mission joined with us this year in a joint helpers' class, which met in Taiku in April. All the helpers and colporteurs attended. The instruction was in the hands of Messrs. Sidebotham, Engle, Adams and Bruen. The men gained some conception of the subjects studied and we consider it time well spent.

Bible Institute.—

In view of the rapid growth of our work we deem it necessary to begin a more thorough training of selected men from the country churches. A six weeks' class or institute was held in the fall, twenty-five men attended, supporting themselves and working hard. In addition to Biblical studies some instruction was given in arithmetic and geography, conferences were held on such topics as marriage, burial customs, duties of church officers and the like. The experiment has proved so valuable that it will doubtless be a part of our regular work in the future.

EDUCATIONAL.—The educational work at Taiku is only in its beginning. Last year we reported two boys' primary schools and this year the number has grown to four.

These schools are still small and not very enthusiastically supported, but the spirit is gradually growing among the people. All our people recognize the need for education, but on account of their poverty they declare it is impossible to educate their children. The cause of education should be pushed in the country places as well as in the larger centres, and as soon as possible every church should have a school for the education of its boys and girls. We now report forty-seven boys in school and yen 104.29 raised for education.

MEDICAL.—The medical work gains in favor from year to year. The new hospital building, being badly damaged in the typhoon last summer, required considerable time and expense for repairs. The dispensary had to be closed till the drugs could be replaced and the damaged ones relabeled.

The problem of securing a suitable man for an assistant was difficult and his training during the year has occupied no little time. The wards of the hospital are as yet unfurnished. Mr. Barrett and Mr. McFarland being without a house have used these as living rooms, and as there are no Korean inns near by little operative work has been attempted. This is unfortunate, as surgery is of more consequence to the Korean than medicine, and again in grave medical cases it is difficult to get people to follow directions outside of the hospital.

In May Dr. and Mrs. Null, accompanied by five Koreans, made a trip to Kyung Ju, the old capital of Korea. Of this trip Dr. Null says:

We were showed the greatest kindness in every respect, only that so many people came we could not do our work. Mrs. Null and I saw the sick from early to late; two helpers preached all the time, and a woman helped Mrs. Null sing, preach and sell books to the women. Two men were out all the time as guards to keep the masses away. At first only the low people came; gradually the better classes began to come till our standing was undisputed. I was invited to call upon many of the best people, including the highest officer of the city.

Many came to us because we were physicians and wanted to be cured; many came because they wanted to see a foreign woman; many came to see our baby, and many came to see the dog. No difference what brought the people, they all heard the Gospel before they got away. Many came the second time to inquire of the doctrine, and some we know believed. But it is too early to tell results. Mrs. Null occasionally gave the baby his bath in public in order to teach the women to bathe their children; on these days the women crowded the courtyard to overflowing.

Summary of Hospital Work.—

Number of patients seen at the dispensary, 3,021. Expense, including assistant, yen 425.34. Receipts from patients, yen 210.00.

SYEN CHYUN STATION.

Once more the Lord of the Harvest has permitted this young Station to reap bountifully though amid changing conditions.

Side by side with the religious awakening of our province we now have to reckon with a ruder awakening to modern life at the hands of Japan. The first railway train April 28 broke our isolation. Mr. Lee, coming to assist in the winter class, and later Misses Kirkwood and Brown and Mr. Holdcroft, were the last to make the long and difficult overland trip.

Miss Chase and Mrs. Ross have been on furlough throughout the year. Mr. Whittemore left March 1. We were glad to welcome Mr. Blair February 11. In the fall Dr. and Mrs. Whiting spent a month with us, taking care of the medical work during Dr. Sharrocks' trip to Kang Kai. For the second time death has visited our Station, God seeing fit to take to Himself on October 18 Joseph Allen Kearns, aged seventeen months.

EVANGELISTIC.—Local Work.—Syen Chyun Church has had a year of uninterrupted growth. There are now 240 communicants and 195 catechumens, 79 having been baptized and 103 received as catechumens during the year. The Sunday congregation averages between 550 and 600. Wednesday and Sunday evening services are held in ten neighborhoods, attendance at the central church being about 350. The men's Sunday-school enrolling 507 is in charge of Dr. Sharrocks, and the women's Sunday-school enrolling 364 is in charge of Mrs. Kearns. An efficient corps of officers look after the varied interests of the church, including services in the adjacent country districts and evening Bible classes for both men and women, one or more services of some kind being held in the church every night in the year. A new feature of the church life is the Friday night debating society for young men. The spiritual life of the church was greatly deepened by a fortnight of special prayer services in March.

Various lines of special work for women are carried on, including house-to-house visiting, Mrs. Sharrocks' Thursday class with an average attendance of 104 women, Mrs. Kearns' catechumen class, and Miss Samuels' special Bible class for advanced women.

Subscriptions have now been taken for three years looking toward a new church, and it is expected that the long-needed new building will be erected next spring.

The Circuits.—

<sup>1</sup>Of the ten circuits into which we have divided the province one was ceded to the Methodists this spring, but another has just been formed in Eui Ju. The eleven helpers who have the oversight of these circuits are all able men. Elder Nyang has now completed his third year of theological study. Four others have finished the first year's course, and two of these will be ordained as elders before this report is printed. Too much credit cannot be given to these men who have faithfully traveled their circuits, strengthening the churches and holding numerous Bible study classes.

From all the out-stations come encouraging reports, several of them having doubled. Three new churches have been formed by setting off sections of older congregations, in each instance followed by large accessions of new believers. Forty new believers are reported in a hitherto untouched section of Eui Ju. In conservative Pyektong an ex-official has believed with all his house, about twenty persons. As a result of the faithful work of the two home missionaries in the north there are seventy-one new believers in formerly unvisited spots in Euiwon and Kang Kai, and best of all comes the report of a new group of twenty-eight adherents 330 li north of Kang Kai, in the border county of Chasung. For the whole province the increase has been a little over twenty-seven per cent.

The heavy hand of war is still felt in some places. Mr. Ross was prevented from visiting Chosan and the groups in Manchuria. Individual Christians have lost heavily. In Eui Ju one church has been homeless for fifteen months, their building being used as Japanese headquarters. Another group of 300 members was only three months ago despoiled of its building and now meets in four private houses. In spite of these difficulties new believers are coming in in both places.

There are now sixty groups with 6,507 adherents or proved believers, 1,388 more than we reported last year. Of this number 1,958 are baptized and 1,952 are catechumens. During the past year 711 have been baptized and 948 received as catechumens. A certain per cent. of this large ingathering must be attributed to the fact that the spring trips of last year could not be made on account of war conditions.

The sale of books this year has been the largest in the history of the Station. Sales have been made from the Syen Chyun book store and two branches in Eui Ju and Sak Ju and by two traveling colporteurs, one in the sea coast counties and the other in the far north. The total sales of books of all kinds have been 26,194, including 2,110 New Testaments and 4,185 hymn books. Many more could have been sold but for the fact that books were not to be had.

Self-support.—The Korean Church in this province builds its own churches and schools and pays all the running expenses of the same, including the salaries of most of their helpers and teachers. Of the fifty-eight men and women employed in church work, forty-six receive all and seven others half or more of their salaries from the native Church. In addition the Church makes a very liberal response to any appeals for special objects; contributions for the Missionary Society, for the Tract Society, for the Pyeng Yang Academy, etc., being larger this year than ever before.

Comity.—Among causes for rejoicing, we would note especially the territorial agreement with the Methodist Station about to be opened in Nyeng Pyen. By this agreement, the spirit of which is particularly gratifying, definite boundaries are given, locating responsibility and eliminating future possibility of conflict. The boundary agreed upon bisects Pakchun and follows the western line of Nyeng Pyen, Unsan, and the western and northern line of Huichun counties.

Volunteer Preaching.—

The most marked characteristic of the year's work has been the great wave of evangelistic fervor that has swept over the whole Church. Not content with witnessing daily to heathen neighbors and supporting liberally the home missionary society for preaching in the more distant unevangelized regions, there has arisen an earnest desire to do more personally for the Master. This desire found expression in the gift, not of money, but of time, in the form of a definite number of days dedicated to personal work for the heathen. It began at the Tulsan class in November when over 350 days were subscribed. The majority of the subscriptions were for five or ten days or a week, pledges to be fulfilled within a month or six weeks from the date they were made. To distinguish this from the daily witnessing which is a matter of course with each Christian, it was agreed that each one subscribing should leave his home and go to a heathen village, and there at his own expense do the work of a special evangelist for the specified number of days. More than a year's work by a paid evangelist was thus concentrated into a few days, and the volunteer preachers were not open to the reproach of working for a salary.

A week later about the same number of days were subscribed in the Syen Chyun Church. At the Eui Ju class 524 days were pledged, at the Syen Chyun class 625, and so it spread over the whole province, 720 days being pledged in the two northern circuits of Chosan and Kang Kai, and many unreported subscriptions being taken in different places by officers who had caught the idea in the classes and carried it home to their groups. Women as well as men joined in the work. Probably 3,000 days of volunteer preaching were thus done in all parts of the province in the space of about three months. The effect of this work can hardly be estimated. Short as the time has been it is already making itself felt in the figures of this annual report, and the reflex blessing on those who took part in the movement is incalculable.

EDUCATIONAL.—Training Classes.—The most important part of the educational work is the training of the whole Church by means of Bible study classes.

Besides the smaller classes held in each of the out-stations by the helpers, we hold each year at strategic centres seven large training classes conducted by one or more missionaries. This year about 1 600 men thus came directly under missionary instruction.

The Syen Chyun class, February 7-19, was the largest in the history of the Station, enrolling 733 men, the far north being represented by thirty who had walked over a week to be present. At a communion service during this class 487 baptized men sat down to the Lord's table, completely filling the church. Mr. Lee, of Pyeng Yang, assisted in this class. The second largest class was the one in Eui Ju in December, attended by over 400.

June 6-15 a special class for church officers combined with a normal class for school teachers was held in Syen Chyun. About 120 were present, including thirty teachers, six of whom were women. Five of our helpers attended the three months theological study in Pyeng Yang.

Women's Classes.—Miss Samuels has held eighteen classes, fifteen of them in the out-stations averaging six days each. Mrs. Kearns held a class at Sak Ju, assisted Miss Samuels at Eui Ju, and visited fifteen of the out-stations with Mr. Kearns.

The Syen Chyun class April 12-21 was the largest we have ever had, 399 women coming from all parts of the southern half of the province. The ladies of the Station were assisted by Miss Kirkwood, of Pyeng Yang, and by Mr. Ross. The largest class outside of Syen Chyun enrolled 142 women. The total number of women taught in the classes this year was 1,199. The women teachers attended sessions of the normal class and were taught also by Miss Samuels.

Schools.—

We have thirty boys' schools and six girls' schools with an enrollment of 489 boys and 131 girls, total pupils 620. All of these are self-supporting except the two in Syen Chyun, to which a small contribution is made from foreign funds. Fifteen young men from our territory were in attendance at the Pyeng Yang Academy. A growing demand for better teachers is voiced by Eui Ju which has provided a new school building, and is advertising for an academy graduate and offering 200 yen per month and an assistant.

MEDICAL.—The most important thing to report in this branch of our work is the new dispensary, the gift of the California societies. Waiting rooms and bath are completed and the dispensary proper awaits only the interior finishing. There is, however, much yet to be done on the wards.

The sick come to us from all over the north, one man recently arriving from the most remote corner of the province, having journeyed painfully for a month before reaching Syen Chyun. Such things inspire us with the longing to give the best we can.

Epidemics of typhoid and dysentery this year have swept over this part of the country, the former especially causing much distress. At one time eight in one family were prostrated.

The six student assistants, mentioned now for the third year, are making progress and render valuable assistance. Others have applied for acceptance as students, and Dr. Sharrocks has kept the names of twelve of the best from which to select his future recruits.

CHAI RYONG STATION.

There has been a growing conviction in the minds of the Mission that a new Station should be opened as soon as possible in Whang Hai, a province of some twenty-three counties and some 1,000,000 inhabitants lying to the south and west of Pyeng Yang.

New Station Needed.—This province has been partially evangelized. Most of the older members of both Seoul and Pyeng Yang Stations as well as our brothers of the Methodist Church have worked in various parts of this territory, part of which is now under the care of Mr. Moore, Mr. Sharp, Mr. Swallen, Mr. Hunt, Mr. Lee and Mr. Koons. It is, however, difficult of access and a great amount of energy and patience is wasted in going to and from the present Stations. Then too the oversight and close personal touch between the missionary and the developing church cannot be well kept up at such long range. Force here as in mechanics is applied through contact.

After a thorough discussion at Annual Meeting last fall, in which there was no question raised as to the advisability of opening a Station, a committee was appointed to visit the province, choose a site and report as soon as possible. Chai Ryong Magistracy, the natural centre of the church to-day and a convenient centre for future work, was fixed upon.

It was the writer's pleasure to pilot one member of that committee to the top of a high hill north of the city and to see the effect on his face as his eyes swept the great plain, which like a half moon lay at his feet with over forty villages plainly visible. Surprise, delight and longing for possession for Christ seemed to pass over his features

Chai Ryong is a city of about 5,000 inhabitants and is situated in a valley which extends up into hills. An estuary of the sea comes to within two miles, thus affording easy transportation to either Pyeng Yang or Chin Nam Po. The new railroad comes within fifteen miles.

In April a Korean house was made tenantable and Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, Dr. and Mrs. Whiting, and Mr. Koons spent a month there. From the local magistrate to the lowest coolie the whole city made the visitors welcome.

Mr. Nathaniel Tooker, a member of the Central Church of Orange, N. J., has generously given the amount asked by the Mission for land. Buildings are now being erected and the work has opened very promisingly.

SALTILLO: occupied in 1884. Missionaries—Rev. William Wallace and Mrs. Wallace, Miss Jennie Wheeler.

GOMEZ PALACIO AND TORREON: occupied in 1905. Missionaries—Rev. T. F. Wallace, D.D., and Mrs. C. D. Campbell.

CHILPANCINGO: occupied in 1894. In charge of Rev. W. H. Semple.

ZITACUARO, MICHOACAN. Missionaries—Rev. W. E. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Vanderbilt.

JALAPA: occupied in 1897. Missionaries—Rev. Isaac Boyce, D.D., and Mrs. Boyce.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. T. F. Wallace, Rev. C. C. Millar and Mrs. Millar.

The Mexico Mission has suffered an untold loss during the year in the death of the Rev. Hubert W. Brown, D.D. The Board gave expression to its sense of the loss in the following minute, adopted at its meeting on February 19, 1906:

The Board would record with deep sorrow the death at Clifton Springs, on February 15, of the Rev. Hubert W. Brown, D.D., of the Mexico Mission, after a long and painful illness borne with unwavering courage and hope. Dr. Brown went to Mexico in 1884. He has been identified with every form of work carried on by the Mission—educational, literary and evangelistic. However heavy his burden of administrative duty, he has ever been indefatigable in itinerating also, even when it seriously impaired his health. He was a man of rare intellectual gifts, a scholar by instinct and habit, of noble spiritual character, unselfish, modest, considerate of others, and unusually devoted to the great cause. Though grave and earnest, his spirit was lightened with playfulness and good fellowship. His knowledge of Spanish was remarkable, and he read and spoke the language with precision and elegance. He was invaluable as a counselor, and was trusted and beloved alike by his fellow-missionaries and by the Independent Mexican Church of which he was the founder. The Board expresses its satisfaction at having been permitted to number such a useful man among its missionaries, and instructs the Secretary in charge to convey to Mrs. Brown and her children the assurances of the Board's affectionate sympathy and regard.

In view of Dr. Brown's death, Mrs. Brown has decided to leave the field to care for the education of her three sons at home.

MEXICO CITY STATION.

The extraordinary work carried on by Mr. Morales and his helpers has continued through the year.

College and Theological Seminary.—Dr. Millar writes:

A new dormitory, completing the quadrangle of one-story buildings, was finished in May and has been in use ever since. It is built of stone, and has a similar appearance to the other dormitories already built. New land has been bought, a half block, the north half.

Converse Hall was begun July 14, 1905, and we hope that it will be ready for use about July, 1906. It is being built of stone from the lava-bed, like that used in the chapel and the residence erected last year.

There have been fifty-four students on the roll this year, and fifty-two of them were here nearly all the term. They have been pursuing the first, second, third and fourth years of the course of study. There was no class studying the course of the fifth year, and so none were graduated.

The students have, as heretofore, carried on a large amount of preaching and Sunday-school work outside of Coyoacan. The results have been good, twenty-one persons being received on profession of faith in San Pablo Ostotopec and ten more in San Salvador. One of the students, Israel Gutierrez, is an elder in San Lorenzo, and through his energy the congregation roofed and plastered their church that has been unfinished for over nine years; the students made the doors and windows, and we hope within a few months to dedicate the new house of worship.

Never before have we had so many men to send out to preach. We ought to give thanks for this. Some one will say that we cannot support so many students and that there will be too many. We do not need to fear this. The congregations are coming forward to help as never before, and they will do still better if the right sort of men are prepared for them and if the pastors and missionaries will push the matter of self-support as is possible and proper.

There has been raised thus far on tuitions for the school year $1,181.50.

Girls' Normal School.—

Thirty-seven pupils were enrolled in the Boarding department, one leaving in June and one a little later, both on account of sickness in their families. The average age of the pupils was seventeen and three-fourths years, rather higher than usual. One town pupil in the Normal department and twenty-two in the Primary department makes a total of $15 per month. Seven from Yucatan and the Federal district—Mr. Millar's field—these seven paying $21 per month. Three from Vera Cruz paying $6 per month, eight from Guerrero paying $6 per month, six from the City and State of Mexico paying $28 per month.

Five girls united with the Church during the year, leaving but two in the school who are not professing Christians, and both of them had asked to be permitted to join the Church, but were not accepted.

Ten young women were graduated, one being a former pupil whose father for political reasons had been compelled to take her from us to finish her course at a State Normal School. After receiving the State diploma she came to the city, where she took some examinations to complete our course and received the diploma with the class. Six of the ten graduates have work for this year and one is in the United States studying.

Merida and Campeche.—

For a long time the pastor and people at Merida had thought of self-support, and commencing with January 1, 1906, the whole of Mr. Herrera's salary as well as the church expenses are to be paid by the congregation. They are happy in taking this step.

A friend who had been at the services in Campeche once or twice opened his house to us, and in a large room, some seventy feet long, we held two services. Many persons were present. In the service there were present four generations—the mother of the woman in whose house the services were held, she and her daughter and sons and grandchildren.

ZACATECAS STATION.

Mr. Petran has had charge of the southern Zacatecas field, with headquarters first at Zacatecas and later at Aguas Calientes, where he has worked in closest relationship with the Cumberland Presbyterians. Mr. Petran writes:

I will begin this report, as I have often done, with Villa de Cos, as the oldest place where the Gospel has been established. The school work for the year was very satisfactory, as shown by the results of the public examination, which spoke well for the energy and consecration of the teacher. This particular young woman is quite patriotic. As is well known, it is the custom in some places when the bishop arrives in a town for a great crowd to meet him at the edge of town and, unharnessing the mules, draw the coach themselves. This happened in Villa de Cos this year. As one can imagine, it is a great time for the small boys to work off their surplus energy and show their good spirits. As the coach came rattling down the street, Miss Avila espied one of her small boys pulling on the coach and having a good time in the general mix-up. She rushed out among the spectators and into the crowd, seizing the youngster by the collar, dragged him in and slammed the door on the astonished gaze of the people and of the bishop. The boy did not escape with that, however.

The student spent some time at the Hacienda del Refugio. I visited the place several times, once with the lantern, when a large crowd came out to see the views and listened with great attention to the explanations given. One phase of missionary work was illustrated at this place when I spent some time in trying to induce the public school teacher to celebrate the 16th of September. A number of the Romanists were trying to get her out of the idea, so I took the other side to help her patriotism up higher than her fears of the administrator of the Hacienda.

They have services Sunday, Wednesday and Friday nights, and had a so-called Sunday-school when the student was there. The meeting place has always been the largest room in the house of one of the members. The congregation crowd around the sides of the room, and on the petates (reed mats) in the centre; a bed, chair and antiquated lounge and the ground serving as seats. The Sunday night that I was there they had their consecration meeting. It was said that the meeting would begin at seven, but it was after seven when we sat down to supper in the room where service was to be held. As they said, seven o'clock means nine on the ranch. The last thing every day is the getting in of the cows from the hills, the ordinary care of things, and then a few warm tortillas and beans before they can get started. It was nine o'clock before all the people came and the meeting could commence. As long as any family is missing they do not like to begin; but when it gets too late some one generally goes out to look them up. While we were waiting, the time was spent practicing hymns. As I have said, it was the night of consecration meeting. After the opening exercises, the secretary began calling the roll. There are thirty-two names on the list, but they include the oldest Christians on the ranch, as well as the youngest tots who can recite a verse of Scripture. There would respond an old man, the head of his family, with a word or two, and after him a little grandson reciting a verse of Scripture; then a young man leading in prayer, and so on. As you can imagine, a meeting beginning at nine o'clock, in a room with but one door for ventilation, is not conducive to wakefulness; and so some of the little Christian Endeavorers were fast asleep when their names were called. This did not make any hitch in the program, however, as for the absent ones and those asleep other members were holding themselves ready to read a verse or suggest a hymn. One little fellow, I remember well, some one had responded for; but he, after repeated nudging and shaking, got up blinking and trudged with uncertain step to the middle of the room, and standing there with feet braced sailor fashion—for he was not yet out of the billows of sleep—recited the Twenty-third Psalm. Another boy had about the same experience, but rose to claim his own, and, propping himself against a post in the room, he recited the Beatitudes. A little girl fast asleep in the folds of her mother's skirts had her name called. Some one named a hymn for her and all arose and sang her consecration hymn, and many no doubt raised an unconscious prayer for the safeguarding of her little life, while she was wrapped in deep slumber at her mother's side.

The consecration service did not end the meeting that night; for there were five members to be received into the church by baptism and profession of faith. The one was a good preparation for the other, however, and when the new members had been given a hearty personal welcome into the church by each member present and the benediction had been pronounced, we all felt that we had had a rare privilege in meeting together.

The next night, we arranged a special service for the baptism of children. There was a boy of twelve that I had hesitated about receiving as a member on Sunday night on account of his age, but finally decided to give him baptism and let him make his profession of faith on Monday night. His reception brought the whole family into the church, much to the joy of the parents, who had been received the night before, the smaller children being baptized as infants. This time supper came after the service, so that while many of the congregation remained and talked, some of us sat down and ate our belated supper.

NORTH ZACATECAS AND LAGUNA.

Dr. Wallace writes:

The field embraces a large extent of territory. Three of the four congregations are in three towns of population varying from 4,000 to 8,000, and respectively fifty to sixty miles distant one from the other. The fourth congregation of Santa Clara is seventeen miles distant from the nearest of these, and although smaller than any of the other towns has the largest membership.

Of Torreon he says specially:

The defection, divisions, and harsh strife which a year or more ago began in this church, and so distressed us and were threatening the dismemberment of it, still exist; and although Presbytery and native ministers and missionaries have been working and praying for their removal and healing, the outlook for results in this direction are still somewhat discouraging. However, under the tact and perseverance of the Rev. Cipriano Frausto, who took hold of the work about the middle of the year among the people there, things are now in a more promising shape than a year ago.

Mrs. Campbell has made her home at Gomez Palacio, exerting there the same wholesome influence as she had exerted at Sombrerete.

SAN LUIS POTOSI.

Mr. Williams writes:

I have spent less time on the field this year than in any former year, having been gone from home in all only 120 days, but I have visited all the points on my field except one, and the work has fairly prospered though many opportunities for extending it have been missed.

The membership in the San Luis Potosi Church has fallen off, the pastor having been ill. Mr. Williams writes:

The work in the State Prison, which was so full of promise and continued up to June, was suddenly suspended, as entrance was finally denied us on the pretext that the establishing of a library in the prison satisfied the needs of the prisoners. Permission was obtained to place a copy of the Bible on the shelves, and it is hoped that other literature can be introduced.

We had splendid meetings at Coxcatlan. The people all came just as they would to a show or a dance, as there is very little diversion of any sort and the coming of the preachers was welcomed as cordially as any other would be. But at the last meeting there was manifested quite a real interest on the part of many. After we left the people kept talking about it, and finally several of these united to send me a letter asking for a minister to be sent to them regularly. On January 7 of this year, I installed there one of the students for his three months' vacation and the people have given him a very hearty welcome.

SALTILLO STATION.

Mr Wallace reports:

Salttillo Station includes work in the frontier States of Coahuila and Nuevo Leon, with one organized church in the State of Zacatecas at a place connected by rail with Saltillo, the capital of Coahuila.

One organized church—Monclova.

Three congregations—Las Esperanzas, Progreso and La Saucedá.

Three preaching points—Sabinas, Station of Monclova and San Buenaventura.

Worker—one ordained minister. Unpaid lay assistants—one elder, five graduates Girls' Normal, one ex-licentiate.

Congregations—(1) Las Esperanzas. This is one of the most hopeful points in the district, being a coal camp, built up by a New York company. It has a constantly increasing population, variously estimated at 9,000 to 12,000 inhabitants. (2) Progreso. Here we have a congregation under the immediate charge of three of our Presbyterian Normal graduates. Two of them went, at the request of the State Government, to take charge respectively of the Boys' and Girls' Schools, at a salary of $50 monthly. The people of this town of 2,000 inhabitants always ask for Protestant, and if possible Presbyterian, teachers. They have tested them and found that there is nothing better.

Situated eight miles from the old town of Sabinas, Sabinas Station is rapidly becoming an important industrial centre. It has been made the headquarters for the big coal interests of the International Railroad. Several manufacturing plants are also being erected. We have here three Christian families.

The English-speaking element employed on the railroads and in the mines as well as on the haciendas is steadily growing. At one time a large proportion of the railroad employees were Roman Catholics, a tradition which still exists, though the proportion is now reversed. I am still strongly of the opinion that a man located at Monclova Station, and holding services at Esperanzas and Sabinas, at the same time working among the men up and down the road, and also visiting haciendas in the neighborhood, would very soon achieve a large measure of self-support.

Monterey Church. Pastor, P. M. Rodriguez. Salary, $8.40. Contributed by natives, $2.40. In Monterey we find ourselves in a peculiarly difficult position. The community is rapidly becoming Americanized in its style of living. Wages, rents, as well as cost of staple articles, and temptation to spend in amusements and dress and travel are constantly increasing and affecting every class of society. This makes the matter of self-support increasingly difficult.

During the year we ordained an elder, Don Antonio Garza Villareal, now over seventy years of age. By a long life of devoted Christian service and loyal support of our day school at Mezquital, he has proved his fitness for the post. His ordination service was a most impressive one, in the presence of some 300 people.

At Hidalgo, I received an old man of seventy years who travels around the country on a horse, with a big family Bible slung over his shoulder. His conversion was the fruit of the labors of one of our Indian members, also over threescore years and who continues to bring forth fruit in old age.

At Esperanzas, I had some interesting talks with Dr. Hara, a Japanese physician, who looks after some 500 Japanese miners, and who is at heart a Christian. English services were held at the American clubhouse with an attendance of some forty, and steps were taken for the erection of an interdenominational church for the Mexicans. Along the line of the International Railroad, I had many frank talks with conductors, engineers and trainmen on the Christian life. At the hotel it was most interesting to watch the group of fifteen Chinese boys, from six to twenty years of age, playing the different instruments of a fully equipped brass band, and afterwards playing baseball in a way which would have delighted the soul of the average American boy.

Normal School for Girls.—

There were sixty-six in attendance for the year. There were twelve day pupils in the advanced grades and forty-five primary pupils, making a total attendance of 123.

The total amount collected in tuitions for the year, or from February 1 to December 31, was $3,058.93; received from the Board, $5,000; total, $8,058.93; and the total expense for the school for the same time, not including missionaries' salaries, $7,605.13.

Our list of girls now numbers seventy-one—three have died; twenty-eight are married; one studying to be a trained nurse; thirty-four teaching, including new graduates; four unemployed.

The reports from the teachers are generally good. We have had several petitions from other Missions for teachers, and the girls can at any time find employment in State schools. While our diploma is not officially recognized, the graduates from our school are always spoken of as tituladas, the same as graduates from the State school.

Fifty-three pupils are members of the church.

ZITACUARO STATION.

Mr. Vanderbilt reports:

The word Zitacuaro, in the language of the Tarascan tribe of Indians, means "a meeting place" or a "welding together." It seems probable that the name was given to this city because it is the point where the lands of several of the ancient tribes of Indians come together. The Aztecs or true Mexicans have villages on the south-east; the Mazawas are on the east and northeast; and the Tarascans are on the north, west and south.

This meeting of the tribes does not seem to have caused friction, for there are no traditions pointing to this place as a great battlefield of the aborigines. They apparently lived in peace and mutually respected each other's rights.

This spirit of toleration and mutual respect seems to be one of the characteristics of the Zitacuarenses. Within the limits of this Station there are living in harmony pure Indians, Negroes, Creoles, Spaniards, Chinese, Armenians, Germans, Mexicans, English, Arabs and Americans, with every shade of belief from Catholic fanaticism to openly avowed infidelity. In spite of, or perhaps because of, all these differences of race, nationality and creeds, there is absolute liberty and a freedom from persecution which have aided us very much in the propagation of the Gospel.

The body of workers in this Station during the year 1905 has included one ordained minister, one licentiate, and five teachers for the entire year; one ordained minister for nine months, five students for periods ranging from two to ten months each, and three teachers for a few months each; all of whom have been in Mission employ. In addition there have been three preachers and two teachers who have worked without any money remuneration from the Mission.

In the Northwest Group of churches there are 336 members, of whom twenty-eight have been added this year (an increase of 9 per cent.); there were four day schools with an enrollment of 154 pupils (an increase of 6 per cent.); and the total native contributions for all purposes a little over $574 (an increase of 15 per cent. in two years).

Almost due west of Patanbaro, at a distance of fifteen miles, on the top of the mountains, is the ranch congregation of Agostadero. The fervor of this church is in direct contrast to the temperature of the place. It is situated at an elevation of over 9,000 feet above sea level. King Frost is here the acknowledged sovereign who reigns with vigor for about six months of the year. Only wheat, potatoes, corn and pine trees flourish. It takes ten months for corn to ripen. All Nature seems benumbed because of the cold. Not so with the brethren. They are energetic in their work and ardent in their beliefs. When the night comes for the services few are lacking, even though it be raining in torrents or a wind be blowing that seems to have but just left the regions of the Arctic. Seldom are there less than 100 in attendance and at times the number reaches 200. In proportion to its membership the attendance of this church is the best in the district. In contributions it leads all of the other ranch congregations belonging to the Station, and proposes to do even better during the coming year. Four members were received and fifteen children baptized.

In this part of our field our people are very widely scattered. There is probably no hacienda, ranch nor village which does not number among its inhabitants some believer in the Gospel. We know of six towns, three haciendas and ten ranches where there are small groups of sympathizers. Hence this one group of congregations might be extended so as to embrace a number equal to that of all the out-stations connected with the Station at the present time.

The Central Group contains two organized churches (Zitacuaro, San Francisco), three semi-organized (Silva, Loma Larga, Santa Maria), and many small groups of believers. There are 158 members, of whom two were received this year. We have had three schools in this field, in which there have been enrolled 122 pupils, which is a gain of 36 per cent. over the enrollment of last year. The total amount collected for all purposes has been nearly $658 (an increase of over 24 per cent., of which amount the Zitacuaro Church has contributed over $524). The gain in Sabbath-school enrollment has been more than 50 per cent.

On the occasion of the birthday of the Prefect of the district we sent him a fine edition of the Bible, which he accepted with thanks.

Our Christmas entertainment this year was the most successful meeting of its kind that we have ever held. There were present even more than last year (at least 600). Every prominent family in the city was represented except two, and one of them on the following day expressed to us their sincere regrets for not having been able to attend.

The Prefect of the district was present and presided. He expressed himself as greatly pleased by the entertainment and offered us the use of the theatre for next year.

This has been a notable year for Zitacuaro. The advancing tide of the peaceable American invasion has begun to lap the city. Early in the year work was begun on a new railroad which is now completed for eighteen kilometres out into a forest of 60,000 acres, for the exploiting of which the company has the concession. It is said that there is timber enough to last for twenty years, even though at least fifteen cars of lumber be shipped daily. There is now running at Galeras a saw-mill which is capable of turning out 1,000 railroad ties daily. This railroad will shortly be laid through to Toluca, and will thus shorten the time between here and Mexico City by about five hours. Sr. Miguel Rubioy Ocampo has installed modern machinery in his flour-mill and is prepared to grind seventy-five barrels per day, whereas before he could not turn out more than twelve barrels, and his was the largest mill here. At one time there were five families in the city. We gave a Christmas dinner to our fellow-countrymen who were living either in the city or near here, and learned there were eighteen men besides women and children. On the whole the Americans who have been here have been of a good class, so that we have had no occasion to be ashamed of them. For the last three months we have had an English class in the Sunday-school.

In this central field there are friends who are not ashamed to be called Protestants who are living in eight haciendas, four ranches and six villages. Hence we can say that there are twenty-five points from which the Gospel light and warmth are radiating with greater or less brightness.

The Western Group is composed of three organized churches (Jungapeo, La Colmena, Los Tepehuages), one congregation (La Mesa) and three preaching places (Laguna Seca, Puerto de Coporo, Tetengueo). There are 134 members, of whom fifteen were received this year (an increase of 12 per cent.); one school with an enrollment of nineteen, but it was not continued through the year. The contributions for all purposes were $178. The falling off this year was caused by the closing of the school in Los Tepehuages.

The Southern Group. This is the newest part of the work of the Station. It consists of one organized church (Tuzantla), four congregations (Cascalote, Los Pintos, Salitre and Las Maravillas), and one preaching place (Zuzapuato). There are ninety-six members, of whom fifty-four have been added this year (an increase of 122 per cent.) There are no schools. The amount raised for all purposes was $81 (an increase of nearly 25 per cent.).

We rejoice to be able to announce the birth of a new congregation in this group. Las Maravillas, with a membership of forty-two, has come into being on one of the ranches of the Hacienda of Orocutin. The members are all full-blooded Indians of the Mazawa tribe, who formerly belonged to the Pueblo of Santa Cruz. As the fertility of the land in their native village is nearly exhausted, they migrated in search of a land flowing with milk and honey, and they truly found it in Las Maravillas. Never in my life have I seen such magnificent corn as they raised this year. I saw and measured several ears which were twenty inches from tip to tip, and thick in proportion. The kernels were of enormous size and perfect in shape. They told me, after husking time, that some of the fields produced 500 for one. The crops are truly marvelous, for the land before cultivation appears to be worthless on account of the stone. The religious fervor of these brethren is on a par with the produce of their lands. On my last trip they wished to have almost continuous services. We arrived after dinner. At 4 P.M. we had a service and again at 7 P.M. On the following morning we had another one. At each of these services there were nearly seventy present. They seem to have a real hunger and thirst for the Gospel. I there preached the longest sermon of my life (one hour), and neither they nor I noticed the passing of the time. It is refreshing for one's soul to visit them. They live in a most humble way, for they are poor, but they gave us the best they have. Our food was tortillas, roasting ears, and squash. As the manager of this hacienda is my friend, we expect within a few years to claim it for Christ. It is becoming one of the most important in the district. This year there is enough sugar cane to keep them grinding steadily for six months.

We sincerely believe that this year has been the best since we have been in charge of the Station. There have been increases in the work as follows:

Fifteen per cent. in membership.

Sixteen per cent. in adherents.

Seventeen per cent. in attendance.

Forty-one per cent. in Sunday-school scholars.

Four per cent. in day school pupils, in spite of the fact that we have one less school than last year.

Nine per cent. in contributions.

More than three times as many members were received this year as last year, and we came within one of being able to report the largest number of accessions for nine years.

JALAPA STATION.

Mrs. Boyce has carried on energetic work, and Dr. Boyce also throughout the length and breadth of his extended field.

The Rev. Salomon Diaz has accepted a call to the church of Comalcalco.

In Arroyo Hondo our people, stimulated by Dna. Andrea Sanchez, have built a neat palm chapel. The male members were unwilling to undertake the work. Mrs. Sanchez then girded on her machete and started to the woods to cut timber, declaring that what the men were afraid to undertake the women could and would do. The result was that in less than a month the chapel was completed, and was dedicated by Mr. Granados and myself in March last.

Of the work in Coatzacoalcos, Dr. Boyce writes:

I have not in my experience in the Republic ever seen a work of greater promise. The inhabitants of the town are gathered from all parts of the country. There is absolutely no opposition to the Gospel on the part of the people. The congregations are large. The members have borne all their expenses of rent and incidentals. The town is the key to the Isthmus and to the State of Chiapas. Within the next few months it will be connected by rail with the City of Guatemala. From Aurora or Jalisco, on the line of the Pan-American Railroad, a branch will be built within the next few years to Tuxtla Gutierrez, and from Tuxtla Gutierrez an electric line will be built to San Cristobel.

Our work in Vera Cruz is in very fine condition. Mr. Navarro was called to the pastorate by the church in August. The call was accepted. Mr. Navarro was ordained by the Mexico Presbytery, and on December 10 he was formally installed.

In the Mizantla district our principal work is in El Porvenir, a farming community ten miles to the east out of the town. Mr. Capistran, in charge of the work, lives in El Porvenir. He has carried on a day school since April with about twenty-five regular attendants. The services on the ranch have been well attended, and new hearers are present at almost every service. Our people have completed a neat chapel and residence for Mr. Capistran. The structure is frame, closed in with sawed lumber, and has wooden floors and thatched roof. The chapel was dedicated in April last, when over 125 people were present. A part of them were outside of the chapel.

One great obstacle to the work in all the Mizantla region is that the pure-blood Indians do not understand the Spanish language well. Among themselves they use their native tongue, the Tomonaco, and are chary about intimate intercourse with strangers in the Spanish, partly on account of their imperfect knowledge of the tongue, more perhaps from their lack of confidence in the "hente de razon" (people of reason), as they ordinarily designate all who are not of their own people. I am convinced that a consecrated colporteur or native preacher who could use their native speech fluently would be able to do a magnificent work among the thousands of hill folk throughout the State of Vera Cruz.

PERSIA AND KURDISTAN.

MISSIONS IN PERSIA.

The cholera epidemic, with which the year began, happily passed away, but has been followed in the Urumia region by the shadow of famine and destitution at the end of the year. There has been no unusual disturbance during the year. The people have felt uncertain as to the future in view of Russia's defeat in the far East by Japan. Would this mean the breaking of Russia's power of aggression for the present, or would it really mean that, checked in the East, Russia would turn South more vigorously than ever. There was some disturbance in Teheran at the end of the year, due to the political agitation on the part of Moslem ecclesiastics, described in the newspapers as a demand for a republic. The materials out of which a republic is made, however, do not exist yet in Persia, and there is not sufficient unity or cohesion of interest in any one section of the people to make any form of representative government durable. The great need, apart from the general spread of the Christian principles of freedom and purity and righteousness, is the education of the younger element, from which the governors and subordinate officials of the future will come.

EAST PERSIA MISSION.

TEHERAN: capital of Persia; population 300,000; work begun in 1872. Missionaries—Rev. J. L. Potter, D.D., and Mrs. Potter, Rev. Lewis F. Esselstyn and Mrs. Esselstyn, J. G. Wishard, M.D., and Mrs. Wishard, Rev. S. M. Jordan and Mrs. Jordan, Rev. Charles A. Douglas and Mrs. Douglas, Miss Cora C. Bartlett, Miss Mary J. Smith, M.D., and Miss Rosa Shoenhair.

KAZVIN: E. T. Lawrence, M.D., and Mrs. Lawrence.

RESHT: Rev. H. C. Schuler and Mrs. Schuler, and *J. Davidson Frame, M.D.

HAMADAN: 200 miles southwest of Teheran; population 40,000; occupied in 1880. Missionaries—Rev. James W. Hawkes and Mrs. Hawkes, Rev. N. L. Euwer and Mrs. Euwer, Rev. F. M. Stead and Mrs. Stead, J. A. Funk, M.D., and Mrs. Funk, Miss Annie Montgomery, Miss Ada C. Holmes and Miss Clara H. Field, M.D.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. L. F. Esselstyn and Mrs. Esselstyn, Miss Mary J. Smith, M.D.

The Mission has been reinforced during the year by the appointment of Dr. Frame, Dr. Clara Field and Miss Campbell, who was married to Mr. Euwer upon reaching Resht, and Miss Holmes; but it met, just as the West Persia Mission did, with a great loss during the year in the death of one of its most valued workers, Miss Charlotte G. Montgomery. It was to fill her place that Miss Holmes was sent to the field. The following minutes were adopted by the Board:

It was voted that the Board enter upon its records its appreciation of the faithful and devoted work of Miss Charlotte G. Montgomery, for nineteen years a member of the East Persia Mission, who passed away in the Presbyterian Hospital, in New York City, on Saturday, June 10.

Miss Montgomery went to Persia in 1886, four years after her sister, with whom she has been associated in the great work of the Faith Hubbard School and its many affiliated activities in Hamadan. The Board mourns in her death the loss of one of the most efficient and beloved of its missionaries, and extends to her relatives and to the East Persia Mission its deep sympathy with them and their grief at the death of so true a friend and so beautiful a Christian.

The deep character of Miss Montgomery's devotion was betrayed while she was in the hospital. Emerging from the effect of the anæsthetics, she was heard repeating the 121st Psalm: "I will lift up mine eyes to the hills from whence cometh my help." Her voice was low and broken at first, but grew stronger and stronger as she unconsciously repeated the Psalm until the end.

As in many previous years, there have been times of excitement and threatened danger, and in some of the difficulties those who should have been the Mission's best friends have not always shown themselves faithful or wise; but as ever in past years, God has protected these Stations and continued to bless their work.

TEHERAN STATION.

The past year in Teheran has been one of quiet, steady, unostentatious work, yet of more than usual encouragement in every department.

CHURCH AND EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The attendance has been larger and more interest has been shown than in any year since the disruption eight years ago. At the Easter communion eight persons were added on profession of faith. Two of these, a brother and sister, are children of an Armenian, who years ago turned Moslem and married a Moslem wife. Five years ago when he entered the children in our schools, he said that he especially wished them instructed in Christianity, and now it has been our privilege to baptize and welcome them both to the faith of their father. Of the others all but one are or have been pupils in our schools.

Dr. Potter, in his report on Persian Church Work, says that this department has shown encouraging features during the year. Early in 1905 our instruction class, composed of Moslems, Armenians and Jews, young men of the boys' school, was started on their own initiative for instruction in Christian doctrine and duty. It met twice a week. The language of instruction was Persian, and the Persian tract on the Fundamentals of Christian Doctrine and Duty was used as a suggestive basis for instruction. Three of the members of the class were received into the Armenian Evangelistic Church at the Easter communion.

Several individuals also have received personal instruction, and for the greater part of the year, one or more classes of two or three have been coming more or less regularly for instruction, so that in this respect it has been a busy year.

Four converts from Islam have been baptized since the last report, besides two of mixed parentage, mentioned in the report of Armenian Church Work. One other was examined, but was advised to wait until he could more courageously confess his faith before men. It is worthy of note that one of these converts on one occasion placed fifteen tomans (about $12) in banknotes on the contribution plate, and it is believed on another Sunday ten tomans similarly contributed from him.

A prayer meeting especially for these converts from Islam where they can take part freely in the exercises was started. A regular weekly meeting for women inquirers, one of whom was baptized this year, was conducted by Mrs. Jordan. A singular feature in connection with Moslem inquirers is the fact that in many cases interest in the Christian religion has first been awakened by a dream. It would seem that God, who of old spake to prophet and patriarch by dreams and visions, is in the same way calling his chosen ones in Persia to-day.

ITINERATION.—Mr. Douglas in his report says:

The Master's example and command is to seek and to save that which is lost, and so I have been out in the highways and byways, in autumn's rain, in winter's cold and summer's heat, traveling on the back of pack mules on long, arduous and solitary journeys in wild and desolate places, trying to compel them to come in.

Mr. Douglas, with the exception of a few weeks between journeys, has spent the entire year on the road. In addition to three short tours comparatively near to Teheran, from a month to two months in length, he has made two tours of greater length; one across the Elburz Mountains into Mazendaran, around the southeast shore of the Caspian, and another into Meshad in the northeast corner of Persia, near to the Afghan frontier. He says:

During these ten months, I must have traveled 2,500 miles on slow mule-back, and have visited villages, cities, districts, and provinces having a population of more than three million souls. Many of these have thus heard the words of eternal life, some for the first time, and perhaps a few, hearing, have believed and found pardon and peace in Jesus Christ.

No one has been especially set apart for Woman's Work in Teheran, yet each of the ladies of the Station has felt her responsibility to do all in her power to give the Gospel to the women of Persia. All have shared in teaching. All have visited and entertained. Dr. Smith has had daily opportunities in the dispensary and in the homes and has faithfully and untiringly given the Message of Life to her patients and their friends. Mrs. Potter has made occasional visits to the dispensary to assist Dr. Smith in this work. Mrs. Douglas accompanied her husband on a two months' evangelistic tour. Mrs. Potter has had a weekly meeting of some of the larger girls of the school for preparation of the Sunday-school lesson and for recreation. Sunday-school classes have been taught by all. The increase of Moslem pupils in both schools has greatly increased opportunities for reaching the mothers in the homes.

EDUCATIONAL.—Iran-Bethel. Miss Bartlett reports:

This year we enrolled ninety-five names, an increase of seventeen over the former year. Of these, sixty-eight were Armenians, twenty-four Moslems, one Zoroastrian, and two of mixed parentage. During the year, while the wildest riot, murder, and outrage has so often raged in many places near us, our girls have come and gone in peace, the only notice taken of the great excitement and talk these horrors caused was to dismiss school three days during Moharram, the fanatical month of mourning, instead of the usual one day.

There were fifty-three daily classes; eight of these were taught in the Persian tongue, and five of these by a Persian Mirza (a man). We have always been afraid to try a Persian woman, even if one could be found. Their utter lack of discipline and ignorance of time and propriety have made them seem even more dangerous than a man, but a man cannot teach without one of us being present. Mrs. Potter kindly relieved me of this responsibility in the advanced Persian class and also taught the Persian Bible class.

We are watching with the greatest interest, not unmixed with perplexity, the growth of the Persian department. At present we are doing the best we can, but we foresee the not distant day when this present best will have to be much better or we shall have failed to seize the God-given opportunity.

Boys' School.—Mr. Jordan's report says:

The attendance and tuition have each increased this past year more than twenty-five per cent. The greater part of this increase was from the dominant faith. In all 115 Moslems were in attendance, and the best part of it is that they have not entered the school to get a smattering of English, but to complete the course. It is now widely reported among the Persians that children learn their own language more quickly and better than elsewhere, hence the number of Persians entering the lower grades intending to take the whole course is steadily increasing. As an educational institution, in thoroughness and effectiveness, our school compares favorably with schools of a similar grade in the homeland. Persia's great need to-day is good schools and a higher institution of learning which shall train her young men for a life of usefulness. It is our hope and prayer that at no distant day the means may be provided to found a college which shall be such a centre of light as is Robert College at Constantinople, or the Syrian Protestant College at Beirut, and thus multiply the influence we are already exerting.

The total enrollment was 202. Receipts from books and tuition 1,807.5 tomans, while the amount received from the Board was only 1,522 tomans. These figures show a great change from conditions which prevailed a few years ago when not only books and tuition were free, but in addition practically free board and lodging was furnished to many of the pupils.

MEDICAL.—Mr. Wishard in his report says:

As soon as the heat of summer had somewhat abated and the cholera epidemic was over, we returned with the family to the city to take up the regular hospital and dispensary work. But the hospital looked as if a cyclone had struck it, for having been used as a cholera hospital all floors had to be removed and walls replastered. Work on the new addition, consisting of a new surgery and waiting rooms, having been stopped because of cholera, was again taken up. It was a happy change from the awful groans of the dying cholera patients to the merry song of the brick masons, for in Persia the mason sings as he works. In due time all was finished, and we were able to go into a practically new building. The repairs and improvements cost about $2,500, all raised here in Teheran.

The new aseptic treating room, with hot and cold water, excellent light, and fully equipped, is a great comfort and help to the surgeon. It has also been the means of attracting to our hospital a splendid lot of surgical cases. Among these cases brought to us during the year was the grandson of the Governor of Hamadan, who was accidentally shot through the chest. The boy made a good recovery and the case attracted not a little attention to our work because of the high social standing of the Prince Governor's family. H. R. H. the Crown Prince, Regent during his father's absence in Europe, accidentally shot his chief personal attendant and he was brought to our hospital for operation. The Crown Prince, in the presence of his own well-paid physician, insisted on my having charge of the case. I am sure that he wanted me because of his confidence in our medical missionaries whom he had known in West Persia, Dr. Holmes, Dr. Vanneman and Dr. Cochran.

Two students having finished the Hospital Medical Course were granted diplomas and sent out on their mission of healing. Another medical class was started. Dr. Wishard was assisted in this work by Dr. Scott, of the Indo-European Telegraph Department, and Drs. Bedrossian and Ayob, two of our former graduates.

For the past eight years, Dr. Smith has had the double work of physician and matron. Since her departure on her well-earned furlough, and I have had to take up as far as possible these duties, I have more fully realized how heavy is the load she has been carrying. The time has come when the best interests of the work demand a matron, that the lady physician be free to enter the door of opportunity which has opened before her.

In closing, to show the widespreading influence of the work, we would quote from Mr. Douglas's Meshed report: "Just before my departure I received from Captain H. Smyth, the military attache of the British Consul, Meshed, a letter that deserves to be incorporated here and speaks for itself. He writes: 'One of our Indian soldiers has just come here from Teheran, where he had been in your hospital a long time with pneumonia. He was one of the men at Urumia with Captain Gough when he was attacked. This man has come here en route for Turbat-i-Haidai (Afghan frontier), where his headquarters are—he belongs to the Thirty-fifth Cavalry. I went into our lines last night and heard this man holding forth to our Indian soldiers of the Thirty-sixth Cavalry. He was describing all your people's goodness to him in Teheran—the way he was attended, fed, nursed, and clothed. Our men were much impressed and openly praised the religion which gave such results and the liberality of the American people which made them possible. In this case you have not thrown your bread upon the waters in vain. Will you please thank your friends in the name of our Indian soldiers of the Thirty-sixth Cavalry?'"

RESHT.

The force of native workers has been entirely changed. From September till April, as heretofore, the six rooms of the house formerly occupied served for church, school, dispensary, and residence for missionaries. But at the same time, the same day, the same hour, that God sent the news of a coming physician, he gave a house for him also.

It is an interesting story and shows God's guiding hand. Adjoining the house occupied since November, 1902, and separated from it by a low wall in which is a door, is a house peculiarly well adapted to our needs. The two houses belong to one man, and we had often expressed between us the hope that we could rent this second house, especially when a physician should come. One day the owner came, stating that he needed money and desired to rent his house. If we wished it, he would give us the refusal of it. With the future still uncertain, we accepted, believing that God Himself had given us this. While the Persian scribe was sitting on the floor writing the rent contract, the cablegram was delivered to us announcing the appointment of a physician.

Every department of the work shows some progress.

CHURCH AND EVANGELISTIC WORK.—While the public meetings are still small, there has been a substantial increase over the attendance of last year; the Sunday-school showing an increase of fifty per cent. More private conversations have also been held with men. Of the four communicants of last year three have removed from the city, and one has cut himself off from the communion and is living unworthily of Christ. In the case of two of these three, what has been Resht's loss has been the gain of another city, and in Samarcand there are at least two earnest witnesses for Christ. Two have been received to the communion, both of whom were members of the former Resht Church. One man is to come to the communion in September. Four other men and one woman, all Persians, are professing Christ, though none of them have been baptized. Evangelistic work outside of the city has been confined to three short trips made by Baron Sarkis and Mirza Mayer.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The new schoolhouse was occupied in May. Eighteen boys and two girls were enrolled, and the year closed with twelve boys and two girls in daily attendance. Of this number, three have definitely said they wished to follow Christ. They are very young, and their home environment is not all that could be desired.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Mrs. Schuler reports 772 attendances in her dispensary book; also one Persian woman who confessed Christ. This latter was a special friend of Mrs. Yusuf Khan, the Swedish lady who is apparently ever busy in her Master's business, doing personal work, bringing others, to the meetings and so under Gospel influence

MEDICAL WORK.—Mrs. Schuler reports:

Naturally, my story of our work for the past year commences from the medical side. Men and women sick with cholera made constant demands on time and strength and sympathy at its outset. We did very gladly all that lay in our power to meet the demands for the confidence shown in us, and the appeals made to us were very touching. Dear Degeen Almast was a staunch helper, as far as she was able. She, her husband, and some members of her family had cholera, but all recovered, by God's blessing. She took into her house and her tender care B. Hatsagortzian's sick baby boy, while his wife, prostrate with cholera, was hovering between life and death, and by her prayers and sympathy and visits to the sick and terrified and by her influence at all times proved herself "a good soldier of Jesus Christ." I thank God that the first poor woman I was called to help recovered, or perhaps I should never have had courage to visit another. Her twelve-year-old daughter died in spite of all my efforts to save her life. A sheep had been sacrificed on behalf of the mother, and the child had eaten freely of kabobs, and had then emptied her mother's bowl of broth, eating with the spoon from which her mother had been fed. She died in forty-eight hours. Our servant would not let me go to the house again, fearing that I might be blamed. He went himself at my request, and was asked where I was. He confessed that he had begged me not to go, and gave the reason. "Oh, no; the lady did all she could. Her medicine was good. It was the hand of God. Entreat her to come to see our sick. Our eyes are toward the door." One more incident of many. Two bodies had already been carried out of a neighboring house for burial, when I was called to care for the second wife. She was very ill and terribly afraid to die. On the wall of the room hung a gaudy picture of the Infant Jesus in the Virgin Mary's arms. I was touched by the way the poor woman looked up at this picture. She gasped, "We bought it in Baku, because I liked it." In the intervals between her paroxysms of sickness, she asked to have the picture put in her hands, and kissed it and touched it to her forehead. The next time I saw her, she had had her bed moved to the place on the floor beneath the picture. Her husband and the Persian doctor said to me, "She has taken 'bast' (sanctuary) under the shadow of Jesus and Mariam." He who never spurns those who come to Him accepted her trust and after a long, weary time she got well. During her slow convalescence she came to know the Son of Mary by His name, the Son of God, and as she could read her good-by gift from me was "The Gospel of the Son of God." In going from place to place it was pathetic to hear the Rozi Khans, in the midst of crowds of men and women assembled on the streets and in the courtyards of houses, calling on Ali, "the Way," to intercede for Resht. Sometimes my way lay through these crowds and I could hear "Aga jan, remember the hearts that will be broken, the orphans that will be left! Spare our families! Grant that the cholera may not snatch away our beloved! Grant that our mothers have not the cholera! Grant that our fathers, our children have not the cholera! Asma! Asma! mother of Ali, intercede for us! Thou, the Commander of the Faithful, pity us that this evil, this pain, come not upon us!" The women were sobbing wildly, so that the voice of the Rozi Khan mounted higher and higher, in order to be heard. The effect, in the still morning air, was indescribable. At least seventy cholera patients were personally assisted, but this does not represent the number of visits made, nor the amount of medicine given. Much medicine was given to those who were not sick, but who wished to have it ready in time of need.

Dr. Frame arrived at the close of the year, and negotiations are still under way in the matter of his relations to the Government hospital, which it was hoped would be placed under his care:

KAZVIN.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence continued to reside at Kazvin. The medical work and the School for Moslem Girls constitute the chief points of contact with the people. Of the school, Mrs. Lawrence writes:

These little Kurds have sweet voices and they sing our hymns very nicely, their favorites being "When He Cometh" and "There is a Happy Land." The father of two of our brightest girls died last winter, and the night before his death he made confession of his faith in Christ before his family and other relatives who were present, saying he believed Christ was the only Saviour and that he was trusting Him alone for salvation.

From May 23 to June 15, Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence spent in a short itinerary trip, one or two incidents of which Mrs. Lawrence reports:

Saturday we arrived at Khonamdeneh, and spent Sunday in that pleasant valley town. It was my fourth visit, and I remembered the faces of some of the women quite distinctly, while they looked upon me as an old acquaintance. Best of all, they requested me to read to them the same story I had read three years before, and upon my replying that I had forgotten what I had read, one woman said to her daughter, "You tell the lady the story, for you have repeated it so often you can tell it better than the rest of us." Whereupon the young woman very intelligently repeated the parable of the Good Shepherd, and again I had the privilege of repeating my reading and explanation, this time dwelling especially on the thought, "The Good Shepherd giveth his life for the Sheep." Stopping at the same house was a Persian lady and her mother with a large company of servants, en route to a place on this side of Zenjan. I called on her and found her very pleasant. Asking her if she did not find the journey wearisome, she replied, "No, it is delightful; I have been shut up within the four walls of my home in Teheran for seven years and this is bliss. My husband is now away on a long journey, and he gave us permission to go back to our old home for the summer." Evidently she had been more closely confined to her "harem" than most Persian women, and was now enjoying her freedom to its fullest extent.

The next day brought us to Zenjan, a city with interesting bazaars and pretty gardens. Here we stayed a week. There are many Babis here; but the Moslems are very fanatical; and one mujtahid, on hearing that the water carrier was bringing us water, commanded him to bring it in our own jugs, as his water-skin would be made unclean and consequently unfit to carry water to Moslems should he carry it into our house. Besides visits to the bazaars and a day spent in the gardens, and an afternoon calling on Armenian friends, and one call at a Moslem house, the remainder of my time was spent in getting ready for the return journey. It was made in eight days; other villages than the ones visited going were made our stopping places. In the smaller ones nearly all the women gathered to see us, some wanting medicine, but the larger number out of curiosity. At one place where the small-pox was bad, I had my audience sit on the low roof above me, while I sat on a chair in the yard reading and talking to them. The result was far from satisfactory, and my best work was done here reading and talking to an occasional one who came after the crowd had dispersed. But some may be wondering what Grace, our little ten-months-old baby, was doing all this time. The women were very much afraid something might happen to her and several times burned incense to avert the 'evil eye.' When I protested and said God would keep her, they said, "True; yet care is necessary." On the contrary, when I positively refused admittance to our room to women carrying small-pox babies and told them "care was necessary," they said, "Lady, God, God is above your head."

HAMADAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The year in St. Stephen's Church has been quieter than last year, the old Gregorian body having refrained from its annoying disturbances of the preceding year. The Moslems, who for some time have not been attending, have begun to come again to services. There have been six additions in the church. In the Pinia Church there has been an increased attendance of women and girls, and the two leading members, who had a lawsuit a year ago, resulting in much bad feeling, have made peace.

Work in the Out-stations, Sheverine, Kermanshah, Nahavend and Lilahan, has been continued as usual. At Kermanshah, some Kurds have been converted in a wonderful way. The new church building also has been built, and Kasha Mooshie, on returning from Urumia, where he was given generous help by the Nestorian Christians for a church building, finding that the representatives of the Jewish Alliance had taken away his school, threw himself with even more than his usual energy and devotion into the evangelistic work. Mr. and Mrs. Stead spent some months in Kermanshah, working with Kasha Mooshie. They report:

The church services from the time of our arrival till the hot weather set in were well attended. The room occupied was often crowded and on several occasions people were obliged to remain outside. Besides the regular morning service, Sunday-school and a short Gospel service was held in the afternoon, which was also as a rule well attended. For variety and mutual edification, these services were assumed in alternation with Kasa Mooshie. The first week in January was observed by meetings for special prayer and evangelistic effort. There was a good attendance at these services and some seemed much affected by the Word. Among the latter were two Moslems who confessed that they were completely at sea as regards religious belief, had proved Islam rotten to the core, and wanted guidance to salvation and life. Strenuous efforts were made to reach these men in several later interviews, but threatening talk in the city about our work and converts frightened them and they became cold and non-committal. Two communion services were held, one on February 5 and one on June 11, the latter preceded by special meetings for Christians.

The young man, Abbas Khan, who was receiving instructions from

Kasha Mooshie on our arrival, appeared from the first a remarkable example of the work of God's Spirit on the soul. According to his own story, corroborated in the main by others, he had been a raider and highwayman for a number of years and had led a life so vile that he did not care to describe it. After committing many outrages and killing so many people that he himself was not sure of the number, he was so hard pressed by government officers in Turkey and Persia that he came to Kermanshah, and secured assurances from the Imam Jomeh that if he would stay in the city and engage in no more forays he would be safe. One day in the bazaar he heard a shopkeeper trying to dispose of a New Testament to a man who refused to buy it, but advised him to take it to one of the Christians and threaten to burn it if he would not buy. Abbas Khan asked the price, and securing the book for a kran began to read it diligently. When he came to the account of the stilling of the tempest, a realization of the divinity of Jesus Christ burst like a flash of radiant light in his soul and he trembled like a leaf, and then and there resolved to renounce all if need be and follow the Man of Nazareth. He wanted a guide and was directed to Dr. Hakobian as a Christian, to whom he announced himself as a sick man; but when the doctor was about to feel his pulse, said that it was his soul not his body that was ailing. Dr. Hakobian promised to take him on Sunday to Kasha Mooshie, but he could not wait and presented himself as an inquirer at an early date. Kasha, seeing the Koordish chieftain, did not know whether he meant mischief or was sincere; but the man was in deadly earnest, and came eagerly for instruction till thoroughly conversant with the whole range of Christian teaching and a master of discussion with Moslem, Jew or Babi. Day by day his love for Christ increased, and he courted persecution and sought opportunities to witness for Christ before mujtahids and sayids, in the bazaars and among his own people. We have seldom heard more impressive testimonies than those this man made publicly and in private. He was baptized Sunday, December 25, Christmas Day, at the morning service. Two Moslems of rank, sons of the Mozaffir-i-Molk, were present, but left before the baptism was performed. News of the event, however, soon spread and the new convert, who had taken the name of Abdul Massih (Servant of Christ), was subjected more and more to the fires of persecution. He was beaten, starved, threatened and robbed, but to no purpose. In January two of our servants were absent in Hamadan and we engaged him to buy and do odd jobs for us, and found him honest and faithful in the minutest detail. Strong pressure was brought to bear on Agha Rahim, the mujtahid of the Zangineh tribe, to order Abdul Massih's death; but he, fearing later complications, refused to do so. In February, we learned that there was a plan on foot to kill both Abdul Massih and Kasha Mooshie, so we advised the former to go to Hamadan till the matter blew over. He, however, decided to go to the villages of his own tribe and preach the Gospel. With only his Bible under his arm, he went from village to village, enduring many hardships and often scoffed at and cast out. Returning to Kermanshah in March, he for some days lived in retirement in the house of a friend, whom he was instrumental at that time in leading to Christ. He had been warned not to go to see Kasha Mooshie, as that would be the signal for an immediate attack on both. Once he came at night, but was recognized by an enemy and would not venture near us again. Only once after that were we able to meet him by prearrangement in Aziz Allah's house. Then he suddenly left his friend's house, saying he would be in readiness to go to some other part of Persia with him when he could settle up his business. At first we heard that Abdul Massih had left the city, but later news came that he was living with the Sunnis and was only to be seen in their company. Once Aziz

Allah and once Kasha Mooshie met him in the street accompanied by Sunnis and urged him to come and see us, but he persistently refused without giving a reason. About the beginning of April, the Sunnis began coming and asking if we had any news of Abbas Khan, and we learned that he had vanished completely, leaving his lately found Sunni friends as much mystified as ourselves. He may have been put to death, but we know the Sunnis had many old scores against him, and we think it likely that, finding himself in their power, he played fast and loose with them till able to get away. We heard a rumor that he had gone to Turkey. Wherever he is we pray the Lord to keep him from growing cold and faithless. It is difficult to believe that a man of such serene faith and who endured so much for his Master could wander away from the field.

Sunday, January 29, a young man, friend of Abdul Massi, Mohammed Ali by name, who for some years had been a follower of Baha Ablah, came for morning service and stayed for conversation afterwards. He was evidently a seeker after truth and talked with all frankness and candor. When he heard the arguments against Islam and Bahaism, he remarked that there was no answer to make, but he would think them over and inquire further. While we were away in the villages he came back, reporting to Kasha Mooshie that he had questioned the leaders of the Bahai sect and the mollahs of Islam and there was no answer to the arguments for Christianity, and presenting himself as an inquirer. He had studied so faithfully with Kasha and Abdul Massih that he was ready for baptism. So on the morning of March 13, the sixth of Moharan, while mobs in the streets howled and beat themselves and uttered execrations against unbelievers, Mohammed Ali was baptized, taking the name of Paul. His face lit up with a wonderfully radiant light as he made this confession of his faith in Christ, and he seemed to receive that moment a visible infilling of the Holy Spirit. He at once began active personal work for his old friends, the Bahais, but as yet there has been no result of his labors. A slight impediment in his speech hinders him much in conversation, but his active intellect and sweet personality will, we trust, be ultimately used of God in leading many into the fold. As long as Paul stayed in the city, he came to see us every day or two for spiritual conversation and continued an earnest student of the Bible. One day Kasha Mooshie passed his shop and saw him so engrossed in Bible study that he did not look up or notice his pastor till he turned back and called him. Later in the spring, however, Paul removed to the village of Sarab, two miles from town, and took a partnership in a coffee-house. After that he was not able to get in much oftener than once a week to see us and was also much hindered in personal work. It is to be hoped that he will soon be able to spend more time in soul-winning. Though the Bahais and a number of Moslems early learned of his baptism no attempt was made at persecution, and we trust that it may often be thus with those who come out of Islam.

Shortly after we arrived in Kermanshah, a Kurd by the name of Moses began coming to the house for instruction in the Word. He is a man past the meridian of life, a Bejoree, living for some time past in Kermanshah, with a wife and four sons. Early last fall in one of his preaching rambles about Kermanshah, Aziz Allah found him at a threshing floor with a number of others, and this man alone of all the company was interested in the message of salvation. The Spirit testified to Aziz Allah at the time that Moses would be a Christian and he followed him up and gave him a Testament and tried to instruct him further in the Word. Hence we found the man with a good start and anxious to learn more. He was a man of not much education, could speak Persian with difficulty and read but little. Yet he quickly grasped the idea of salvation in Jesus Christ, and with a joy wonderfully sweet to behold clung to his Lord with all the tenacity of his Kurdish soul. Though obliged to work early and late in the fields with his oldest sons, he raised the family altar in his home and every night read the New Testament with his wife and boys. The whole household soon came to Christ and there was a complete revolution in their lives. They no longer lied or used the Lord's name in vain. Though unbaptized, they were Christians and are to-day. Moses came often to see us and, forgetful of all danger to himself, urged the people he met to find salvation in Christ. Trouble began to brew and one day when we went to call on him some mischief-makers saw us and informed Mollah Hosein, the most fanatical mollah in Kermanshah, that Moses and his family had all become Christians. Moses, when summoned before the mujtahid and questioned as to his faith, confessed Christ as his Saviour; so he was dismissed for the day, the mujtahid remarking that he would telegraph to Nejed and get permission from the head of the Sheah sect to raise a mob and wipe out the new converts and those who were making them, meaning us. In place of this, however, he wrote to the Imam Jomeh and Sheikh Rahim and asked to be allowed to order the death of Moses and his family. The Imam Jomeh replied that it was not fitting to kill the new converts, but to bring them back to the right way by argument and persuasion, and Sheikh Rahim endorsed the Imam Jomeh's opinion. So Mollah Hosein summoned Moses again, showed him the letter and tried to make him feel grateful for the mercy shown him, and arranged to have him take lessons in the Koran and Sheah traditions. Moses, to conciliate the mollah, agreed to this arrangement and for a time read out of the Koran and traditions with his teacher, but only grew more disgusted with the Moslem fables and lies. So after a time he stopped the farce. The mollah inquiring further and learning that study of Moslem teaching had not shaken Moses's faith in Christ, put him in prison. He remained there, however, but one day till his employer, Mirza Abid, became security for him and assured the mollah that he would hear nothing more about Christianity from that quarter. From that time Moses and his family have been left alone and have gone on quietly studying the New Testament. We planned to baptize them early in the spring, but wishing to baptize the whole family at one time, waited till the younger ones should have more instruction, and also till they should remove to another house where they would be less likely to be molested.

In connection with the Kermanshah converts, we should report the baptism of our servant, Hosein. He has long been troubled with doubts as to Christ's divinity, and we labored often to make him see the matter in a clear Biblical light. In Kermanshah, after much prayer and with Kasha Mooshie's help, the Holy Spirit brought him to a clear conception of the matter and he asked for baptism. The rite was performed at a little gathering held December 26, 1904.

A great deal of itinerating work has been done by the Station; most of it by Mr. and Mrs. Stead, who were set apart for this work. They were away from the Station from October 24, 1904, to July, 1905, and then made two trips about three weeks each in the fall before the Mission meeting. Their accounts of these journeys are crowded with interest and incident. Of the long trip they report:

We were able to spend from October 24, 1904, to July 1, 1905, preaching the Gospel in points more or less distant from the centre at Hamadan. Fifty days were taken up with visiting villages between Hamadan and Bejar, Bejar and Sojgor, and Sojgor and Kermanshah. Twenty-five days were spent in a tour to Kasr Shirin and back by way of Gavarreh. The balance of the time was occupied with visiting villages on the Kermanshah plain within two farsaks of the city, in work for Jews and Moslems in Kermanshah, and in building a church there. Three Moslems were baptized while in Kermanshah, two natives of the place and the third one of our own servants. By the crowds who gathered in the villages, by the ready purchase of our entire stock of Scripture portions and tracts in the Bejor bazaar, by the number of inquirers and others who came for instruction and conversation in Kermanshah, and by the utter defeat which repeated attempts of Moslem mischief-makers to hinder our work received, the Lord again verified His promise to us, "Lo, I am with you alway."

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Stead's itineration, Miss Montgomery was out in the early part of the summer among the villages and Mr. Euwer the latter part. Miss Montgomery writes:

I lodged in the home of two of our school girls, and it was a good object lesson to have them as they sat by me and read the Gospel in Turkish, and they looked so dainty and clean in their prettily simple and modest school dresses, which are made after the fashion of the Armenian dresses. In this village, I had such a comfortable and suitable place provided that I felt completely rested on Thursday when we left. So it was in the next village where we spent two days. Had I built the little room, it could not have suited me better, and in the two days I reached a number of women.

Pastor Ossitur and Aziz Allah have also done most faithful work and their reports are full of simple faith and vivid experiences. Pastor Ossitur writes, and this extract is illustrative:

On the way I talked with two men from Bahar. They said, "We know that Christ is a prophet." I answered, "This is His first office. Do you know the second?" They said, "No," I explained to them that Christ is God, and showed them that their own testimony is that Christ is the Spirit of God. With respect to this there was a long conversation, as they did not accept that the Spirit of God is the same as God. After a little we caught up to four other men. Among them was an old man who heard what we were talking about and accepted my statements that Christ is God. The first speaker then yielded his position. With these six persons there was further conversation about faith. I explained to them that true faith is faith in Jesus Christ, saying, "It is even as you have understood. Christ is alive and in Heaven. All the rest are dead and from them nothing can be expected."

In Hamadan the various calling seasons, like the Feast of Tabernacles and the Passover and the Armenian Christmas, were made as always. Mrs. Hawkes writes:

These feast calls reveal something of the effect of missionary work, for we cannot help seeing that individuals and households have been elevated. The living of our people is on a higher plane in all that pertains to refinement than when work was established here twenty-four years ago. But we do not always find what we long for more a deepening of the spiritual life, although there are some individuals who manifest that.

The various women's prayer meetings have been maintained and also the Jewish Girls' School, which has now twenty-five pupils; the Jewish Alliance still maintaining its school has greatly kept down the prosperity of the Jewish Girls' School of the Mission.

EDUCATIONAL.—Faith Hubbard School.—

School opened September 12, and during the year there were seventy-nine pupils enrolled. Of these, forty were Armenians, twenty-seven Moslems, and five Jews, and there were also seven little boys. There were fifty girls in the home. It is the day department that shows the raids made by the national (Armenian) schools, for the boarding department holds its own. Where Armenians have dropped out to go to the national school, the places have been filled by Moslem girls, and there were many more requests for admission than there was room to receive, and this shows there is a growing desire on the part of some to have their girls educated.

It is indeed hard to care for such a family, where almost constantly there is some one ill, for truly in this land of Persia are the sins of the fathers visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generations; but this year we were thankful that there were no very serious cases of illness, except an operation Dr. Funk performed on one of the teachers.

Boys' School.—

The attendance was always good, the average being nearly fifty each day. The greatest number of Armenians enrolled was twenty-five; the greatest number of Moslems, twenty-six; the number of Jews by birth was always eight. It could be said of hardly any one of these that they had kept the faith. Two were Christians, if the faith of their parents could be counted. The rest, with possibly an exception, were Babis. The Armenians, without an exception, abide by their faith so far as profession goes. This much may not be said of the Moslems, two of whom were Babis; a number of them, if inquired of by one of us, would claim to be Christians, however little the claim would mean.

Three of the oldest Armenian boys united with St. Stephen's Church.

MEDICAL WORK.—It was not possible during the year to acquire the land necessary for the Lily Reed Holt Memorial Hospital, but the small wards of the Whipple Memorial were used for male patients. In addition to the regular work, Dr. Funk was called on to attend two wounded Englishmen.

One was the military attache to the Legation, the other Vice-Consul at Ahwaz (a Persian Gulf port), who were attacked by their Kurdish guards as they were traveling through the mountains. After attending to their immediate needs they were brought to Hamadan, where they received further surgical treatment by operation, until they were able to leave for their respective posts.

Dr. Funk reports:

The statistics for the medical work of dispensary, hospital in-patients and out-patients is as follows:

Total attendance at dispensary, 12,257, of whom 7,576 were patients, including male and female.

Total hospital in-patients, 39, of whom 34 were surgical cases. There were 48 operations outside the hospital, making a total of major operations 82. Of these, there were 20 cataracts, 30 bone diseases, 2 vesical calculus, 1 appendicitis, 4 diseased glands of neck, 3 empyema, and the rest various miscellaneous cases. Of minor operations there were 57, of which 37 were entropion and the remainder abscesses.

In connection with her tours, Mrs. Stead, M.D., has done constant medical work, the patients often thronging her and Mr. Stead so as to make any other work difficult until medical work had been done.

DR. COCHRAN'S MEDICAL WORK AT URUMIA, PERSIA.

WESTERN PERSIA MISSION.

URUMIA: 480 miles north of west from Teheran, the capital. Station begun under the American Board, 1835; transferred to this Board in 1871. Missionaries—Rev. Benjamin Labaree, D.D., Rev. F. G. Coan, D.D., and Mrs. Coan, Rev. W. A. Shedd and Mrs. Shedd, Rev. Robert M. Labaree, Mrs. J. P. Cochran, Rev. C. E. Sterrett, Rev. E. W. McDowell and Mrs. McDowell, Miss M. K. Van Duzee, Miss E. T. Miller, M.D., Miss Mary E. Lewis, Miss Mary E. Fleming.

TABRIZ: nearly 360 miles north of west from Teheran. Station begun 1873. Missionaries—Rev. J. N. Wright, D.D., and Mrs. Wright, Rev. S. G. Wilson, and Mrs. Wilson, Wm. S. Vanneman M.D., and Mrs. Vanneman, Rev. Charles R. Pittman, Rev. F. N. Jessup, Miss G. Y. Holliday, Miss Mary Jewett, Miss M. E. Bradford, M.D., Miss Lillie B. Beaber, Mrs. L. C. VanHook, Miss Lucille Drake.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Dr. M. E. Bradford.

The Mission was reinforced by the appointment of Miss Mary E. Fleming, who has taken up actively the work in Urumia; but it has met with a truly irreparable loss in the death of Dr. J. P. Cochran, for twenty-seven years a medical missionary in Urumia. It is simply impossible to exaggerate the gravity of this loss to the work. Dr. Cochran, by his ability, his tact, his unselfish devotion, the commanding influence he exerted, the regard amounting almost to worship with which he was viewed by Christian and Moslem alike, had been a tower of strength and stability in the midst of the general disorder and wickedness of the land. It will be impossible to find another born among the people, speaking the languages better than the natives, familiar with every quality of the native mind, with the traditions and etiquette and complications of the people, of the finest professional skill and the most beautiful and well developed character. Dr. Cochran had qualifications for the work which it is probable will never be duplicated. And the peculiar transition period in which his life fell made his opportunities and responsibilities of unique character. It is hoped that a suitable biography of one of the most remarkable medical missionaries of our day may in time appear. The Mission has suffered also from the return to America of Mrs. B. W. Labaree with her children. By her own qualities of character and rare abilities, as well as by the noble spirit in which she had borne her husband's martyrdom, Mrs. Labaree had come to a place of peculiar affection and power in the midst of the Nestorian and Mohammedan population, and her return to America, required by her own health and needs of her children, was bewailed by the Mission and the native people alike.

URUMIA STATION.

It is with feelings of praise and gratitude, says the station, as well as of sorrow and sadness, that we look back over the past year. God's mercies have been new every morning and fresh every evening to us as a station—preserving endangered life, granting wider and yet wider opportunities for work along several lines, answering prayers that have been ascending for many years for the opening of doors to Moslem work, and granting to one of our number a well-earned release from his cares and labors and the glorious reward of his heavenly inheritance. Though we can praise God for it all, we can but feel a deep and continual sense of loss for the one so long our beloved co-laborer, now no longer among us.

At the beginning of the year the outlook politically was not encouraging. Owing to the strained relations between our Mission and the Kurds following Mr. Labaree's murder, the lives of the missionaries were constantly threatened. An English Consul, Captain Gough, and an American Consul, Dr. Norton, special envoy from the United States Government, spent several months in Urumia in the interests of the safety of American and English lives.

Up to date the removal of the inactive governor and the chief Mohammedan ecclesiastic without a tumult in the most dangerous month of Moharrem have been accomplished, together with the holding of Kurdish hostages in Teheran from January to October. Though threatening loudly, the Kurds have otherwise been much more quiet than in other recent years. The Madja Seltaneh, who as the Persian General acting to discover the murderers proved too faithful to his task and reported the rebellious Dasht Kurds of Tergawar, whom the Government feels too weak to punish, to have been the criminals, was called to Tabriz and publicly insulted by the Crown Prince. His regiment was taken from him and finally, in fear of his life, he was obliged to take refuge in the British Consulate, where for some months now he has been a virtual prisoner, unable to get permission from the Persian Government to leave the country and afraid to remain.

Seeing the result of this nobleman's friendliness to us, which was one of the chief charges against him by the Crown Prince, other families of rank, for generations friends of the missionaries, have felt constrained to show their friendship by kindly inquiries after our health of our gatekeepers as they drive past, rather than by the social calls so frequent in other years. At present the English Consul-General, Mr. Wratislaw, is here to attend the proposed trial of the murders of Mr. Labaree—and the end is not yet.

While these political conditions were trying to the missionaries they did not really interfere with the spiritual work. The schools went on as usual. Mr. Robert Labaree visited the outlying villages with little variation from his plans, but cautioned of the danger of it, and Dr. Cochran responded to calls in the city or villages, though sometimes in the face of warnings that men had set out from Tergawar with the express purpose of taking his life between his home and the city.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The evangelistic work has been since his arrival last October in the charge of Mr. Labaree, who from the first Sabbath after his arrival, having the advantage of the knowledge of the Syriac from childhood, has been most assiduous in his attention to the villages of the plain.

He has visited over forty of them, holding Sunday services and special evangelistic meetings and making one tour of two weeks' duration to a more remote part of the field. He reports some discouragement over the fact of the limitations of our field, owing to the opposition of that part of the Nestorians who have gone over to the Russian Church, secured by their promise of material benefit and retained by political intimidation. Not this alone hinders, but rival denominations of our own Evangelical Church at home is adding still further division to our already circumscribed field, while the growing materialism, bred of the success many who have gone to America have attained, fires the young men with worldly ambitions in lieu of the missionary zeal which we long to see developed.

In spite, however, of adverse circumstances the Church that does remain is on a solid foundation, and earnest piety is to be met with among the villages, and additions are made to the Church throughout the year rather from quiet growth than from a special awakening. Another agency for good employed by Mr. Labaree has been the semi-monthly meetings of village pastors with the missionary, where they are helped, instructed and inspired to more active work, the good results of which were seen in our fall Knooshya, when hostile factions showed a far more peaceful spirit than any one could have predicted.

With the pleasure of welcoming the Coans on their return from furlough last October came the added pleasure of receiving Miss Fleming as an addition to our missionary force. By unusual ability in acquiring the language she has been able already to enter to some extent into regular work. While living in the Seminary and rendering some aid to that institution as well as to the Moslem girls' school, she has still found a number of opportunities for doing evangelistic work in the villages most acceptably. It is some time since a woman missionary has been free for this work, and the field presented is a hopeful and attractive one, where the women and girls who have gone out from the Seminary, as well as those who have not enjoyed such advantages, may be encouraged and helped. Another special work of evangelistic nature undertaken last winter was preaching to the Armenians in their own language.

THE PRESS.—The past year has seen the Rays of Light penetrating a thousand or more homes, where its ever-welcome pages bring almost the only breath from the outside world to many a Syrian village. It is seized with eagerness whenever it appears, and many a subscriber shares its contents with the illiterate villager under some spreading tree in the village or around his own hearthstone, or more literally in the firepit of the mud floor of his kitchen. Besides the monthly newspaper the Sunday-school quarterlies have been gotten out regularly and are used by the whole congregation as they gather in the villages for the morning Sunday-school to study God's Word together. In addition, Dr. Labaree has this year translated Biographies of Eminent Men, a tract on the Early Revivals in the Nestorian Field and prepared a memorial pamphlet on the Rev. B. W. Labaree. Besides these an Arithmetical and II Reader in Syriac and a Code of Morals in Turkish for use in our schools have been issued, together with the Minutes of the Synod and miscellaneous jobbing work, bringing the entire output for the year up to 1,211,800 pages, a larger total than for several years.

Financially the Press is struggling with cramped appropriations and cutting down expenses in every way possible, discharging employees and leaving unbound the whole edition of the Biographies of Eminent Men which lies in the printing office for lack of means. The demand at present for a new Hymn Book is urgent, but must stand aside until something more can be granted than the usual amount.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Owing to an epidemic of cholera which visited Urumia last fall the College was not opened until the day after Christmas. Because of the unsafe condition of the mountain roads, and heavy financial losses by the people on account of rains during the vintage, many were prevented from attending last year. The enrollment in the College was sixty-six, three of whom were in the medical department and two in the theological.

Dr. Coan endeavored to carry out the policy this year of having poor students who were being helped by Mission funds work two hours a day during school days and five or six on Saturdays. They have in this way set out many trees, and cared for them and the grounds, hauled earth, brick and stone, worked at the river which bounds our compound on one side, strengthening the embankment, cut wood, etc., etc. Friends at home have this year given the College an organ for use in the College, a set of new maps and a cabinet for illustrating Physics, all of which are calculated to bring the College teaching to a stage of greater efficiency. Nine students graduated on the 13th of July, the close of the term being rendered later by the tardy opening. Three of these received College diplomas and six diplomas from the Academic Department.

Dr. Coan has taught the Bible courses in the three Academic classes and Homiletics to the Theological class, and the boys have had regular preaching services, Sunday-school and Christian Endeavor meetings on Sunday, besides the midweek prayer meeting and Y. M. C. A., with morning chapel and evening prayers in their rooms. Besides this the students go to some of the near villages and hold Sunday-schools where no regular services are maintained. Certain evenings were set apart in which pupils might resort to Dr. Coan's study for religious counsel and advice, and these proved profitable seasons to those who availed themselves of them.

Fiske Seminary.—This institution has been a centre for influences for good this year, as in years gone by. Beginning the year with the Teachers' Institute, instruction was given to the thirty or more village school teachers in the nature of a review of the studies to be taught the following winter. These prove very valuable agencies in making the village schools more efficient. As in the College, the Seminary was obliged to wait until December to open on account of the cholera. A number of mountain girls were in the school all the time, but by taking proper precautions, such as boilings the water used, etc., an outbreak of the disease in the school was prevented. The enrollment for the year was ninety-one. One-fourth of this number were mountain girls, that class so desirable to reach, being from districts so darkened by ignorance in the midst of their lawless Kurdish neighbors. A glimpse into the home of one of the old graduates, now a wife of a native pastor in a mountain village, may be interesting.

Their home consists of one long room, built against a rocky mountainside which serves as one of the walls. A stream of water trickles down from the rocks into the room and is carried off by a trench dug in the earth floor. One end, in which are shelves containing a few books, serves as study, while the other end, neatly curtained off, is the bedroom. The middle part, besides serving as kitchen, dining room and living room for the family, is used for the village school, taught by Muryan, and as a meeting room for the women of the village whom she gathers in and instructs. Besides her school and church work, she has had the care of her family and sets an example for cleanliness and good housekeeping for the whole village.

This year a beginning has been made by Miss Lewis to have a Normal training class as a post-graduate course, which will add greatly to the efficiency of the village schools under the support of the Mission.

The pupils in the Seminary are not only instructed in the common school branches, languages and housekeeping, but great pains are taken to bring strong religious pressure to bear upon them. They have Sabbath preaching and Sunday-school, daily chapel prayers morning and evening, aside from twenty minutes given twice a day for private devotions.

Christian Endeavor Societies abound for all ages in the school. Even those not connected with the school are supplied with these religious privileges, as the young men's and boys' societies attest.

The general Christian Endeavor work in the mountains and plain has its source and oversight in the Seminary and embraces some sixty-five or seventy societies, where the girls have been the means of organizing them during the vacations. They held their third Annual Convention last spring and organized a Christian Endeavor Union,

By the aid of some large gifts, designated for the enlargement of Fiske Seminary, a new dormitory has been put up this year, though as yet unoccupied for lack of funds to furnish it. The school-room has also been enlarged, to provide seating accommodations for the whole school, and a new yard has been bought adjoining, which accommodates the wash-house, bake-room and dining-room. No class graduated, as the standard has been raised again.

The Moslem School for Boys.—In December of last year the long-prayed-for and long-talked-of school for Moslem boys was enabled to become a living fact. Mr. Shedd, assisted by the Moslem Mirza, for years connected with our work, and a bright energetic Syrian full of high ideals and hopes for evangelizing Moslems, together with a teacher of French, employed from the city, formed the faculty of the new institution. It was begun with two pupils in temporary quarters, soon to be torn down to make way for the new city church. From day to day the numbers increased until they reached something over fifty.

The removal of the school building required a new place, and rooms on the premises of one of the most prominent khans in the city were offered gratis, with true Oriental courtesy and the confident expectation of gain. His offer was accepted until a site could be purchased with the money Mrs. Labaree had so generously given for the purpose. A property near though not adjoining our city compound was secured. The buildings are, with a little alteration, quite suitable to our purposes. From April to the summer vacation the number in attendance decreased to about thirty. No direct religious teaching was attempted this first year, aside from Bible stories to the smaller pupils and moral talks by Mr. Shedd. It has been felt that this year has been largely experimental, and Mr. Shedd has had to feel his way carefully in this delicate work of establishing a Christian school for a fanatical Moslem population whose only desire is for the Western learning. They feel they need not fear if their sons develop such characters as our missionary men display; at the same time to have them taught that Christ is the Son of God is a hateful and an intolerable thought to them. We have need of much prayer for guidance in the establishment on the right basis of this new work.

Moslem Girls' School.—Though closing the previous year with only seven pupils, by March this year the number of Moslem girls had increased to twenty-two. Through April it continued to grow until the enrollment was fifty-nine. As school continued until July 1st some had dropped out, but the term closed with above forty pupils. The sewing and fancy work attracted many, but all were obliged to study as well. The smaller ones had a little kindergarten. All who could read were put into moral or religious books, such as Pilgrim's Progress or the Testament.

The increase in the school has enlarged the opportunities for Moslem work among the women, as all are visited in their homes where the mothers and sisters are reached. It is a matter for deep gratitude that both in the boys and girls' schools for Moslems such answers to prayer have been received this year.

Village Schools in the Plain and Mountains.—The number of village schools under our control the past year has been sixty-four with the total attendance 1,639 in the plain, and in the mountains forty-six schools with an attendance of 764. The above number represents in the plain a gain of seven new schools and 247 pupils since the previous year. In the plain the percentage of girls in attendance is thirty-six and in the mountains twenty-three per cent. or less than one-fourth.

There were three Armenian schools, and about seventy Armenian pupils scattered throughout the other Syrian schools in the plain. In the mountains a new departure was made by establishing a high school in Baz, which received twenty-six boys from other villages as boarders. The work done by the teacher, who is also one of the preachers, was satisfactory and encouraging. The need for some such higher school in the mountains, so far from our College or any other, has long been felt and it is gratifying to report its final establishment. A high school is also located in a large village in the plain remote from the College. These village schools, where the rank and file are taught to read the Scriptures for themselves, are one of our most efficient agencies for strengthening our church. Where fifteen or twenty tomans means a winter's schooling for a whole village, it is one of our most painful tasks to go over the lists taking off one school after another, as has been necessary for the year that has opened on account of the low state of the treasury.

BOOK DEPOSITORY.—

In this land where the "confusion of tongues" prevails we find our sales of Scriptures to embrace this year ten languages, namely, Persian, Turkish, Syriac, Hebrew, Armenian, Arabic, Greek, French, English and Russian, the preponderance being Syriac, 787 copies. In all 948 Scriptures were sold, amounting in value to 210 tomans. Besides these there were sales of school books to the amount of 230 tomans, and 130 tomans for books for general reading. To facilitate the placing of our books before the public two rooms have been fitted up on our premises; the outer one opening on the street is a shop where the books may be bought, and the larger inner one is for a reading room and place for conversation. An Armenian in charge will, it is hoped, find it possible to do evangelistic work in this way for Moslems and Armenians.

GOVERNMENTAL AFFAIRS.—Twice a month the Legal Board meets, composed of representatives from our church assisted by one missionary. They hear the cases of the Christian's wrongs, seeking to settle their differences without an appeal to the government officials.

It was in this Board that Dr. Cochran did much of the work which caused him to be called the "Father of the Syrian people." By his influence, gained through his medical services to the nobility and landlords, he was able many times to persuade them to relinquish cruel and oppressive measures toward their downtrodden subjects, the Christians, or by his pacific and wise counsels was able to bring warring elements to amicable terms, or could advise that the claim be dropped when the matter was hopeless. This part of his work has since his death been entrusted to Mr. Shedd, whose clear and competent judgment will in future help adjudge the best measures for solving the difficult problems brought before it.

MEDICAL WORK.—Last fall the epidemic of cholera which swept over Persia reached Urumia after the heat of summer had passed. There were, however, several weeks during which it raged more or less fiercely.

All possible precautions were taken to prevent its spread. There were nearly 5,000 inoculations made by the physicians, and of those inoculated almost none took the disease.

The pamphlet prepared by Dr. Cochran, in Persian and Syriac, during the previous epidemic of the disease twelve years ago was again circulated. It being read in the churches by the village pastors and also followed by the enlightened nobility in the city probably checked the epidemic still further. Although the hospital received but few patients until December, Dr. Cochran was daily visiting cholera cases in their homes. Though no records have been found for statistics of his work this year, he must have inoculated at least hundreds, when in a single household, as he happened to mention one day, he had inoculated thirty-five persons, wives, children and servants. Dr. Miller too was kept busy inoculating in the homes of the nobility as well as among the poorer classes. Almost the entire Christian population escaped the disease. Many interesting patients have been at the hospital. Some because of their position, wealth or influence, others because of their destitution and misery, have been marked cases.

Dr. Miller reports a grand total of 4,572 sick handled. When we compare this with the grand total of last year, 12,752, we can see that very little of Dr. Cochran's work is reported in the above. For six weeks in the spring he was absent from Urumia, but while in Tabriz he was kept busy with consultations, calls and small operations most of the time. The only days in this year of which a complete record has been found are the eight days spent in a small Moslem village beside the lake, waiting for the boat to convey him across Lake Urumia on his way home from Tabriz. In that time he saw 209 patients. Since hospital and other records show only 2,815 seen by Dr. Cochran, it would appear he did but fifteen weeks' work at the same rate. No accurate report can therefore be made with the data at hand. We only know that throughout the whole year "he went about doing good" and was "faithful unto death."

With schools full to overflowing and signs of spiritual quickening among the native pastors, the station looks forward with hopefulness to a new year of labor for our Lord and Master.

MOUNTAIN WORK.—

In our Kurdistan field there are some 300 Syrian villages for whose evangelization we are responsible. As centres of light in this field there are nine Protestant churches, twenty-seven preaching points having more or less regular preaching, and twenty-seven preachers stationed or itinerating. There are also a high school and forty-five village schools.

During the past year preachers and teachers preached the Gospel and taught it in 131 villages; 169 villages remained unvisited.

Mr. McDowell has worked on the principle of spiritual reformation and awakening within the old Church in the mountains, believing, rightly, that the old Church was open to such work, and that in adopting this principle he was acting in accord with what was the policy of the Mission at the beginning and has always been its policy, so far as it could control the situation. Mr. McDowell has had most satisfactory interviews with the Patriarch at Kochannis, and has won the entire confidence of the people and found his way even into the hearts of Kurds.

Of his evangelistic work among the mountain fastnesses and the villages in the valleys he writes:

I left Van November 3 and returned April 8, being gone five months and five days.

The districts visited were: Sert, two villages; Bohtan, eight villages; Berwar, ten villages; Tiary, five villages. Kasha Elea, my companion evangelist, visited seven additional villages, making a total of forty-two villages visited on this itinerary. Of these four were Kurdish villages and two Jewish. In one of these Kurdish villages, Bawmernee, I had an opportunity to present the Gospel to quite a large number of Moslems, the Sheikh himself asking me to tell them frankly and plainly what I thought of Christ, adding, however, that he did not wish to have any controversy. The talk was carried on under the disadvantages of an interpreter, who stopped to discuss with me the meaning of the word "person," as relating to the Trinity, and the best translation of it into Kurdish. As usual, some present began to show signs of anger, and my interpreter begged me to close the conversation. There had been sufficient opportunity, however, to correct some of the usual Moslem misconceptions of Christianity, and to present in part the Biblical doctrine of Christ.

In another village an old Kurd surprised me by his knowledge of Old Testament history, which gave us an excellent basis for presenting some Gospel truths.

On my way to Bohtan I spent several days as guest of a Kurdish Beg who is very near the Kingdom. He talked freely on the subject of religion and frankly confessed his dissatisfaction with Islam. He is known as a warm friend of the Christians and saved many lives during the recent troubles.

For the first time I came in contact on this trip with Turks who possessed and used controversial books on the subject of Islam versus Christianity, in favor of the former. The book was written apparently by an apostate Christian.

Our work in the two Jewish villages was full of interest. The Jews came in a body with their Rabbis, who brought their Hebrew Scriptures. One of the Rabbis was exceedingly familiar with his Bible, being able to turn readily to any text he wanted, some of which he produced with much assurance as being conclusive against the claims of Jesus of Nazereth.

All of the Jews, however, seemed to be much impressed by the Scriptural proofs of the Messiahship of Jesus. Several hours were spent at different times in this discussion without one jarring word being spoken.

On my return to Van in April I was surprised to learn from our Vali that while on this trip I had been reported from several places as an Armenian in disguise. The Vali had been kept busy, he said, answering the telegrams of the Constantinople officials about me. Had the Vali been less friendly to us and so answered these telegrams, it is probable that I would have met with serious annoyance along the road from minor officials.

Partly as a result of this agitation the Sultan issued an order forbidding Americans to travel. It was a general order, but seems to have had special application to Van. The Vali, while cordial in his manner toward us, positively refused to allow us to visit even the nearby villages. However, after a decent interval, I made several visits to the villages, going without a zabtiah, and nothing was said about it.

Of the principles of his work and his interviews with the Patriarch, Mr. McDowell writes:

We have been working on the principle of a separate Protestant Church as the means to the regeneration of the country. We are now to aim at the regeneration or rather the resuscitation of the old Church as a means to the evangelization of these Christian and Moslem peoples. We cease our efforts to establish a separate Protestant community, and will now direct our working force toward the twofold object of enlightening and spiritualizing the Nestorian Church.

Let it not be thought that it is our purpose to acquiesce in error of doctrine or looseness of practice. To the contrary, our new base affords us a better standing ground on which to combat their errors and sins, which, I think, we have done in the past and will continue to do in all faithfulness and I trust with tact.

Our immediate aim in preaching the Gospel will still be the regeneration of the individual through repentance toward God, faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and the receiving of the Holy Spirit. It is our purpose, so far as possible, to use our preaching force as itinerating evangelists, aiming especially at the hitherto unreached portions of the field. It is hoped by this change of policy that Nestorian zeal for the old Church, from being a barrier to our efforts, will greatly aid us in the evangelization of their people. That such a change is possible there is much ground for hope. This change of policy is already quite widely known in the mountains and seems to be producing the desired effect.

It was my privilege last winter to speak in the presence of Mar Shimon to a large dewan of representative men from Tiary, Tkhoma and other mountain districts on the subject of the old Church, and when I expressed my feelings and hoped with reference to their Church that it might be revived and again become a witness-bearing Church, as it was in the days of their fathers, and as such survive until the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ, all listened with great eagerness and many seemed to be moved. While all were deeply interested, some evidently doubted. But there can be no doubt that many of them were favorably impressed, as was, I think, Mar Shimon himself. I had four interviews with him, one of them being his return call upon me. In one of these interviews, a private one, he said he had heard before of my feelings with reference to the old Church and expressed his appreciation of this attitude toward his people. He led the conversation and spoke freely of his desires for his people. He expressed disappointment that so little had been accomplished for the Nestorians. He said he would be glad to have us again locate in Mosul and open a school there and in Amadia, and in the latter place put a strong man who could act as Government agent for the people. He wished, he said, to ordain a bishop for Bohtan and Sert, and asked me to recommend to him some man for that position, remarking sadly that he had no man to fill such places. He added, also, that he would ordain to the priesthood any man bearing our recommendation. It is his desire to recover as many as possible of his people who have fallen away to the Papacy in Supna, Mosul, Bohtan and Sert.

I think our change of policy will affect for good Mar Shimon's administration, which is opening with much promise. If our work shows good results for the people and we convince him of our sincerity, I believe he will more and more turn to us for moral support and receive from us spiritual impulse and direction.

Mr. Sterrett reports forty-six village schools in the mountains with 575 scholars.

The schools were distributed as follows: Gawar, 9; Jeloo, 4; Bas, 5; Tkhoma, 5; Kon, 1; Diz, 1; Tiary, 5; Berwer, 6; Supna, 2; Bohtan, 6; region of Van, 1.

Last fall we opened a high school in Baz, under the direction and management of our efficient and devoted Kasha Daniel. The length of term was four months and the attendance was twenty-six boys, boarders, and two day pupils from the villages.

At the close of the year Mr. Sterrett removed to Urumia to help in the station work there, leaving the entire mountain work to Mr. McDowell.

TABRIZ STATION.

During the year a most acceptable pastor was called by the Tabriz Church from Van, Badveli Garabed Shirinian, for a period of at least three years, at a salary of 50 Turkish liras per annum (which has since been increased to 60 liras). The pastor and his family arrived early in June and at once entered heartily into the work. He and his wife have both won the respect and liking of the people, and we pray that their coming may be the means of a great blessing here.

During the month of August the Treasurer of the Church solicited subscriptions from the members for the support of the pastor, and the results have been gratifying, especially among the Armenians. Over 250 toman have thus far been subscribed, fully half being from the native members of the congregation. The church has also given some $47 to Foreign Missions during the year, sending it to Korea.

ITINERATION.—The absence of Mr. Wilson on furlough left the boys' school under the care of Dr. Wright, so that he was unable to spend time in the country, but the station has continued its energetic plans of itineration.

Rabi Yakob and Rabi Tuma made a tour of four months in the districts of Garadagh and Sarob. The following incidents are taken from a report by Rabi Yakob:

We went to a village where they at first promised us a room, but when they learned that we were Christians refused to give it. So we remained in the street and talked with some men. Afterwards they gave us a place in a stable, with the condition that not a drop of water or tea should be spilt or the place would be made unclean. But before we left the owner of the stable came and drank tea with us. In the street we talked to a company of seventy persons and all were pleased except one old man who kept saying, "Cursed be ye, cursed be ye, who do not accept Islam and preach Jesus!" In another place a woman asked me if I accepted Mohammed. I said "No." She replied, "May your mouth be crooked!" Again she said, "I understand you worship a stick" (meaning the Cross). Then I explained to them our faith and told them that liars and oath takers and revilers and adulterers cannot enter heaven. They said, "Then we will not go to heaven, for these things are found in us." A young man in the crowd said, "If I had the power I would put a bullet through your mouth." Another young man said, "These are good men; would that I had belonged to their religion." For this they reviled him severely.

The variety of their work is shown by the following statistics: During the four months they passed through six districts, and preached the Gospel in 61 villages, 136 houses, 29 threshing floors, 32 harvest fields, 84 shops, 12 tea houses, 12 flour mills, 23 times on the road, 15 caravansaries, 9 Moslem schools, and 5 gypsy camps. Twelve times they were reviled and fifteen times their lives were threatened. One was robbed and the other wounded by being struck on the head by a club. Four thousand one hundred and ninety-nine persons heard the Gospel, of whom 901 were women.

The cholera epidemic prevented fall touring on the part of the missionaries, but Mr. Pittman was out for nearly three months in the spring. He reports some notes of his touring:

Went to Kundur and stopped with Meshedi Goolan. Eight men came in and watched me eat dinner. One was argumentative and said he would not leave the religion of his fathers. He said that his feet were healed by a miracle while on a pilgrimage to Kerbela last year. He even wanted to argue that fingers and not forks were intended for conveying food to the mouth. After dinner I called on Mahmud Agha, a former acquaintance, who is blind. There I talked with seven men, reading from Matthew xv. 1-20. Then went to a garden and talked with three men, reading to them the parable of the barren fig tree. While returning to my lodgings I met Kerbela Ali, a former acquaintance, who brought me a present of almonds. In the evening Kerbela Ali, Mullah Habib and a half dozen others came in and we argued on the authenticity of the Scriptures and Christ or Mohammed as Mediator.

The third day I stopped in a village which I had visited a year and a half ago, and had given to the son of a shopkeeper in whose house I was staying a few cards containing verses of Scripture in Persian. Upon arriving there this time I found he had used them to decorate his shop, so that all who came who could read were reading Romans vi. 23, John v. 39, and other verses. I remained over Sunday in the house of a shopkeeper in another village of 700 houses. In the afternoon I went to the shop of my host, and sat down on a stool in front of it. Soon a few men gathered about me and began to ask questions, first about the war between Russia and Japan and then about the "New World," as they call America. I talked to them about America, with the aim of showing some of the blessings of Christianity. They were all very friendly and courteous, but when the crowd numbered fifty or sixty I decided to return to my lodgings. After returning a Mullah, who had seen me at the shop and heard I had books with me, came to see them. I showed him the New Testament, and he was so pleased with it that he purchased two copies, a Turkish and a Persian translation, sending the money for them next morning.

About forty towns and villages were visited on the way to and in Salmas. In Salmas, in company with Kasha Yohanan, we found our way into the homes of all classes, from that of the Governor to that of the day laborer. Some listened to the message without response, some sought argument merely for its own sake, but others were sincerely religious, some of whom were firm in their faith, others dissatisfied and inquiring.

Miss Holliday returned from Berlin, where she had been obliged to go on account of her eyes in the spring, and resumed her evangelistic work in the city, especially among the women who had come to the meetings at the hospital. Mrs. Van Hook was away from the station for ninety-nine days, working at Khoi and in that region. She writes:

I saw more of opium smoking on this trip than I had ever seen before. At one caravansary the host told me he provided opium pipes for his guests, just the same as the kalion or samovar, and that they were in as great demand.

Prices were very high when I went to Khoi, and continued to advance until a child died of hunger, when a mob of women took possession of the city and kept the populace in terror for two days. They succeeded in forcing the opening of the storehouses and lowering the price of bread. One reason of the rise in prices was a threatened plague of locusts. To avert this water was brought from a spring near Ardibil to attract the locust bird which devours the pests. This spring is in the care of a sayid, and only a sayid can bring the water. He must make the journey afoot, and must not speak while on the way nor look behind him, lest the spell be broken; neither must he place the jar containing the water on the ground; but when he stops to rest it must be suspended from the limb of a tree or from a crochted stick. This sacred water is sprinkled, with various incantations, on the land in the evening, and in the morning the pink-breasted locust bird appears, as many thousands of them as were spoken for (as the number desired must be specified when the request for the water is made). By such means the threatened danger was averted, the harvest assured and confidence restored.

It had been nineteen years since I had visited Urumia, and as I was but two days distant at Salmas I seized the opportunity to slip over for a couple of weeks.

I was greatly impressed with the material changes that have taken place in Urumia since I was last there, specially the increased acreage and growth of trees. Many large two-story brick buildings, a stir and bustle of business altogether different from the olden times, with the presence of foreigners outside the circle of missionaries, have created a new atmosphere; but the impression was of a new and vigorous life bringing new opportunities and responsibilities which the missionaries have been quick to note and seize.

Mr. Jessup also was out touring in the early fall. He writes:

It was not an opportune time for finding crowds, as the mass of the people were extremely busy on the threshing floors and in the vineyards and fields, but everywhere we met with individuals who were glad to hear and to talk about Christ.

It was my privilege to have as companion the Armenian evangelist Garabed and to have a chance to see his methods of work. It seemed to me that his tact and ability to win the interest and liking of the people to himself and his methods have not been exaggerated. Brought up to a peasant's life in Salmas, his later experiences have all helped to train him for being an evangelist. Before becoming a Protestant Christian he was first a member of the Armenian Church, and then for several years in Russia an out-and-out infidel. As cardriver in Tiflis and peddler in Salmas, he learned to read character and to adapt himself to men. During his five years as member of an Armenian revolutionary band engaged in smuggling arms into Turkey he was taught that a revolutionist must be absolutely faithful to his mission, even when alone and unwatched; that he must be always ready to deny himself, to stand up boldly in any danger, and even to go to death rather than betray his cause. As he says, these are the requirements not only for a patriot but for a soldier of Jesus Christ.

It is remarkable everywhere to see how open the door is for a plain presentation of the claims of Christ. We met with only one who seemed ready to accept everything he heard. This was a man who had made the pilgrimage to Kerbela, but said he had entirely broken away from Islam. His friends were dervishes and Babis, but he himself after listening for several hours earnestly said he accepted the Plan of Salvation as he heard it and Christ as the sufficient and only Saviour. Of course he still needs much instruction. One afternoon was spent in the house of a Babi preacher with eight or nine Babis, in argument with them. Their acquaintance with Scripture is as remarkable as their evident determination not to accept its teaching when opposed to their own beliefs. Like the Christian Scientists, they get around inconvenient passages by spiritualizing the plain meaning out and their own vagaries in.

Sunday morning in Shishawan we visited one of the mosques, and were given permission to go inside and look at the carved and painted rafters and ceiling. Then as we sat and talked with the "sexton" a crowd gathered, and sitting inside the mosque Garabed pulled out his Testament and read and preached to them. That afternoon he heard of a foreign doctor in town and went to his waiting room, thinking to find a good crowd there to talk to. The doctor turned out to be a renegade Russian who has turned Moslem, adopted the long flowing Persian garments, dyed his beard black, shaved his head and married a Moslem wife or wives. He called himself Hadji Safar Hakim. He was delighted to find some one who could talk Russian and treated Garabed with marked respect. Garabed said to him in Russian, "Why have you betrayed Christ and sold yourself to serve this false prophet?" He answered nothing at the time, but as Garabed left accompanied him outside for private conversation. He said, "I have an extra horse which I put at your disposal. Come with me and we can tour anywhere in this region or any part of Persia. Being a proselyte to Islam, and not only that but a Hadji and a doctor, I have an entree and a welcome everywhere. You can go with me into mosques and before officials and can preach Christ anywhere you wish. I will protect you. This I will do for the sake of the Christ I have left."

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—One hundred and one Armenian and forty-four Moslem pupils were enrolled in the Memorial Training and Theological School. Miss Holliday carried on a small school for Moslem girls, attended by twelve pupils ranging in age from five to twenty-four.

I have been most agreeably surprised by the regular attendance, order and docility of the pupils, as they proved more tractable and manageable than one could have dared to hope. I feared to find them dishonest, untruthful and quarrelsome, but we have had no such difficulty, and they compare most favorably with American or Armenian children whom I have taught.

Reports from the girls' school had not been received.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Vanneman writes:

The attendance at the dispensary has been greater than any previous year, and it includes all classes and nationalities, the great majority being Moslems.

The visits to the sick in their homes takes the greater portion of my time. During the past year these visits have been nearly one hundred more than any previous year, averaging over four daily for every day I was in the city. These visits to the homes are a source of much influence and give many opportunities to talk personally with those present. These visits, I believe, are as important as hospital work. They also furnish much the larger portion of the medical receipts, and without them the medical department could not be self-supporting.

At the time this report was written the dispensary wards had not been opened; the stress of other work had made it necessary to delay hospital work a little.

SUMMARY FOR 1905.

Patients seen at dispensary.....	8,990
Medical visits made to the homes of sick.....	1,406
Medical receipts,.....	about 2,000 tomans.

BIBLE DEPOT AND BOOK ROOM.—

Since the last report was made 58 Bibles, 117 Testaments and 90 portions of Scriptures have been sold.

Girls' Boarding and Day School.—Miss Beaber reports:

In the winter a blind Armenian refugee from Turkey, with his family of a wife and five small children, were recommended to our sympathy and help by an old school-girl whose husband had been acquainted with them in the days of their prosperity in Turkey. There had been a family of five brothers who had a soap factory and were general merchants and had amassed considerable wealth. The four brothers with their families were massacred; this helpless blind man escaped to one of the consulates and finally fled from the country and reached Tabriz, ragged, penniless and hungry. We were asked to admit the three little girls, the youngest of whom was but three and a half years of age, and who all seemed very bright. We hesitated. On the one hand rose the ambition to urge along self-support, and we had to remember that these girls once admitted would have to be cared for winter and summer clothed and fed, until they would be able to help themselves, all without a single cent towards "self-support." On the other hand there stood the four children, bright-faced as any American darlings, looking at us with large appealing eyes, their faces pinched with hunger and hands, arms and legs blue with cold, thin, ragged calico dresses being their only garment. The father is entirely blind, and the mother is a frail little woman, weak with hunger and fear.

We took them in, and immediately set to work getting them cleaned up and clothed. The little tot was used to being taken care of by her older sister and was remarkably good. She soon learned to sing, and delighted in singing "Come to Jesus," and other religious and kindergarten songs.

We are blessed in having so capable a kindergarten teacher in charge of that department, and the lower grades could be taken care of by the girls who wish to teach one or two years before their marriage.

Our lower course ends with the seventh grade, so that a pupil who enters at the age of six, and who is promoted year by year, graduates at the age of fourteen. Teachers are so hard to secure that we must depend at present on these girls of fourteen or fifteen to teach, and it could not be expected that such teachers would build up the reputation of efficiency of the school.

The enrollment for the year was 106; boarders, 11. Tuition collected, 1,198 krans (about $110).

Of her evangelistic work in connection with the school, Miss Drake writes:

There have been such golden opportunities for calling this year in the homes of the day pupils, and everywhere there has always been such a cordial welcome. Whenever I would go to a room and ask, "Who will let me go home with her to-night?" immediately a dozen hands would be raised, and in no home has there been anything but the kindest welcome. I have been able to make two or three calls after school, and have always been urged to come again. But what we are hoping and praying for in these calls is that in every case the visits will count for Christ, and that some may be brought to know Him, as they do not know Him now.

THE PHILIPPINE MISSION.

MANILA: on the Island of Luzon; occupied 1899. Missionaries—Rev. James B. Rodgers, D.D., and Mrs. Rodgers, Rev. Lewis B. Hillis and Mrs. Hillis, Rev. George W. Wright, Rev. John H. Lamb and Mrs. Lamb, and Miss Clyde Bartholomew.

ILOILO: on the Island of Panay; occupied 1900. Missionaries—J. Andrew Hall, M.D., and Mrs. Hall, Rev. Paul Doltz and Mrs. Doltz.

DUMAGUETE: on the island of Negros; occupied 1901. Missionaries—Rev. David S. Hibbard and Mrs. Hibbard, Wm. H. Langheim, M.D., and Mrs. Langheim, Rev. Walter O. McIntire and Mrs. McIntire, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Glunz.

CEBU: on the Island of Cebu; occupied 1902. Missionaries—Rev. Fred Jansen and Mrs. Jansen, and James A. Graham, M.D., and Mrs. Graham.

LAGUNA: on Laguna de Bay, Luzon; occupied 1903. Missionaries—Rev. J. E. Snook and Mrs. Snook, Rev. Charles H. Magill and Mrs. Magill.

TACLOBAN: on the Island of Leyte; occupied 1903. Missionary—Rev. Charles E. Rath.

ALBAY: in the southeastern part of the Island of Luzon; occupied 1903. Missionaries—Rev. and Mrs. Roy H. Brown.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. Jansen, J. Andrew Hall, M.D., and Mrs. Hall, and Rev. Chas. E. Rath.

This young Mission has had another remarkable year. Few Mission fields in the world have been more blessed. It is only seven years since the first resident Protestant missionary, Dr. Rodgers, reached the field. For several years the force was very small, and those who were on the field were, of course, learning the language and getting into touch with the people. It is, therefore, a cause for devout thanksgiving that there are now 4,127 communicants in connection with our Presbyterian Mission alone, beside the considerable numbers enrolled in connection with the churches of other denominations.

MANILA STATION.

Dr. Rodgers and family left for their furlough in May. Until the time of his departure Dr. Rodgers had the general oversight of evangelistic work of the Station.

The work for the most part has been carried forward on the lines already laid down, although there have been some new lines undertaken. The preaching services in and around Manila and at several points in Cavite where churches are established have been regularly carried on as in the past. A number of the congregations have one or more preachers who stately supply the preaching services, reinforced by visits from the evangelists and missionaries. The Manila Station undertakes to look after the work in the Provinces of Manila, Rizal, Cavite and Batangas.

The work among Americans has been done directly through the First Presbyterian Church of Manila, of which Dr. Rossiter is the pastor. Mr. Newton C. Comfort, the clerk of Sessions reports as follows:—

During the year the church has been under the joint pastorate of Rev. S. B. Rossiter, D. D., and Rev. Lewis B. Hillis, but on account of poor health Mr. Hillis has been absent almost the entire year. The pastoral work, consequently, has been carried on by Dr. Rossiter alone.

During the year a new association, known as the Pastor's Aid, has been organized and has carried on a progressive work in assisting the pastor in looking after the interests of the church. In January, 1905, the number of elders was increased to five and of trustees to six. Regular Sunday and mid-week services have been conducted throughout the year.

The attendance at the services of the church has been good. An increased interest is constantly manifest, but the transient day of our members is a great hindrance to effective permanent organization. Many of the members have returned to the United States or left the islands during the year. Among the number was one of our most useful elders.

The services of the church continue to be held in the house which has been used since 1899. A few important improvements have been made, enlarging the church room, adding new chairs and electric lighting.

Statistics for the year: Received on certificate, 16; received by affiliation, 56; died, 5; returned to United States or dismissed to other churches, 38; membership August 31, 1905, 182; baptisms, infants, 6.

Shortly after the close of the church year all were gladdened by the return of Mr. Hillis in improved health and with a bride who is a delightful addition to the Mission circle.

When bids for the new Emerson Memorial Chapel were opened, Dr. Rossiter was dismayed to find that the lowest bid was considerably in excess of the sum in hand, the cost of labor and materials having greatly risen. In this emergency Mr. E. O. Emerson, of Titusville, Pa., very generously added the needed sum to his original gift, and the work of construction is now proceeding rapidly.

Work among the Filipinos in the city of Manila. —

A very considerable number has been added to the church membership at each communion season. The growth has been of a normal sort and the churches are in a healthy condition.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meetings in Tondo furnish an excellent opportunity for experience in public speaking to the younger evangelists. They have been growing more ready in their participation in these meetings and have been thereby trained for service in a number of the meetings held in Tondo and Trozo. As in former years, a number of what might be called neighborhood prayer meetings are held from Monday to Saturday through the districts, the central prayer meeting being on Tuesday in the Tondo Church. Each of these meeting places might be said to be in some sense the home of a separate congregation, although all of the members are in direct association and count themselves as part of the central church on Calle Azcarraga.

The work in Pasig has been branching out and a number of barrios are now supplied regularly with preaching. The interest seems to have gone beyond the limits of Pasig a considerable distance, and we are hearing constantly of interest at new points.

In the already established churches of Cavite Province a healthy growth has been noted and work extended into new barrios. There have also been a number of new congregations started, notably at Silang, Anabo, Marinas and Amadeo, and from these points as centres several other meetings are conducted.

In the old-established churches a regular increment in membership is to be reported, while in some of the new places a large number have been received. We have been able to co-operate with Mr. de Roos, the new Y. M. C. A. Secretary, for work among the Constabulary. One of our most active workers, Juan Estrella, who has been for some time an Inspector of Constabulary, has come into the employ of the Y. M. C. A. as an evangelist and works in hearty fellowship with our churches throughout Cavite.

The work at the Leper Hospital in Manila has been carried forward as formerly under the joint direction of a Committee of the Evangelical Union. Our evangelists have supplied services every second Saturday, and the evangelists of the Methodist Church on alternate weeks.

Our work in the provinces is becoming the special care of Mr. Lamb, as rapidly as is consistent with the acquisition of the language.

A church has been established at Bawan, Batangas Province, and a President and Secretary of the congregation elected. These two men are enthusiastic and intelligent workers and have pushed the work with much zeal in their town. The Rev. Monico Estrella has been looking after the Batangas work, and on a recent visit there baptized between thirty and forty.

Sabbath Schools.—Mr. Lamb has been active in organization of Sabbath Schools, and a number of congregations in various places now report a regular service on Sabbath with Bible instruction. The scholars are yet but imperfectly organized, but this particular work is receiving considerable attention and promises to result in much fruitfulness.

Literature.—Mr. Lamb has also undertaken the publication of a monthly in Tagalog called Ang Bagong Araw, which is issued monthly.

In its Sabbath-school lessons are given, articles printed which have come from the pen of evangelists, translations of articles from the English papers, and news items of the churches. This paper has been very cordially received and has done much to stimulate an interest in the work everywhere, creating and sustaining a feeling of common fellowship on the part of all.

Training Class.—In August a training class was held for the evangelists and workers of the various provinces, including those in the Santa Cruz district. There were sixty-five in attendance.

Fifty of them came from outside of the city, and we have counted this class of two weeks as among the happiest privileges of the year. The men were earnest in their desire to study, and the spirit of the conference from the first was evidently born of the Holy Spirit. Mr. Lamb taught the Sabbath-school lessons for the coming months, and Mr. Wright gave introductory lectures in the study of the Old Testament which had just appeared in Tagalog, and the Rev. Estrella and Guillermo Zarco also assisted in the teaching. The occasion was one of much spiritual uplift to the church and a great blessing to those who attended the class. After the conference was over the Rev. Monico Estrella, with one of the evangelists to assist, went to the Laguna churches and conducted what might be called echo rallies. Evangelist Zarco, with one of the elders, went through Cavite Province with the same purpose, the design being to not only give the benefit of the Normal class to those men who had been in attendance, but also to extend its influence as far as possible to the individual churches. This Normal class is still the topic of conversation in the different churches throughout the provinces.

The handsome buildings of the new Ellinwood Training School are now completed, though the necessary funds for an adequate equipment have not yet been secured. There is one building for the men's department and another for the women's department. They are admirably adapted to the work for which they are to be used. The teaching at first will be in Spanish, and later it is hoped that English courses may be given, and possibly Tagalog. It is also planned to make these buildings serve as dormitories for the normal school students, and their construction is being designed with this end in view.

ILOILO STATION.

Recent years have seen many changes in the islands.

We have seen the people break loose from Roman denomination only to enter a world of chaos and confusion. At first the feelings of the people were those of anger and hatred toward the Friars. This in turn has given place in the hearts of many to a desire to find the true Saviour. But Romanism, repelled for the time, again returns to gather the people under its powerful grasp. Little by little, in one way and another, we see it striving to gain the mastery over liberty of conscience and of life. Slowly but surely its efforts to replace the Friars in their towns are being crowned with success, and with the incoming of these blind leaders of the blind education and life and liberty are hampered or driven out. The political leaders, who at first seemed to think that Romanism was the best thing for these people, are surely coming to see that what is needed is righteousness, which can only come through a free Bible. And this Word, openly read and heard by hundreds, is being more or less secretly studied by thousands more who appreciate its importance and meaning.

The Independent Filipino Church which came into being because of a desire to separate from the Roman power, is becoming aware of the need of more than separation, and in some places is seeking to find the true way to God. A very gratifying advance has been shown by the purchase of 50,000 Gospels for distribution among its members.

Amidst these changes among the masses, many have made a complete separation from the old faith and have come to us for the teaching of the Gospel, until there has been established, in place of the ridicule and scorn of a few years ago, a wholesome respect for the Protestant movement and its adherents. This has been shown by the presence at special services of large numbers of those holding the Roman faith as well as those of the Independent Church. It has also been shown by the liberal contributions toward the hospital work by those of all faiths.

During the past year there has been a steadily progressing work in all branches.

The religious sentiment among the foreigners is growing and fourteen have joined the Church during the year on certificate and examination. We recognize the value of a strong religious sentiment among the foreigners, not only for what it means to them but also for what it means to the native races, who copy more or less from their foreign leaders. The Sunday-school has again been opened for the few foreign children.

The Chinese congregation, though few in numbers, became so convinced of their needs of a pastor of their own people that they chose one of the members at the beginning of the year, a bright young man, and sent him to Amoy for a year's training the congregation paying all his expenses. The idea is that he shall study a year and preach for two until he may be ordained as their pastor. The members are mostly clerks and the year has been a hard one financially, but they have not failed in their promises toward their brother-in training, looking forward to his return to them with joy.

The Filipino congregation also chose one of the paid evangelists at the beginning of the year to be their pastor, promising to pay his full salary. Sr. Paulino, the evangelist chosen, has since been ordained and is doing faithful work. Sr. Adriano Osorio y Reyes, who has been an evangelist with us from the beginning, was also ordained, but will continue to preach from town to town and will shortly open the work in the Antique Province under the direction of one of the missionaries.

Owing to a health change which took one of the missionaries from the field for four months, and the erection of a new hospital which kept the other in the city most of the year, little touring has been done among the villages though occasional trips have been made.

A new chapel was opened in Leon in July and thirty-five new members received. This congregation is ministered to by two faithful men who realize that the advancement of God's Kingdom depends upon their own efforts to aid one another. In fact, there is a growing spirit of personal responsibility throughout the province among the members. A training class was held in February with eight preachers in attendance and as many women. Sunday-school work has been strengthened in many places. The attendance has increased in most of them. That of Iloilo now numbers 200, Leon 150, and other smaller ones are held at San Miguel, Mandurriao, Oton and Banga. As a result of all efforts there have been added to the membership during the year 202 new members.

The women members have shown this year a pleasing progress in taking their share of the responsibility. In February Juliana was taken on as a Bible woman, and has accomplished much visiting and work both for women and children since. The wife of the native pastor has also done a good share of such work and many of the others. There are now seven women teachers in the Sunday-school here, and their attendance at the Thursday Bible class has been fine.

The Children's Saturday class was moved from the house to the chapel early in the year and has proved very interesting, much work having been done in the Old and New Testaments and the memorizing of verses. The native Sunday-school paid all the expenses of the keeping of thirty mountain girls here for a month's class, and also contributed to the building of the new chapel on Calle Amparo.

In the latter the new children have not come in as well as we had hoped, but it is partly on account of the difficulty of reaching it in muddy weather, and we hope for better things soon. A boy's class in July, consisting of those who have no school privileges in their own village was a success. They had so little clothing that it was necessary to help them, and the American women kindly donated old clothing which was made over by the convalescing patients in the hospital, helped by the Bible women.

In San Miguel the women have worked faithfully, although there is little increase in numbers this year. But in Leon, where Nabora was appointed as Bible woman in February, a great advancement has been made. The women have held regular weekly meetings, the Sunday-school has grown much in every way, and many new families have become interested owing to the visiting of the Bible woman and her sister. She has come in to Iloilo once in two months to report and get help in difficulties.

Medical work has been carried on steadily at the hospital, where many have not only received medicine for the body but have also heard the Gospel. The summary for the year is as follows: Medical treatments, 2,497; surgical treatments, 1,874; visits, 346; total, 4,571. This is at the rate of about 6,000 a year, as this report covers a period of only eight months. The generous gift of $3,000 by Mrs. Charles D. Haines, of New York, made possible the beginning of the long desired new hospital. The Hon. William McKinley, of Champaign, Ill., a member of Congress who visited the islands with the Taft party, was so much impressed with the beneficent work of Dr. Hall that he added $2,500 through Governor-General Wright. Natives and foreigners at Iloilo made liberal subscriptions and the handsome new building is now nearing completion. In connection with it there will be a training school for Filipino nurses, there being no such thing as a trained nurse to be found here at the present time. As the gift of Mrs. Haines was the first and chief one, the hospital has been named the Sabine Haines Memorial Hospital, in loving memory of a son of that name. At the close of the year Dr. and Mrs. Hall were so worn out by their indefatigable labors, which had continued without intermission for nearly six years, that they were compelled to return to America on furlough, and Dr. E. C. Machle, of the Canton Mission, arrived to take charge for a time.

The outlook is bright for the coming year. The educated classes especially, who in the past have held aloof, appear to have their minds on the Gospel more than ever. One by one they are coming to the services and Bible classes. "We notice," said a prominent Filipino, "that while the people are wavering between Romanism and the Independent Church, the Protestant Church slowly but surely develops and advances;" and later he remarked that while the educated classes were slow to make a complete separation from the old faith and Church, that they were certainly coming to look upon Protestantism with greater confidence, and in his opinion a large number would ere long make a decided move.

DUMAGUETE STATION.

EDUCATIONAL.—The work at Silliman Institute this year has been in some respects most encouraging. For the first time in the history of the school has it had its full corps of teachers. The enrollment has reached 150.

Five islands are represented, and some of our best students are from Manila, Cebu and Iloilo. We hope next year to have some from the southern islands. The work is largely elementary so far, and will continue to be so for some time to come.

The Christian work of the school is most encouraging. Forty Christian students are actively interested in the advance of the work of Christ in the islands. There are about thirteen who are looking forward to the ministry. Twelve were received at the last communion, and there are others who will soon come out openly for the Saviour.

Two of the paying students are helping Mr. McIntire in the weekly services, and walk between eight and nine miles every Sunday evening so that they may aid in the service. They are boys of whom we do well to be proud. Three of our students will be able to take up the evangelistic work next year, if we have the funds to place them at work.

The Governor of the province still gives his hearty support to the school, and the better class of natives throughout this part of the archipelago continue to send their children.

The Industrial Work Department is improving in a geometrical ratio. The printing office, which for lack of funds has been run by the students only, has turned out work of all kinds to the amount of 85,000 pages and has been about self-supporting. The College farm has been rented for the year, and will bring in some income until the time that we can run it more directly by student labor. Through the continued generosity of Dr. Silliman new shops and equipment are being added, including a saw-mill school to turn out some products that will aid in the support of the working students. However, it should be borne in mind that a school of this kind is never self-supporting in the United States, and that the larger and more successful the school the greater will be the expense. It is but natural that this department should appeal to the poorer classes, who in the islands are totally unable to support themselves.

The finances of the Institute are an increasing anxiety as the institution develops. Of the students enrolled about half are non-paying, and with our present expense we cannot think of carrying them on to the end of the year, unless some relief can be furnished we must on our return weed out some thirty-five students. At present there are applications from Iloilo Province, Antique, Mindanao and Cebu asking to be received as working students, and which we have been compelled to refuse. The refusal of an eager and interesting boy, who only asks the privilege of working for his education, is not easy, and the sending of them home after they have started is torture. We sent home two boys who had been two weeks on the road because we had no money for their rice.

Mr. Glunz writes:

The students have shown a surprising readiness to work with their hands. When we consider the former attitude of all classes toward manual labor, this speaks well for the progress of the people. There has been some dissatisfaction. Some pupils have left school on account of the work expected of them; but the large proportion of the students are learning to appreciate the dignity of labor. No favoritism is shown. Thus a pupil, formerly a school teacher in Cebu, has been known to pump water, haul sand, split bamboo and cut grass, alternating with work in carpentry. The change in the attitude of pupils toward these things is well illustrated by a statement recently made by Dr. Hibbard, that if such work had been suggested to pupils when the school was first opened they would have left in a body.

The aim in manual training has been, not to give theoretical<sup>1</sup> or graded work, but to plunge at once into practical work, making those things that were necessary for use. Thus effort was first concentrated on fitting up a shop.

The students built three carpenter's benches, constructed a lathe, utilizing a part of an old sewing machine, and upon this have turned chisel and file-handles and pulleys for awnings. They have built a bench for the college, an organ stool, an imposing stone for the printing shop, a hose reel, and a number of bamboo awnings, together with the pulley blocks required for them. They are now working on some type cases for new type for the printing shop.

An encouraging feature of the work is the interest of the boys in making things for themselves in their own time. As far as possible, odd pieces of lumber and old boxes are allowed the boys for their own use, and of these they fashion tables, trunks, cots, rulers, wooden-soled slippers and especially trays for their boxes.

The chief value of the Industrial Department so far has been to demonstrate the fact that there are an abundance of boys who are anxious to do a good share of hard work in order to obtain an education, and that the students in general are not antagonistic to, and have an adaptability for, manual training.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The evangelistic work and the school work are not entirely separate departments. The daily chapel exercises and Bible classes in the Institute are effective evangelical agencies, and there are besides in connection with the school the Friday evening prayer meeting, the Sunday-school and the Sunday afternoon Spanish service. On the other hand, of the work which we call more specifically evangelistic, the evangelists are with one exception students, and at one of the meetings, the one in Dumaguete, the attendance is almost entirely students.

The place on which we have made the greatest impression is Guinhagan, the northernmost town of the province. Here the work was done largely by two students, brothers, during their vacations at home. They were our first converts in the Institute, and they in turn converted their family, even its more distant ramifications, or, as one might say, their tribe or clan. An older brother also seems to have been peculiarly ready for the Gospel message. He recognized the message he needed and accepted it as soon as the two students, and without any sort of authorization or direction he became a preacher among his own people, and we have since found where, when some whom he had converted were seriously ill, he baptized them. He died, however, before any of the missionaries reached the place, and while on his way to Dumaguete to visit us and receive baptism.

Guihulngan was visited three times in the summer vacation and about 175 were baptized. On the last visit the meetings were held in a temporary chapel, sixty by thirty feet, which they had built. Four generations were baptized, and but for the death of an infant a short time before there would have been a fifth. The majority of these were from the mountains, and some of them had never been baptized did not know what that was, having heard only the pet name or nickname customary among the Filipinos. In one visit it was necessary to perform over thirty marriages in preparation for the ceremony of in the Catholic Church. Such had only one name, and some of them baptism. The sum total of the wedding fees was three eggs.

Report was made last year that preaching services in Visayan had been opened in Dumaguete, near the market, in an old nipa blacksmith shop rented for the purpose.

We felt that the poorer people could not come to services held in the College building. These services have been continued throughout the year. Recently, however, the personnel of the audience has not been very much different from that of the College building, although at first the poor people crowded into the back part of the chapel to listen.

Work was begun at the town of Bais, at the invitation of the leaders of the Aglipayanos, who, however, very soon dropped us.

We continued the meetings, however, with a small attendance, and would have held on permanently but for the discovery of quite a serious flaw in the moral record of our native helper which made it necessary to dismiss him. In Sibulan, four miles from Dumaguete, where we hold a street meeting every Sunday night, nine have been baptized. In the school about forty of the internos are members.

The Friars are being returned to the towns of the province.

In Valencia the Friar has caused the closing of the public school which formerly had an attendance of about 500. The friendship towards us of the political leaders of the Filipino party is more marked than ever.

MEDICAL WORK.—The medical work of the station shows advancement over previous years.

There have been few in-patients, as the people do not fully understand that it is their privilege to enter the hospital when sick, and we have not urged them to come in, except in emergency cases, because of lack of proper equipment. This is now being remedied by additions which when completed will enable us to take care of any who may desire to enter.

There have been sixteen in-patients, covering a period of 444 days; 1,923 dispensary cases have been treated. Every town in the province is represented in this number.

The dispensary work is at present the most important part of the medical work. In former years more patients were visited in their homes, but it was necessary to cut down this work somewhat in order to have more time for other work. About 400 visits were made.

In addition to the regular dispensary work, more than 800 vaccinations were made at the hospital by Dr. Langheim, and about 40,000 in various parts of the province under his supervision.

WOMEN'S MEETING.—The meeting for women, began March 12, have continued weekly without interruption. The average attendance has been about fifteen.

Several of these who were there at the first meeting have scarcely missed a Friday, and only then with good reason. This encourages us to believe that they are truly interested in the Gospel message. The private house in which we meet is kindly given us for the purpose without rental, though the owner is not a Protestant.

Our Bible woman, a mestiza who speaks both Spanish and Visayan well, gives us her services gladly. She also does some house-to-house work, and embraces every opportunity to teach the people in the outlying districts that she sometimes visits.

CEBU STATION

Though Mr. and Mrs. Jansen have been hampered by ill health, Mrs. Jansen in particular having suffered much, and though left without an associate since Dr. Purcell left, Cebu station has had a wonderful year, no less than 359 having been baptized.

For the first half of the year the work went on uninterruptedly. The older congregations increased their membership and new congregations sprang up. We have now in the Province of Cebu eighteen congregations and eleven chapels, nine of which were erected this year.

In February our first regular instruction class was held, the evangelists and active workers in and near Cebu, fifteen in number, taking part. The Rev. G. W. Wright of Manila, conducted this class, and it proved such a blessing to all that we decided to have a more general one in June. We called in the evangelists, local workers and leading members from each congregation, and for fifteen days about fifty participated. Mr. Wright kindly assisted in the latter part of this conference also, and we record with gratitude that both his visits were exceedingly helpful and inspiring. Dr. Rodgers also made us a visit that we highly appreciated at the time of the dedication of our chapel in Cebu city.

In March a general famine began to make itself felt, caused by the long continued drought which resulted in the failure of several crops. The famine increased as the months went by and thousands of the inhabitants left the island to seek work in other places.

Many of our own members in the mountains and on the west coast left also, and our work has been practically at a standstill in many places. Some families have died, others have disappeared, and our hearts have been wrung many a time at the sights of distress in those coming into Cebu. The missionaries gave relief from the first to the best of their ability, and later on were able to interest others to do the same, and from the Government and other sources many sufferers were relieved. Still hundreds, and perhaps thousands, were claimed as victims by the famine. Since June we have been blessed with abundant rains, and at this writing the famine is, thank God, a thing of the past.

The services for the English-speaking inhabitants of Cebu city have been carried on without a break since January 1st, 1905. While the interest is never all we could desire, we are glad to say that the interest this year has continued greater than any time before since our coming to Cebu, and many of our American friends never lose a service. This congregation has helped us financially in getting chapel furniture, hymn books, both Spanish and English, Bibles, etc., and we have been enabled to order a first-class organ for our chapel in Cebu through their efforts.

The native evangelists have continued loyal and faithful. One of them, however, felt doubtful whether his call was to preach or not. We liked him very much personally, but thought with him that he would do better in secular work, giving his free time as a local worker, which he is now doing. Another, who is by birth a Bicol, was given up to Mr. Brown, of Albay, and is doing well there, and two new ones are giving good account of themselves thus far.

Mr. Campbell, a Scotch merchant of Cebu, and his wife have continued their helpful interest. Their co-operation is greatly appreciated. As the year closed Dr. and Mrs. Graham arrived to re-open the medical work, which has been suspended since the resignation of Dr. Pursell.

LAGUNA STATION.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Snook have suffered from illness during the year, Mrs. Snook's illness becoming so serious that a return to the United States was necessary. An operation and six month's change and rest, however, restored health, and both gladly returned to their post as soon as possible. In spite of this interruption there has been a steady increase of interest in the Gospel. In all the churches there has been a good growth of spirituality and of activity. This has resulted in an increase of members also. Several new churches have been organized, some with few, others with a goodly number of members. At nearly every place where evangelists have visited there has been a large hearing of the Gospel message.

The demand for reading matter in the native tongue is more than ever before, Bibles and hymn books being bought in large quantities. In response to an appeal among friends at home, fifty sacks of interesting Sunday-school papers have been received. These have been carefully distributed during the year among hundreds of our students in the public high schools in forty towns and cities. One thousand four hundred names of students have been gathered and sent to friends in the States, that Christian reading matter may henceforth be sent direct to these students in their homes. It is a common sight to see a youth interpreting a story or bit of information or telling about some picture to his home people or neighbors, thus immediately becoming an active and efficient missionary. Young men and young women have frequently asked to subscribe for these second-hand Sunday-school papers, so as to be sure to receive them regularly. In Santa Cruz an American lady teacher (Catholic) took away from the students, outside of school hours, all the papers she could get, even though the papers had been sent through the post office. This action angered many of the pupils and also their parents. The same day sixty of the young people came to our home, complaining of their teacher, and asking for more papers. After these had been given the students were invited to remain for a "sing," Tagalog and English hymns being used.

Every Friday afternoon these young people now come for their hour of song, and a good Sunday-school is growing therefrom. The Filipino young people are coming to know their privileges and liberties, and are eager to enter every opportunity for bettering themselves. The giving of Christian literature to these thousands of open and eager minds should be one of the large endeavors of the Church these next few years. More than half a million children and young people are in the public schools in the Philippine Islands.

In October we gladly welcomed the Rev. and Mrs. C. N. Magill. They are already doing good work among the students and others in the city of Lucban, Tayabas Province.

The Gospel launch, "Mabuting Balita" (Good News) which had been looked forward to during so many months, arrived also in October of this year and is proving a most serviceable boat.

It is thirty-eight feet long, eight feet wide, draws twenty-eight inches of water, is propelled by an eleven horse power gasoline engine, runs nine miles per hour, has extension seats in main cabin for berths at night, a little dining-room and table, lockers and wardrobes for clothing, a library case, desk and paper rack, toilet-room and shower-bath, kitchen with sink, work-table, stove, cupboard, refrigerator and fresh-water tank. These are not for ease and luxury, but to meet the requirements of this tropical field. Not one of the twenty-five cities and towns on the shore of Laguna du Bay has a place in which to sleep or to buy clean, wholesome food, or to get a drink of water safe from cholera or dysentery, or to afford a bath or chance to change one's clothes—white drill being that most used, so that large supplies must be carried when itinerating. The launch makes one worker able to do the work of two or even three men, and he can do it more easily and far more safely.

Mr. Snook closes his report as follows:

While regretting exceedingly the six months' absence from the field, due to sickness in the home, yet we are glad to report for this year in Laguna Station the reception into the Church of above 200 adult members. Thanking our Father for His goodness and presence and trusting Him for good things to come, we look forward with much encouragement to the coming year.

TACLOBAN STATION.

It has not been easy to start this station on the Island of Leyte. A new missionary, ignorant of language and people and proclaiming strange religious ideas, naturally finds himself opposed by prejudice and misrepresentation. The Roman Church exerts every power to check the progress of the evangelical movement, by teaching and example, poisoning the mind of the native against the Protestant.

We were just beginning to hold services in the chapel, though it was not yet completed, when an unusually large procession paraded the streets and passing the chapel stoned it. On two other occasions our chapel was stoned. One evening, while we were holding a prayer meeting, a large stone came through the unfinished side wall and fell at my feet. Our heads were all bowed in prayer and the noise startled us all. These are some of the reasons why we have not made progress in Tacloban. A year ago it was thought that the harvest time was near, but the hoar frost of opposition has retarded the gathering time, but not for long. There is coming a Gospel thaw.

But in spite of these difficulties the second year sees Mr. Rath more firmly established and beginning to make an impression.

It is with great joy that we can report the completion of a chapel, for which we prayed, worried and labored. It is not a palatial structure with tall spires and imposing marble columns. We did not care for such a building. It is a simple, airy and comfortable house of worship, open to the four points of the compass, which gives us the benefit of any breeze which happens to be passing our way. The building is forty by twenty-six feet, with a ceiling seventeen feet from the floor. The framework is of lumber, the roof is made of nipa, and the sides are covered first with nipa and then over this amacan, which is painted and gives the building a neat appearance.

ITINERATING.—Language study and chapel building prevented itinerating by the missionary, but some trips were made by the evangelist to Carigara, Capoocon, Ormoc, Caridad, Tanauan, Toloso and Dulag.

The number of Protestants is, of course, small as yet. But a little company has already begun to form, and one adult joined it by baptism during the year.

The spirit of the native members has not been what we desired to have it, but there is a decided change for the better since we have been holding meetings in the new chapel, and I believe that this interest will increase. The use of a stereopticon, which was presented to me by my mother, has helped materially in our meetings, and has been used to great advantage in drawing outsiders who could not be reached in any other way. It is true that most of them came just for the sake of seeing the pictures, but it gave us the opportunity of sowing seed, which we pray will bear fruit.

CHINESE.—Work has been attempted among the Chinese, but it is very difficult, for while the Chinese can generally speak Spanish or Visayan, it is to them only the common language of barter, and so when it comes to teaching them religion they do not understand.

For a while there was three or four who would come on Sunday afternoons, and I tried to teach them the Bible by directing them to read passages in Chinese, and then try to explain the passage in Spanish or Visayan or English, whichever would serve best. At present there are two who seem to take a great deal of interest, and we hope ere long give their hearts to God.

AMERICANS.—

We are not reaching as many Americans as we would like to with our services, for there are some who do not seem to be interested in religious matters. However, the meetings on the whole have been delightful, and though the audiences have been small, they have been very appreciative and give encouragement to the speaker. Some men come. The ladies from the army post have been very faithful in their attendance, and they, together with a few ladies from among the civilians, have taken a great deal of interest in the construction of the chapel, expressing this interest by their gifts. "He was a great churchman in the States, but it is not politic to attend here," is one way of expressing religious obligation in a Catholic country.

A Sunday evening service has been attempted for the soldiers, but they respond very poorly and do not seem to care for religious services. On two occasions the stereopticon was used and a few soldiers were present. Some evenings there is no meeting because no soldiers appear.

ALBAY STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown have encountered the usual difficulties in starting new work among a people who were wholly ignorant of any religion except the superstitions and corrupt form of Romanism that prevails in the Philippines. But a start has been made.

Mr. Brown has a saving sense of humor which helps him in meeting some discouragements. He writes:—

On our return from Mission meeting we commenced our classes, using Spanish one night and English the next. Our lessons were taken from the Bible, and it was remarkable how many who came at first began to drop off on account of pressing business engagements. We had an evangelistic service Saturday evening, and the scholars from my English class came for a while, and then the priest began to think it was not necessary for the children to learn English and they dropped off. My first regular Sunday sermon was a tremendous, howling, successful failure.

That was the start, and then one man asked me to have services in his house, and so we took our baby organ and held services there about four times a week. The congregation was small, sometimes fifteen, at other times twenty-five. In the meantime we had made arrangements to rent an ex-saloon that was directly on the market place. The side next the market place can be thrown open in such a way that people cannot fail to hear the preaching, if they have the least curiosity or desire. It will hold about 100 when seated, and generally has about 200 within or about the doors. We were particularly fortunate in securing such a place, as rain or shine we are always sure of having an audience. If it rains very hard the people at least who have to come to market like to drop in and listen while the rain is pouring; if the night is clear many are at the market, and as we sing our songs sometimes it seems as though the walls would burst with the crowds who are pushing in to hear. I suppose we have almost always 300 at least who participate in some part of the service. Those who have seats usually stay throughout the entire service, while those who stand go and come.

After we had rented the chapel we felt as though we needed a little help, so Dr. Rodgers kindly came down and helped us for a week of special services. While he was there we opened up service in Legaspi. We did not have money enough to rent a chapel, and in fact there was no place that we could rent, but ex-Governor Betts gave us the use of his bodega for that week and has ever since let us use it. We are very grateful for this kindness to us. Legaspi is our hard place. The people are musical and insist, although we have advised them otherwise that we can conduct our services without the help of stones rolling down the tin roof, in heaving said stones at inopportune times. Still we would feel slighted if we did not get some notice, for we do not want Rath to get it all at Tacloban.

During the Easter week, while the Catholic Church was having its celebrations, we held meetings every night and explained the events in Passion Week, and it had a great effect on the people, for they heard the same accounts in their own churches and could compare, and then we taught them the significance of all those events. I was ably assisted by the evangelist, whom Mr. Jansen had the kindness to spare me. He is a native Bicol and is an eloquent preacher and very earnest. The interest was very marked. April 30th we had the joy of baptizing our first converts and there were fourteen of them. Then in Legaspi on the 2d of May we baptized six more; on June 6th three were added in Legaspi; on June 12th two more joined our number, and it seemed as though God had filled our cup very full. We felt as though we could almost be satisfied with that number to report, and would consider that God had richly blessed us. However, we are grateful that God was not satisfied to limit our blessing, for again on August 6th we received six more.

In the meantime we opened up work in one of the barrios of Albay, where some interest has been shown and where we hope that a good work may be instituted in the near future.

Three itinerating trips have been made, one of ten days' duration and the other lasting only two days. I think we got the real article, for we had to eat with our hands. We had placed before us toothsome venison that had been kept about two weeks too long; it had a malodor, as the native said, but I did not test his other assertion that, notwithstanding, it tasted good. We have waded through water and slept on floors and gone through the whole series, we think, and have been more than repaid for any little inconvenience that we have suffered.

From these first barrios news has come of the peoples' earnest desire to know more, and that they were studying very faithfully, and wanted us to come and teach them and receive them as members. We kept putting them off, until at last we decided that we ought to go, so urgent was the request. We sent out evangelist with lessons and sermons which he had prepared. He was to stay a week; then we intended to go and join him for two days and form a church, if there were enough who cared to unite and who had sufficient knowledge. He was to send word if it was worth while for me to come. Saturday came, but I received no word; yet I decided to go anyway, and went. When I met him I was almost afraid to ask him what his success had been. At last I did ask, and to my joy and astonishment he said there were twenty-six who desired to join with us, and ere the meetings were over we took in thirty-three. They are certainly enthusiastic, and have commenced to build their chapel and want to have service very often. That increased our number of members to sixty-four. There are many others who are about ready, we feel, to join us, but we want them to feel certain ere they do so.

Just before I visited Manila we celebrated the Lord's Supper. It was the first time they had ever had such a service, and I have never been in a more thoroughly appreciated service. They seemed to enter in as I never dreamed they would, and the Spirit of God was certainly with us. Some Americans who were present told me they had never witnessed a more reverent and inspiring service. It was the attitude of the members who made it so.

One of the women whom we baptized last, when her husband was baptized was going to break up the meeting; she was a rabid hater of us, and yet recently she was baptized and manifested the sweetest spirit imaginable. We took in a notorious gambler, and people are saying they know he has received something into his life for he has changed his life completely. One man's wife has joined with us and is a firm believer in Christ, for she knows Jesus has changed the life of her husband who used to beat her. So it goes. Thank God, you of tried experience know the joy and what Christ works for such people. Pardon me for relating it, but it seems very wonderful and inspiring to us of new experience, and makes us feel that we would not change places with our Seminary friends for anything in the world, not even for a big church with a lot of church quarrels thrown in as good measure. We are proud of our old saloon, for in it we have seen men filled with the Spirit of God instead of the "spirits of men."

The effect of the work is seen in an added interest, an increased attendance, an inquiring mind, a desire to know the truth, a willingness to listen to the truth, and greater friendliness is manifested. The surrounding towns are asking now for us to come and preach, and thus in many places the work is opening up. The immensity of it and our meagre equipment makes us tremble for the welfare of the work.

We are moderately busy. For the last four months I have had seven services a week and have preached on an average of five times a week, using my evangelist as an interpreter, although he has preached often. Besides these services, I have commenced classes three times a week to help my evangelist and others whom I want for evangelists. This takes a good deal of time to prepare. Since the inspiring visit of Mr. Jansen, we have started three times a week cottage prayer meetings, and thus we are reaching people who were not touched before.

We have translated into Bicol some Scripture lessons, the Ten Commandments and other texts, so that the people might have these on placards to place on their walls instead of the idol and image. Notwithstanding that only a few people read Spanish, we have sold somewhat more than 200 Bibles in Spanish, and about 400 Gospels of Luke which was written in Bicol. We have also translated and set to music about fifteen songs. The Lord has especially blessed us in giving us my teacher, who has quite a gift in translating. His work is hard, for terms in Bicol are few and the words are long, and thus to get the words to correspond with the tune is very hard.

We would indeed be very ungrateful if we did not express our keen appreciation to the Mission of the help we have received from a Mr. Brantley. He is an American of whom we are proud, and esteem him no less because his skin happens to be black. We do not see how we could have done without him to help us in our services. Rain or shine, he is always in his place to play the organ for us. Now, very kindly, he has consented to teach some of our congregation how to play. He is in the Hospital Corps, and has been kind enough to treat many natives who really needed attention and were too poor to have a doctor.

We are certainly blessed in organs. A chum of mine in the Seminary got his father to send us one; Immanuel Church, Milwaukee, kindly gave us a fine Mason and Hamlin, while my sister and her husband gave us a baby organ which we can carry from place to place. Thus we are very well equipped. Recently our church has given us money to buy a cemetery for our members and we have already secured the land. We hope to be able to report a chapel built in Albay before long.

BANGKOK STATION.

During the past year the King of Siam has decreed some notable reforms. One of these was the abolition of gambling. It is pre-eminently the national vice and the concessions for it have yielded a revenue of about ten millions of ticals annually. The decree of this Buddhist king on this subject is well worth reading in every Christian land.

His Majesty has long been impressed by the fact that although the revenue derived from gambling is an important factor in the finances of the kingdom, the evils resulting therefrom are much greater than the benefits. People expend in gambling not only their own wealth but the wealth of others. They devote to gambling time during which they should be attending to their work. Under present conditions large sums of money which come into the hands of the gambling farmers are sent out of the kingdom. Gambling is also responsible for much of the crime that is committed. The abolition of gambling would, therefore, not only result in an improvement in the morals of the people, and in increased industry, but money now expended therein would remain in circulation within the country, thereby adding to the wealth of the community. In order, however, to replace the loss of the revenue derived from gambling some taxes must be increased and new taxes devised. In this increase of certain of these taxes it will be necessary to enter upon negotiations with foreign Powers.

It is His Majesty's hope that negotiations with Treaty Powers may clear the way for the absolute abolition of all gambling in Bangkok and thus throughout the kingdom. Surely the Western Powers, claiming Christian civilization, will not hinder Siam's king from ridding his country of this giant evil. Must we appeal to God's people to pray that the Treaty Powers may not thwart this great reform measure of Siam's Buddhist monarch?

The decree on the abolition of gambling was soon followed by a decree abolishing all lottery farms, with the exception of the one in Bangkok. The decree also makes the running of any private lottery a punishable offense. Another cause for rejoicing is the King's decree abolishing slavery, thus removing an impediment to the progress of the country. It is believed that this decree will be the last required to effect this reform. The law provides that no one can be born a slave, that no person now free can ever become a slave, and also that the debts of all present slaves to their masters cannot be increased, but must be discharged by the master crediting the slave with wages at a fixed monthly rate until the debt is discharged, thus freeing the slave. It is gratifying to know that the Presbyterian missionaries in Siam were a large factor in creating the public sentiment and inculcating the moral standards that brought about these reforms.

It is worth while to note a political change that has been made in Siam during the past year. We refer to the evacuation of Chantaboon by the French, a province that they have unjustly occupied since 1893. Had the French held on to Chantaboon they would doubtless, as in other parts of Siam now in their possession, have excluded Protestant missionaries. Now that this question is settled we are at liberty to occupy Chantaboon, a healthful and important province of about 150,000, as a central point for the evangelization of the east coast of the Gulf of Siam. The deal that resulted in the evacuation of Chantaboon and its restoration to Siam subjected Siam to the loss of two provinces, Krat and Kowkong, below Chantaboon. France has no right to these, save the right of the old adage, "Might makes right." But if by this concession France is satisfied and the friction relieved, then it was probably wise for Siam to have made it. We regret, however, that through this concession we have lost a part of our itinerating field.

During the past year the foreign community erected a beautiful large church. The lot for the church was donated by the King of Siam "To the Protestants of all denominations in Bangkok." The church was built in part from the proceeds of the sale of the old church property. The furnishings, including a fine organ and comfortable manse, were provided by cheerful gifts from the Protestant community of this city. The church is supplied by a minister of the Church of England and is self-supporting. For many years previous to the coming of a regular minister for this service, the services were conducted by the missionaries of Bangkok.

Near the Christian High School stands the beautiful church erected by the Siamese Christians under the leadership of the lamented Boon Itt. There services are held every Sabbath, in English and Siamese. A number of foreigners attend these services. The church is well filled every Sabbath.

Miss Bissell has had charge of the music, organizing a quartet of Siamese young men, who deserve credit for their faithful work in learning a new anthem every week. The young men also hold a service every Sabbath, in this church, for young men. They are under the leadership of Prof. Franklin, of the Christian High School, and it is a part of the Boon Itt Memorial work.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Bangkok furnishes a grand field for this important branch of our work, and in it Miss Bissell has kept up systematic visits to many homes, with no little encouragement. In order to get into closer sympathy with the women, she has spent many weeks in several homes and there taught many lessons that will prove helpful. In the numerous homes visited she has invariably been received kindly, and has enjoyed freedom in service.

EDUCATIONAL.—This branch of the station's work has reached larger proportions than in any previous year in the history of the Mission. Our schools are highly appreciated by the Government. Their influence extends out into numerous provinces. The Harriet M. House School for girls still enjoys the distinction of being the best school for girls in Siam. The day school at Sumray is self-supporting and growing steadily in influence and usefulness as well as in numbers. Much of its prosperity is due to the earnest work of its head teacher, Kroo Heng, a faithful elder in the First Church. The increased attendance has made it necessary to employ a third teacher, a recent graduate of the Christian High School. Enrollment of the year, 110 boys.

The Christian High School.—No school in Siam has extended a wider influence. The graduates are in demand by the business firms of the city, and the various departments of State are constantly applying for their services. They occupy positions of trust and honor in Church and State. During Dr. and Mrs. Eakin's furlough Mr. and Mrs. McClure did faithful work in this school. On the eve of their departure for Petchaburee the students gave them a farewell. The Siamese teachers spoke in terms of high appreciation of the excellent work done by Mr. and Mrs. McClure and presented each of them with a gold souvenir as tokens of their esteem. One of the most gratifying features of the school's development is the progress made by the Siamese members of the faculty in their readiness to bear responsibility and the lively interest which they manifest in the prosperity of the school. Prof. Franklin has gained a strong hold on the affection and respect of the students. Dr. and Mrs. Eakin, on return from furlough home, received a warm welcome. Dr. Eakin is again at the head of the school. The attendance increased fifty per cent. during the first quarter since the middle of May. The Principal writes:

Every bed, desk and seat is now in use, and we expect soon to have to provide more. Happily we still have room for enlargement both in recitation rooms and dormitories. We are pinched only in the chapel. The room used for that purpose was intended for only seventy. At the chapel services one morning recently there were 150 present by actual count, beside the faculty. We hope that a new chapel, with seats for upwards of 300, will be provided this year.

Miss Bissell gave the month of January to work at the school in preparation for commencement, taking charge of the singing and drilling. She had also charge of the first-class boarding department since June 1st, and finds it a promising and enjoyable work.

There is an increased religious interest among the students. Seven are formed into a Prayer Band, which meets every Sabbath afternoon in the study of the Principal, to pray for themselves and their companions. Four of these are professing Christians. All who wish to be Christians are invited to join it. Many are deeply interested, but are held back from committing themselves by the influence of friends at home. A Bible class for advanced study meets every Thursday night. It is composed of Christian teachers and other young men who are looking forward to various forms of Christian work and desire special preparation to meet objections and to press upon outsiders the claims of Christ. The English Bible is the text-book, as all the members of the class speak English fluently. This class was started recently in view of the increased opportunities and responsibilities awaiting young men in connection with the Boon Itt Memorial Building in the city.

The number of students is 232.

The Harriet M. House School for Girls.—The Christian Endeavor Society, organized during the year by Miss Bruner, is already growing in membership and interest.

The year has been full of tokens of the Heavenly Father's care. His Holy Spirit has been working in silent power; one after another of the girls has said in her heart, "Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth," and seven have requested to be received into His visible church. The corps of teachers for the year has numbered three missionaries, Misses Cooper, Galt and Bruner, and seven Siamese teachers, whose faithful assistance was not measured by the hours in the class-room, but began with the rising bell at dawn, and continued until the last sleepy-eyed pupil had started for dreamland. Each in turn was mother for one day to her ninety daughters, in their work and play. Each in turn spent the evenings of one week in looking after them during study hours, and before the hour for retiring drew their thoughts for a few moments back to the great teacher and watchful Father, by whose care "we live and move and have our being." Each has felt the weariness and heaviness of heart that sometimes fall to the teacher's lot and the temptation to seek some easier path. But all have kept loyally on. Who can estimate the influence they have exerted and the good they have accomplished?

Miss Cole was absent on furlough most of the year, but she has now returned. She was joyfully welcomed back to the institution over which she has presided for twenty years. The usual school entertainment at Christmas time was largely attended and the exercises very kindly received. The sale of needlework, which is always a feature of this gala day was a record-breaking success, bringing in something like $400 gold.

The New Year brought to Bangkok the dreaded plague, and for weeks an epidemic was imminent. The first cases were at the homes of three of our pupils, and their family was quarantined. Later in the term small-pox attacked one of the servants. A pupil in the incipient stages was also sent home. Through vaccination no more cases occurred. In a short time the banished patients recovered and returned.

During vacation some alterations gave room for sixteen more pupils. These new pupils, paying their way in full, mean more income, lighter per capita expenses, fuller equipment, better salaries for the Siamese teachers, more ability to help the needy to free education; but above all, they mean more hearts in receptive years opened to the true light, more homes of to-day touched by Christian civilization, and more homes of the future presided over by intelligent, wise, diligent, motherly Siamese gentlewomen of every rank down to the poorest. Enrollment, 120 girls.

The Boon Itt Memorial.—Our hearts are grateful to the noble Boon Itt Memorial Committee, U. S. A., Rev. J. F. Fitschen, Jr., Ithaca, N. Y., Chairman, for its work of love and devotion in raising $11,183.20 to erect a suitable memorial building to the lamented Boon Itt, in which we may carry on work for the young men of this great city. They have thus gained a large place in the hearts of a noble band of Christian young men in Siam, and they have extended a helping hand to a work that will bring incalculable blessings to the young men of Siam, and "perpetuate in a visible memorial before the eyes of his countrymen the consecrated and heroic life of Boon Itt." The members of the Boon Itt Memorial Committee in Siam have also "put their shoulders to the wheel." Headed by the Rev. Dr. E. P. Dunlap, they have raised locally 17,600 ticals to purchase a lot. The responses were cheerful, showing a wide interest in the undertaking. A good lot has been chosen in a central location on a thoroughfare near the city walls. The plans for the building were carefully drawn and the work of erection is well under way. The Mission counts itself fortunate in having in Dr. C. C. Walker an excellent man for the superintendency of the Memorial. His experience as a Christian worker among young men in the United States will stand him in good stead. The Memorial is to be an integral part of the Bangkok Station, and with the same relation to the Mission and the Board as the other missionary institutions in the country.

THE CHURCHES.—The pastor, Rev. Yuen, and the people of the First Church have kept up regular work in their church and have taken deep interest in maintaining the work in the new church. The congregation has not only supported its pastor, but contributed liberally to the Boon Itt Memorial Fund, the American Bible Society, Home Missions, the poor, etc. They have also kept up cottage prayer meetings and a Sabbath-school.

Rev. J. B. Dunlap has preached regularly to the Second Church. The girls and their Siamese teachers of this church contributed 230 ticals to the Boon Itt Memorial Fund, and other members of the church contributed more than 1,000 ticals. Contributions were also made to Home Missions and the American Bible Society. During the year several were added to the church. The Sabbath-school, King's Daughters and Christian Endeavor Society are growing in numbers and work.

The Third Church has been supplied by Rev. F. L. Snyder. There has been an encouraging increase in the attendance of women at this church. The pastoral work has been interesting and helpful to the church; six were received on profession of faith.

Regular services have been kept up in both Siamese and Chinese. The congregations have been unusually large. Many have been attracted from the street and bazaars to hear the Gospel. The aged evangelist residing at this chapel, who has served the Master in Siam for more than fifty years, has preached the Gospel earnestly throughout the year, in the Chinese and Siamese languages. The members have contributed to the poor, congregational expenses, Boon Itt Memorial Fund, Home Missions and the American Bible Society. The gifts have been larger than in previous years. Mr. Snyder, aided by other missionaries, has also kept up regular services at Ban Moh Chapel. The chapel is located on a thoroughfare inside the city walls. The attendance has been good throughout the year. The rent of this chapel, 312 ticals a year, has been met by contributions from all the churches in Siam. An interesting Sabbath-school is conducted in this chapel by Mrs. J. B. Dunlap, aided by Miss Lucy Dunlap. Mr. Snyder has also conducted services at Ayuthia, Paknam and Pak Lat, and spent six weeks helping in the work at Nakawn station.

THE PRESS.—This branch of our work, so necessary and helpful to all other branches of the work, has been carried on vigorously by the Manager, Rev. J. B. Dunlap, assisted by Mrs. Dunlap in proof-reading, correspondence, etc. A new press and other equipment has made this the best equipped printing plant in Siam. Nearly all the departments of State prefer it for their special work of high grade. On the opening day of the Press, the Director General of the Royal Survey Department sent a letter to the Press by special messenger, advising us that they had kept their Annual Report for the year 1902-3 awaiting the reopening of our Press, and stated that they would be glad if it could be printed in English and Siamese at once, a compliment full of encouragement. So that missionaries were not only the pioneers in the art of printing in Siam, but are to-day the influence in keeping this beneficial art up to a high standard. We are justifiable in trying to make our printing press a model for this nation. The Press is not only self-supporting as to running expenses, but through receipts the plant is ever being improved in its equipment. From our Press a Christian literature, including the Bible printed for the American Bible Society, is ever going out for the enlightenment of the people of Siam.

Five million pages were printed during the past year. The first piece of work with which the new press was dedicated was a new tract from the pen of Dr. E. P. Dunlap, entitled "Good News." Two hundred and sixty thousand blank cards with illustrations in the life of Jesus were sent by a friend in Cincinnati. At the press the Scripture references to the incidents were added, and on the back of the cards a brief story of each one prepared by Dr. Dunlap. Thus the pictures become quite intelligible to any Siamese reader, and supply a great need for our labors for children. Several new tracts have been published, two of them prepared by an aged Siamese Christian. Twelve thousand copies of Bible books were printed for the American Bible Society.

The Go-down.—The Go-down has brought a great amount of extra work to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dunlap—correspondence, shopping over this city, receiving and forwarding goods to all stations in Siam and Laos for hospitals, schools and missionary families. Eleven hundred and thirty-seven boxes have been handled in the past five months. The imperative need of this drudgery department of the work is a competent Siamese, with sufficient salary to hold him, so as to relieve Mr. Dunlap for more evangelistic work.

ITINERATING.—Short tours by Mr. Snyder have been mentioned. The long tours of the year have been made by Dr. and Mrs. Eugene P. Dunlap, accompanied by two faithful Siamese evangelists. They spent two months in the Mission schooner "Kalamazoo," sailing along the east coast of the Gulf of Siam, laboring in the provinces and some islands as far down as the Chantaboon province. At one port the missionaries were the guests of Major-General Surisak of the Siamese army, one of Siam's noblest men, a staunch friend of the American missionaries for many years.

He met Dr. Dunlap at the train and conducted him to the crowd of people in waiting, saying, "This is an American missionary; he is engaged in good work for our people. He has gladly come to vaccinate your children. Vaccination is a great benefit, introduced into our country by the American missionaries. The work of these missionaries has brought great benefits to our country. You should have confidence in them. I commend the missionary and his work to you." While Dr. Dunlap vaccinated, the Siamese evangelists taught the people waiting and sold good books to them. At another place the chief official invited Dr. Dunlap to vaccinate children assembled in the fort. He took a chair in the midst of the crowd, and never left it for six hours; in that time vaccinated 130 children. The evangelists and Mrs. Dunlap taught and furnished good books to the people. The vaccine was exhausted at 3 P.M. and more than 100 children turned away without vaccination, and yet we remember the time when it was not possible to persuade people along that coast to be vaccinated. Many incidents might be related of daily preaching in the market places, temples, fisheries, islands, prisons and homes, of woman's work in the homes, of ministering to the sick, etc. During the tour our missionaries sailed about 400 miles, taught many who had never before heard the Gospel, instructed inquirers who seemed interested in reading God's word, vaccinated 960 children, and sold 2,362 portions of Scripture, Christian books and tracts.

The longest tour of the year was five months on the peninsula, embracing Penang, the Puket region and large districts in the interior of the peninsula, in the Nakawn and Chiya provinces. The laborers for this tour were Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap and two faithful evangelists, one an honor man of the last graduating class in the Christian High School.

In the old province of Kedah the people received us kindly and we enjoyed work in their homes. Then we took passage on an overcrowded steamer 380 miles northeast to the Penang province, bordering on lower Burmah. There we spent several days in work in homes, prisons, temples and market places, preaching, vaccinating children, ministering to the sick. We enjoyed the hospitality of the Governor of the province. In no country is the missionary more kindly received than in Siam.

Thence by steamer we went to the Takooa Pa province, in which we spent twenty-three days. Here Mrs. Dunlap enjoyed precious work among women and children. We have gained the friendship and confidence of many people in this province. Friendship is the best platform on which to preach the Gospel to people. The officials were friendly, and we enjoyed freedom in our work. We ministered to many sick and vaccinated a good number of children. We were afraid of the tigers in the jungles and the hungry crocodiles in the rivers, but were treated very kindly by the people. This is a leaky sky province; it rained for seven days and nights without ceasing, and in that time we did not see the sun. Thence we sailed by steamer to Penang, and there we got some news from the outside world, laid in some provisions and medicines, and then took passage in a filthy little Chinese steamer in command of a Malay captain to Panga province. Our eyes feasted on charming island scenery, causing us to forget the discomforts of deck passengers. Panga is the gem of Siam for natural beauty. Two Siamese nobles, disciples of Jesus, gave us a warm welcome to this province. How we did enjoy daily services in their homes and hearing their clear testimony for the Master! Through a missionary map of the world, twelve feet by eight feet, we told of the triumphs, progress and benefits of Christianity, and gave many lessons on the geography of the world. One Buddhist priest contended the map was all wrong and the lessons of the missionary false, that the world is flat, four-cornered, and has a continent on each corner, a mountain in the centre many thousand miles high around which the sun revolves; the people, however, believed the missionary and his map and laughed at the yellow-robed priest. Through the sciopticon, scientific and Bible slides we did some aggressive work. An official invited us to show the pictures to 250 people. The second night 350 people listened for more than one hour to the explanations of the pictures illustrating the rotundity of the earth, diurnal motion, causes of eclipse, geography of the world and the precious stories of Jesus. The experiences of one morning made the missionary's wife just a little nervous, viz., a tiger chasing a dog down to our camp, a poisonous snake and five vicious scorpions killed in our bed-room. After twenty-two delightful days in this province we took passage for the Trang province, the largest province of the Puket district, with about 90,000 people. At the landing we received invitations from the Governor of the province to lodge in the official's quarters at the barracks, from the Chief of Police to the hospitality of his new home, and from the Postmaster to a place in his home. The American missionary is above par in Siam. The Postmaster being one of our old school boys, we went to his home and enjoyed the loving kindness of himself and his wife. In this place, by invitation, we held sciopticon services in the home of the Governor of the province, in the gardens of the Club, and at the post office. A number of the officials, including the Governor, invited us to come and settle there.

Siam's door is wide open to the American missionary. Thence up the Trang river, we went to the great market town of the province. The High Commissioner of the Puket district, ruler of six provinces, called, suffering from an angry tumor. Dr. Dunlap accompanied him to his home, and lodged with him until he saw the patient relieved. They had some close talk about Siam's highest good. H. C. fairly urged that the missionaries come and establish work on that side, and be sure to bring a medical missionary. He said, "I want a medical missionary because I know how much deeper interest he will take in the sick, especially the poor sick, than does the ordinary doctor. Come, start hospitals and schools, and I will see that money is secured to help support them, and I will also aid you in going about to preach to the people. I believe that your preaching, as well as your other work, does good to the people."

Shall we embrace such opportunities, or not? From this district we traveled nine days by canoe up the swift running river Trang, with opportunities for working in settlements never before reached by the Christian missionary. At the end of our canoe journey we stopped for ten days in a district of Nakawn province, and they were busy days, the people calling for medicines from early morning until evening. Mrs. Dunlap and the evangelists were busy in presenting the Gospel to those waiting for medicines. The sciopticon pictures, much to the delight of the people, were shown in the market house at night. There we failed to secure elephants for our journey overland. We hired carriers for the baggage, and we walked twenty-five miles through dense forests, waded streams, and through swamps up to our knees in mud.— At night darkness overtook us in the forest, with no habitation and fresh tiger tracks. We heard that last year tigers had killed eight people in that region. Our company of carriers, cook, beds and provisions hours in advance of us; four carriers and two boxes with us. We had some rice and a tin of condensed milk. Your missionaries sat on two boxes all night, kept up a big fire, and for fear of tigers did not sleep a wink. The tigers did not harm, but hungry leeches robbed the missionaries of considerable blood. By daybreak we were on the march, and glad to catch up with beds, cook and provisions. A Sabbath rest brought healing to blistered feet and aching joints. After two days on elephants to Pakchang, there we enjoyed two weeks with a happy little company of disciples of our Lord. One day, when preaching in one of the Christian homes, two men arose and said, "We believe in God the Creator; for some time we have been learning about Jesus, and we want to become His disciples. We beg the missionary to come and preach in our homes." "Yes, the missionary will go and preach in your homes to-morrow." In the early morning we walked five miles over an elephant path to one home. Neighbors had been invited in to hear the Gospel. After the sermon the man of the house arose and said, "I believe and," pointing to the altar and gods in his home, "I will never worship them again." The missionary said, "You give up the gods, permit them to be destroyed, and trust Jesus the rest of your days?" "I will." The gods and offerings were carried out in front of the house, and a fire kindled under them soon reduced all to ashes. The man was then baptized. In the afternoon we walked to the home of the other man. After preaching, the man and his wife requested the missionary to take down the gods and offerings in the home. This was soon done, and we made a bonfire of gods and offerings. The man was then baptized and his wife placed in the inquiry class for further instruction. Thus two more Christian homes were established in this little centre of light. After nine more days in canoes, stopping to labor in some places en route, we reached the coast of the Gulf of Siam.

PETCHABUREE STATION.

The history of the year does not differ materially from that of past years. During two-thirds of the year the missionary strength of the station consisted of Rev. and Mrs. Jones and Dr. and Mrs. McDaniel. June 9th, Rev. and Mrs. W. G. McClure returned from Bangkok.

While the health of the missionary families has generally been good, some suffered more or less from the ills incident to life in a tropical climate. But in each case good health has been restored.

A great shadow, however, overcast our station in connection with the illness and death of Miss Fleeson, of the Laos Mission. Being on her way to America, she turned aside to pay us a brief visit, and to see something of the station to which she had originally been appointed. She was suffering acutely at the time of her arrival here, and after an illness of ten days her body was laid to rest beside those others of precious memory in our churchyard, the third witness who being dead yet shall speak to this people of that love unto death for their salvation. The spirit departed near the close of July 3d; so our national day of rejoicing became a day of sorrow.

The regular work of the station has been sustained in all its departments; but, as in past years, the Mission force has been too small to permit as much aggressive evangelistic work as was desirable.

However, during the dry season Mr. Jones made numerous trips to the adjacent villages in company with Kru Songe, his assistant preacher. He also made a tour up the Petchaburee river as far as Sarahet, a village thirty or forty miles distant, in the forest region at the head of comfortable navigation. Our boats have been pushed as far up as the Karen village, Song Pee Nong, but with great difficulty and some danger. The Gospel was preached at all the principal points along the river, the small roller-organ and picture cards and stereopticon serving as attractions. The small Sunday-school cards were especially useful in villages where the people were timid. Such a card, put into the hand of a child, served to break the reserve and bring both the children and their elders out in large numbers, making it possible to talk with them and teach them freely.

A good deal of colporteur work was also done by Kru Songe, the assistant preacher, and Kru Chuang, the school teacher. Two hundred copies of tracts and Scripture portions were sold. Some medicines were also sold on the long tour. A second extended tour was planned by Mr. Jones, but illness in his family made it impracticable.

Stated services at the village churches have not been attempted, but each church has been visited once or oftener, and the members visited in their homes. Little encouragement can be reported as yet from these sources.

The report from the Petchaburee Church is encouraging. The Sabbath-school attendance averaged fifty-five. The church attendance has been regular though not large. Six Chinese members have been faithful, though preaching in their own language could not be provided.

There have been two accessions, six baptisms, and one applicant not yet received, the son of a Christian. An interesting fact is that four of the baptisms were in the family of the assistant preacher, Kru Songe, the wife and oldest son being received into full membership.

The school, under the superintendence of Rev. R. C. Jones, has had a prosperous year. The loss of the head teacher about a year ago, and the difficulty of supplying his place, has made it necessary for Mr. Jones to devote a larger portion of time to the school; but this fact has undoubtedly resulted in the enlargement and improvement of the school. Beginning the year with ten, it now has forty. In the absence of a girls' school, the existing school has a mixed attendance. Nine of the pupils are little girls, and this notwithstanding the fact that there is a large girls' school under native supervision not far away. This seems to indicate that we might have a good school for girls, if a suitable teacher could be secured. Twelve of the pupils are studying English. Three of these are members of the "noble order of the yellow robe," who come only at recitation time.

The school has more than paid expenses this year, but only because another teacher could not be secured. Two of the pupils have been converted.

The medical department reports both encouraging and discouraging features. The discouragements are a smaller number of patients and a decreased number of sales and lessened revenues. The encouragements are: Through the medium of the medical work, especially vaccinations, a very large number of people have heard the Gospel message; nearly twice as many visits have been made to the homes of the people as last year, and an increased number of patients and sales of medicines during the past three months.

During this time Dr. McDaniel has had his hands very full, including the illness of Miss Fleeson and illness in the Mission circle. Two patients recently treated deserve special mention—a Siamese woman treated at her home in the market and an Indian in the hospital. The latter was shot through the chest, the ball emerging at the back. Both cases were known throughout the town, and were recognized as most critical if not incurable cases. They were made objects of special prayer by the members of the station. They required very careful medical attention, including several midnight trips to the market. The means used were blessed to their recovery, much to the advantage of the medical work, and the patients and their friends have shown great personal gratitude toward the Doctor as their benefactor.

Following are the statistics of the work: Sales and prescriptions, 1,323; vaccinations, 1,732; in-patients, 10; out-patients, 11; out-visits, 75; operations, 17, and revenues, ticals 1,011.

With the advent of the railway, life at this station has taken on new phases. We are no longer merely at an out-of-the-way place, we are at the terminus of the railway. Instead of the trying isolation of past years, when we could see but few of our kind, we now see frequent visitors.

His Majesty the King recently spent three days in this city, occupying the royal palace on the mountain. His Majesty went about the city freely, making glad the hearts of his people. The occasion was made notable by the first appearance of an automobile in this province and by His Majesty's great interest in photography.

RAJABURI STATION.

The personnel of the station has been the same as for the two previous years, the workers being Dr. and Mrs. E. Wachter and Rev. R. W. Post and Mrs. Post.

One of the facts that indicate the density of population and commercial importance of the field is the extension of the Tachin Railway from the mouth of the Tachin to the mouth of our river, the MeKlong. The twenty miles of rich territory between Rajaburi and the sea are now connected with Bangkok by means of two canals and two railways, as we already have the canals and the Royal Railway.

The general conscription law was put into effect August 1st, and the province with its population of 420,000 has about 2,000 soldiers, of whom over 1,200 are on the opposite side of the river from the station.

The King of Siam spent several days near Rajaburi in September. His visit caused the usual excitement and Maa Ooam thought it her opportunity. This woman was trained by the missionary ladies at Petchaburi in childhood, but has lived here for some time and for several years has taught a school in the market. The former Royal Commissioner had assured her of his sympathy, especially as she takes some free pupils. So the Mission house-boat was borrowed, and with twenty-four little folks she went up to the King's landing place. A banner and the crowd of children arrested His Majesty's attention, and after reading her petition and asking her a few questions he directed that ticals 400 be handed to her immediately to help her in her school work. The Royal Commissioner has orders to assist her in building a suitable schoolhouse.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mr. Post reports as follows:

Unexpectedly coming to this work, with less than two years of language study and without the assistance of a Siamese co-laborer, the work has suffered serious disadvantages. Dr. Wachter preached, as appointed by the Mission, when the one in charge was absent on tours and one-half of the time while he was at the station. It fell to my lot to provide for services on twenty-two Sundays, and with the greatly appreciated help of Dr. Dunlap and Mr. Snyder such provision was made, I conducting services on fifteen Sundays. I also conducted the opening exercises of the Sunday-school and taught the men's class every Sunday.

In October and November Mrs. Post and I ascended the river as far as Kanburi and a short distance up the smaller branch. Everywhere, especially at the temples, there was a ready sale for the Mission tracts and Scripture portions. The entire stock of over 400 copies was exhausted several days before we returned. The people were more receptive to the old story than those who have more opportunities to hear it. In April Mr. Franklin and I made a short tour as far as Nakon Choom and found several groups who would listen. We learned to be thankful for the protection of the house-boats, as it was the only refuge from the heat.

Several trips were made by rail to Prapatom, Ban Pong and Po Taram. In all about 700 tracts and Scripture portions were disposed of.

The opportunity is great. The people are intelligent, prosperous and friendly, and some have expressed a desire to know the right path.

EDUCATIONAL.—Dr. Wachter reports as follows:

The boys' school was handed over to me at the last annual meeting. At the beginning the attendance was rather slim. One of the teachers failed to return, which necessitated more work than I could reasonably be expected to give to the school. However, after a month I succeeded in securing a teacher from Bangkok, a graduate of the High School. The attendance has been very good for a day school, the majority coming regularly every day.

During the year Mrs. Wachter has taught three classes daily in the boys' school, helped in caring for the sick, visited 111 Siamese homes, taught a large Sunday-school class, and held prayer meeting with the girls once a week.

She also carried on a small girls' school in which she taught seven classes daily, and has had the joy of seeing two of the girls give themselves to the Saviour. Another girl who united with the church over a year ago is preparing herself for future usefulness as a teacher. Maa Muen, the present teacher, is a Christian girl from the Harriet M. House School. The number of girls enrolled is twenty-seven. They have never all been present at one time; but there have been times when our guest-room, which has been transformed into a school-room, has been full almost to overflowing.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Wachter writes:

The medical work shows a decided decrease in the amount of drugs handled. The receipts, however, have been comparatively larger than the year before. The money turned into the station treasury represents an increase of over 300 per cent. It is apparent that medical work and school work cannot be carried on successfully and effectively at the same time by the same man. Neither in the one or in the other can one choose his own time. Whether it be the school-bell or the patient, the case must be attended to without delay. A number of patients requiring operations and special care afterwards have been advised to come in vacation time or to seek relief elsewhere. The patients treated in the hospital numbered twenty-five and seventy-five visits were made in the town and neighborhood. Two thousand people came to the dispensary for treatment or to buy medicine. Special attention has been given this year to the translation of our publications, and 9 ticals worth of our books were sold and quite a few were given to patients and their friends.

NAKAWN SRI TAMARAT STATION.

Mr. Eckles writes:

The sixth report of this station finds us, as each year since its organization except 1903, with only one man at the station at the time of closing the Mission year. Upon returning from Mission meeting last year early in October, we had the pleasure of bringing with us Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Walker, just out from home. During the four months that they were with us they proved themselves truly helpers in the work. By vote of the Mission they left us February 11th, to supply the vacancy made at Pitsanuloke by Dr. Toy's furlough.

Visits from Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper and Mr. Post, occasionally relieved the loneliness of the isolated Mr. and Mrs. Eckles, until the return of Dr. Swart with his bride and the transfer to the station of Mr. Post.

EVANGELISTIC.—There have been one or more services every Sunday throughout the year.

Three communion seasons have been observed at the home church, at which three adults and two children have been baptized. Dr. Dunlap also reports two persons baptized "beyond the mountains" during his tour there.

Two tours were made during the year, both afoot. The first was in January, to visit the Christians in the Ta Mak region, about thirty miles north of here. Five and a half days were spent with them, eleven services being held at two points. On Sabbath a communion service was held. The second tour was made in March to the section known as "beyond the mountains."

It being later in the season and a drier season than last year we had no trouble from mud, but found it warmer walking than the former trip. At Ta Chee we were much saddened by the conduct of our elder, who had acted in such a manner as to bring much reproach upon the name of Christian. Since the return from this trip, there being no one else at the station, no tours have been made.

MEDICAL.—This branch of the work had the assistance of Dr. Wachter during the first month under review. Dr. Walker took charge upon his arrival, and gave it his attention during the four months he was here.

As last year, the assistants have done the greater part of the dispensary work when there was no physician here, while Mr. Eckles has attended to the out-patients almost entirely. During the year there have been 7,423 attendances at the dispensary; 9,376 sales of medicine; 1,096 vaccinations; 108 patients treated in their homes, requiring 233 visits; and 19 in-patients. Three-fourths of the in-patients were during the time Dr. Walker was in charge; but one-half the out-patients and more than one-half the number of visits have been since he left. Ten of these were obstetric cases. The receipts for the first four months of the fiscal year have been 1,927 ticals.

His Majesty the King, the Crown Prince and many other friends of the work in Siam contributed generously toward the erection of a new hospital and friends in America added a further amount, so that now a new hospital is being erected which will add greatly to the efficiency and influence of the station work.

EDUCATIONAL.—

Our school work is still confined to the school for small girls, held on the veranda of the Mission dwelling. It has been in session throughout the year.

The same teacher has continued in charge and has done faithful work. There have been ten pupils and they have been quite regular. What the tuition fees lack of supplying the teacher's salary has been made up, as last year, by one of our patrons, a Christian business man.

PITSANULOKE STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—This year there have been two conversions and three baptisms. The weekly prayer meetings and the daily chapel services on the compound are developing three of our young men into capable Christian leaders. One of them especially, Kroo Koo, first assistant in the hospital, exerts a most wholesome influence in winning the friendship of the people and creating a strong spiritual atmosphere on the compound. The hospital patients and boarding pupils are required to attend the weekly prayer meeting, Sunday morning service and Sabbath-school. Each Sunday afternoon, when the workers arrive at the down-town market chapel, they are greeted by some forty or fifty Siamese children who remain for the entire service. Including the adults, we often have as many as sixty people. This service is held in the store of one of our Christians, Kroo Plean, who always has a word of testimony for each meeting. This chapel work has already outgrown its present quarters and we are planning to erect a building of our own, which is to become a centre of a strong evangelistic work for these people. During the year Mr. Cooper made two evangelistic tours, one for a month on the Mae Yome river as far north as the rapids above Sawankaloke, and another last July to Paknampho. In order to do an effective touring work in the Pitsanuloke field this station ought to have a third family. Plans have been evolved to do medical touring next year. For the past year the station reports a distribution of 800 volumes of various portions of Scripture and about 2,000 tracts. Most of these were sold.

EDUCATIONAL.—The enrollment of the school was forty-two boys and ten girls.

The school was in session eight months of the twelve. Nearly every city of any size in the whole province is represented by some boy in the school. These boys appear to enjoy their daily chapel service, for they enter into the Scripture reading and singing with an energy that is gratifying. Attempts have been made to develop a frank, social spirit and to induce the boys to read their Bibles daily. Games and healthy recreation are introduced from time to time. The present great need of the school is a wide-awake native teacher.

MEDICAL.—It is due to Dr. Toy's untiring efforts that the Pitsanuloke dispensary is up-to-date, equipped with modern apparatus and stocked with the best of drugs obtainable in the London and American markets.

Perhaps the most noticeable feature of the medical work this year has been the numerous sales of medicine. This is the only dispensary for this entire region. Last year the sales amounted to 6,000 ticals. This year they will probably reach 11,000. The hospital still remains unfinished, but is open to patients. Since it was opened there have been twenty-four in-patients, several of whom came for the removal of tumors. There were eight operations requiring an anæsthetic. Each patient on entering the hospital is given a portion of Scripture to read, which he is allowed to take with him when he is discharged. The aim of all the hospital work is to win the in-patients to a knowledge of Christ. So far there have been no conversions, but at least three men have gone away very near the Kingdom. During the year there were over 250 visits paid to the homes of the people and about 7,000 prescriptions were filled. The outlook for the medical work next year is very bright.

Dr. Walker had charge of the medical work after February 20th, giving it as much time as he could consistently with his language study.

During the year Mr. Cooper and his family were away three months for a health trip to Nakawn Sri Tamarat. March 24th, Dr. and Mrs. Walker arrived to relieve Dr. Toy and family, who after nearly six years of continuous service left for Canada on furlough. August 8th a telegram was received announcing the death of Mrs. Toy, June 23d, at Toronto.

The next day a memorial service was held by Mr. Cooper, which was so well attended that the room was packed. The news of Mrs. Toy's death was received with sadness and felt very keenly by all who knew her at Pitsanuloke. The sorrow of the station was deepened when it was learned that ill health would prevent Dr. Toy's return to Siam. The Pitsanuloke workers extend to Dr. Toy and the four children their warmest sympathies in their great loss.

MISS FLESON'S GIRLS' SCHOOL, LAKAWN, LAOS.

THE LAOS MISSION.

CHIENG-MAI: on the Me Ping River, about a month and a half by Laos boat or 600 miles north of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1867. Missionaries—Rev. Daniel McGilvary, D.D., and Mrs. McGilvary, Rev. D. G. Collins and Mrs. Collins, J. W. McKean, M.D., and Mrs. McKean, Rev. Howard Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Rev. J. H. Freeman and Mrs. Freeman, Rev. William Harris, Jr., and Mrs. Harris, Miss E. M. Buck and Miss Mabel Gilson. ]]

LAKAWN: on the Me Wang River, four days' land journey or 65 miles southeast of Chieng-mai; occupied as a Mission Station 1893. Missionaries—Rev. Jonathan Wilson, D.D., Rev. Hugh Taylor, D.D., and Mrs. Taylor, C. C. Hansen, M.D., and Mrs. Hansen, Rev. Roderick Gillies and Mrs. Gillies and Miss Elizabeth Carothers.

PRE: on the Me Yom River, four days' land journey or about 65 miles southeast of Lakawn; occupied as a Mission Station 1893, and carried on by missionaries of other stations.

NAN: on the Me Nan River, eight days' land journey or about 110 miles northeast of Pre; occupied as a Mission Station 1894. Missionaries—Rev. S. C. Peoples, M.D., and Mrs. Peoples, Rev. David Park and Mrs. Park, Rev. Arthur Barrett and Mrs. Barrett, Rev. C. H. Denman, M.D., and Mrs. Denman.

CHIENG-RAI: on the Me Kok River, eight days' land journey or 110 miles a little east of north of Chieng-mai; occupied as a Mission Station 1897. Missionaries—Rev. W. A. Briggs, M.D., and Mrs. Briggs, and Rev. Howell S. Vincent and Mrs. Vincent, Rev. Henry N. White and Mrs. White, C. H. Crooks, M.D., and Mrs. Crooks.

KENG-TUNG: in the Shan States (British), north of Chieng-rai; occupied as a Station 1903. Missionaries—The Rev. W. C. Dodd and Mrs. Dodd, the Rev. C. R. Callender and Mrs. Callender.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. Daniel McGilvary and Rev. W. A. Briggs and Mrs. Briggs, Mrs. C. H. Denman, Rev. Robert Irwin and Mrs. Irwin.

The Laos Mission is happy to report that, although some fields have been less fruitful than in preceding years, the progress, as indicated by the number of accessions on confession throughout the Mission, is somewhat greater than for some years past. There has been no mass movement or rapid growth to report, but it has been a year of steady and fruitful effort in every department. Nearly every station has some new development along old lines or some wholly new line of effort to report.

Bazaar Work, Keng-tung.—Perhaps the most promising new work of the year has been the bazaar or street chapel work in our newest station, Keng-tung.

Such work forms an important feature of work in India and China, but has not been deemed advisable in our older stations in Laos. In Keng-tung, however, the "fifth day bazaar" brings together people of all races and tribes within a radius of three days' journey in every direction. The Kun from Keng-tung plain, the Lu from the east and north, the Tai Nua, often called Chinese Shans, Laos as well in speech and written character as in blood; Burmese, Western Shans and Indians, men of many and various hill tribes—all are included in the motley crowd that throngs the bazaar once in five days. Moreover, Keng-tung is the "clearing house" for much of the overland trade with China. Our missionaries meet men from points twenty, thirty days or more beyond the Chinese border who understand our Laos speech and read our Laos books. Not infrequently, too, they meet men not only from all parts of the Siamese Laos States, but from the French territories beyond the Kekong, from the Sip Sawng Punna, and from distant parts of the British Laos (Shan) States, who have met our missionaries and have read our literature.

Until the beginning of the present calendar year the work was more or less irregular and experimental. Since then, and until the completion of our street chapel, the day school building was used. Now on big bazaar days both school-house and chapel, at opposite ends of the market, are full, often crowded. Baby organ, singing, picture rolls, preaching and the printed page all are used. One missionary family with two helpers is usually present at each preaching place all the forenoon. Mr. Dodd writes:

Never in any previous ten months of our missionary experience have we been privileged to do so much evangelistic work. A marked feature of the work has been the great demand for our tracts and Scripture portions. Many thousands have been given away, frequently a hundred in a single forenoon. In most cases the recipient has proved his ability to read by reading a part of the tract before he was allowed to keep it. Some are doubtless thrown aside, but the majority are read and pondered. They are in nearly every house in at least two Tai Nua villages near the city; not only so, but they are read and understood there. Recently not a few who have received tracts are coming to us for something more advanced, and inquirers are beginning to seek us out in our homes.

A court scribe from Muang Yawng came to Mr. Dodd's study in June. Years ago he had been in Chieng Mai for some months, and had there learned something of Christianity, so that on his return he and his family had discarded the worship of spirits. He now took with him to Muang Yawn a copy of Matthew for himself and a supply of tracts which he promised to distribute. He is but one of many.

Temple Preaching, Chieng Rai.—Chieng Rai has been crowded many times during the year with men from every part of the province to work on public improvements. They slept in the temples, and from night to night bands of Christians with elders or missionaries to lead them visited the temples and taught them of Christ and His redemption.

Thousands heard the story of Christ for the first time, and hundreds took home with them tracts and portions of Scripture. One might expect that the Buddhist priests would oppose this work in their temples. On the contrary, the abbot of the head temple was a regular attendant upon the services, and at his suggestion the stereopticon curtain was stretched right across the altar in the very face of the gilded idol, and night after night scenes in the life of Christ were depicted upon it.

An Unusual Audience, Nan.—Almost everywhere the Gospel finds more ready access to the common people than to those in high station. Our missionaries in Nan were therefore the more gratified when the official head of Buddhism in the province of Nan sent to ask for a copy of the Scriptures. A copy of the Siamese New Testament was sent him. In acknowledgment of it he invited Mr. Park to show his stereopticon in the enclosure of the chief temple of the city. An audience of some 300, partly native princes, but mostly Buddhist priests, had gathered there at his invitation to see and hear the Gospel.

Vaccine and Evangelism.—It has always been difficult to get good vaccine in this country. Many, many times it was utterly spoiled in transit. Dr. McKean determined to cut the Gordian knot by making virus in Chieng Mai.

For the first time in many years the supply of vaccine was adequate and reliable. In all 10,764 successful vaccinations are reported, as against 1,380 last year. New and suitable buildings are now being built out of the receipts, and still better results are hoped for another year. Some 150 men were employed. These men received a fee for each successful vaccination and are not paid as evangelists. However, Dr. McKean aims to employ only men of well approved Christian character who are able and willing to do personal Christian work, and to train them for it. They spent four days together at the dispensary each month for instruction in their work, and two hours each of these days was given to Bible study. An audience of 150, all Christians, many of them fresh from hand-to-hand work for Christ, is an inspiration to the missionary, and promises much for the progress and permanence of the Laos Church.

Most of the men also carry with them a supply of medicines, and some of them, through years of instruction and experience, have become quite skillful in treating the common ailments of the people. A corps of Christian native physicians is thus being developed. Hitherto, in distant villages many Christians felt that they must go to the spirit doctors when ill. The latter often refused to prescribe till the customary offerings to the spirits were made. This master temptation is in large measure removed by the work of the vaccinators.

Laos Conventions.—Conventions have been held the past year in each of our stations and have become a permanent feature of our work. This year an increasing share in each of them has been taken by our native brethren. The decision to hold such a convention in Pre was arrived at in the absence of the missionary, and in Chieng Rai twenty-three out of thirty-two services were led by Laos Christians.

The Me Yom Takes a Hand.—In Pre the Yom river has for years been eating away our property, but the process has grown more rapid. Almost any flood may leave us with no more property to eat. The illness of Mrs. Irwin and other circumstances, together with the encroachments of the river, make us look forward to radical changes there. The field of Pre station is smaller than that of any other station, and for the coming year at least the work there will be supervised by a missionary resident elsewhere. However, the responsibility will be thrown almost completely upon the officers of Pre Church themselves. Mr. Irwin says:

We all believe in the principle of self-government in the native church, but here Providence, in the shape of the Me Yom, is forcing us to put that principle in practice. Preparations for this step have marked the work of the whole year in Pre, and we hope it may lead to large things for the whole Laos Church.

The Death of Miss Fleeson.—All hearts were saddened by this bereavement. She had started home on furlough, but at Petchaburee, where she stopped for a brief visit, she was stricken with dysentery and passed away July 3d. A great and for many years almost a constant sufferer, Miss Fleeson was still ever cheerful.

Each of us was her debtor for the little deeds of loving service and words of sympathy that drew out the best in every one she met. Not the missionary circle alone or the native church, but the whole foreign community in Siam mourns her loss. The Board and the Church at home, too, had felt the charm of her personality and recognized the value of her work. She has passed from our sight, but the fruit of eighteen years of loving service remains.

We feel deeply indebted to the friends who watched over her so lovingly and laid her so gently to rest beneath the palms of Petchaburee.

Gain and Loss.—Early in the year our hearts were gladdened by the addition to the forces of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Crooks in Pre, Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Barrett in Nan, Miss Elizabeth Carothers in Lakawn, and Miss Mabel Gilson in Chieng Mai. Mr. and Mrs. Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Park returned from furlough at the same time. In the course of the year Mrs. and Miss McGilvary, Dr. and Mrs. Peoples and Mrs. Irwin have gone for rest to the United States. Early in the year Dr. and Mrs. Cornell, of Keng-tung, severed their connection with the Mission, and to the deep regret of all health reasons have led Dr. and Mrs. Irwin to resign, Mrs. Irwin having been fighting a losing battle with disease for some time. All mourned with Dr. and Mrs. Hansen over the death of little June.

Touring.—The year has not been remarkable for the amount of touring done. Two members of the Mission who usually take a large share in this work were at home on furlough, and building and other secular work occupied the time of others. However, the tours made had good results.

Prominent among the tours of Chieng Mai Station were those of the veteran Dr. McGilvary. He has been busy the entire year, for he goes in season and out of season. One of his out-season tours, taken in the height of the rainy season, he describes as follows:

A Wet Ride.—I wish I could photograph for you my last Me Pu Ka trip. The road was the worst I ever traveled. (It must have been bad then.) I rode back and forth in one canal, almost swimming at times, in despair of finding a place where my horse could climb the bank. Finally, after a super-equine effort, my horse poised in equilibrium, uncertain whether he would gain the bank or tumble back in the mud. You can imagine my relief when the good horse really did scale the bank. How is that for a boy of seventy-eight summers?

Among the Sam Tao.—Dr. Dodd's tour among the Sam Tao tribes in the neighborhood of Keng-tung was of special interest on account of the opportunities it revealed for work in that northern district, lying among the hills of southern China. Dr. Dodd says:

Our tour covered the principal villages, and reached the chiefs of a majority of the half hundred villages of Sam Tao living east of Keng-tung and north of the Yawng district. There are scattering villages of these people in every direction from this centre, but an encouraging beginning was made in the very heart of the Sam Tao region. Bazaars held in two of their villages are patronized by the other hill tribes of quite an extended area as well. In both we preached to good audiences, and we made friends in every village where we stayed. The Sam Tao speak with a strong Yuan accent, because, as they say, they got all their literature from Chieng Mai. They listened to our preaching and read our books till late almost every night, and as we left the villages the people often turned out en masse to say good-bye and ask us to come again.

Over one-half of the Christians belonging to the Lakawn Church live in out-villages, scattered over a large part of the province.

Between attending to these and doing pioneer work as well the field for touring is a large one. In December, Miss Fleson and Miss Carothers made a two weeks' tour to Che Hon, a district two days to the north. They visited the homes of the Christians, taught some of the children, conducted evening services. This was the last of Miss Fleson's many visits to the out-villages. It was Miss Carothers' first.

Lakawn.—The main part of the touring work fell on Mr.

Gillies. He has been north, south, east and west, seeking to instruct the scattered Christians, baptize their children, and use the villages where they live as centres for evangelizing their neighbors.

With the aid of native evangelists many non-Christian as well as Christian families were visited, while out-door evening services, meant especially for non-Christians, were held at about twenty-five different points, here for a night or two, there for four or five nights, depending on the interest shown. In some places, those not frequently visited before, the people seemed suspicious, but as a rule the congregations that gathered under the stars must have numbered all the way from 60 to 300. Tracts were given to those who were willing to receive them, and persons interested were encouraged to stay and talk with the missionary after the service was over.

Chieng Rai.—Rejoicing, for the first time in its life, in its three families equipped for work, Chieng Rai has had a record-breaking year in its touring work.

Although Mr. and Mrs. White arrived late in the touring season, they set out almost at once on a fifty-three days' tour in the southern district. Although they met with many discouragements, on the whole they came back with hopes brighter, with faith stronger, with courage prepared for more strenuous efforts in the next season. They visited fifteen villages, received ten adults on confession of faith, baptized twenty-three children, and ordained one elder and one deacon. Arrangements were made for the establishing of three schools and building two chapels. Services were held in every Christian home in the parish which extends four days to the south. At Muang Pan they dedicated a new chapel, baptized eight children and received five adults into full membership.

In February Mr. and Mrs. Vincent took a three weeks' tour into the Muang Tung district, during which they baptized eight adults and eleven children.

Again, in March and April, they took a seven weeks' tour into French territory across the MeKong, for which they have since received a severe reprimand from the French Governor of Chieng Kong. But the Lord blessed the work, even if Princes and Governors did frown. In one Musu village which had never been visited by a missionary they received seven catechumens. The rest of the people of this village say that they are only waiting to see if Christ Jesus can keep these seven from the evil spirit. If he can, they too will receive him. In Hooie Din Dam five persons were received into full membership and eight others as catechumens.

Nan.—The longest tour made by the Nan missionaries the past year was that of Mr. and Mrs. Park, who spent about five weeks in the district north of the city. In all they visited fourteen villages, in some of which the Gospel had never been preached before.

The distinctive and most encouraging feature of this tour was the openness shown in these country districts to the entrance of the Gospel. It seemed that not a village nor a house was closed against it. All, from the highest official down, listened attentively and with interest to the "old, old story." The priests were especially open. In one large village, when Mr. and Mrs. Park arrived at the temple where they expected to stay, they found that the priests had come together there from all the surrounding temples and villages for some religious festival. They postponed their festival and insisted that the missionaries should use their temple. They attended with keenest interest to the preaching of the Gospel night after night as long as the missionaries could stay with them. The same readiness to listen to the Gospel is shown in other parts of this large province.

An unusual amount of touring has been done the past year by the ladies. Some account of it will be found under Woman's Work.

CHURCH WORK.—There are sixteen organized churches within the bounds of the Mission. The territory of these churches embraces the nuclei of other churches that are to be in the near future. One of these nuclei is at Nuang Pai, six days west of Chieng Mai. Mr. Campbell writes:

A few years ago Ai Chai, a member of the Chieng Rai Church, and his wife settled at Muang Pai. Their nearest Christian neighbors were three days distant. The district is a populous one, and they did not hide their light under a bushel. Early in the year he reported four families as believers. One of these had learned something of Christianity eleven or twelve years ago, while in Mr. Phraner's employ. I promised them an early visit, but before I could fulfill the promise a messenger came alone, in haste, through mountain and forest, to tell that heathen neighbors had accused these four families of witchcraft, had shot and wounded two in one house and had threatened further harm. I started at once, taking an elder who is a skillful nurse. We found the mother already on the way to recovery, but the boy in such a precarious condition that, when God raised him up through our efforts, the neighbors regarded it as almost a miracle. We remained in Muang Pai two weeks and were courteously listened to by, many, both people and rulers. A sixth family became Christians, seventeen were baptized and eight others desired to be received, but were not yet ready.

Chieng Mai Church.—Dr. McGilvary and Mr. Campbell are in joint charge of the Chieng Mai Church. Its 1,069 members are scattered in nearly a hundred villages fifty miles north, south and west of the city. East of the city are other organized churches. The other missionaries often preach in Chieng Mai Church and help to shepherd this widely scattered flock, but the burden of its care rests on Mr. Campbell.

A Vigorous Out-Station.—Dr. McGilvary gives especial care to a section north of the city, centring at Ban Hom Luang. He writes:

The outlook there is decidedly good. The most tangible result of the year's work is a neat and comfortable chapel. They planned and built it while I was away. They invited me to come and dedicate it, but when I could not be present they themselves dedicated it with a feast and a poem to add to the pleasure of the day. In October I received six adults and five children by baptism. Some others had been received earlier. I wish I could make you see and hear, as I did, the gesture and emphasis of one, a grandmother who had been very active in the worship of the spirits, as she said in answer to a question by the Session: "Of course I have cast off the worship of the spirits. Why should I not? I have made the great God my refuge, and I want to serve him all my life."

Waking and Working.—The Chieng Mai Church, both elders and laymen, are beginning to realize that they have duties no less than privileges as Christians. They entertained again this year the Laos Convention, and their hospitality blessed those who gave no less than those who received. Their interest, their gifts, their activities, all have increased. They have taken an increasing interest in the vigorous day school they maintain at the church and in both boarding schools. They have kept four evangelists at work much of the year, and the fruit of their work, even more than that of the missionaries, is seen in the ninety-six who have been received on confession during the year. The roll now shows a total of 1,069 names.

Me Dawk Deng.—Mr. Harris reports a most encouraging year. Twenty-six adults have been received on confession. The church has invited the Laos Convention to meet with it next spring, and the people are looking forward to the building of a new chapel.

They made a special offering to employ an evangelist to work in a neighboring district with good results. Pa Peng, widow of the first Laos Christian, died the past year at the age of eighty-eight years. Her husband, Nan Inta, was baptized in 1868. She was at first hostile to Christianity, but later she became an earnest Christian. A son and a son-in-law were among our first Laos ministers, and two other sons are elders in the church.

San Sai.—The outlook here is less encouraging. Still there are some earnest Christians and four adults were received this year.

Me Pu Ka is cared for by Dr. McKean and Dr. McGilvary.

The chapel on which they have been at work so long is not yet completed. Five adults have been received. This church is difficult of access during the rainy season.

Bethlehem has made good progress during the year. Mr. Collins has received nine adults there and thirteen in his section of the Chieng Mai Church.

Lamphoon.—Mr. Freeman has the charge of the three organized churches in Lamphoon province. Owing to illness in his family he was unable to tour as much as usual or even to go and receive those who had been instructed for baptism. Only three were received in the province. A new and attractive chapel in the city of Lamphoon is nearly completed, and Sop Kooang hopes to build the coming year.

Muang Pao and Chieng Dao.—These two churches, fifty miles north of Chieng Mai and thirty miles apart, were formerly one church.

Since the division Muang Pao has prospered, while its sister church has scarcely held its own. One important reason is that elders from Muang Pao are in the corps of vaccinators. Frequent visits to Chieng Mai keep them in touch with the missionary, and the medicines they are learning to use make resort to "spirit doctors" no longer a temptation. Muang Pao is erecting a fine new chapel, and reports eighteen accessions on confession. Two were received in Chieng Dao.

Lakawn Church.—Lakawn has three principal out-stations, Che Hen, Muang Nyae and Lampang Kang. Mr. Gillies cared for these out-stations while touring through the province.

Christianity at Muang Nyae is of a substantial kind. The life of the elders and some of the lay members as well as their words have been witnesses for Christ in the whole neighborhood. In a village near by an old man, a strong Buddhist until his conversion, became a faithful helper to Mr. Gillies on his tours. After this faithful service God took him to the service in heaven.

Dr. Wilson had charge of the city part of the church work. He was greatly helped by the faithful instruction in the school and by the medical assistants in the hospital, as well as by the work of the Bible women under the charge of Mrs. Hansen.

Both Miss Carothers and Miss Wilson helped much by their teaching in the Sabbath-school, and Miss Wilson by the choir which she trained for the song service on the Sabbath. Dr. Wilson taught his old Bible class. In conducting the preaching service, joy filled the preacher's heart at the upturned faces of the congregation who intently and eagerly took in the message. Often the Holy Spirit seemed present to open their hearts to the Gospel truth. Nine adults and thirty-three children have been added to the church during the year. The contributions for the year were Rs. 339, besides Rs. 53 for the lepers.

A Mother's Vow.—Some years ago Choy Khum, a member of the church and then, as now, a teacher in the girls' school, was married to a promising young man of a Buddhist family. They lived happily together for nearly two years. Then he fell into evil ways and his wife had to leave him. Their little daughter was ill, and after lingering for some time was given up to die. But the mother's faith, strong as her love, clung to the life of her child. Her prayers were constant and finally took the form of a vow: "O Lord Jesus, if thou wilt heal my child so near to death, I pledge to Thee for the Sabbath offering of the Lakawn Church the sum of ten rupees." Christ healed her babe, and one Sabbath morning the ten rupees wrapped in paper into a neat roll was placed in the Sabbath offering. The little tot was there and often comes with her grandmother to the Christian Endeavor meeting.

Pre.—Providence seems to indicate that it is best to have no resident missionary in Pre the coming year. With this in view, Mr. Irwin has been training the elders, with the expectation that the responsibility for the work be thrown upon their own shoulders. While main emphasis has been put upon the training of leaders, the regular work of the church has prospered also. A new chapel has been built, twenty adults have been received on confession and the out-station work well organized. We all shall watch with interest and hope this new plan.

Nan.—The thought uppermost in the work in Nan the past year has been to train every church member to be an evangelist. Two such men have lately made a most successful tour, visiting mainly in non-Christian homes. The growth of the church has been substantial, although only ten names were added to the roll. Six of these were heads of families and six more are now ready for baptism. The growth in grace of some of the Christians in Nan city has been encouraging and much stress has been laid upon personal responsibility. To this end every family has been urged to have family worship in the morning, in addition to the regular evening worship as heretofore held. Materials for a new chapel have been collected. It is to be called the Hyde Park Church Memorial Chapel, as kind friends in that church in Chicago have generously contributed to the cost of the building. However, one-half of the building fund has been raised in Nan.

Chieng Rai.—Chieng Rai Church has been under the care of Dr. Briggs. The work has been abundantly blest, and the spiritual tone of a large part of the elders and the people rejoices the hearts of the missionaries.

A very large number of those who came to pay their taxes or to do government work in the city of Chieng Rai have heard the "old, old story" from the lips of the missionaries and their faithful native assistants. Some account of this work in the temples of Chieng Rai has already been given. The wideness of the opportunity was a glad surprise. Both Mr. White and Mr. Vincent did extensive touring. Every member of the station, the men no less than the women, shared in the evangelistic work of the station and rejoice together in its fruitage. Thirty-five adults added to the Chieng Rai Church, five to the church of Chieng Sen, and two to the church in Wiung Pa Pao. The contributions of the Chieng Rai Church were ticals 303.

A new chapel was built under the direction of Mr. Vincent. The year has been one of steady and fruitful labor.

Keng-tung.—The Keng-tung party, Messrs. Dodd and Cornell, took with them, so to speak, the germ of the Keng-tung Church when they left Chieng Rai. As yet the church is unorganized, but it has been increased during the year by the baptism of twelve adults, and early in 1906 it will probably be fully organized.

The work of this church includes the almost daily public preaching of the Gospel in the street chapel to the Laos-speaking people of the entire province, and the distribution of parts of the Laos Bible and tracts for use in the homes. All through the province and far across its northern border into China they are reading Swatsadee, Sasana Sawng Fai, Dr. Briggs' and Mr. Irwin's tracts, Mr. Campbell's Bible Stories, the Laos Hymnal and other printed matter that tells of Jesus the Saviour of sinners. The people of Chieng Mai, Lamphoon, Lakawn, Pre, Nan and Chieng Rai are of one blood with the Khun, Tai Nua, Sam Tao and Lu of the north country. God in his Providence has graciously placed in our hands the shepherding of these scattered sheep. The outlook is glad and good.

We report this year for the whole Laos Church a membership of 3,083, of whom 243 were received on confession the past year.

EDUCATIONAL.—Chieng Mai Boys' School.—The attendance reached 133. The receipts from tuition and board were Rs. 660; both larger than for any term since insistence on self-support began. Work on the new buildings progresses slowly, owing to the difficulty of obtaining materials. The school is ambitious to improve its curriculum and strengthen its teaching force, so that it may rank at least as high as the Siamese Government schools for effective work. One teacher and one of the most promising pupils have spent a considerable part of the year in the Christian High School in Bangkok with this purpose in view.

The Girls' School.—During the spring term eighty-five girls were enrolled, sixty-one of them boarders. Work in instrumental music was begun by Miss Gilson, the special object in view being to make it possible for the out-village churches to have music in their services.

The responsibility thrown on Miss Buck was a heavy burden for one only a year in the country. Mrs. Campbell gave her every possible assistance, but much credit is due Miss Buck for the success of the term's work. The autumn term of both schools was omitted in order to hold a four months' normal class for the teachers of both schools. They made good progress, and we expect to see very decided improvement in their work, as a result of the normal training.

Primary Day Schools.—The school at the Chieng Mai Church has been flourishing under Mrs. Campbell's care. With fifty pupils and two teachers, it has quite outgrown its present quarters. A lot has been purchased on which the people hope soon to build. This school, like all our primary schools, is entirely supported by the native church. Schools have also been in session this year at Ban Den, at Nawng Fan, at Tong Pang and at Ban Pen, each held in the village chapel.

Training School.—Only one session of the training school was held during the year.

During the dry season most of those who attend the training school were at work as vaccinators, and the class for the vaccinators four days each month filled the place of the dry season term. In October 102 men studied 1st Corinthians with Dr. McGilvary and Mark with Mr. Campbell, and shared in conferences on methods of personal work for Christ with Mr. Freeman.

Lakawn Girls' School.—The large new building of the girls' school was crowded during both terms. As the boys' school was not in session young boys were admitted as day pupils. The spring term, under Miss Fleeson's management, was the most successful in the history of the school. It is good to know that Miss Fleeson was spared to see the work successfully begun in the beautiful new building she had planned.

It was not an easy task for one not yet a year in Laos to take up Miss Fleeson's work, even with the constant and efficient help of Miss Wilson. Miss Carothers succeeded admirably and we look with confidence to the future. The enrollment was 104, the receipts for the year Rs. 362. The work of the sewing classes has improved much during the year, and plans for further enlarging the work are made.

An Evening Class for the study of Timothy, conducted by Mr. Gillies, had an attendance of over twenty on moonlight nights, falling to a half dozen during the dark of the moon. Much good resulted from the study.

Muang Pre.—For two years past the primary school has been well conducted by the native church. The idea of Christian education is growing, and even to outsiders church and school are synonymous terms.

Mrs. Crooks has had a class of children in sewing and in music all the year. Mr. Irwin steadily kept the elders and leaders at work through the year upon the life of Christ, and some of them can give a very good connected account of the life and ministry from the birth to the ascension in their own words—no easy task. This training work has been the marked feature of the work in Pre during the entire year.

Chieng Rai.—Mrs. White has had charge of the primary school in the city. Each of the ladies has conducted a school or schools in the out-villages during the touring season, and arrangements were made for schools wholly conducted by the natives in at least three different centres.

Muang Nan.—Two sessions of a little over two months each were held at the Nan day school under the charge of Mr. Park. Industrial work, such as the making of mats, baskets and perhaps chairs for the boys and weaving and sewing for the girls, would be desirable.

Keng-tung.—School work was begun in November, 1904, by Mrs. Dodd. Eight Christian children were brought into her home for lessons, and a term of two months was taught before the Callenders came. Later a building in the market was bought of a Mohammedan trader and fitted for school purposes. A four months' term was taught here and the attendance rose from eight to sixteen. An informal evening school for young men has been kept up since January, and during the rainy season evening prayers have been turned into a training school.

WORK FOR WOMEN.—Touring.—Mrs. Collins adopted a novel and satisfactory way of gaining the co-operation of the natives in her touring work.

It is natural to appreciate what one has to work for. So she offered to go with her three children to visit any villages in the district under Mr. Collins' care that would come and carry her things out. One village sent a boat, two others sent carriers, and Mrs. Collins spent a month in all visiting in eight villages. In the day she visited in the homes of the people and taught classes. Picture roll, baby organ, and talking machine all helped to interest the crowds that surrounded her by day and far into the night. At night, when Mr. Collins could be there, the stereopticon was also used.

Miss Buck and Miss Gilson spent five busy days at Me Dawk Deng and two weeks in June in visiting five villages south of the city of Chieng Mai, going as far as MeAouw, thirty miles to the southwest.

Mrs. Freeman kept up a woman's class each week in three different villages for about four months, and spent a week with the children in one of these villages.

As she had done the year before, Mrs. Briggs spent quite a part of the dry season with the children in different out-villages. One of her tours was to the Christian Musu village. After a visit of some days with them, she brought them down with her almost in a body to attend the Laos Convention in Chieng Rai in April. An unusual amount of the year's touring in all the stations was participated in by the ladies. Undoubtedly this fact had much to do with the success of the year's work.

Chieng Mai Missionary Society has been, as before, under the charge of Mrs. McKean.

It divides its gifts between Home and Foreign Missions. It contributes to the school for the blind in Canton and keeps an evangelist in the home-field most of the year. This year it sent two evangelists to Muang Pai and two at different times to Pang Hang. Mrs. McKean has also a sewing class. This year she has been teaching them to crochet. There was quite an air of excitement as baby shoes took on shape in their hands under Mrs. McKean's directions.

Lakawn Ladies' Aid Society.—One of Miss Fleeson's last services to the church was the organization of a fortnightly meeting for women. Miss Wilson and Miss Carothers have carried it on since Miss Fleeson's death.

After a short devotional service the women sew garments for the needy. An offering is made once a month, in which the missionary women join. Recently they have undertaken to clothe the leper village of sixteen persons on the plain near the city. The women are enthusiastic in their work. When asked why they had not put buttons on the jackets, one of them said, "Oh, they have no fingers and could not button them if we did. So we left them off." Mrs. Hansen has employed two Bible women for several months who daily visit the homes of twenty-four women and teach them to read. This line of work is most promising and it is hoped that it may be continued.

Muang Nan.—A weekly woman's prayer meeting, begun by Mrs. Peoples, was carried on by Mrs. Denman as long as her health permitted her to conduct it. The average attendance was fifteen.

Chieng Rai.—Mrs. Briggs has charge of a flourishing woman's prayer meeting. Each of the three missionary women has also conducted a daily reading class for the women of their compounds and neighborhoods. Many of the women have already learned to read in those classes.

THE MEDICAL WORK.—The ideal is that medical work should be the right arm of the evangelistic work. This ideal has perhaps been more fully realized the past year than before.

Chieng Mai.—In the development along this line the Chieng Mai vaccinating work described in the opening of this report takes high place.

One to two hundred men filled with the joy of a new-found faith, and fulfilling at least two parts of our Lord's commands, healing the sick and preaching the Gospel, are bound to have great power in lifting these people Godward. The witness of so many of their own race and tongue must have a mighty influence on this Laos people.

The purely material side of the work in Chieng Mai continues to grow and absolutely demands the services of a second physician. (Now appointed.) Still more is this true if we consider the evangelistic opportunities opened by the work. At present only slight advantage can be taken of them because of the tremendous pressure of purely professional work upon the physician.

Of the spiritual side Dr. McKean says:

The Christian work in the hospital has consisted chiefly of daily services in the hospital chapel, and conversation with the patients and their friends, and the use of Scriptures and other Christian literature in the wards. Our evening services have been fairly well attended, the average being about twenty-five. We continue the use of the stereopticon as in former years, using it at least once a week or oftener when the wards are especially full.

Lakawn.—The C. T. Van Santvoord Hospital in Lakawn is not only doing much to alleviate pain and suffering, but is also a power in opening the way for Christ and giving it a standing before the people.

When a native, overpowered by physical suffering and bound with the chains of superstition, comes into the wards of our hospital and sees his old customs and ideas entirely disregarded, when instead of having his pains actually increased by the treatment he feels himself actually freed from bodily suffering, he is sure to have thoughts put into his head which will not be forgotten. All the patients are taught the daily Bible lessons and many learn to read. All the assistants in the hospital and dispensary are Christians, two of them elders in the church. So that a Christian influence pervades the place.

Pre.—The medical work at Pre is an illustration of what can be done in discouraging circumstances. Dr. Crooks began his work there without any knowledge of the language. His stock of drugs was small and so old as to be unreliable, and few instruments could be found.

The buildings were so poor and so dilapidated that when it was necessary to take a woman of rank in for treatment, she was housed in a tent on the medical compound rather than in the buildings that usually answered for a hospital.

However, in spite of all these drawbacks, a good work has been done that gives a glimpse of what might be done with a properly equipped plant. The dispensary assistants are all Christians and faithful and earnest teachers of the Gospel. Daily services were held at which all patients attended who were able to move around. Many visitors and passers-by also listened to the proclamation of the Gospel in song and word and prayer.

Nan.—The medical work in Nan has broadened out somewhat along evangelistic lines.

Nan Punya, a dispensary assistant and an elder in the church, has been relieved from the dispensary and has given his time to evangelistic work, not only among the patients, but also in the city. He has made visits also to the Christians in the out-stations. The dispensary gives leaflets which have the Gospel printed on one side and instructions how to use some of the most common medicines on the other.

Considerable medical work is done among the Government officials and soldiers.

Chieng Rai.—The Chieng Rai report says:

The dispensary at Chieng Rai has been, as it should be, devoted to evangelistic work. All the assistants are Christians, and they make it their business to distribute tracts and teach the patients and travelers who come to the dispensary.

Keng-tung.—Since the departure of Dr. Cornell medical work has, of course, been crippled. The people continue to come, however, for medicines and treatment.

It should not be forgotten, in reference to all the medical work in Laos, that the income on the field each year is sufficient not only to meet all running expenses and cost of drugs, instruments, etc., but also to make each year additions to the medical buildings and stock. All of our large and fruitful medical missionary work is now conducted without other expense to the Board than the salaries and travel expenses of the physicians.

PRESS.—The Press has taken no vacation, nor has its manager. Twenty-one men have been kept at work in the cramped quarters, and the quality of their work shows considerable improvement. The Siamese Government still continues to be our chief outside customer, and as before the Press is on a self-supporting basis.

As the table below will show, the amount of job work done is slightly less than that reported last year. The increase of 1,100,000 pages printed over last year is partly in work done for the Bible Society, but mainly in work done for the Mission, 1,515,000 pages as against 300,000 last year. An edition of 3,000 copies of the Laos Hymnal in permanent form and the large call for tracts in the bazaar work in Keng-tung are responsible for a part of this increase. Editions of 1,500 copies each of Luke and of the Pastoral Epistles were printed. As the manuscript of several other Epistles and of Exodus and Ruth in the Old Testament is ready for the press, we are likely to have our hands full the coming year.

¶ Pages printed for the Mission 1905, 1,515,000; 1904, 300,000; pages printed for Bible Society 1905, 232,000; 1904, 205,000; pages printed of job work 1905, 1,860,000; 1904, 2,000,000; totals for 1905, 3,607,000, for 1904, 2,505,000.

SOUTH AMERICA

BRAZIL.

The general conditions in Brazil during the year are well set forth in the following statement from one of the most capable and best informed students of the national life.

The material conditions of the country have improved, as shown by the enhanced value of the paper currency, which rose from an exchange value of about twelve pence to the milreis to eighteen, falling again to seventeen, where it remains firm. This was apparently due to the increase of home manufactures and the consequent falling off of imports, the increased value of rubber and the large quantity of coffee, also to the collection of a part of the customs revenue in gold and in the influx of foreign capital, in the shape of State and municipal loans, enabling the Federal Government, through the Bank of the Republic, to regulate the service of its foreign debt and practically control the rate of exchange. The credit of Brazil in Europe has improved, as shown by the advance in the price of its securities in foreign markets. America, though the largest consumer of her large staples—rubber and coffee—cuts a small figure in the affairs of Brazil. The country undoubtedly progresses and prospers, but it is by sheer force of its great size, the immensity of its natural resources and growth of population, and not from wise government. If we take the census of 1890, the last, which gave Brazil a population of 14,300,000, and calculate an annual increase of  $3\frac{1}{8}$  per cent.—though some claim double this—we should have to-day a population of 22,100,000, which may be, I think, considered a conservative estimate. Emigration is encouraged by several of the State Governments. Sao Paulo keeps agents in Europe and offers free passage out to all agricultural laborers. Greeks, Russians and Poles have come here in large numbers this year, but most of them returned or went south to the Argentine Republic; but Italians, Germans and Austrians and Syrians come to stay, bringing with them considerable capital. It must be noted that this increase in population is confined to the section of the country lying south of the State of Espirito Santo. If there be any increase in the Amazon valley, it is chiefly at the expense of the middle States, where the people are driven out by the periodic droughts. Taken together, there is probably a falling off in the population of the northern and middle States of Brazil.

In political matters the country drifts farther and farther away from a true republic of the American type. Candidates for public office are selected by a committee of "bosses," and as there is usually but one candidate the election becomes a farce, because all the votes, be they few or many, count for the one candidate. The common people are not considered by the politicians. They know little and care less about public affairs. They follow a leader blindly. For them the Government is a mysterious but all-powerful personality. It has been the custom for the Federal President to indicate his successor, but this year there was a revolt among the political bosses and an independent man was chosen. It is said that the leaders feared the President's ultramontane tendencies. There was also a desire to get the office away from S. Paulo. The last three Presidents have been from this State. There will be a convention held to make the nomination, but as a mere matter of show, as the candidate is already chosen by the bosses and there will be only one. The political life of the nation is but a reflex of its religious life.

All that has been said in previous reports concerning the preponderance of Rome in the government of the country has been fully confirmed by the events of the past year. The clever Archbishop, Arcoverde, who is the real power behind the devout President, has just been made a Cardinal, and though Brazil has no State Church, it keeps a representative at the Papal Court, and it is currently reported that the legation will be raised to an embassy. In this State the Bishop recently brought suit in the civil courts against the Government to recover 2,300,000 milreis (at present rate, $766,666), which he claims the Church would have received from lotteries granted under the Empire, but which the State suppressed. The State has just compromised by paying him 200,000 milreis cash, and granting the lotteries that will give the Church the balance of 2,100,000. This money is to be used to build a great cathedral. The influx of monks, friars, priests, nuns and all variety of sisters continues greater than ever. The bare-footed Carmelites are to-day inaugurating their great monastery on the fashionable "Avenida Paulista." In both houses of Congress dignitaries of the Church may be found among the law-makers, in full priestly robes. In one State they elected a priest for Governor. The Pope's attention is clearly towards Brazil. This year he has made Roman Counts of several rich Sao Paulo Catholics. The sad feature of all this is that old liberal republicans who do not believe in Rome and were active in separating Church from State passively acquiesce in this state of affairs as if yielding to some potent, hidden influence.

In looking for the cause of this apparently sudden invasion of Brazil by Rome, under whose undisputed sway she has been for more than three centuries, we must go back more than twenty years; we shall then find it to be the same that led to the sending out of Presbyterian missionaries forty-five years ago. Something more than twenty years ago a learned Dominican monk was sent to Brazil to report on its religious condition. After five or six years of travel he reported that the ignorant masses had retrograded to an almost complete paganism, that the better classes had become indifferent or atheistic, that the priesthood was unspeakably corrupt, and that Brazil demanded immediate and thorough missionary work. The plan now in operation was made then, and the coming in of the Philippine priests and monks and the arrival of the Roman Catholic brotherhoods from France were only incidents, but had no important relation to the real cause. The work had already been started. Rome moved slowly but with great power and thoroughness. She is not hindered by opposition within the ranks, nor bothered about the morals or personal relations of the faithful, so long as they go through the forms and pay up; neither has she annual estimates and deficits to consider. The traditions of centuries, the superstition of the masses, the subservience of politicians and the easy nature of the demands of the people in spiritual matters—all contribute to her success. That the religious life of the people has been lifted to a higher level no one can deny, but, as of old, when Rome has full sway she becomes overbearing and oppressive. Already signs of this are beginning to appear in disturbance of domestic life and in an undercurrent of dissatisfaction with priestly rule. We are bound to hope, pray and work for this second reaction in favor of true liberty and that Brazil may take her place among the great nations of America.

Peace has reigned throughout the land this year. The immensity of the country, the lack of cohesiveness among the widely separated States and the peaceable and peace-loving character of the people all make for peace.

CENTRAL BRAZIL MISSION.

BAHIA: founded 1871; 729 miles northeast of Rio de Janeiro. Missionaries—Rev. W. E. Finley (itinerating in the interior) Miss Williamson, native pastor, Rev. Mattathias Gomez dos Santos.

CACHOEIRA: founded 1873; 45 miles west of Bahia. Missionaries—Rev. H. J. McCall, Mrs. McCall, Rev. W. A. Waddell, D.D. (itinerating in the interior), Mrs. Waddell, Rev. Burr G. Eells and Mrs. Eells, Miss Cory.

SERGIPE: founded 1886; the State north of Bahia. Missionaries—At Aracaju, Miss Belle McPherson; native pastor; Rev. Manoel Machado. At Estancia, Rev. C. E. Bixler, Mrs. Bixler.

VILLA NOVA DA RAINHA: founded 1900; 250 miles north of Bahia. Missionaries—Rev. Pierce Chamberlain, Mrs. Chamberlain.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. Pierce Chamberlain and Mrs. Chamberlain.

The field of the Central Brazil Mission covers the two great States of Bahia and Sergipe and portions of Goyaz and Minas Geraes, with an area of approximately 400,000 square miles and a population of 3,000,000.

The general health of the Mission force has been good during the past year. There have been three reinforcements for the Sao Felix school: Miss Cory, who arrived in February, and Mr. and Mrs. Eells, who came just on the eve of Mission meeting.

For the sixth consecutive year the Mission reports the largest gain and the most encouraging work of its history. New fields are opening in every direction. The older churches are advancing toward self-support. Every year brings the necessity of readjusting the force to meet the rapidly increasing demands of the work. Fortunately this readjustment generally calls for but a slight increase of Mission workers and funds, as the growing native Church constantly assumes new burdens. There is, however, need of completing the $20,000 building fund of the Sao Felix school. The Mission, however, has undertaken to cover its entire field and develop its work along all lines without calling for reinforcements, if its strength be continually maintained at the present number and it be furnished the school plant.

Three students are studying for the ministry. The agitations which have disturbed the churches of Southern Brazil have found but a faint echo in this region. Many pastors from the South are willing to accept calls to these undisturbed churches. There will be no difficulty in securing workers to care for the different congregations as fast as they can give an adequate support, and the desire to enjoy the ministrations of a native pastor inspires even the weak congregations to heroic effort.

In six years the congregations have increased from eight to seventeen, the preaching places from seventeen to seventy-one, and the membership from 279 to 824. The net increase during the year was twenty-five per cent. The resources of the Church have easily quadrupled.

Spiritualism, which six years ago was an aggressive invader and three years ago our most active opponent, is losing ground in every part of the field, and in many places where it was once powerful now exerts little influence. Its after-results are, however, even more deadening and corrupting than those of Romanism.

The Romish revival, so notable in the South, is as yet scarcely felt here. The degradation of the priesthood is so extreme that their influence with the more intelligent classes is very limited. The ignorance which they have fostered among the people and their skill in exciting the ignorant lower classes are their chief elements of power. Trusting in the incapacity of the man who cannot read to keep him from receiving the truth in the printed Word, they strive to excite mob violence to deter the evangelists from visiting the remoter parts of the interior, thus keeping the people from receiving the spoken Word. Fortunately their efforts produce but little effect. The corruption of Romanist decay will, however, continue to poison all the springs of Brazilian life for many generations.

BAHIA.

The only member of the Mission in Bahia during the past year has been Miss Williamson, Dr. Waddell having removed to Cachoeira in January.

The two students for the ministry have continued their studies with Miss Williamson and the Bahia pastor. The women have made two payments of 100 milreis ($35) each on the church debt, and hope to end the year by another payment of the same amount. Three parochial schools have been maintained during the year, and Miss Williamson has had a night class for such of the church members as desired to learn to read.

CACHOEIRA.

The work in Cachoeira compares favorably with any year of its history. Several of the young men are conducting cottage meetings. The church building is practically finished.

The Reconcavo, visited only once, is a thickly populated district, the chief industry of which is the manufacture of sugar and rum. The sugar mills, each with its population of 400 or 500 people, are like small towns. The chief difficulties of the work are Sunday labor and drink with its accompanying evils. Little interest is shown in spiritual things; but if more time could be given there is promise of results.

Mr. McCall writes of the Canavieiras field, which has been under the joint care of himself and Dr. Waddell:

This work has been a joy and a stimulus to us this year. Seventy were added to the Church since January—sixty-six on profession of their faith, four by letter—and when I left there in the early part of November, between thirty and forty were resolved to publicly confess Christ. I have never seen a work just like this in Brazil. One great cause of its rapid progress is the responsibility each new convert feels to call another, and the constant evangelistic trips taken at their own expense, those who cannot go helping those who can. It is impossible to respond to all these calls that come for evangelistic visits.

Some of the best families have accepted the Gospel, and before the end of 1906 it is hoped that a native pastor will be in charge of the church.

SERTAO.

Dr. Waddell reports that the Palmeiras central congregation has grown, but is still held back by lack of a building which has been already begun. A part of this congregation, living from fourteen to twenty-eight miles from Palmeiras, has organized as the Guine congregation. This district is most encouraging. The Varzea district is also showing faithful witness and new life.

The four Lavras towns in a diamond district are an important centre of work because of the moving population which carries the Gospel heard there to distant parts of the interior. Interest is shown in Andaahy. In Lencoes, a family which moved from Palmeiras has begun services and is gathering a group. In Chique three were received and there are others interested. In S. Joao do Paraguassu there is much to cause hope. The school there is reaching many families.

Little could be done in the "regions beyond," because the time which might have been given to this work was spent in a trip to Canal because of Mr. Pierce Chamberlain's absence on a furlough, and to Canavieiras. Both these fields show wonderful progress and interest. As visible results of work in Canal, there are twenty preparing to profess, sixty inquirers, and five points calling for visits.

In the valleys of the S. Francisco and Tocantins, Mr. Finley made extensive evangelistic journeys, preaching at many places where the Gospel had never been heard. These visits have shown that we are responsible for a large territory in Central Goyaz, sparsely settled but exceedingly ready to receive the Gospel. The work has been extended to the borders of that done by the workers from the South; the limits of our own field have been determined and the whole territory explored. Everywhere the people came to the services and seemed to be interested. At one place so persistently did the people attend services that the public school teacher told them they were magnetized. He himself never missed a service. Mr. Finley told them it was true that they were magnetized, but it was by the Truth.

The work in Carinhanha was begun by a Bible sold over fifteen years ago. Five members there are doing good work and the interest is such that shortly there should be many professions. Even the old vicar was undecided and told the people he was not certain which was the true religion.

VILLA NOVA.

Mr. Pierce Chamberlain left his field in April, going home on a six months' furlough. In the four months previous to this time he had received nineteen communicants, ten of them being the first fruits of the work that sprung up at Canal, and seven others from another new district. Dr. Waddell, who visited that part of the field, says that never has he known a missionary so beloved by the people.

ESTANCIA.

In the Estancia Station the work of itinerating has been pushed to a greater extent than ever before.

Mr. Bixler writes:

We have been able this year to realize more fully our idea of the work of the missionary, giving less time to the place of residence so as to reach with the Gospel a larger circle of hearers than is possible in one place. The number of points touched during this year is more than double the number of preaching places at the close of last year. Our efforts were limited during last year to eight places (excluding the visits to the Aracaju-Larangeiras-Lavandeiras field). This year we have increased this number to twenty-two. In thirteen new places the Gospel has been preached, work at two other points has been resumed; but one place visited last year has not been visited this year. At the new points the attendance has generally been good, falling as low a few times as ten to twenty-five, but ranging generally from forty to eighty and reaching in two or three places some 250. Two other points were visited, but public services were not held, as no place could be secured for love or money in which to preach. One of these, Pombal, is about the most fanatical and intolerant I have yet touched. I could scarcely put my head outside the door or window where I was entertained without being hooted and called about all the low names at the command of the rabble. I was nearly always followed through the streets by a crowd of boys who did their best to amuse the inhabitants of the place. A few, perhaps a half dozen families, however, of the better class I think disapproved of the procedure. Strong persecution to public worship was aroused by the priests in two other villages, but the government of the State intervened and opposition has disappeared.

The work in Estancia itself has made fair progress. In Mr.

Bixler's absence the services were continued, three of this year's converts dividing the responsibility. One of these desires to study for the ministry. He first heard the Gospel from a Christian sergeant of police in an interior town, where he was helper of the priest in the Mass. Although abandoned by relatives and often having scarcely enough to eat, he never faltered. He was received into the Church in April, and his growth has been remarkable. He delights in evangelistic work and is especially tactful in the use of the Bible.

ARACAJU.

The church work in Aracaju has been in charge of a native pastor. Aside from the school work Miss McPherson and Dona Jovina have helped in Sabbath-school and evangelistic work. Through the school one family of strong Romanists have become deeply interested in the Gospel and the three sons have all manifested a desire to be Christians. Through their influence others are being interested. Special desire is felt for the conversion of this family, as the father is owner of one of the large lotteries of the city. Bible classes are conducted in different parts of the city.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Dr. Waddell, as Superintendent of Schools, gives as the satisfactory notes of the past year: (1) the large sum furnished by patrons, (2) the number of people desiring the establishment of contract schools, (3) the successful development of the eighth year in the S. Felix school, (4) the good work of almost all the young teachers, (5) the arrival of Miss Cory and Mr. and Mrs. Eells, (6) and above all the wonderful spiritual results at Canal where Dona Damiana has done a work equal to that of any evangelist, the spiritual promise at S. Joao do Paraguassu where Miss Justice sees the "first fruits," and the bright blessing at Riachao, Aracaju and S. Felix.

Because of the number of large girls who desire to study but lack the means, the Waddells have resolved to take a teacher with them to Ponte Nova and have arranged with five young women to take up study on a sort of co-operative plan. Dr. Waddell thus outlines the plan: "The Mission furnishes the teacher, the family furnishes the board of the girls. The girls do all the housework. Any day pupils will lessen the expense to the Mission. The experiment is made with fear and trembling. Nothing like it has ever succeeded in Brazil. Still as there is no mixture of paying boarders or servants with the working students it may succeed. Should it work it will modify our educational plans considerably."

Dr. Waddell says: "The desire of the Mission to build up a nearly self-supporting series of evangelistic schools around a central school is rapidly taking form. It is fitting that the Mission should render thanks to the Master that life and health have been guarded by Him among all our scattered teachers, that He has thrust out into the vineyard such workers as have just come to us, and, above all, that through the Word taught so many have found Him."

SOUTHERN BRAZIL MISSION.

RIO DE JANEIRO: capital of the republic; population 500,000; occupied as a Mission station 1860. Missionaries—Rev. M. A. Menezes, Rev. Jos. A. Granja.

EAST RIO STATON NOVO FRIBURGO: 60 miles east of Rio; occupied as a Mission station in 1891. Missionaries—Rev. J. M. Kyle, D.D., and Mrs. Kyle.

CASTRO: opened as a Mission station 1895. Missionaries—Rev. G. L. Bickerstaph and Mrs. Bickerstaph.

SAO PAULO: 300 miles west-southwest of Rio; capital of the State of the same name; population 125,000; occupied as a Mission station in 1863. Missionaries—H. M. Lane, M.D., Miss M. K. Scott, Rev. M. P. B. Carvalhosa.

CURITYBA: about 300 miles southwest of Sao Paulo; the capital of the State of Parana. Missionaries—Rev. G. A. Landes and Mrs. Landes, Miss Ella Kuhl, Miss Mary P. Dascomb, Miss E. R. Lenington.

FLORIANAPOLIS: Missionaries—Rev. R. F. Lenington and Mrs. Lenington, Rev. J. B. Kolb and Mrs. Kolb.

RIO.

Dr. Kyle writes:

The year has been very fruitful in visible results. I have received fifty-six persons on profession of faith and baptized a large number of children. In Sumidouro, which I have visited every month this year, except when absent from the field, there are now more than thirty members and a church will probably be organized there during the coming year. In the entire East Rio field more than 130 were received, raising the membership to about 800.

PARANA.

Mr. Landes writes:

In February I began an eight weeks' trip, going far to the west and south, visiting many groups of believers. I traveled about 700 miles on horseback, sold about sixty dollars' worth of books, received into the Church twenty-nine persons, and baptized thirty-three children. Several of the officers of a military colony spoke well of our Christians who before were drunken, good-for-nothing fellows. We lament that most of our church members in the interior have no training in any industry or work. They live off the soil, but know nothing about proper farming. The majority live in huts, and have little or nothing planted—no garden and no fruit trees worth mentioning. Until we have an Industrial School to teach the young believers the use of the plow and harrow we cannot expect to build up self-supporting churches in this State, even in places where we have a hundred or more members. They earn little or nothing to better their own condition and hence can do very little to help in church matters. They waste in idleness about two-thirds of their time, and the other third is badly used for lack of training.

In May and June I made another trip. The widely scattered membership of Guarapuava have nearly finished their church building and it may soon be dedicated. Thirty-three persons professed their faith and thirty-nine children were baptized up to date. The church of Curityba suffered from the unnecessary withdrawal of the Independents, but we have some fifty names on the list.

Of the Girls' School at Curityba, Miss Kuhl reports:

The American School began its thirteenth year January 16, 1905, and closed December 1. During the year 203 pupils were matriculated and eleven pupils came for English and German. This list is larger than usual, but the average attendance has been the usual 150, as many parents have left Curityba to find employment. Some pupils who began study in January are on our western frontier, others in Rio de Janeiro, S. Paulo, Bahia, Montevideo and Madagascar. The work of the year, with this exception, has been very satisfactory. The Primary School is one of the happiest places in Curityba. Some of the mothers say that the children rise at six and beg to go to school. Many come at half-past seven and are present at the morning study hour. Most of them come without breakfast. They take a cup of coffee and a piece of black bread before leaving home, and then wait till noon when their breakfast is sent to them. The children are bright. It is interesting to hear many-syllabled Portuguese words roll out smoothly from childish lips. Lessons in numbers are so varied that the children work with enthusiasm and make rapid progress.

They are taught hymns and charming kindergarten songs in English, French and German as well as Portuguese. Many of the children of our first pupils are entering the Primary. One little boy who had had the promise of attending his mother's school in 1906 thought he could not wait and was allowed to enter the last month of 1905. Early every morning he came to the Secondary room and occupied his mother's old seat, and waited for his beloved Primary teacher, who has in Curityba the fame of a Hans Christian Andersen for telling tales. The Intermediate classes occupy three rooms. Many German families send their children to us to learn Portuguese. Most of these are Protestant. The girls continue the sewing and the boys the drawing begun in the Primary. Miss Lenington, who had the advanced Intermediate, left us in May for her vacation. Her work was taken up by Miss Isabel Withers, a young English lady who had passed the eight years' course in our school and had taught a year in Florianapolis. The Secondary Department in the examinations showed a better average than usual. English is becoming more and more popular. Scott, Longfellow and Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare are studies in the higher grades. Some of our pupils take difficult English and read at sight in correct Portuguese. Our boys are enthusiastic for football. In the eight classes of the school the Bible is diligently taught. A Junior Endeavor Society has been organized. There are forty members. Many children also come as visitors. Some who never had the Bible at home are reading it now and leading the meetings.

Mr. Bickerstaph continued the work at Castro, although Mrs. Bickerstaph was obliged to return to America for a serious surgical operation. The Seventh Day Adventists and Spiritualists caused not a little trouble by their divisive work.

There was published at Mission expense in one of the dailies of Curitiba a translation of Bushnell's "Character of Jesus," afterwards distributing 1,000 copies in tract form.

On August 17 I started on an extended trip up the country, visiting seven or eight out-stations and five new points. I have since made two trips to Tibagy and down both banks of the river, besides visiting several of the out-stations for the second or third time this year. In all I have traveled over 1,600 miles, admitted four on profession of faith and baptized twenty children.

The little congregation at Castro is at the present moment rather discouraged. The defection of one of the elders, who went over to the Independents at the beginning of the year, seemed to stimulate the church at the time; but the return of the other elder, who has been living at a distance for some years, has had a depressing effect. He boasts of having been the first in the State to accept the Gospel, and for many years he was an active worker in the Church. He was always careless in financial matters, and now that he is old and broken in health he is deeply and increasingly in debt. He seems to think the Church under obligation to remunerate him.

SANTA CATHARINA.

The Rev. Lino da Costa worked with Mr. Kolb in this field; Mr. Lenington and his family being in the United States on furlough. Mr. Kolb reports:

Never before were the representatives of the Church of Rome so numerous or so active. This very activity is producing a good effect on many, especially upon those who have the future best interests of their communities and their country at heart. During the year I have visited, with more or less frequency, ten different localities, have directed 127 services, received ten persons on profession of faith and baptized fourteen children.

Jordao and Tijuquinhas.—These two points have been visited five times during the year. The brethren at the Jordao have been much blessed, materially and spiritually. Their number has been increased by four professions of faith and twelve baptisms. Their chapel, accommodating about 100 persons, is now ceiled and painted and will soon be entirely free from debt. They meet regularly for worship on the Sabbath and do the best they can for themselves in the reading of the Scriptures, singing the Gospel hymns and prayer.

I spent Christmas with these brethren. We had a grand "festa," more than 300 persons present. Very many of these had never attended one of our gatherings. One stranger, "armed to the teeth," when he perceived the orderly and pleasurable nature of the occasion, and that liquor and gambling did not figure in the entertainment, gave his pistols to the host to keep until he should go away, saying, "I do not need these here."

The day school closed with an attendance of fifty-four children.

SAO PAULO.

The great educational work here, founded by the Board, is now carried on under the independent Board of Trustees of the MacKenzie College. Its relations to the work of the Missions in Brazil, however, warrant some report here. In his annual report to the Trustees, Dr. Lane writes:

Sixteen years have passed since permission was given by our General Assembly to found in S. Paulo an undenominational Christian College, and though regular college work had been done in connection with the Mission school for some time prior to this, we count only fifteen years as the age of the college. The American School (Eschola Americana), founded by the Presbyterian Mission in 1870, has just completed its thirty-fifth year. The writer of this has completed twenty years of service in college and school. These several periods of time have no special significance beyond the awakening of memories. It would be well if some one could find time to write a complete history of this educational work—the direct outgrowth of the Presbyterian Evangelical Mission, of which it claims to be a part even now in its main purpose—before all of those who have grown old in it shall be called away. Many have already gone. It would be too long for the limited space of an annual report. It would make a book of itself. I doubt if any educational work under the Presbyterian Board of Missions has a longer record or one more visibly blessed of God. Its students, especially the young women it has educated, have raised the standard of living among this people and have drawn them nearer to Christ in thought and life. It cheers us to see in our present classes large numbers of the children of former pupils of the school. During my time no less than 9,685 pupils and students of both sexes have passed through school and college, of whom 2,195 day scholars and 315 boarders were educated gratuitously.

During the past year we have had an enrollment of 678 of both sexes and all ages, averaging from five to twenty-five. In the college proper there was a falling off of twenty-two students from last year's enrollment, which we can easily account for. We demanded more work than had been done in previous years and stricter entrance examinations, and six of our students left to study in the United States, several were obliged to go to work, and two were expelled. In the preparatory school, however, the enrollment was the largest on record, as will be seen by the report of the Principal of day school. In the Botucatu school there was also a slight falling off in the second term, easily explained, as will be seen in the report of that school. We have not been able to open other schools in the interior for want of American teachers of experience. Our young Normal graduates are able to do the teaching, but need someone to take the general direction. This is the most important duty that confronts us to-day; not only a plain duty to the native Protestant churches, whose members are without schools for their children, but to the college also. We cannot bring these Protestant boys and girls, many of them poor, to S. Paulo for preparatory studies, or to determine which of them are proper material to train for preachers or teachers. The selections now made are rather on the ground of their needs than their fitness. Already Botucatu has sent us two full pay students. Without these interior schools as feeders we shall have an up-hill fight, the outcome of which is somewhat doubtful.

The State Government continues very friendly to us. The President of the State and several members of his Cabinet have children in school or college. Last year the President's son went from MacKenzie to Cornell. The opposition of the Roman Catholic Church is intensified. The large, new daily paper occasionally favors us with a savage attack which does us no harm; it is the only advertisement we have, as we only enter the papers once a year with an open letter to parents. These attacks define our position better than we could do it ourselves.

MISSIONS IN CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA.

CHILI MISSION.

SANTIAGO: capital of Chili; population about 250,000, connected by rail with Valparaiso, 187 kilometers distant. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Lester, Jr., D.D., and Mrs. Lester, Rev. W. B. Boomer and Mrs. Boomer, Rev. W. E. Browning, Ph.D., and Mrs. Browning, Rev. F. Diez and Mrs. Diez, Mr. E. F. Kraus, local evangelist; four American teachers in the English Institute and eight other teachers. One out-station, San Fernando, Rev. A. Moran; one sub-station.

VALPARAISO: the principal port of Chili; population about 125,000. Missionaries—Rev. C. M. Spining and Mrs. Spining, Miss F. E. Smith, one American lady teacher, Miss Beattie, and five other teachers in the school. One out-station, Vina del Mar, F. Figueroa.

COPIAPO: capital of the Province of Atacama; population about 8000. Missionaries—Rev. J. F. Garvin and Mrs. Garvin; E. Reyss, helper; three out-stations and many other groups. Out-stations: Tocopilla, L. Gonzalez; Taltal, A. E. Suarez; Chanaral, M. Herrera.

TALCA: capital of the Province of Talca, south of Santiago 250 kilometres by rail; population about 45,000. Missionaries—Rev. J. S. Smith and Mrs. Smith; M. Marti, local evangelist; one native teacher. Out-stations: Chillan, V. Olivares; Concepcion, Rev. T. Moran and Mrs. Moran; Traiguén, J. de D. Leiton, and three other sub-stations.

SANTIAGO STATION.

The field embraced in the Santiago Station includes the provinces of Santiago, O'Higgins, Colchaugua, and Curico; the latter was transferred by an arrangement made this year from the Talca Station. Work is carried on in only one center in each of these provinces, namely in Santiago, Rancagua, San Fernando and Curico, with occasional visits made to Morza, a small place near the City of Curico. Rancagua was re-entered in July after an interruption of the work for about half a year. Curico was reoccupied by our Mission after having been abandoned by Presbyterians and Methodists for some years.

The year has been one of unrest and ferment in social, political and religious matters, as well as in our own proper sphere of labor. The presidential election has been a very disturbing element in politics; the fluctuating exchange, the rise in prices of staple commodities, the spirit of insubordination among the lower classes, which manifested itself so terribly in October, the large amount of speculation, and the monster meetings held by the ex-priest, Julio, have all contributed to disturb society. And in our own work we have had a spirit of apathy and indifference contrasted with a spirit of revival, a spirit of opposition to the Mission and of disunion confronted by a movement toward combination if not of union, counter attractions of unusual power contrasted with great fidelity on the part of a considerable number, some sad falls and defections set over against a large number who have professed faith in the Crucified. The year has been a trying one to all of the ministers of this station and yet there has been real advance.

The two churches, Trinity and the Church of the Redeemer, have been the centers of the evangelistic work of the year. It has been carried on mainly however in two chapels and in cottage meetings. Of the work in Trinity Church, Mr. Diez writes:

In the middle of the year there was an awakening that lasted some weeks with meetings well attended and edifying and that were prolonged till eleven o'clock and in which there were reconciliations, consecrations to God, and beautiful testimonies. Everything seemed to foretell days of prosperity for our church, but the whole thing was only a flash from the Spirit of God, which was agreeable to us all, but which we did not know how to take advantage of. While we recognize the good we have received from God we must also recognize that we are still the victims of sensuality and pride. Those who are to-day become friends, to-morrow are enemies for the veriest trifle. This pride is furnishing us at every step bitter surprises.

One night on returning from a meeting, it must have been about eleven o'clock, I took pity on a squad of street-pavers who were working in front of my house and had to keep at work all night. I came up to them and commenced a friendly conversation not at all like a sermon. It was my purpose to encourage them and give them some counsels. What I got was a lot of insults and threats to put an end to my existence with blows from an iron bar, because I did not have a hundred dollars to hand over to them. I went away confounded in the presence of such brutality which furnished me with one more sad specimen of what is our honorable and manly people as the leaders like Julio and the demagogues now so abundant call them. The strained relations between the social classes is to day in Chili more pronounced than ever. Let Santiago be deserted by its garrison of troops only one day, and woe to her.

Of the work in the Church of the Redeemer and of the field generally, Mr. Boomer writes:

Among the first questions discussed by the leaders of the church was its organized work. The session was unanimous in desiring to have no societies organized which have been such a bane to evangelical churches in Chili in so many instances, and proceeded to organize its work by committees of church members. One and another have been added as the need and circumstances have called for them. The church was also divided into groups or sections, each under the care of an elder.

Mr. Krauss has done a considerable part of the pastoral work, and he is universally respected, and his influence has been salutary.

A retrospect of one year in the life of this, the youngest church in the Presbytery, shows a growth in almost every direction; most of the meetings have increased in attendance, the life of the members physically, mentally, and spiritually has developed, and notwithstanding some sad lapses there is much reason for encouragement. The church has been very active as an evangelising agency, the prayer made at the beginning of the year that God would grant to double its numbers has in one sense—that of members and candidates—been more than answered. The field is very populous and now it appears more necessary than before that the work is ready to receive the additional help which would be afforded by a larger and more appropriate building.

In connection with the work of the Church of the Redeemer in Santiago and the two chapels, Jotabeche and Riquelme, Messrs. Boomer and Krauss and the members of this church have conducted about 600 meetings in Santiago with a total attendance of not far from 25,000. Without the complete data at hand, it is safe to say that besides the eighty or ninety meetings already counted in which the workers of Trinity church have co-operated with the others, they have conducted nearly 350 meetings more, separately, more nearly 1,000 meetings, and in points outside of the capital 300 or 400 more meetings, a grand total of some 1,300, not counting those held in the English Institute.

Thirty-three have been received into communion; perhaps two or three times that number have been converted. Over 100 on probation for church membership.

Sunday-school membership 144 in Church of the Redeemer during the year, 200 in Trinity Church, fifty in other two Sunday-schools in Santiago, and thirty or forty in San Fernando, about 450.

The field contains near 1,000,000 inhabitants, Santiago not far from 400,000, Curico 11,000, San Fernando 8,000, Rancagua 7,000. Other large towns unoccupied, are San Bernardo with 5,000, Rengo with 4,000, Melepillá with 3,000, and other towns and villages in number nearly 200 of less size, besides many living along the country roads, but accessible.

Riquelme chapel is in the midst of a vast center of poor people. Its situation is not the best to get hold of this section of the city, and the room is very small, and the furnishings poor. Deacon Martinez, afterwards elected elder of the Church of the Redeemer, lives with his family in a room back of the chapel. He is a gasfitter, and an ignorant man and formerly a hard sinner. But the grace of God has worked a great change in his character, and he is ardently devoted to the salvation of his countrymen. He has had the almost sole responsibility of the Monday night meetings, and with others has shared in the evangelistic work in different places on Thursdays, besides attending to the pastoral work of a little flock that have found the mean little room in Requelme a Bethel. Three and sometimes four times a week he crosses the city, over twenty-five blocks, to attend his church. For three months with the help of Alcarraz, an elder in the same church, he carried on a Sunday-school, but the ex-priest, Julio's monster meetings and other circumstances broke it up. Later he started a Sunday afternoon prayer meeting. The average attendance of these Sunday meetings was twenty-one, and the night meetings thirty-six and thirty-one. More candidates for church membership from the chapel work have come from this group than any other, and it is largely due to the prayers, testimonies, and personal work of this uneducated mechanic than to any other human agent. There were more than fifteen of them.

The latter part of the year a poor little house with one large room was rented on Avenue Leon, in the northeastern outskirts of the city near the Catholic cemetery. It is surrounded by a vicious population, that has vented its wrath and found its pleasure in hurling stones on the iron roof during meetings notwithstanding the presence of the police who have once or twice fired their revolvers.

Dr. Lester has continued to act as pastor of the Union Church to which fourteen new members have been added during the year. It is his desire to identify this English church more closely with Spanish work during the coming year.

El Herald.—The Herald is one of the most efficient agencies of sowing the seed the Mission possesses. It reaches a circle of 5,000 readers. Many letters received during the year show that it is a spiritual power.

Instituto Ingles.—The school year of the Instituto Ingles began on March 8th and closed on December 21st, with a banquet to the graduating class and the delivery of the diplomas to the graduates by the United States Minister to Chili, the Hon. John Hicks.

The attendance for the year has been two hundred and ninety-four, an increase of twenty-three over the matriculation of last year, which, up to that time, had been the largest in the history of the school.

Our students, as in former years, have come from the upper middle and from the so-called "alta sociedad" of Chile, with a liberal sprinkling of foreigners. With a few exceptions, who did not remain long in the institution, we have had as fine a class of students as could be found in the republic; the conduct and general application have been all that could be expected, and the final examinations showed that good work had been done in all departments.

The number of students from our neighboring republic, Bolivia, has increased; nineteen of the boarders during the year came from that country for the purpose of entering the "Instituto Ingles." In general, these young men have been very satisfactory students, although very much behind in their studies; their conduct is good and they seem to be more easily influenced, for good or bad, than the Chileans. The desire expressed last year by many of the Bolivian fathers for the establishment of an "Instituto Ingles" in La Paz, the capital of Bolivia, has been repeated many times during the year and with insistence. Every facility is promised and we lack but the men to go. And the entrance of higher education would prove, we believe, the surest way of opening that exceedingly conservative republic to a more direct and distinct propaganda of the Gosnel. The government is liberal and is seeking the best in matters educational, without regard to church affiliations; the establishment of a good evangelical school would mean much in the way of attracting the people to evangelical ideas.

Parents all over Chile recognize the value of the moral and religious atmosphere of the school and are taking their sons out of other schools that give an equal education, only that they may be trained by us and taught to have a proper appreciation of their moral and religious duties.

In the morning chapel exercises a complete survey of the Bible has been given.

Not a few families in Santiago, who would never buy a Bible openly or from an agent, have sent to ask for one through the son. Many Bibles have gone to Bolivia during the past year and have thus entered the best homes of that republic where it is exceedingly difficult to sell even good books and where the Bible is practically prohibited. A few years ago the ladies of Cochabamba, Bolivia, almost burned a colporteur who was selling Bibles in that very fanatical city; this year at least a half dozen of those same families have received the Bible from their sons who are students in the Instituto Ingles. And those same sons have had a thorough course in Bible study, have attended all our services and in some cases many of the services of the church.

THE CHURCH.

The financial showing has been satisfactory. The envelope system for contributions which was already in use has been systematically carried out under Miss Smith's direction. The church has received sufficient funds to meet all its obligations, closed the year with no debts unpaid and a small cash balance on hand. No contributions were solicited nor received from commercial houses, contrary to the custom of former years. Over $1,800 (Chilean currency) were raised and paid for pastor's salary, charitable objects and the general expenses of the church and Sunday-schools. Next year it is proposed to pay $100 per month instead of $80 toward Mr. Figueroa's salary. The sale of the old church building, San Augustine Street, which was the cradle of Protestantism in Chile and we may say the whole West Coast, was greatly regretted on account of its historic associations, yet even the oldest members accepted the move to the store-room in Serrano Street as wise, especially when it meant a step toward better permanent quarters.

The attendance at prayer meeting and evening service has shown a most gratifying increase, even while the smallpox prevailed, the room was generally filled, at times to overflowing. There were thirty-one additions to the church during the year, twenty-four by profession of faith and seven by letter. Another radical change was the disbanding of the Christian Endeavor Society. Doubtless it had rendered excellent service in the past, but had so absorbed the working elements of the church that the church organization was left weak and ineffective. New church officers were elected making the number six deacons and six elders. Then the church was so reorganized as to retain the desirable elements of the Christian Endeavor and continue its work, but under the direction of the church.

The Sunday-school shows some decrease in attendance. The enrollment is 267, and the average attendance, including the months of rain and smallpox was 155. We have thirteen teachers and a teachers' meeting has been held on Saturday evening led by Mrs. Spining. The Women's League (Liga de Senoras) has held meetings once a month for about half the year, Miss Smith or Mrs. Spining translating a chapter on the training of children which was read while the women sewed.

Smallpox played havoc with all organized work in Valpar-also during the year. It is estimated that 15,000 people died of the pestilence. Miss Fulton writes:

Ambulances and hearses were as commonly seen in the street as street cars. At one time the demand for funeral-cars was so great that the dead had to be removed on moving cars, which were pressed into service. Frequently we could count from four to seven corpses in a single vehicle.

Escuela Popular.—Miss Fulton writes:

During the months of May and June we lost from the enrollment over two-thirds of our numbers, or had a drop in the attendance from 226 down to below ninety.

We did not close the school as no other schools in the city were closed and the pupils were actually less exposed than they would have been in their own homes, as no quarantine laws were in force during the time in which the pestilence raged.

The smallpox cases were cared for in the great majority of cases in their own homes where to an almost incredible extent no attempt was made to isolate the sick.

The city possessed a smallpox pest house which could accommodate about two hundred and about ninety percent of the cases taken there proved fatal. For weeks the number of cases of smallpox ran from three to five thousand. The municipality did not take any measures for checking the disease, until it was far beyond control; others could not. There were a great many families, whose children we had in the school visited by the fearful disease and a number of cases proved fatal. Finally toward the end of July, one case appeared in the school, that of our janitor's child and we had to close and care for him there. The case was a bad one and after five weeks we opened classes again. about 200 and about ninety per cent. of the cases taken there year we could not hope to recover anything like the number we should have desired to have, or that we would have had, had not the unfortunate visitation upon our city taken place.

The close of the school year finds us with about 150 pupils.

Miss Fulton's engagement having expired, she returned to the United States and Miss Nettie Beattie of Kansas went out to take her place.

COPIAPO STATION.

Mr. Garvin writes:

The field: Copiapo as center, with Caldera as port, and inland towns, Puquios, Tierra Amarilla, Pabellon, Loros, and San Antonio. Of these we have had work in Caldera, and in mines near Tierra Amarilla and Puquios.

Chanaral, port, and two mining centers in the interior.

Taltal, port, with seven saltpeter establishments interior.

Tocopilla, port, with eight saltpeter establishments in the interior.

Work attempted: Regular services (preaching and Sunday-school on Sunday and two devotional meetings during the week) in the four centers; and monthly visits to so many of other points as time and strength of workers will permit.

Opportunities and Encouragements: The opportunities are many on every hand. There is little or no opposition. We are well received by the managers of mines and saltpetre works, who recognize the good intentions of our efforts even when not wholly successful. Were our workers of a higher grade of intelligence they would be better received. Many of the people are glad to hear the Gospel and read our books and papers. Men and women are converted, some of them from lives of vice to right-living; others of sober-living are drawn to us because of the pure teaching of the Gospel.

Difficulties and discouragements: These might be passed over unmentioned were it not for providing against their evil effects. We need not be discouraged by the difficulties if we recognize them in advance and allow for them. The constant changes in the congregations of the north must be reckoned with. Within two years more than half the congregation of the Copiapo Church has removed from the city. Especially in the mines and saltpetre districts is this shifting spirit manifest. The only way to meet it is by getting in new people. The ignorance of the people is another difficulty to be met by such educative influences as we can give them. The caste spirit prevents the educated classes from associating with the lower classes in the brotherly co-operations called for by our church ideals. So we get only the common people.

TALCA STATION.

Talca Station includes the territory from the city of Curico to the north of Talca, to and including the province of Traiguén. This extension of over 350 miles is along the central railroad of Chile which is now being extended both to the north and south of the country. In this territory there are numerous large centers of population, among the most important of which are Curico, Molina, Talca (45,000), Constitución, San Javier, Linares, Parral, San Carlos, Chillan, Concepcion, Bulnes, Cauqueues and Traiguén. We have church buildings in Talca and Concepcion. In these there are church organizations and also in Linares, Chillan, Parral, and Traiguén. In the latter places the meetings are held in rented halls or in the homes of some of those who are interested.

Mr. Smith writes:

There have been thirteen additions to the church all but one of which were on confession of faith, and there are some twelve or fifteen now awaiting the opportunity of admission to the Table of the Lord. During the past year the Catholics have been far from idle, and think they will eventually drive us out of Talca. They have their chapel full most of the time, and preach against us vehemently and then if it happens that we have a service on the same night quite a number often come over to see why it is that their instructors are preaching against us. We thank the Lord for their mentioning us, though not very politely, and do our best to explain to those who come the meaning of the things that we are preaching. This is the work of one of the eighteen Catholic Churches there are in Talca.

About the middle of the year, we decided to divide the church up in small groups for the more systematic visitation of the members, and thus gave work to several of those who were desirous of helping. One night in the week they hold a meeting in the house of one of the members of the group and have a prayer meeting with the study of some passages of the Bible. In this way, they learn to lead and the newer ones who oftentimes fear to say anything in the church where there are so many to hear will say a word or give a testimony in a small meeting. As a result of these meetings we have been able to see the fruits in the attendance of several families which had not before heard the Gospel preached. Thus we have a practical school for the preacher and a means of reaching new people at one and the same time.

In the spring, we opened up a new preaching point on the East side of the railroad, and now for a little over two months we have been holding meetings every Thursday night. At this meeting usually one of the elders of the church takes the leading part and then several others will speak.

When we come to the report of the Concepcion Church there is reason for real joy as the church is now in a better condition than at any other time since we have had the oversight of it. It seems that there were at the beginning of the year, quite a number of the members who thought they had been wronged by the act of some other member and these had brought a coldness into the church which was a great hindrance to the work that it was desired to accomplish. So the beginning of the good work was to remove those sore spots from the body of the church and so make it possible to do the task. From the time that this was accomplished, there was such an increase in the attendance, due, we led to think, from the real desire of all to serve, that it was thought necessary to enlarge the building which is on our property in front of the theatre, and to obtain another room more commodious in the street Las Rosas, near the station of the Coronel Rail Road. This latter place of meeting was in a room a little distance from a corner in which was a liquor saloon, but with the beginning of the services in that part the owner was interested and finally converted and as a sure sign of his change of life he closed his saloon and offered it to the church as a place in which to preach the Gospel, and the sign was changed from 'Despacho' to 'Sala Eванjelica' in letters almost two feet high. From the time the change was made which was the first of September, the room, which will accommodate from 120 to 150 people, has been full most every time of service. In fact the principal work of the Concepcion Church has been devoted to that region as it is the center of the artisan class and are not so difficult to reach when the work is in their midst. At the same time as a result from this growth in the outlying district, it was found necessary to enlarge the central church and for this $200 were asked from the Mission and in September this also was accomplished. At the time of our visit to the field, the principal meeting in this church was one of over 200 persons. There has been formed a band of young Christians in this church which are preaching the Gospel on their own account. About fifteen go every Sunday to some of the stations on the railroad between Concepcion and San Rosendo, and have been able to see that the work has accomplished something as one has offered his house for the meetings and there has been a great interest aroused among the workmen in a large saw mill. These same are the ones that do the great part of the visiting in the city and are untiring in their efforts to bring new ones and to look up the old ones that do not attend with sufficient punctuality. There are on an average about eleven different services per week in this church, and two Sunday-schools are continually maintained. In all we can say that the work in the city of Concepcion is going on very well and that souls are being saved.

COLOMBIA MISSION.

BOGOTA: the capital of the country; situated on a plateau about 8,600 feet above sea level and four degrees north latitude; climate cool; population estimated at 120,000; occupied as a Mission Station 1856. Missionaries—Rev. T. H. Candor and Mrs. Candor, Rev. Roy W. Walker and Mrs. Walker, and Miss Mary L. Freeman.

BARRANQUILLA (Bar-ran-keel-ya): near the sea on the Magdalena river; 12 degrees north latitude; climate warm; population 50,000; occupied as a Mission Station 1888. Missionaries—Rev. W. S. Lee and Mrs. Lee, Miss M. L. Hastings, Miss Jessie Scott, and Rev. M. W. Graham and Mrs. Graham.

MEDELLIN: capital of the Department of Antioquia; situated in a river valley about 4,000 feet above sea level; climate temperate; population estimated at 50,000; occupied as a Mission Station in 1889. Missionaries—Rev. J. G. Touzeau and Mrs. Touzeau, Rev. W. C. Mecker and Mrs. Mecker.

CARACAS, VENEZUELA: capital; population, 75,000; occupied tentatively 1897. Missionaries—Rev. T. S. Pond and Mrs. Pond.

BOGOTA STATION.

The year has passed without many remarkable changes. While the general conditions have not been favorable for prosperity and progress, there have been no unusually discouraging circumstances. The Station force has been changed by the transfer of Miss Jessie Scott to Bananguella and by the unpleasant discovery that Mrs. Walker could not stand the high altitude of Bogota. To the deep regret of all, they have now been forced to return to the United States, so that the Station is again reduced to one family and one single woman.

There have been no political complications that have especially concerned the work of the Station. In fact, the strife that resulted in a civil war of some three years' duration seemed at one time to have almost entirely disappeared, and the year might almost have been called one of reconstruction. But along toward its close a fresh evidence of the slumbering restlessness was given in the discovery of a plot to dispossess the President of his power, if not to assassinate him, to overthrow the Government by force and to establish a de facto authority to direct the public affairs of the country. This shows that the reconstruction is not complete yet; that the revolutionary fires are not completely quenched and might burst forth in a fierce flame that would destroy everything in its way; and that the evil effects of civil strife are difficult to remove. Industries of all classes are only slowly recovering from the general prostration that resulted from the war, and as a consequence business of all kinds has been very dull.

This general depression has affected the work of the Station in all its lines. In the school work expenses have been greater than ever before, and the people complain that they find it difficult to pay tuition fees and even more so to pay the expenses of boarding pupils. In the church work a large number of members or attendants have removed from the city or from the country to other parts where they have believed they could make a living easier than in Bogotá, and others complain that they cannot afford to dress in such a way that they can attend the services. These general difficulties are natural results of the state of the country and cannot be removed by anything that the Station can propose or do. On the other hand, the work has continued with some favorable results, as will appear in the report of the church and the schools.

CHURCH WORK.—The regular work of the church has been conducted along the lines of such work in churches of our order at home. With some exceptions, the regular services have been observed on the Sabbath and on Wednesday evenings. A special class for men has met on Monday evenings, and the women and girls have kept up a Christian Endeavor or Young People's Society. These have been conducted in Spanish, with an occasional service in English.

While the attendance of members and adherents has not been all that could have been desired on account of the inconveniences that have been noted, yet the services have been sustained and at times a considerable interest has been shown, both by these and also by others who have no direct connection with the congregation.

Four communion services have been held, and at each one we have had the pleasure of receiving one or more new communicants, so that there was added to the roll during the year twelve new names and we hope that these are also written in the Lamb's Book of Life.

This work encounters some special difficulties in developing natives of the country into Christian workers, owing to the general belief on their part that under the laws of the country there is no protection granted to those who engage in the work of propagating a dissident form of worship. This fear may be without any just foundation, but in order to know exactly where they stand one of these consulted a prominent lawyer and received in substance the following reply:

“The Constitution permits the exercise of all forms of worship that are not contrary to Christian morals or to the laws, but this permission is granted to individuals who already profess a dissident form of worship and does not in itself grant the privilege of propagating that form. The laws do not protect a dissident worship when it takes the form of a propagandism of its peculiar principles, because the spirit of the laws is essentially that of Catholicism, and as the diversity of worship is an evil according to the conscience of Catholics, they cannot grant protection to an attempt to propagate an evil."

This defines the position in which our people feel that they are placed, and it does have a tendency to prevent them from actively engaging in efforts to extend the Gospel among the people.

Evangelistic work in the smaller cities and in the villages has not been attempted to any considerable extent during the year, owing in part to the fact that we have no native of the country who will attempt to do this class of work, for reasons above indicated; in part to the fact that the newer missionaries are not yet able to conduct services in Spanish, and also because traveling expenses are very high, and the appropriations given to this Station are so small that with our school work and necessary expenses in Bogota funds could not be set apart this year for this purpose. We hope that some remedy may be found for this. There is a special need for some work of this kind and we ought to be able to meet it in some way.

It is true that the people do not know their need of the Gospel; that the greater part consider our form as inferior to theirs; and that others profess to be rationalists or agnostics and entirely reject the idea of a revealed religion. Yet there is an open field and a very needy one in Bogota and its neighborhood. We ask the support and the prayers of all who are interested in an effort to evangelize Colombia.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Girls' Boarding School.—This school, under Mrs. Candor and Miss Freeman, enrolled during the year 160 pupils. These were distributed in four departments; one of which was a kindergarten under Miss Freeman, who has proved a very efficient helper.

She has trained a native helper who will be able to carry on that work alone this year. She taught three classes in English, planned and cut out more than thirty-five dresses for the calisthenic class, spent much time and energy in drilling the class, taught the infant class in the Sabbath-school, visited and talked with parents and invited them to the services. Before she had been here a year she gave a most excellent talk in Spanish. She made herself the constant companion of our boarding pupils. They felt free to go to her at any time, to have a hat trimmed or a dress cut out, or to ask for a remedy. She was usually surrounded by a merry group who kept her practicing Spanish for their amusement and her benefit. Sunday afternoons and at other times she had earnest talks with the girls about spiritual matters and came to know their characters and their beliefs thoroughly. How far that influence will reach no one can tell. At the close of the year she had the joy of seeing two for whom she had worked specially unite with our church.

Religious instructions were given in all departments of the school. It was a delight to listen to the Bible verses and Catechism recited by the kindergarteners. The primary class gave a lengthy exhibition of their teacher's efforts on closing day, reciting Psalms in chorus and choice Bible verses. The Child's Catechism was thoroughly taught and another begun. Hymns were memorized, which they loved to sing. A Scriptural Catechism was taught in the Intermediate, and the Shorter Catechism and regular Bible lessons, covering the Acts and the Epistle to the Romans, gave many opportunities to deliver a Gospel message to the Superior department. Our Christian Endeavor meetings were well attended by the pupils; sometimes there was not comfortable seating room.

As the school was larger than ever before, the problem of inviting all the parents to midyear examinations had to be met. We had no room in the school large enough, and we concluded to try something new; that is give an entertainment in the church, which would comfortably seat pupils and parents, and perhaps overcome the prejudice many feel against that spot. A program was prepared, consisting of music, recitations, and magic lantern views of the most important events in our Saviour's life, with a sermonette interspersed. What had been undertaken with considerable anxiety, knowing the deep prejudice against our church, resulted much more favorably than we had dare hope. The church was crowded to overflowing, and after the exercises parents pressed forward to express their great pleasure, and we felt that God had blessed this effort to bring Colombians into His house.

During the school year eight of the girls united with the church and two others were applicants, while several more joined the class for private instruction in spiritual things.

The Boys' School.—This school is in charge of Mr. Walker. The Primary department had an enrollment of eighteen, with an average attendance of eleven. The class in religion recited every morning. The teachers of the Primary department were two young ladies, members of our church. The Intermediate department had an enrollment of thirty-three, with an average attendance of twenty-three. This class in religion studied the "Life of Christ" and read the New Testament in connection with it. The Superior department had an average attendance of six for the first three months, when we were compelled to close this department for want of funds.

The Boarding department was kept open all year, and had at one time eleven full boarders and seven who took their noonday meal at the college.

The only objection that the parents made was that a guard had not been provided to watch the boys while at play and to sleep in the room with them at night. In all of the boys' colleges in the city there are guards, some having from four to six. We do not expect to employ a guard this year unless the tuitions increase very much.

Mrs. Walker has taught singing to all the students and has had a private class in English and music. But the condition of her health has prevented her doing much more than the management of the Boarding department.

During a part of the year, Mr. Walker had thirteen business men, divided into five classes, meeting two nights per week for the study of English. Four of the college students applied for membership in the church.

The following four conditions are the hindrances to a large attendance. First: the fact that the school is Protestant. Second: the Bible courses are compulsory. Third: the financial condition of the country makes teachers' salaries high and the tuitions low. We cannot get trained and experienced men to teach for $40 per month when they can get $60 or $70 per month in office work. Fourth: the competition of the free public schools of the city and the many private Catholic schools must necessarily affect our school.

The reasons for the existence of the school are three. First: there are many Catholics who want their children to learn something useful as well as the Catechism of their Church. Second: there are a few Protestants who have children of a school age. They could not, if they so desired, attend a Catholic school because of the persecution. Third: the boys who are in this school hear Christian teaching and morality and decency defended. They see the Christian life lived every day. While they do not conform gladly to such teaching and living, yet the impressions which they receive here cannot help but affect their lives. We feel that some will be encouraged to live an honest, moral and ambitious life, and some to live the Christian life.

BARRANQUILLA STATION.

To the deep regret of the Mission and the Board, Mrs. E. H. Ladd and Miss Martha Hunter resigned and in April, 1905, left for the home-land. Mrs. Ladd had been connected with the Station since 1883 and Miss Hunter since 1892. Both were greatly beloved and are sorely missed. Health conditions will prevent the return of Mrs. Ladd, but we hope that Miss Hunter will ere long be able to resume her place.

CHURCH AND EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The usual church and Sunday-school have been held regularly throughout the year. The preaching for the most part was done by the native preacher, Sr. Alejandro Gonzalez. The bi-monthly communion services have been conducted by Mr. Lee, who preached at such times and also whenever the Sr. Gonzalez was unable to do so. The attendance was not very good and showed the lack of a pastor who could spend more time in the supervision of the work and in pastoral care of the little flock. In consequence there was much rejoicing when the news came that the Rev. Malbone W. Graham, formerly of the Bogota Station, but who was then in the home-land, had been reappointed to the Colombia Mission and was to be sent to this Station. Mr. and Mrs. Graham, with their large experience and their splendid knowledge of the language, are a most valuable addition to our circle, and we have high hopes for the advance of the church and evangelistic work under their care and leadership.

An inquirers' class of four men has been under Mr. Graham's instruction since December 1. The interest they take in the study of the Bible, and their appreciation of the new avenues of thought thus opened up to them, are encouraging. A choir has been organized under Mrs. Graham's direction and increased enthusiasm in the musical part of the service is manifest. The attendance at the evening services is considerably greater, averaging about sixty. The Wednesday evening prayer meeting and the Sabbath-school have also witnessed a slight increase in numbers.

The Christmas Eve service, for which special music had been prepared and the room adorned with flowers and Bible pictures, was a great success. The room could not hold all the 150 persons who attended. The church members are taking new courage. A congregational meeting has been called for the election of elders; those chosen will be Colombians, whereas the original elders were Americans. The Station has assigned Sr. Alejandro Gonzales chiefly to the evangelistic work under Mr. Graham's supervision. Plans are on foot for improving the organization and work of the Sabbath-school, for the establishment of cottage prayer meetings, and for the preparation of much needed literature. It is not possible at present to undertake visits to the neighboring towns, but pastoral care of the members and gradual development of the work in the city will be the main object of effort. We long for and expect an outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the church and the city.

During the past year only two members have been added to the church roll. They were pupils in the girls' school, and were previously taught by Miss Hunter in the usual inquirers' class.

For about two months a Sunday-school was conducted by Mr. Lee, assisted by Miss Hastings, in the home of one of the deacons of the church; but it had to be discontinued because of the removal of the family to another house which needs considerable repairs before the Sunday-school can go on.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Throughout the year, from time to time, Sunday afternoon cottage meetings have been held by Miss Hastings, assisted by the young ladies of the church. These have been well attended and much interest and gratitude were shown by the women and girls in attendance, many of them probably never before having had any opportunity to hear God's Word.

Miss Hastings, too, has made many visits among the women of the congregation, as well as upon many whose homes had perhaps never before been visited by a Protestant missionary. During these visits she read portions from the Gospels and sometimes from tracts and leaflets, large numbers of which she distributed. For a time Miss Scott conducted a woman's prayer meeting early on Sunday morning, organizing it for those who could not come to the morning services which close during the heat of the day. Miss Scott also is teaching an inquirer's class of one young woman who expresses a great desire to know more about our religion and to prepare herself for church membership.

Miss Hastings has continued the Sunday afternoon Bible class for the Jamaican colored people who are mostly servants.

This class was originally organized for the women, but it has been equally well attended by the men. The class has been studying Matthew and the Psalms. The average attendance was seven. It was evident that the class was much appreciated by these people, and that they were very grateful for the effort being put forth for them. It was good to hear them singing the Gospel hymns lustily, showing their keen enjoyment of them.

! EDUCATIONAL.—Girls' Boarding School.—The year began with Miss Hunter and Mrs. Ladd in charge, but as they returned to the United States in April, Miss Jessie Scott was transferred from Bogota in March to take charge of the school in Mrs. Ladd's place.

The year had been a very hard and trying one in many ways. Owing to the financial depression from which the whole country is suffering, the school has not been able to keep up its record for self-support, many of the children dropping out because of their inability to pay the tuition fee, and many of those remaining did so without paying, so that the sum collected was not sufficient to pay the teacher's salaries and it was necessary to use some of the Board's money for this purpose. During the year there were ninety-two registered, five of whom were little boys. Two of the girls in school this year were received into the church, but they are children of Protestant parents, a fact which shows that the cause of Christ in Colombia is advancing, as so far we have very few names on our roll of the children of our members. Another girl in the inquirers' class now conducted by Miss Scott was for several years a pupil in the girls' school, and while there as a pupil she gained her desire to know more of the Bible, and noted that the missionaries led lives very different from those of any of her friends. She says that it is her desire to live uprightly, and just as Christ would have her live.

Boys' Boarding School.—This school, like the other, has had a hard struggle for existence during the past year. The registration was only eighty, partly because of the opening of a new Liberal school for boys which proved a formidable rival, such as the Roman Catholic schools never are, and partly because of the inability of many in attendance to pay the tuition fee.

Early in the year it was found that the income was not great enough to pay the teachers' salaries and that something must be done to increase the income, or the school must be closed. As this school was pledged to self-support at its organization, it was not deemed wise to ask the Board for a special appropriation, and the Station reluctantly consented to Mr. Lee's proposal that he give night classes in English to young business men, and use the money earned in that way to eke out the income of the school. In this way the school was successfully carried on to the end of the year, though the attendance was the smallest in the history of the school.

So far, none of the pupils of the school have united with the church, a fact which is very discouraging, though several have asked for an inquirers' class and have received some instruction, but through force of circumstances were obliged to leave the city before the course was finished. Much interest has been displayed in the daily Bible classes of the school, and a class of boys in the Sunday-school is composed entirely of the pupils of our boys' school, and some of these same boys frequently attend the evening services of the church. It seems as though the time of harvest cannot be far distant.

MEDELLIN STATION.

The report is necessarily fragmentary, as the only members of the Station, Mr. and Mrs. Touzeau, were absent most of the year on furlough. In May, 1905, however, they returned to the field, and to their great joy they were joined by the long desired additional family, the Rev. and Mrs. William C. Meeker. As Mr. Meeker already had some knowledge of Spanish, he was able to help in the work at once. He writes:

Considering its isolation, Medellin is a very up-to-date city, good water supply, city well lighted by electricity, a fine market of fruits and vegetables, city all paved with stone and clean and policemen on every corner. There is a crying demand for acquiring the English language here. In the words of one of the residents, "It is the language of the future." Taking advantage of their appetite, I have started several classes for English, in which we use the English Bible for purposes of translation and learning pronunciation. In this way I am touching quite a number of very intelligent young men, many members of the State University here and others even attending the Jesuit College, besides young men who are clerks and bookkeepers in banks and houses of commerce.

There are many encouraging indications in this place. The State of Antioquia, of which Medellin is capital, has the reputation of turning out the strongest and most forceful men of Colombia. Here is the place to influence Colombia's future statesmen, presidents, diplomats, etc. The Mission House is very well adapted to chapel and the school work, and we have an average attendance of forty or fifty at services. Some young business men are talking of uniting with the church now. Pray for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Touzeau were warmly welcomed by the people among whom they had so long labored. He reports:

The regular services were begun immediately on our arrival and have been kept up without intermission to this date. I have distributed the city with tracts, putting out 1,000 and also sending a number by mail. The visible result has been the issuing of a circular by a Bishop, forbidding under pain of excommunication the receiving or reading of the tracts, and denouncing the contents of them as perverse of the true doctrine and dangerous to the souls of the faithful.

In addition to the evangelistic work in the city, Mr. Touzeau made an interesting tour. The journey was through a part of the country untouched before; but a small portion of the Department of Antioquia remains unreached by an itinerating journey. I traveled about 300 miles, up and down mountains, in hot and cold climates in the same day, sleeping one night at about 1,000 feet above sea-level, the next at 5,000 to 6,000. The accommodations were as varied. Once I slept in the same room with ten or more other people; the grunTERS or snorers inside scarcely distinguishable from the grunters and bleaters outside. But I was able to put out quite a goodly quantity of literature, both by gift and sales. Often the zealous ones would telegraph ahead of me, so that on arriving in a town the people were so prejudiced that they would neither buy nor take a tract gratis; but on the roads between the towns the people would buy or receive gratis and read before some one tried to prejudice their minds against the matter contained in the book. The financial condition of the country prevents the sale of anything except the very cheapest books. Quite a number of Gospels found a ready sale because of their cheapness and attractive appearance. I crossed the Cauca river twice and passed over many roads washed into hollows and ridges, so that one wondered how it would be possible to get through, but the mules are used to that sort of thing and one seldom has to dismount. One night the woman of the house came into my room with all the young people of the place and talked with me for quite a while; a lodger also asked many questions about our religion, but would not buy the Bible I tried to sell him, although he bought some other books.

Mrs. Touzeau promptly resumed her school. She does all she can to make it self-supporting, but the poverty of the people and the opposition of the priests make entire self-support difficult.

CARACAS STATION.

After nine years of hard work, the necessary furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Pond, the only members of the Station force, left the little native church to itself. It was a severe test and it was nobly met. Mr. Pond gratefully records recovery from a severe illness and surgical operation, but he adds:

That which gives us strongest consolation is the fact that the members of our little church, with perfect regularity and constancy, have carried on the public services and the Sunday-school, so that only once has a service been omitted, and this only because of the violence of a tropical rainstorm which confined all in their houses. New families, as well as individuals, appear from time to time as interested listeners at the public services and Sunday-school, so that not only have the audiences held their own, but have increased in number of permanent adherents.

Our people's faith was put to a severe test when they had to bid us "good-by," for the long months of our proposed absence. But their ever hopeful response to our letters of pastoral care and affection has kept unbroken the best of bonds, and has kept us informed of their spiritual state and activities, as well as of their reasonable appreciation of the work done among them and for them all these past years. They have evidently grown in grace, as they have grown in the experience of what it is to stand alone in the midst of a gainsaying and perverse generation. All this, too, has taken place in the midst of deep poverty in most cases, and with revolution imminent, as well as disquieting rumors of blockade and international conflict—all of which things are not friendly to spiritual peace. Several have suffered petty persecution. But, on the other hand, some hitherto thoughtless persons have begun to read the Bible. Of these, a young man who seemed to be the farthest removed from things spiritual is now taking time to study the Bible.

The constant study of the Word has borne good fruit among the members of the society and the congregation. Their faith has been abundantly proven during our absence of nine months. There are frequent expressions of Christian experience and devotion in the many letters from the people, which have the true ring of those who have stood the test in the furnace of poverty and suffering almost hopeless, and in the midst of ceaseless persecution and opposition from those of their own household. It is very evident that Christ is developing true heroes and heroines of the faith in the Spanish-American and Roman countries. Already they furnish many an example of the power of the Gospel to change the life.

The usual contributions for the expense of the chapel have been made by the C. E. Society, and the good influence of this society has penetrated the hearts and homes of those who have been bereaved of loved ones.

Mr. Pond justly asks for larger sympathy and support in the effort to give the words of life and peace to those in Venezuela who have suffered from ninety-five "revolutions" within eighty-one years, who have not one "little red school-house" and never have had a single edifice built expressly for the education of the people, and who have bowed their backs under such burdens of war and extortion as we can but faintly realize.

North America has greatly prospered in many ways, but she has committed one great sin of omission. There is to-day one broad, deep stain on her church life—nay! is it not on her soul?—the stain and sin of allowing her twin-sister, South America, to be called "the neglected continent." It is a name of shame, but the shame is on the North American Church. Shall we who so glibly assume the validity of the Monroe Doctrine in our political and commercial relations with South America, have so little of the glorious imperialism of Jesus our Master and King? Our forefathers gave direction to the moral, social and national life of the northern continent. Can we not see and seize the God-given opportunity to give direction to the swift-coming life of millions who even now, with one speech and one language, are entering in to possess the mighty inheritance, a continent without a desert and teeming with wealth, which is already drawing to itself the nations of the earth?

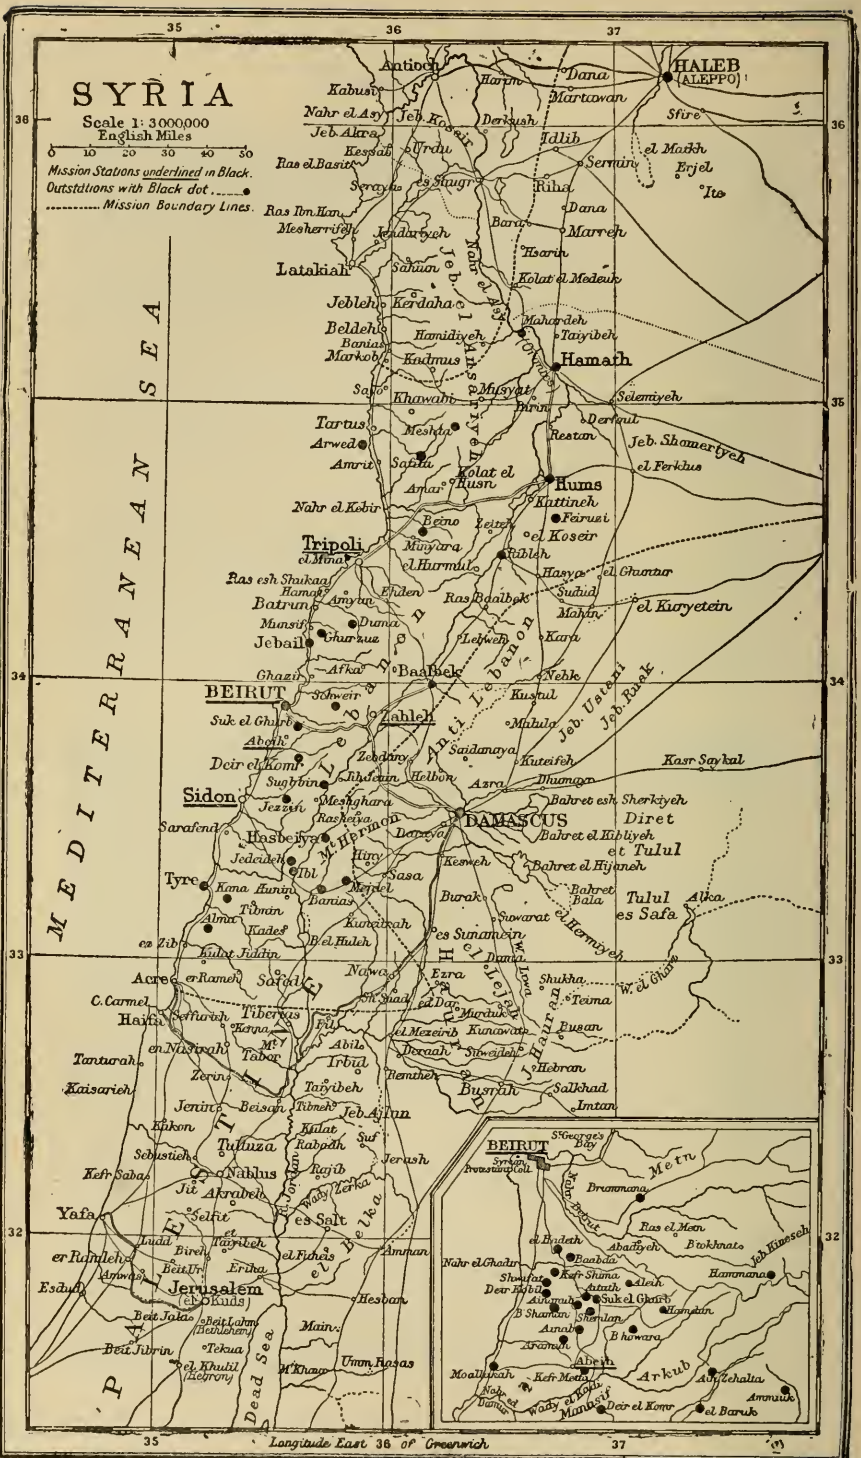

The great Presbyterian Church has just one ordained missionary and his wife in the State of Venezuela, which is about to become one of the utmost importance in South America

Dr. Hoskins gives the following eloquently suggestive bird's-eye view of the Mission history and work.

The Syria Mission began its life eighty-five years ago with a few lonely workers, no native constituency and absolutely no income from any native sources. During the first fifteen years Protestantism was an illicit and illegal form of Christianity and the Americans themselves were subjected to many forms of persecution and indignity at the hands of Oriental ecclesiastics and Turkish officials.

A second period from 1840 to 1860 was one of internecine strife and massacre. Yet during this period Protestantism was recognized by the Sultan; the first Protestant Syrian Evangelical church was organized; two boarding schools were founded, one of which grew into the Syrian Protestant College and the other into our Girls' School; the new translation of the Bible into Arabic was begun; but up to the year 1860 there was still almost no native community and almost no native contributions of any kind. There was very little to show for the toil of forty years.

Between 1860 and 1880 the light began to dawn. The Lebanon Government came into being; the translation of the Bible was completed (1865); the same year saw the formal opening of the Syrian Protestant College; the cornerstone of the Main Building was laid; Dod river water was introduced into Beirut, and all Syria felt the impulses of the new life.

The real growth of the Mission work has taken place during the past quarter of a century. The great Presbyterian Church in the United States of America has rarely spent more than $60,000 in one year on its Syria Mission, and for ten years this sum has been wearing back towards $50,000. Perhaps it would be fair to reckon $55,000 per year as the average. Now what does this represent in religious and philanthropic enterprise at this present time?

For every American dollar spent the native communities now contribute half a dollar, so that the total passing through our treasury is not less than $75,000 yearly. And what does this sustain?

In the front rank, because they are the direct representatives of the Church at home, are forty living missionaries, of whom twenty-five are women and fifteen are men. They live in eight well-populated centres where they keep open not less than twenty-two Christian homes, where they live clean lives and identify themselves with every enterprise that works for the elevation of the human race. They come not for a few months, or a year, but to settle down for life among the people whom they wish to benefit. These Christian homes and the Mission church become a "settlement" in the best possible meaning of that word.

Back of these forty American workers stand more than 200 native workers, men and women, who occupy more than 100 centres where they in turn keep open Christian homes, preach the Gospel to the poor, visit tens of thousands in times of sickness, of sorrow, of joy and in their best efforts still further scatter the blessings of Christian homes, the glad tidings of the Gospel and minister to the spiritual needs of their fellow-men.

Along with these 240 workers who sustain direct relations with the Mission are more than 2,500 Protestant church members who have been gathered out of circumstances that, to say the least of them, would never have produced active living Christians, but who are now bound openly to the better, higher form of Christianity represented by Protestant Missions.

Back again of these 2,500 communicants are more than 6,300 school children who are getting their training and impressions for life within the walls of our Mission schools. More than 5,500 hear the Gospel every Sunday in our services. More than 6,000 attend our Sunday-schools and more than 7,500 are enrolled as adherents to Protestantism. None of these figures, nor the total of them, would include the whole circle of the Mission influence.

Add if you can the still wider influences of the 59,000,000 pages of the Bible and religious literature, the product of the Press in this present year

How many human enterprises, hospitals, colleges, churches, that expend a like sum yearly—$55,000—can place within sight and touch so many tangible results? A modern church with American pastors and 225 assistant workers, over 2,500 communicants, with a Sabbath attendance of 5,500 to 6,000 in its Sabbath-schools, 6,300 in a system of day-schools, and a printing establishment distributing Bibles and religious literature to millions of Arabic-speaking people would be a curiosity, if not an impossibility. Protestant Missions are the real Cathedrals of Protestant Christianity.

BEIRUT STATION.

Personal.—The year 1905 has been for Beirut Station a full year of work and blessing.

All the members have been at their posts. The Station has peculiar causes for thanksgiving along many lines touching the lives of the various members, whose connection with the Mission ranges from three to sixty-three years.

The Rev. Dr. H. H. Jessup, February 7, 1906, celebrated the golden anniversary of his connection with the Mission. Fifty years of superb service to Syria and the cause of Missions throughout the Christian world! We bless God for his health preserved, his sight undimmed, his prophetic imagination and his loving heart overflowing with the pleasing recollections of half a century's intercourse with his fellow-men. The Church at home justly honored this distinguished missionary when in 1879 the General Assembly elected him Moderator. The golden anniversary was signalized by a remarkable expression of esteem and affection by both foreigners and natives in Syria, as well as by many messages from the homeland.

Fifteen years ago, in April, 1890, Mrs. Van Dyck participated in the golden jubilee of Dr. C. V. A. Van Dyck. Since then she has added fifteen years to her term of connection with the Syria Mission, making sixty-five years in all of loving service in her own home and in the hearts of all who know her.

Theological Seminary.—After an interval of eleven years this work has again been brought into the city, and Mr. March has been called from Tripoli to aid in this important training of native preachers. Seven students are now in attendance.

The students are housed temporarily in what remains of one of the Misk houses in the new compound, with the hope that before many years we shall have a new building designed more especially for this work of theological training. We have everything that can be desired in the new location, immediately adjoining the Central Church and Sunday-school, contiguous to our Press and School for Girls. Experience and careful observation will soon make clear what the next step must be in developing this important branch of Mission work, which has hardly received the attention it merits during the past ten years.

American School for Girls, formerly known as the Beirut Female Seminary, has had a highly successful year and fully justifies the modest and conservative movements towards enlarged facilities in buildings and surroundings. Fifty-seven boarders and sixty-seven day pupils were enrolled.

Twenty-five of the latter were Jews, with a good sprinkling of Moslems. One of the classes was led by a little Moslem girl whose father, a native physician, proudly claims to be the first Moslem graduate of the college. Five countries are represented in the pupils—Syria, Egypt, Morocco, Cyprus and England.

Fees for tuition and board have been raised to fifteen liras French ($60) and a corresponding increase in the charge for day pupils. It is pleasant to report that there has been no increased difficulty in collecting this.

It is a notable fact that every piastre of foreign money now spent in this school attracts another piastre from native sources; in other words, one-half of all the running expenses of the school, exclusive of the salaries of the American professors, is now provided for by the income from native sources. A few needed improvements would soon have the effect of further altering the balance on the side of self-support. The open secret in the whole matter is that Syrians of all classes give us more of their money and more of their children in order that we may carry on our educational work along American evangelical lines.

The teachers report an increased interest in all Bible classes and greater generosity in Christian giving. In addition to Church and Sunday-school collections, the girls raised 637½ piastres for Foreign Missions, which they sent to the Board in New York; also a sum of 600 piastres for Home Missions, which they spent in Syria. Three of the oldest pupils entered the communion of the Church at the close of the school year.

Beirut Church.—The church has passed through a year of quiet work under the pastor, Rev. Assad er-Rasy. Much work has been done in connection with a Committee of Lebanon Presbytery toward rectifying the church records of membership. One hundred and sixty-nine members are actually present in Beirut and 158 absent in other lands, making a total of 327. The admissions on examination during the year were seventeen.

The Second Church parted with its native pastor in September, 1904, and appealed to the First Church and Mission to aid it in finding a preacher. Muallim Yakub Faris came from the Sidon Station for a period of nine months and served the congregation acceptably. While here he did all in his power to improve the already pleasant relations of the two churches. An attempt at a formal reunion did not succeed, but did certainly bring all parties nearer to each other. During the year all their pastoral needs have been supplied by the Mission and the native pastor of the First Church. All the admissions to church membership have been to the First Church. We hope that before another year this chapter of church history will have a pleasant ending and Beirut Church speedily reach something like self-support.

Lebanon Presbytery.—The Presbytery met in Beirut Church, May 2-5, with a full attendance of preachers and elders. Along with the routine business two important actions were taken:

One was to assume financial responsibility along the same lines as the Tripoli and Sidon Presbyteries, thus laying upon the churches the necessity of raising a certain sum to supplement the sum given by the Board, and upon the Presbytery greater responsibilities in spending the same in the prosecution of the whole work. The second action was a Committee charged with the organization of two new churches, the one at Deir el-Komr and the other at Jedeitha. The new Finance Committee and the Committee to organize the churches met in Deir el-Komr, August 11, and after transacting other Presbytery business organized the Deir el-Komr Church, August 13, with forty-six members, and the Jedeitha Church, August 14, with seventeen members, marking we trust a new epoch in the history and life of Lebanon Presbytery.

Sunday-school.—The Sunday-school has had a successful year with an average of seventeen classes and an enrollment of nearly 200. The average attendance has been 170. The school contributed to various objects 1,534 piastres.

The annual gathering of all the Protestant Sunday-schools in the city took place June 25, and more than 300 children gathered to sing and to receive prizes for good attendance. This always proves to be one of the most beautiful sights of the year and one of the most enjoyable occasions

Woman's Work.—This includes woman's work in the Helping Hand, the Christian Endeavor, the Sunday-school, the Mother's Meeting, all the interests that centre in the various homes, and the acts of mercy toward the poor and the suffering.

Those who share in such labors will readily clothe the bare facts and figures with visions of the sorrow, the sin and the suffering touched and relieved by these messengers of love and of mercy. The sight presented at the annual distribution of a native society connected with the Second Church is one that would melt a heart of stone. It is a gathering of the abjects from a single neighborhood which ordinarily shows very little of poverty and suffering, and is a pitiful revelation of the need of woman's work very close to all our doors.

Helping Hand.—Mrs. H. H. Jessup reports that the Helping Hand has continued its meetings with slight interruptions.

When its resources were exhausted, the Sunday-school came to the rescue with a liberal gift which enabled it to resume all its activities. During the summer the members of the Society made various articles for a sale which was held in the court of Dr. Jessup's house, November 22, and which netted about 700 piastres ($25). Active members, 17; honorary, 522; number of people helped, irrespective of nationality or creed, 71; garments made and given away, 101; gift in money to Chinese blind girl in Canton, one English pound.

Mrs. Hoskins has kept up the meetings for women in the eastern quarter of the city; has visited and held meetings in the private hospital of a Syrian physician where almost all the patients are Metwalis; has read and prayed with the girls of our own school, those of the B. S. M., Miss Taylor's and the Jewish school and has made over twenty public addresses during the year.

The constantly widening circle of friends and acquaintances among all classes of the rich and the poor in the city, the doors opened into obscure homes by means of the various societies and the medical work, offering opportunities for counsel, comfort and testimony, constitute an increasingly important side of woman's work for all the ladies of the station.

Christian Endeavor.—It was feared that with the passing away of so many of the charter members of the society that this year would be a crucial one. But other active members have come in to take their places and the year has been a prosperous one. Miss Horne has, at the request of the society, started a Junior Y. P. S. C. E. that has been a means of gathering in many of the boys and girls from Protestant homes, giving them help and instruction in Christian life and service at an age when such impressions will sink deep into their hearts.

Medical.—Dr. Mary Eddy reports concerning medical and evangelical work at Junieh, that clinics were held from September to June without interruption, and with no diminution of patients coming from this darker portion of Syria. Many of the women of the higher classes have found their way to her home and claim assistance from her. Emigration, railroad building, and shipping interests have brought patients of eight other nationalities to her doors.

Evangelical work among the patients and friends of the vicinity was done by a Sunday service, the Bible woman and visits to homes and villages. The colporteur made extensive journeys along the sea coast and up into the Lebanon villages, while tracts and religious literature were distributed through a dozen channels. Several visits were made to adjoining Maronite villages, with one long tour in the tents, assisted at various points by the native helpers and members of the Mission.

Increasing good will of the Maronite people, criticism and hostility disarmed, a Sunday service, a Sunday-school and a call for a good day school, with hundreds of grateful patients, are some of the visible results.

Dr. Johnston's Visit.—October 24 the Mission adopted a minute expressing appreciation of the value of the Rev. Dr.

Howard Johnston's tour among the Stations and churches. There are many evidences of the lasting influences exerted by his words and presence.

¶ The Press.—The record of the Press for 1905 is one that calls for the most devout thanksgiving. Mr. Freyer's report is an inspiration. We have surpassed far and away all previous records in every department of the work. We have printed, bound, sold and distributed more Scriptures and religious literature than in any year of Mission history.

For more than ten years the average number of pages printed has been somewhere near 30,000,000. In 1904 it was 34,577,543, but this year the figures have been pushed up to the magnificent total of 59,013,949 pages, being almost 24½ million pages more than the best previous record. To reach this result with but slightly improved facilities speaks volumes for the faithfulness and perseverance of the employees.

But what is greater than these figures is the fact that the Word of God has in every department the pre-eminence. 47,275,000 of these pages were Holy Scriptures, or more than 80 per cent. of all the output. This is fully 5 per cent. more than was ever shown by the smaller figures of the humbler years of the past.

In the Binding Department the records give 98,500 volumes, as compared with 70,104 in 1904.

In the Shipping Department the record of 1904 was about 75,000 volumes, but the record of 1905, more than 148,000 volumes, will almost double that. What a contrast there is in comparing this with the modest beginnings in 1865 when only 2,000 Bibles were printed, and in the following year when only 2,000 New Testaments and 4,000 Gospels were issued, the sale and distribution of them extending into many years!

Then the year is a banner year for another reason. The total issues of the Press have now passed the million mark, being in fact 1,076,578 volumes (819,000,000 pages) of the Word of God.

Contrast this and the year's output with the slow and painful efforts of the Apostle Paul, coasting along this Syrian shore in stormy weather, prisoner in a crowded corn ship, on his way to a Roman prison, and all the while toiling to produce a few MS. copies of his matchless epistles for the seven churches in Asia Minor! More than a million volumes in forty years for the redemption of the human race! The man or preacher sent may perchance misrepresent the Gospel of salvation, but the Book never! Perhaps by and by we will understand better the meaning of the Kingdom of God.

And just here, as a Mission, we congratulate the American Bible Society, and beg for it a much larger place in the prayers and gifts of the great Presbyterian Church than has been accorded to it in these crippled years of the passing decade. Its greatest work is yet to be done in the vast field of the world.

A new printing machine has come freely and easily to fill a real need in our plant. A new thirty-two horse-power oil engine has been given by Mr. Marcellus Hartley Dodge, of New York. It is a serious question at this time if we are not called upon to make larger plans than ever for an enlarged and better printing establishment, for wise heads in Egypt say they can see no reason why the present demand for Bibles will not go on increasing at about the same ratio. If so we will not be able to meet the demands in 1910.

The Mission would record its thanks to the Children's Special Service Mission of London for another 600,000 Picture Leaflets, representing 2,400,000 pages of bright helpful literature; to the Religious Tract Society for its many grants and continued aid to the Neshera; to the Bible Lands Mission Aid Society for its annual gifts and its specially proffered aid when we needed a new printing machine. The Mission would like to remind all these agencies that their gifts are shared by all the societies laboring in Palestine and Syria, and that they reach every class of people dwelling in the Empire.

The Mission would also heartily congratulate the British and Foreign Bible Society on the greatly augmented orders for Scriptures they are sending in since the Jubilee.

The Neshera.—The enlargement of the Neshera from eight to sixteen pages, with an increase in the price of subscription, has more than doubled the income, coming closer to the actual cost of production, and the number of paid subscriptions is larger than ever. In April of this year it was 485, and on December 1 it was 501. As a pulpit, there is none with so large an audience; as a teacher, there is none with so large a class.

Property.—The Misk purchase, made possible by a gift of Mr. Elliot F. Shepard, nineteen years ago, was not completed until April 4, 1905, more than three months after the purchase was made by simple contract.

The way was then open for the carrying out of plans long thought of, which included the freeing our church property of certain serious nuisances, the building of the Shepard Manse for the native pastor's use, a new entrance for the girls' school, and the making accessible for mission purposes and residences the two properties known as the Kikano and Pharaoun houses. These plans involved a large amount of oversight and work to be crowded into one summer; but at the end of exactly seven months we can report them as substantially accomplished, together with a number of repairs and improvements not contemplated in the beginning. Those who have wrestled with stone and mortar in Syria will read between these lines and understand that much toil has been expended in the undertaking.

LEBANON STATION.

With the exception of Mrs. Hardin's departure for America, August 12, there has been no change in the missionary force during the year. To the joy of all, Miss Bird has so far recovered as to be able to go about her work as usual.

Last winter was pretty severe so that roads in the mountains were blocked with snow for days at a time, making touring especially difficult and sometimes impracticable. However, the difference was made up by increased activity during the good weather which prevails for the greater part of the year. The summers are never too warm to prevent missionaries from descending into the deep valleys and climbing the heights of Lebanon, as they go from village to village, examining schools, holding religious services and especially the Lord's Supper in no less than thirty-six different places.

In the various departments of religious and school work ninety-one Syrians were employed. There are nine organized churches, two more than last year. Deir el Kamar was set off from Ain Zehalteh Church, starting out stronger than the parent organization. Jechtha was set off from the Zahleh Church, with fair prospects of growth. On both these occasions the services were entered into by the people with much interest, and give good grounds for encouragement in the growth of the Syrian Church. The ordination of elders and the administration of the Lord's Supper at both places were sacred moments, touching the hearts of all into renewed hope and consecration.

These nine churches, after a careful revision of the roll, report a membership of 691 communicants. Thirty-six were added on confession of faith, with thirty-eight baptisms and 2,158 adherents. In the thirty-four Sunday-schools there was an attendance of 2,308, showing considerable increase. The total of church contributions was $608, also an advance on previous years.

This year the churches made a special collection for the purchase of Bibles to be distributed where they are needed. This is a Syrian project and worthy of warm commendation.

Lebanon Presbytery has taken two important financial steps. One is the appointment of a committee to consider the matter of a sustentation fund for disabled preachers. The other was the acceptance of a plan for the cooperation of the Presbytery and the Mission in stationing preachers, fixing their salaries and apportioning certain amounts to the various churches as their quota to be paid into the treasury of the Presbytery to help in the support of the preachers. By this action the three Presbyteries work along the same lines toward self-support and self-government. The Presbytery voted to lay upon the churches certain sums, to be raised according to the ability of each church, for the support of the pastors and preachers, and took up the general oversight of the evangelistic work of the field in a spirit that was very inspiring and prophetic of growth.

October 24 three Syrian preachers were ordained as evangelists. These tried and competent men have been raised up to share with the three missionaries of Lebanon Station the many responsibilities of ordained men in that field.

After forty-eight years of faithful service Rev. Interba Jerawan resigned the active work of the pastorate and retired to the little village of Bitullun, where he keeps up the Sunday services and weekly prayer meeting.

On the 1st of January the New Year was begun in Zahleh with a well-attended sunrise meeting of the Christian Endeavor Societies in the church. The keynote was evangelistic effort for the year. The next day the two missionary families received 150 callers. After the week of prayer the communion was held and nine united with the church.

On alternate Wednesday evenings the Syrian preacher of the Zahleh Church has expounded in course the Gospel of John. His remarks are excellent. The Zahleh sewing society held nineteen meetings, with an average attendance of thirty-five. Ninety-four different people attended. Ninety-eight garments were made and distributed and $28 were collected. The Zahleh Women's C. E. Society held thirty-three meetings and helped send a poor child to the Prussian Orphanage at Beirut, paying $16. The men's society held regular meetings during the year. At the annual Sunday-school celebration forty-five prizes for nearly perfect attendance were given.

At Khirbeh a revival has occurred, owing to the blessing of God upon the work of Rev. Mikhail Ibratum, who has gone there to preach twice a week. Six were admitted to the church and several more are nearly ready. Much persecution has been endured and lawsuits were begun against the more earnest ones, but these came to nothing and were dropped. This movement is an illustration of the power of the Word to affect the heart. Nothing in the way of worldly advantage was offered them to become Protestants, but rather the reverse. They had asked for a school, but were told this could not be given them because there was no Government permit. So they gave that up. They endured calumny from their neighbors, and instead of defending them they were told to endure this in a Christian spirit. So their growth is healthy and promises fruit.

In Shweifaf a Druze woman was received into church membership. She had been trained at the German Deaconesses' School in Beirut and at the Shweifaf Girls' School, and knows the Bible well. After she joined the church she was persecuted by her relatives. Druzes are hard to win, because they know that persecution awaits them, and also because there is so much deception in their religious system.

The report makes sorrowful mention of the death of an unusual number of old and influential Christians and of some very promising young men.

Among the former was Asad Abdallah Suleeby, who passed away at the good old age of eighty-one. He was a fine example of the Eastern patriarch. He was deeply interested in the growth of the Church for which he had suffered, recalling reminiscences of the good old times when he was at Zahleh with Mr. Benton and family and all were driven out of town under a shower of stones and imprecations; how they knelt down and prayed for safety and for their persecutors that day. Another was Abou Shotun, of Ain Bal, a teacher old in the service.

The death of Abu Yusuf Haddad in Rus Baalbek removes a character worthy of note. He was the only church member there and was called "the sect" by Mrs. Dale. He endured much persecution but remained faithful.

Abu Salim Maaluf died at Shatifeh in extreme old age. He had been blind for years, but the sweet trust he had in the Master and his wisdom in the affairs of the village made him a valued counselor for his fellow-townsmen. When he died the people showed every mark of respect and waited patiently for hours till the missionary could arrive from Zahleh. Then they opened the Greek Church for the funeral, and listened attentively to a Gospel sermon in that place hung with pictures of the saints.

At Deir el Kamar on Easter Sunday an interesting communion service was held. Two young men stood up by the sick bed of their mother, and with her united with the Church on confession of their faith. The father became a church member two years ago and is now an elder of the new church organized at Deir.

There is a great need of church buildings at Deir el Kamar and Ain 'Anub and the former has raised $250 for this purpose.

EDUCATIONAL.—

On the whole, the educational part of the work has been encouraging. The greatest difficulty has been in securing teachers. Men whom we had depended upon to fill important places left the work, till the number reached twelve. This was such a gap that we almost despaired of continuing the work with any efficiency. In some places men of poorer grade than we would like were employed and preachers had their circuit of out-stations enlarged. The anxiety of the members of the Station during these months of suspense was great. Time after time schedules were made out, but proved only partially acceptable. Again and again our Syrian helpers returned answer they could not accept our propositions. The whole difficulty is one of salaries and expectations which have been raised in the minds of the people by the success of those who have gone to America and elsewhere. In line with this is the higher grade of living, the rise in wages in all departments of labor and the greater cost of all articles of food. There is no denying that some of our teachers find it difficult, if not impossible, to live on the old scale of wages. We have reached a crisis and shall have to meet it.

Doubtless the most hopeful way of meeting the difficulty is to push self-support in all departments of education, from the lowest to the highest. In boarding schools a pretty fair degree of success is being attained. It remains to do as well in the village day schools. By some hard work and constant pressure on teachers and pupils, the fees collected from day school pupils have amounted to over half as much again as last year—$905.36, against $571.20 last year. This has caused some diminution in numbers, but most of these are mere infants who ought not to have been in the schools. The people know the value of our schools, and when they find they really must pay, then the children come again.

Deir Kubel school paid the highest amount, 2,000 piastres and rooms for school and teacher. Deir el Kamar came next, nearly doubling the amount paid last year. Abuh fees jumped from 425 to 1,142 piastres, although the number of pupils fell off. Shweifaf gave 796, against nothing last year. The Muallakat school raised 71 last year, 433 this year, besides turning away scholars because the teacher could not teach them all. Baalbek rose from nothing to 328 this year, while Ras Baalbek, up to this year considered hopeless as to the possibility of collecting fees, paid 511 piastres. The poor little hamlet of Iyat, near Baalbek, probably exceeded them all, giving out of their poverty 1,900 piastres, which was supplemented with 600 piastres from Mission funds.

In the forty-eight day schools the total attendance was 2,484; average, 1,643. The total paid by the people for education, elementary and higher, was $9,772.65; last year, $9,487.65—an advance of $285. There were sixty students in the college from Lebanon and 254 in other American boarding schools.

The most serious matter we have had in the Zahleh and Lebanon courts has been in connection with the desecration of the Protestant Church in Zahleh. Owing to the determined efforts of our efficient and willing Consul General, Mr. Leo Bergholz, the Lebanon Government, and through it the local officials, have been made to understand such things must not be repeated. In the Damascus vilayet efforts are being made to get the Protestants registered as Protestants, instead of their being in their original sects. This will take time, but it is hoped the result will be satisfactory. Again the local officials are asking for payment of taxes on Mission property, but according to instructions from the Legation no taxes are being paid. It is hoped this matter will soon be definitely settled, as all arrears of payment will come upon us in full force, should we ever be called upon to pay them.

Shweir Boarding School.—This fine school continues to be largely self-supporting and splendidly efficient under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Carslaw. The session of 1904-5 was begun in new class-rooms. Three class-rooms were added to the original boys' school, and a hall which holds 200 boys. The mere rumor that the school was enlarged seemed to bring more scholars. The session was one of very hard work to the head-master, Mr. Murad Saluby, and to the superintendents, as they had to oversee not only the completion of the building, but the making of new furniture and building and arranging new outhouses.

The conduct of the boys during the year has been exceptionally good. No case for severe discipline occurred. A library and reading room has been fitted up for the use of the students. A good many periodicals, both Arabic and English, are supplied, among them the Illustrated London News, whose pictures the boys greatly enjoy.

In the examination held by the Faculty of the Beirut College last July, only one boy failed in two subjects, five of the others passing creditably and entering the Freshman class. The religious instruction is principally under Mr. Rashad Raad, but a Bible class is regularly taught by Dr. Carslaw every Sunday afternoon. Many of the members of the church attend it.

Suk el Gharb Boarding School for Boys.—One hundred and seventy-four boys were in attendance, as follows: Boarders, 136; lodgers, 8; day pupils, 30. This number about filled the school-room to its full capacity and made all the classes large, more especially the lower ones.

Good work was done by the teachers. They were faithful and conscientious both in the class-room and in the general oversight of the boys. In a boarding school it may be said a teacher is never entirely off duty, and it is this that makes their work so much more difficult than that of the day school teacher, whose work practically closes with the day's studies. But, on the other hand, it is just in this respect the opportunity to influence the pupil is greatest where school discipline and attendant influences are not dissipated by a daily return to the home life. This is noticeable in the day pupils of our school and in those who go home even for a day or two during term time. It usually requires a little time to get back again to the steady work and routine of school life.

Commendable progress in study characterized the year's work and the results were gratifying. Out of a class of twenty, thirteen received the certificate entitling them to enter the Freshman class at Syrian Protestant College. Six of the class are now teaching.

A large factor in the success of the school has been the untiring efforts of Miss Effie Hardin, extending over a period of eight years of free and voluntary service. She has demonstrated that the right sort of young lady can be a most successful teacher of Syrian boys. This in a country where the moral, intellectual and executive abilities of women are little recognized is one of the very best lessons brought home to the boys who have been in Suk School during the past eight years. And there is abundant evidence of their appreciation of this fact.

Bible study was carried on as usual. Religious meetings appeared to interest many of the boys. The Christian Endeavor Society was well kept up and the Sunday evening meetings were at times interesting and lively. Little immediate effect has been apparent. Only one boy joined the church. Their collections amounted to 1,430 piastres, of which ten liras Turkish was sent to help furnish the new hospital at Tabriz, Persia, and the remainder given for Bible distribution.

Payment from pupils was better than ever before. Protestants contribute comparatively little toward their own support. Thirty Protestant boarders paid a little less than 100 pounds, only seventeen pounds more than ten Druzes. Eight paid nothing except for books and incidental expenses, and yet we hear the complaint that Protestants are badly treated. The school is actually carried on by the other sects, who pay in the following order ; Druzes, Maronites and Greeks.

The improvement on the school building, paid for out of the income of the school, proves to be very helpful. Now all the school work is on one floor, with assembly room and seven recitation rooms conveniently situated, all with abundant air and light. The great need now is dormitory space.

Never before have we had so much difficulty in arranging the teaching force. All were either looking for a very considerable increase of salary or ready to go off into other work. One who had been helped all through his years of preparation in order to teach left to study medicine. With others we compromised by raising their salaries. Providence graciously prepared help in the coming just as school was to open of Rev. John Walters, of Louisiana. His earnest Christian spirit, his warm sympathy for the teachers and the boys, and his devotion to duty are just what we need. We hope and expect great good to the whole school from his earnest labors.

TRIPOLI STATION.

At the close of the year the Station lost Mr. and Mrs. March, by transfer to Beirut, but it gained Mr. Paul Erdman, of Sidon, who brought his bride with him. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Nicol also came as welcome reinforcements from America, while Miss Hunting was welcomed back after furlough. During the absence of Miss Hunting, Miss LaGrange was assisted by Miss M. H. Gillbee, who rendered efficient and faithful service and won the confidence and love of all.

Special reports cover the work of the Tripoli Girls' School, the Tripoli Boys' School and the Dispensary.

Perhaps the best view of the general work of the Station can be obtained by an account of the annual meeting of the Tripoli Presbytery at Amar. One hundred attended from the eleven churches of the Presbytery. The hospitality of the Amar Church was taxed, but the people said that their trouble and expense were more than balanced by their pleasure and profit in the meeting.

At the suggestion of Mr. Nasim Hulu, the delegate from the Sidon Presbytery, the appointing committee was made to consist of the elders together with the missionaries. These elders are all of them financially independent of both Mission and Presbytery, and are the ones responsible for the raising of money for school and church purposes. They showed much of practical wisdom, and also showed a sense of the importance of increasing teachers' salaries, and a willingness that the increase should be at the expense of the churches and schools and not at the expense of the Mission.

The Home Mission Committee have taken upon themselves the entire responsibility of five preaching places. The money expended on these Stations is wholly from native sources. The entire sum appropriated by the Presbytery is about 95,000 piastres, of which 45,000 are from the churches and schools.

Efforts have been made to increase the circulation of the Scriptures. Many Bibles and Testaments and over 1,000 copies of the Psalms have been distributed and sold at Hums and the neighboring villages to Moslems and Christians of all sects. The Presbytery resolved to adopt the plan successfully worked in the Sidon field, viz., to set apart one Sunday in the year, on which there should be a sermon in each church on the distribution of the Scriptures and a collection for this object. The proceeds of the collections of all the churches are to be given to a committee in Tripoli, who purchase Scriptures and furnish them to the churches for distribution, and as far as possible a record to be kept of the persons who receive the Scriptures that they may be followed up.

At Mahardeh, Mr. Ishoc Taameh has been the teacher of the school and has assisted in the preaching with great acceptance, and the whole church has revived. Ten new members were received.

The church is poor in this world's goods. The threshing ground is heaped with grain, but most of it goes to the Government, the Effendis and Arabs, leaving barely enough to keep the people from starving. In spite of the pure air of the great plain they suffer from all sorts of diseases, and that principally from drinking polluted water and the vast accumulations of filth in the streets and about the town. The Protestants are better off in these respects than their fellow-citizens of the Greek Church.

The Hums Church has done a good work and is laying out a greater work for the coming year. They have brought a college graduate, Mr. Khalil Khurei, to be head of the boys' school with an able assistant, Mr. Ibrahim Ateyeh, a graduate of Gerard Institute. At the opening of the current year they have about 100 boys, day pupils, who pay about thirty Napoleons in tuition fees, which is quite a new thing in Hums. There is also a teacher in the new quarter of the city and three girls' schools, making a total annual expenditure of 25,700 piastres, of which 17,000 are from the Hums people, and this besides incidentals and liberal aid to the Home Mission fund.

The work in the Syrian villages near Hums has prospered. In these villages are sixty-two church members on the ground.

Nine of these are at Fehaileh, where no mission money has ever been spent. The teacher and preacher is a farmer who serves without salary, save that the brethren help him somewhat with his plowing.

Many members of the Amar Church have been to the United States and returned, bringing with them a higher standard of living and giving.

They built their own houses and have not forgotten the house of the Lord. They have purchased a bell and put up a belfry at a cost of 2,000 piastres, and have also spent 3,000 piastres on a new room for the pastor's use. There are no longer sheep or goats at Amar, for the reason that all the land has come under cultivation. Fruit trees and vegetables may be seen at long distances from the village, without owner or watchman on guard, for the people no longer fear being robbed by one another. Lawsuits no longer come to the neighboring seat of government from Amar, for the people have learned to settle their differences among themselves by friendly arbitration, and in these tribunals the preacher and elder are the chief arbiters. It is saying a great deal, but it is nevertheless true, that this peace and prosperity are due to the constant preaching of the Gospel of Christ, day after day and Sunday after Sunday, for twenty-five years in the Protestant Church.

In Manyara, and also in Beime, reading rooms have been opened as evangelistic centres among the shops, and this is wholly at the expense of the native brethren. The idea is also theirs, except the example set them by the reading room in Beirut.

The Home Mission Station, Bir Sheen, has prospered under the care of Mr. Elias Ateyeh. It is wholly supported by the churches of the Tripoli field.

In the Tripoli Church the contributions have reached 7,400 piastres. Sunday-schools have been large, in the city reaching nearly 300 attendants, and contributing for benevolence about 1,500 piastres.

The missionaries and Syrian preachers have taken turns in supplying the pulpit, while the responsibility for this and pastoral work rested upon Mr. Jurjus Khuri. Mrs. Nelson in Tripoli and Mrs. Harris and Mrs. March in the Mian have held meetings for women and have made and received many calls. During the year the girls of the three upper classes of the Tripoli Girls' School, all of them, volunteered to make evangelistic visits and hold meetings in the city. They went out every Sunday and Thursday, accompanied by Miss LaGrange or one of the Syrian teachers, and visited both Moslem and Christian families.

In the Lebanon portion of the Tripoli field there have been no additions to the church, but there is an ever-increasing zeal for education. The schools were at Gurguz, Barbara, Bishmazeen, Bterram and Enfeh. The Enfeh people paid to the Station 2,000 piastres towards the support of their schools. About fifty adults attended the Sunday preaching services at Enfeh. The candidates for admission to the boarding schools are far more than can be received.

The most serious problem before the Presbytery and also the Station is the dearth of teachers. Three out-station schools have been dropped for the present, one of them the solitary light in the dark Maronite region.

All requests for new schools have been refused, of necessity, including one from Marmarita with a promise to pay the entire salary of the teacher. The principal cause of this distressing dearth of teachers is emigration to Egypt and America, where much larger wages are paid than in Syria. A teacher at Safita, about eighteen years of age, who received 175 piastres, resigned and went to Egypt where he received eleven pounds sterling as Government clerk. Our only hope is that the Holy Spirit may move the hearts of the young men and women of Syria, and fill them with such love to Christ and to their perishing fellow countrymen that they shall be willing to deny themselves and suffer loss in service to Syria for Christ's sake.

Mr. March, who wrote the Station report just before his transfer to Beirut, adds:

The writer of this report has just completed twenty-two years of service in the Tripoli field. Progress in missionary work is often so slow that it does not appear in the review of a month or even a year, but does appear in a striking way in the review of so long a period as twenty-two years. The tabular view for 1883 reports in the Tripoli field 198 church members, as against 842 in 1905. The average congregations of the whole field were 587, at present 1,390. The total of church contributions was 3,000 piastres, now 26,500. Pupils in the college were 13, now 61. In boarding schools there were 24, now 146. Paid by natives for education 19,000 then, and now 276,000. Total contributions for all purposes were in 1883, 22,000 piastres; in 1905, 302,500. The number of Syrian workers is less, being 54 in 1883 and 49 at present, and the number of pupils in the common schools is nearly the same, 1,200 and 1,400. The number of organized churches has risen from 2 to 11. The churches of Minyara with 174 members, Yazidia with 41 members, Feiruzeh with 36 members and the whole of the Home Mission Work at Bir Sheen and vicinity in 1883 had no existence.

There is now a greater dearth of teachers, but the quality of the men has risen. Now every village is calling for English and other higher branches, and there is no longer any place for the old-fashioned teacher who can teach only the three A's and that in Arabic. There is no longer anything in the teacher's office to attract those whose first object is to make a living. There is now less of a servile spirit in the relation of the teacher to the missionaries, and more of independence and self-respect. Emigration has thinned out the ranks of the preachers and teachers, but the men left are of higher moral and religious character, and many of them we can honor and love as true and noble men who are denying themselves and forgetting themselves in the service of the Church of Christ in Syria.

The organization of the Presbytery has been a great blessing, both to missionaries and Syrian workers, in helping them to understand one another and respect one another as fellow-workers and brethren in the Lord. The burden of responsibility, which rested formerly too heavily on missionary shoulders, is now felt and borne by many church members as well as pastors and elders. Many workers have had a part in this twenty-two years' work. There were the missionaries of earlier years who labored, while others have entered into their labors. There are missionaries of other Stations who have translated and printed the Bible, have sent forth the Weekly Neshra and the Mulhoc and religious and educational books, and so have preached and taught in Tripoli field. The college and the boarding schools at Sug and Sidon have trained young men and women and given many teachers and preachers. The Syrian workers have taught and preached, and night after night in evening gatherings have reasoned with men and pleaded with them to come to Christ, and so have been the chief agents in bringing in those who are counted in the statistics of the Mission.

With humble hearts we all thank God that He has permitted us to be fellow-workers with Him, and fellow-workers with the saints of different nationalities and languages, but one in Christ.

Another member of the Station adds:

For the first time in many years, Tripoli Station has been called upon to bid farewell to one of its families, in the transfer of Rev. F. W. March to Beirut Station. We would not allow this important event to pass without special recognition of its significance. For twenty-two years Mr. March has given himself without reserve to the service of the field, going about by winter and summer, on mountain and plain, stimulating churches and encouraging schools. The full record of such personal service cannot be made here, but the influence of a long and faithful life in Tripoli remains a precious heritage to American and Syrian associates.

Tripoli Boys' Boarding School.—October 12, 1904, the Tripoli Boys' School was opened. The premises at first secured accommodated twenty pupils, but the pressure soon became so strong that a building across the street was leased for study and recitation rooms, leaving the other building for dormitory alone. Dr. Nelson writes:

This was an undesirable arrangement from every point of view, as the maintenance of order under these circumstances was difficult. The study and recitation rooms were cold, dark and unsanitary. The dining-room was damp and small. One of the sleeping rooms had to be abandoned in the winter because of cold and dampness. Still the boys' good humor did not fail, and even when thirty-two boarders were crowded into the space assigned to twenty-eight there were no complaints. The boys all took turns waiting on the table, and because of the contracted quarters the waiters had to eat standing at a side counter. We were most grateful that no serious sickness appeared among the boys during this period of crowding.

In March a week's vacation was given in order to move the school to new premises, and school began again under vastly improved conditions. The lower floor of this building gives ample space for all the school work with an attendance of 150, while the upper floor will accommodate sixty boarders with the full complement of teachers. It was a great blessing that such premises were found for rent, and if our tenure were more secure we could ask for nothing better. The building belongs to a Turkish military officer who hopes to retire from active duty and then would probably come to Tripoli and occupy his own house.

The number of boarders enrolled was thirty-eight. Of these, twenty-six were Orthodox Greeks, seven Protestants, three Maronites and two Moslem. In the day school fifty-two were enrolled. Of these, thirty-four were Greek, eight Protestant, six Maronite, four Jews.

The class work was creditable and the school spirit was admirable, and while discipline was called for from time to time, there was never any spirit of stubborn persistence in evil or refusal to submit to authority.

The eagerness of the boys to learn is illustrated by the following incident. At the Easter vacation notice was given that any boy failing to return on time would be punished and fined. One lad was with his grandmother in Rahbeh, seven or eight hours from town. On the day set for his return, he told his grandmother that he must go. Diligent search failed to discover any animal on which to ride or any one willing to accompany the lad. It was a feast day and rainy, so no one cared to leave home. The grandmother said she would send a note explaining the delay, but the boy said, "No, I must go, for I cannot have my teachers distrust me." "Well," said his grandmother, "take off that coat, we cannot afford to risk having that stolen from you, and that girdle, too, as it cost seven piastres." "All right, here they are. Do you want my cap and shoes?" The grandmother thought thus to hinder his project, but he took a piece of bread and two partially boiled eggs for his lunch and set out, saying, "Good-by, grandmother, do not be angry, but really I must go to-day." So he trudged over the rough mountain roads, through the rain, rather than be a day late at school. Not a word was heard of the matter until weeks later when the grandmother told the story.

Dr. Nelson gratefully records the fidelity of Mr. Ywakim Massuh, the head teacher, and the assistance of several others.

There was evidence of advance in character building and a deepening sense of the realities of life and eternity. Every opportunity was sought to impress the lads with the value of life and its true meaning, and the good seed will not be lost to sight of the Lord of the harvest.

The fall term has opened with even brighter prospects. There are sixty-one boarders, paying over 500 pounds to the school. The teaching force has been strengthened and work is progressing even better than last year.

Tripoli Girls' School.—During the furlough of Miss Hunting, Miss Gillbee gave valuable assistance. The total number of boarders was fifty-three and of day pupils seventy-three. Several new villages were represented among the boarders. Five girls united with the church during the year. The C. E. Society received associate members and continued to be a helpful influence in the school.

We shared with the boys' school in a temperance rally, the first of its kind, and it was a great success, not only in educating the sentiment of the young people themselves, but also in stirring up earnest thought and comment in the large audiences who gathered to hear the exercises.

During the cholera year our Sunday-school had been built up from the city children, and last fall, augmented by the girls and boys of the schools, it swelled to an amazing size. The attendance rose as high as 297.

For a year or two back we have talked vaguely of enlargements in our house. During the past summer Miss LaGrange, aided by Dr. Nelson's advice, planned and executed extensive but inexpensive repairs. Our building is now much more conveniently arranged in many respects, particularly in the culinary department. With the increased room thus gained, we are able to accommodate a larger number of girls than ever before.

Miss LaGrange adds:

The year 1905-6 opened October 11. With six of our eight teachers a totally unknown quantity, one raw servant, one-third of the girls new and our enlarged quarters still unfinished and untried, we saw we had a heavy load to carry and felt our weakness. But the promise has been fulfilled to us: "As thy day, so shall thy strength be." After two months of tremendous labor and anxiety we can say we are fairly started and beginning to enjoy life once more.

Some interesting facts come out in reviewing the new list of pupils. Of the sixty-three enrolled, twenty-five are Protestants. The teachers also are all Protestants, so that the tone of the school is decidedly Christian. There is an unusual number of large girls, practically young ladies, prepared both by age and previous training to appreciate their advantages in school. Two are engaged to Protestant gentlemen of some prominence, and are in training to occupy some day places of importance and of power, we trust. We count several foreigners among our girls—one from Nova Scotia, one from South America, one from Australia, and the latest comer, a Maronite girl from Sibael, born and bred in New Zealand.

The total enrollment is 130. The day pupils, though not as numerous as formerly, are more than in any year since the invasion of the Russians. The proportion in the upper classes is large.

<sup>1</sup> Indeed, all things are now ready, so far as we are able to arrange them, for progressive spiritual work. And there seems in these last few days a sweeter and more earnest spirit moving among us. The C. E. Society has added new names to its list, and more are asking to join. Four or five times have evangelistic calls been made by teachers working under the direction of the society. Our heart's desire is to see these many interesting girls drawn into a close touch with Jesus their Saviour, and their energies directed toward serving Him and Syria.

MEDICAL.—The two busy times in the year for physicians in Syria are the immediate days following the fast of the Moslem Ramazan and the long Lental fast of the Eastern Christians. The nightly feast of the Moslems and the eating of so much greasy food by the Christians play havoc with the digestive organs. The clinics were crowded at these times. Last winter the rainfall was unusual and the cold and dampness brought with it much illness, especially lung affections, grippe, small-pox and malaria, typhus and typhoid fevers. Tubercular diseases, medical and surgical, are on the increase. The treatment and the almost mortal fear of the native even at the mention of the name of consumption gives much thought and anxiety to physician and patient.

Dr. Harris writes:

We spent a busy and profitable nine weeks at Hums, Hama and Mahardeh. At Hums our record reads: 2,572 patients treated, 153 operations, of which seventy-one were on the eye. Daily services with the crowd that attended the clinics; special meetings were held with the brethren at the church and at their homes, and four lectures on secular topics were given to a full house. At Hama and Mahardeh the record reads: 844 patients treated, 94 operations, 34 services for Bible readings and prayer, and many visits to the homes of the people.

The visit at Mahardeh was a pleasant one, especially the evening meetings on the roof of the preacher's house. There we were safe from dust and dirt, sleeping children and roving dogs, to say nothing of the fleas and well—why say more? What matter if we sweep to one side the wheat and other grain that had been washed that day, ready for the mill next day, or what matter if we take a seat on the golden grain—it is all the same, no one cares for such a trifling matter. What a wealth of illustration can be taken from the life of this place! It is a pleasure to talk to them, for they enjoy nothing better than a good illustration about something that is known to them; their faces light up and you can imagine what is in their mind, "I can see your point." Our staff, Shukri S. Fakhouri, Miss Z. Faris, the Bible woman, and good old Salah Sabboni have all given faithful and efficient service during the year.

The Sunday-school, Sunday and Thursday evening preaching services were held all the year except in August. These meetings gave opportunity for in-patients to hear the Bible read and sermons preached. Every Tuesday afternoon at 4.30 the staff, with the teacher of the girls' school, meet for special prayer for the work. We know that we have received great blessings in thus meeting with our Lord in prayer and supplication for greater success in reaching men's hearts, especially the many Moslems who attend our clinics. As in years past, we try with all our power to make the special feature of our work evangelistic. We never sacrifice this one thought; our first efforts must be for Christ, not to the making of money, increasing our professional reputation, building up a paying clientage where we must keep in the background we are Christian missionaries.

Of the many sad cases that came to Dr. Harris for treatment, he writes particularly of the following as illustrative of the need and the blessing of medical missions:

Thirteen years ago Zarefec was a bride, with what seemed to be a bright and happy future. A few months after her marriage she was attacked with one of those strange forms of fever so common in Syria. When the fever left her she was very weak. As she grew stronger, it was discovered that she could not straighten out her lower limbs. The tendons were contracted so that her knees were in line with her chin. The native doctors were consulted and they said it was paralysis and gave an unfavorable prognosis. Then she came under the treatment of quacks who tortured her dreadfully. She was taken to several "Holy Tombs," where the "odor of sanctity" was supposed to cure, especially if money were given to the keeper of the place and incense burned, at the same time a magic formula being said or sung. She wore about her neck a number of charms—the atlas of the neck of a jackal, a bright brass button, a number of papers written over with cabalistic characters—all securely sealed in a tin box. Also there was a ring about her neck made of twisted brass wire. This is supposed to emit magic powers of healing, and is sold by the thousands to sick folk by the monks of a famous convent on Mt. Lebanon.

She was burned and blistered, a number of times she was bled from a large vein in her arm, and when the blood ran a dark color the friends said, "See, the blood is black and very much diseased." She was given remedies "without number," some of which cannot be mentioned in print, and notwithstanding she was no better. She was as if tied to the floor, and it was with the greatest difficulty she could move from place to place in the home.

Then, to make her sorrow and grief more pronounced, her husband neglected her and did his best to have her family remove her to their home.

When she had been married seven years her husband called a consultation of native doctors, and they gave him a signed report which stated it was impossible for her ever to recover the use of her limbs. On the strength of this report their Bishop granted him a divorce and he soon married again. This made it obligatory that her family support her. In such cases there is no alimony. In June last I saw the woman for the first time. After I had examined her, I saw in her sweet face such a look of supplication it went to my heart. I was anxious to help this woman, but she had been deformed so long it was difficult to know how successful an operation would be. She, poor thing, was willing to take all risks; so she was put under an anæsthetic, and when she recovered from its effects her limbs were straight. For days her sufferings were dreadful, but she bore the pain heroically and five weeks afterwards she made the first attempt to walk. I wish you could have seen the look of supreme happiness on her bright face when she saw that she could walk. Her recovery was rapid and in seven weeks after the operation she returned to her home. What must have been the thoughts of that unworthy husband, and all who had in such a heartless way contributed to her sufferings in mind and body, when they saw her take her place among her friends a well woman! During the time she was with us she gave evidence of a change of heart, and when I visited her home recently she said she was true to her confession, and I saw too that the cure of her deformity was permanent.

Number of surgical operations during the year, 465; number of in-patients, 52.

It is interesting and significant to note that the patients included Moslems, Nusairy, Metawaly, Protestant, Greek, Maronite, Catholic, Syriac.

As mentioned in former reports, only surgical cases are taken in the Tripoli Hospital; the medical cases are housed in hired rooms near by.

The hospital was closed for five months, as Dr. Harris spent the time in other parts of the field as reported. This will account for the small number mentioned as in-patients.

SIDON STATION.

Continuity of work was impaired by fourteen changes of workers outside of Sidon. Five former teachers are again pupils, seeking better preparation for work. Three are teaching for others and four have left Syria. One helper spent weary months in prison and was finally acquitted without trial. Fortunately such an experience involves no stigma, as injustice is so common.

New Openings.—A Macedonian cry comes to us again and again from Hauran, east of the Jordan. Miss M. S. Ford provides for five schools in those districts which she visited, accompanied by a Bible woman and two licensed preachers from our field.

Kharaba has been without regular Mission work for eighteen years, ever since the benevolent Turk closed up the work of the Church Missionary Society. During this period the seed sown grew without observation and a few Protestants increased to over one hundred. Their eagerness to listen to instruction, their readiness to purchase Scriptures and their earnestness in pleading for spiritual guidance was unusual. When these facts were reported to the Sidon Presbytery, a preacher led in prayer: "Lord, put it into the hearts of the missionaries to deduct from our salaries a sum sufficient to send the Gospel to these people." This man with a large family was receiving $12 a month. Rev. Asaad Abood, pastor in Lyre, was instructed to visit these people. He reports: "I do not exaggerate when I say that the Holy Spirit works to-day in Kharaba and hearts are opened to hear God's Word, and the hearts of the people there were knit to ours. Many stayed with us day and night, forsaking their work and business and neglecting even their meals. Often they stayed with us till 1 A.M. and appeared again at 5 o'clock. I perceived on their faces indications of reverence and honesty, and they hold to the evangelical faith with all their power in spite of persecution and difficulties which come to them. Some have studied the Scriptures with all diligence and thoughtfulness, understanding it and knowing in whom they have believed." At the close of this pastor's visit he received twenty-one to the Lord's table, and seventeen applicants were advised to delay till another time. Three also were received in Khusfeen.

There is also a call to assume the work of Rasheya-al-Wady and Ainesh Shaara, towns lying on the northern and eastern slopes of Mt. Hermon. Both places have Protestant communities and suitable buildings and centres of influence. Men and means are needed for these fields, and to the believer all things are possible.

Native Co-operation.—Besides the regular and faithful work of the native helpers, there is steady growth in assuming responsibility and readiness to make independent effort on the part of the native brethren.

The Bible Society distributed sixty Bibles, thirty-three Testaments and twenty portions of Scripture in thirty-five villages to members of seven sects. Among the recipients were fifteen Moslems, seventeen Metaneli and four Druzes, and eight copies were given Bedowin. The Home Missionary Society assumes the responsibility for Sabbath services in Jemayleyeh and Hillaleyh.

Sixty persons have united with the churches upon examination. This number includes thirteen married men and twenty-nine youths, of whom twenty came from Protestant families, and twenty-six are women and girls. Five hundred and thirty-two members are present in their churches, and 253 are absent from where they are enrolled. The new Government census revealed unexpected numbers of Protestants officially enrolled, in every place more than we had previously reported. In the civil status of Protestant communities in the Beirut vilayet there is improvement.

This is a record year in church building.

Jemayleyeh was the first in July to invite missionaries and native friends to a dedication. The building of stone with a tile roof in a commanding position does credit to the people who planned and supervised its erection. Gifts came from absent ones in Australia and the United States. From this one can see another hilltop crowned with the new Mejdéluna Church. In Magdusheh an enclosure contains a large room suitable for school and Sabbath services, and a remodeled house for the teacher and a cistern were all completed this year. Two bullet holes in one of the windows and dagger marks in the door show the impotent rage of modern Sanballats, Tobiahs and Geshems. "Moreover, brethren, we do you to wit of the grace of God bestowed on the church of Kheyam, how that their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their liberality. For to their power I bear record, yea, and beyond their power they were willing of themselves." With only the change of name, these words of St. Paul fit recent facts. After aiding in the repairs of the church and in the building of two rooms for their preacher's house, they, inspired by their efficient leader, planned to erect a school-house wholly under their own supervision and at their sole expense. In answer to appeals to absent youth came several gifts, one cheque for $80 among these. The building of the Hasbeyaa manse nears completion. Nothing arouses liberality more than such calls to build, and in this line alone our churches report an increase of 15,262 piastres.

Difficulties.—Magdusheh is a large Greek Catholic village one hour southeast of Sidon. The Protestant community numbers over 300 souls, including the emigrants. Nineteen are members of the church, two more having died, and seven were applying at the last communion.

False criminal charges, supported by false witnesses, destruction of property, employment of desperadoes to terrify and attack, intimation of witnesses, these have been employed to break up the work. Finally an attack was made upon our school premises with intent to kill the preacher. The wise and vigorous efforts of Consul Ravudal and later of the present Consul General, Hon. Leo. Bergholz, are bearing fruit. The son of the sheikh has been imprisoned for his attack on the school, witnesses have been protected and a new era of liberty and justice has been inaugurated. The school gathers over eighty pupils. When the people learned that their preacher was to be removed they set to work with a subscription list that provides for his entire salary.

In Alma the unhappy conditions of last year continue. False criminal charges are made against almost every man and there is excuse for officials to raid the villages and seize whomsoever they find. If sufficient ransom is not paid the victims are taken to prison and kept indefinitely. To add to this distress came the cattle plague which swept away all but thirty-seven head of oxen and cows. Orders have again been issued in a hostile spirit as to our schools and forbidding the attendance of Moslem children in them. The number of non-Christians in our day schools, 175, would have been greater but for these restrictions.

EDUCATION.—Gerard Institute.—The year 1904-1905 opened with the usual pressure from parents desiring to get their boys into the school. This steadily growing demand for an education and a realization of the benefits it confers is one of the signs of the times throughout the ancient East. In some places this demand is more urgent than in others, but all through Asia, from Japan and China to Syria and Asia Minor, this grasping after an education is growing, in some places by leaps and bounds, in others more slowly, but still everywhere to be found, beating stronger and ever stronger on the bars and shackles of ignorance, prejudice and fanaticism.

The year saw an increase, limited only by lack of accommodation, in the number of our students and a steady growth in the efficiency of instruction. The spirit of hard work in some classes was very gratifying, while other classes were indifferent and below grade. Students whose general average is above a certain grade for the month have their names posted on a Roll of Honor. One month nearly two-thirds of the thirty-six boys in the second class were on this Roll. There were in attendance this year 125 boarders, twenty-five orphans, thirteen half-boarders and thirty-eight day pupils. Of these eighteen boarders, twenty-five orphans and nine day pupils were at the industrial farm at Dar-es-Salaam, leaving 149 in the Institute, this without counting the day school which had about sixty boys in it.

The problem of securing and holding the right kind of teachers is very serious here also, and it has been intensified by the death of a very valuable one, Mr. Shakir Dayhir. With the increasing opportunity of profitable employment in other fields and the increasing desire for emigration, coupled with a rapidly rising grade of living, it is becoming yearly more difficult to secure suitable teachers, not only for our boarding schools but for our common schools as well.

The increasing demand for common school teachers who can teach English, many villages refusing to contribute towards the support of a teacher not so qualified, has led the Institute, with the consent of the Mission, to alter the curriculum so as to meet this need.

The C. E. Missionary Societies afford the young workers a chance to show their zeal, while older boys are encouraged to go out to the neighboring villages to hold meetings. The Missionary Society last year raised about $25. This is the more noteworthy as the majority of the boys are poor. Some of them sweep the study and recitation rooms to earn some money, while others work on half-holidays in the shops.

At Dar-es-Salaam the east wing of the Orphanage was completed, affording a dormitory, which will hold about twenty beds.

Work in grading, terracing and the setting out of trees was continued on the farm under the personal supervision of Dr. Ford, who lived at the Orphanage and gave much time and personal oversight to the school work in the Primary and Orphanage departments.

Mrs. Wood still continues to be "the mother" of the orphans and to bestow abundantly of her love and care on the boys, both at Dar-es-Salaam and Sidon, and many a boy owes more than he will probably ever realize, not only to her personal talks and advice, but to her continued and insistent prayer on his behalf.

In the industrial departments we had a very successful year and for the first time all the shops showed a balance on the right side, the total profits being more than enough to pay the salaries of the teachers hired to teach the boys.

We cannot but feel gratified at the showing of the carpenters' shop, which from now on bids fair to cease to be a drain on the finances of the institution. While we have an active and capable foreman, we sorely need a first-class carpenter to teach the boys. We have been hoping that we could train up men in our own shops who would be satisfactory instructors, but so far the American fever has carried off all the most promising candidates. We ought really to have a good consecrated American to take charge of the boys and teach them.

The total sales from the three shops amounted to 142,970 piastres ($5,106). Of this, 81,523 piastres (nearly $3,000) was in the carpenters' shop; 21,861 piastres (about $750) in the shoe shop, and the remainder, 39,585 piastres (over $1,350), in the tailors' shop. The profits were 18,010 piastres ($643). Of this sum the carpenters' shop showed a profit on the books of 13,203 piastres (nearly $470); but this is not a normal profit, which would be closer to 8,500 piastres (about $300). Even so the profits from the three shops a little more than cover the amount spent in instruction, which was last year about 1,200 piastres ($428).

Mr. Erdman, assisted by Mrs. Jessup, again spent considerable time drilling the boys in singing. The difference in the singing at the beginning and end of the year was eloquent testimony to the success of their efforts. When Mr. Penfield, Secretary for the International Y. M. C. A., visited us on his trip around the world, he said that the singing of the Sidon boys and girls was as good school singing as he had heard anywhere in the world. We were also indebted to Mr. Penfield for some very good talks and helpful ideas in regard to C. E. and Y. M. C. A. work and organization.

The year was greatly blessed by the evangelistic addresses given by Mr. Crawford, of the College, and Dr. H. Jessup, of Beirut. Dr. Samuel Jessup, the Principal, held an inquirers' class almost every Sunday, with an attendance varying from ten to twenty-five. There was a spirit of earnestness among some of the boys which was very encouraging. The last communion service of the year was an especially impressive one and produced a deep and abiding effect on us all. Seven boys from the Institute, three girls from the Seminary and one of the Institute teachers stood up to confess their faith in Christ.

A number of boys were referred to their home churches, and either during the school year or summer vacation six other boys and another teacher were received into the Church, making fifteen from the Institute. As we looked into the faces of the earnest inquirers we felt that God was preparing the way for a great blessing, and we anticipate with assurance a joyful time of revival during the coming year, with twenty church members among our boys and over fifteen seeking admittance to the church, surely a cause for profound joy and gratitude.

Sidon Seminary.—Seven of the girls have confessed Christ during the year. Miss Charlotte Brown writes:

The physical, intellectual and spiritual features of our work are much combined, and it is our purpose to develop the girls in all directions. Time is given to the daily housework and all take part between the recitation hours. For the sake of economy we still hold to the old way of buying our wheat unground, and that necessitates its being washed or picked over before it is stored away. And later, when the year's supply of ripe black olives comes, they crush, sort and salt them under the direction of our efficient head teacher.

Yearly repairs of old, decaying wood, painting weather-beaten boards, repairing rotten rafters, providing drinking tanks, a tiled shelter for the girls in rainy weather and a new fence around the small flower-garden also cost both money and the time of those who had to supervise the work, but they were necessary.

The Missionary Society has done good work, and the money collected the previous year was voted for the support of a Bible woman in Mughdooshy. During the year 1,000 piastres (about $32) were raised by offerings, selling silk purses made in the school, donations from absent members to whom the society wrote, etc.

The C. E. Society held its meetings regularly throughout the year, and in the spring invited its friends to a social and entertainment prepared by themselves.

Its pretty President presided as gracefully as any girl at home could have done.

Messages from or regarding those formerly connected with the school testify to its transforming influence on character. We received word of the good Bible knowledge of a girl who is now in Jaffa. We considered her a very unpromising pupil, so were thankful to have this testimony. From another place we heard that a servant who was with us but a short time surprised his friends by his diligence and general good behavior upon his return home. He was also applying for church membership. A former pupil wrote of the pleasure and profit derived from a religious book given her before she left us, and another sent us two long letters from the Baptist Training School in Chicago, filled with loving words of appreciation of all she had received while a member of the school here where she had been converted. She was preparing to go out as a missionary to Africa.

Among all the discouraging features of our work, the carelessness and indifference of some and the disobedience and deceit of others, every now and then we have these encouraging letters or little glimpses into the hearts of those who are really striving after a better life and are truly following Christ. The girls are quick and bright to respond, and in some hearts at least impressions sink deeply.

One girl, in her summer vacation, persuaded her parents to permit her to ask a blessing at the family meals and to conduct family prayers, which she faithfully did, much to their satisfaction. She was received into the Church during the summer. Nearly every evening throughout the summer our head teacher taught a class of children in the Arabic primer and had evening prayers with all present. It was a beautiful sight to see the otherwise untaught and neglected little ones standing up, quiet and orderly, at the close of summer, to recite a psalm and reverently listen to the voice of prayer.

Miss Brown has completed twenty years of faithful service in this excellent school. She writes:

The writer has seen a number of changes in the school in the last twenty years. In 1885 all beds, bedding and much clothing were provided by the school. Now every girl brings her own mattress, bedding, towels and soap. Nearly all bring an adequate supply of clothing, and instead of renting books they buy them.

The fees have steadily though slowly increased. This past summer the experiment was tried for the first time of charging a small tuition fee in the day school. We were encouraged in it by the remarks of several Mohammedan women who offered to pay if the summer school were kept up. It proved a success and started a good precedent.

Of the fifty graduates in the last twenty years, all but six have taught and many are still holding responsible positions.

Through all changes the school still remains the same in one great particular—it is our aim that it shall be known as the place where the Bible is an open book, taught and loved, and where consistent living manifests forth the inner faith in Christ.

Total.....	129
Tuition fees.....	19,062.20 piastres.

Twenty-four of the boarding pupils are Protestants, sixteen are Catholics and the rest are Greeks with two Maronites.

Day schools, twenty-nine in number, have been open during the whole or part of the year, with a total enrollment of 1,850 pupils. Four hundred and thirty-five of them are girls, 404 are Protestants, and 1,156 are enrolled as studying the Scriptures. Thirty youths are in various departments of the College, and the total payments for education showed a gain of 10,036 piastres in one year.

Time would fail to tell of the aid and blessing the Sidon district received from the consecrated work of the noble ladies of the British Syrian Mission, working in and from Hasbeya and Tyre as centres, or of Miss M. S. Ford's noble activities in Belad Beshara as well as Hauran, or of the valuable aid given through the grants of the Religious Tract Society, the American Bible Society, the Bible Lands Aid Society and the Children's Special Service Mission.

MISSION TO THE CHINESE AND JAPANESE IN THE UNITED STATES.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. : Mission began 1852. Missionaries—Rev. I. M. Coudit, D. D., and Mrs. Condit, Rev. J. H. Laughlin and Mrs. Laughlin.

JAPANESE : Missionaries—E. A. Sturge, M.D., and Mrs. Sturge.
PORTLAND, OREGON :

LOS ANGELES, CAL. : Missionaries—Supplied by J. H. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart.

WOMENS OCCIDENTAL BOARD, SAN FRANCISCO : Miss D. M. Cameron, Superintendent.

NEW YORK CITY : Rev. Huie Kin, Superintendent.

ON FURLOUGH : In China—Miss D. M. Cameron.

The Missions in California suffered severely in the frightful earthquake of April 18th, and the equally frightful conflagration that followed it in San Francisco. The Board had three large mission establishments, one for Chinese men and boys in charge of the Rev. J. H. Laughlin at 911 Stockton st., one for Japanese men and boys in charge of Dr. E. A. Sturge, at 328 Haight st., and a Rescue Home for Chinese women and girls in charge of Miss Donaldine Cameron and the Woman's Occidental Board at 920 Sacramento st. The value of these properties was over $50,000. The Japanese Mission was not burned, the fire stopping about a block and a half from it, but the building was badly injured by the earthquake. It is remarkable that it stood at all, for an adjoining building was completely wrecked. Both the Chinese Missions at 911 Stockton st. and 920 Sacramento st. were totally destroyed by fire. The Rescue Home was full of Chinese girls who had been rescued by Miss Cameron from lives of slavery, but they and the Missionaries alike were driven out.

The Chinese pastor, the Rev. Nam Art, writes :

All the stores, churches and schools were turned into one large furnace. Both American and Chinese left their dwellings and fled to the edges of the city, Oakland and to Berkeley. All of our earthly possessions are gone, but God has protected us and His grace, mercy and peace abide with us.

Providentially no lives were lost. The Missionaries and most of the Chinese Christians finding refuge in Oakland and Berkeley.

The Board took immediate measures to raise a special relief fund, in order to provide for the interests of the Missionaries and the Chinese under their care and also to rebuild and re-equip the buildings. Additional gifts for this purpose are still needed.
